Jinx-plagued Bullets can't even win coin toss

The Baltimore Bullets, who couldn't win for losing in the 1966-67 National Basketball Association race, have taken the short end again.

Coach Gene Shue, off on a scouting trip, performed his last official act of the old season — or the first official one of the new season, depending on the point of view — when he instructed the team representative to call "heads" at Wednesday's coin-tossing ceremony in the office of Commissioner J. Walter Kennedy.

THE DIME used by Kennedy came up "tail's" and as a result, the Detroit Pistons, who like the Bullets, finished last in their division, won the first pick in next month's draft of college players.

With the "snake-bitten Bullets, it probably meant loss of one of the biggest prizes in the recent history of collegiate basketball.

He's Jimmy Walker, everybody's All-American from Providence College.

THE BULLETS were close to the drooling stage at each mention of Walker's name in the closing moments of the college season. They now fear that his selection by the Pistons is inevitable.

Walker has been described as a "young Oscar Robertson" by virtually every coach in the NBA.

Red Auerbach, recognized as one of the game's most astute judges of talent, says of Walker: "He's undoubtedly one of the finest athletes ever developed and a sure bet for stardom as a pro". . LACY

Former 'Kegee tutor scout for Saints

NEW ORLEANS —(NPI) — Al Tabor, veteran coach and football player, has been selected as scout for the new football team of the professional football league, the New Orleans Saints and is reported already working.

Tabor played football for Tuskegee in 1943-44 and at the University of Nevada in 1947-48. After graduation he played a year (1949) with the Yankees of the All-America conference.

He coached in Tuskegee in 1950 and 1951, two years as assistant coach at Texas Southern, Houston; Wiley College, Marshall, Texas; Fort Valley High school, Georgia and Lincoln high school, Port Arthur, Texas.

Dave Bing voted NBA rookie honors

NEW YORK — Dave Bing, first draft choice of the Detroit Pistons, has been named Rookie of the Year in the National Basketball Association in the annual poll of writers and sportscasters.

Bing, a product of Washington (D.C.) high schools, polled 74 out of 90 ballots cast. The other 16 votes were divided as follows Lou Hudson of St. Louis 13, and 3 for the Los Angeles Lakers yearling, Archie Clark.

THE SLENDER 6-3 Bing finished the season as the tenth highest scorer in the NBA, with 1,601 points for a 20 per game average. He became the fifth rookie in association history to score 1,600 points in his first try.

Wilt Chamberlain, of Philadelphia (2,702), Walt Bellamy of New York (2,495), Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati (2,165), and Rick Barry of San Francisco (2,059) also accomplished this feat.

Bing will receive $500, for being voted freshman honors.

Dave's high scoring game of the year was 47 points against the Baltimore Bullets on March 8.

DETROIT PISTONS' coach, Donnis Butcher, recalls: "When I first saw Dave in college, he reminded me of Jerry West. After his first season in the NBA, he is definitely the closest player to West.

"Dave is one of the greatest one-and-one players to come into the association in a long time, when it comes to getting a shot off quickly. This is something that, of course, West has done so well.

"Bing has the potential to hit more than 50 points in a game. He also will develop into one of the best assist men, too. This is because Dave is such an excellent ball handler," added Butcher.

BUTCHER also praised Bing for his attitude and desire. "These attributes will help Dave rank with the all time NBA greats in the years to come," declared Butcher.

DAVE BING

Bing felt he personally "had a good season" as a rookie. "But I would have been happier if our team did better and made the playoffs," he declared.

Colt held for arson in family quarrel

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — A husky 24-year-old man who said he had signed to play professional football with the Baltimore Colts this fall was in "fair" condition in a local hospital Wednesday with burns from a fire he was accused of setting.

Police said Robert H. McKinney of Pratt, Ala., was charged with arson in a fire at the home of a brother-in-law, Charles Essix, Jr., of Jackson.

No one was home at the time of the fire.

Chief detective M. B. Pierce said McKinney was under police guard at University Hospital where he was undergoing treatment with burns over about 20 per cent of his body. He was expected to remain in the hospital for several weeks.

PIERCE SAID McKinney, a former coach, was arrested Tuesday at Morton, about 30 miles east of here on U.S. 80, a few hours after the fire was extinguished at the Essix home.

McKinney was accused of dashing gasoline he had bought at a service station earlier on a mattress inside the house. He apparently was burned when a floor furnace ignited the fuel.

Officers said the athlete has quarreled with his wife over the custody of their young son. He reportedly was wanted by Brookhaven, Miss., police on an assault charge after being accused of trying to take the child away from the woman at Brookhaven a few weeks ago.

McKINNEY REPORTEDLY played with the Detroit Lions in 1965 and coached at Kitrell College in North Carolina last year. He was to report to the Colts' training camp in July.

The Essix home was gutted by the fire.

Young basketball pioneer is 'happy' at Vanderbilt

DETROIT (UPI) — Godfrey Dillard, 18, is jubilant over being one of the first two colored basketball players in the Southeastern Conference.

"I made a great choice," Dillard said. An All-City and UPI All-State basketball player in his senior year at Detroit's Visitation High School, Dllard chose Vanderbilt University over four other major schools.

He and Percy Wallace were members of Vanderbilt's 1967 freshman basketball team. Wallace prepped at Nashville, Tenn.

"EVERYONE has treated Perry and me wonderfully," Dillard said.

"I haven't encountered any racial prejudice since I arrived on the campus in September.

"I sat down with my mother, older brother and a few trusted friends," he said. "I decided that going to Vanderbilt and being one of the rfist of my race to play basketball there was a challenge I couldn't pass up." He had considered offers from Syracuse, Cornell, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Vanderbilt, he said.

WHEN HE first arrived at school, Dillard said, he brought up the subject of race to his fellow dormitory members and told them:

"I'm colored and you're white. If I'm walking down the street in Mississippi and you can't say hello to me, I don't really consider you my friend."

"If you can't say hello to me no matter where we are, you aren't my friend."

HE SAID only one person told him he wouldn't speak to him in the hypothetical situation.

Dillard said the Southern fans all "treated us pretty good. We didn't have any trouble."

Dillard, who has brothers aged 23, 19, and 11, and a sister, 29, said he wants to be a lawyer. He is maintaining a C average.

VANDERBILT freshman basketball coach Homer Garr said of Dillard:

"Godfrey's play the last month of the season very good. He made excellent progress over the second half of the season. He possesses good speed, jumps well, handles the ball well and is a fine shooter," Garr said.

"If he will continue to work hard," Garr added, "I feel certain that he will be a real asset to our basketball program in the future."

"Baseball Contact" will be broadcast before each televised Orioles' game.

TV star Merv Griffin 'Pennant Parade' marshal

Television personality Merv Griffin will be Grand Marshal of Baltimore's Pennant Parade Tuesday morning, in honor of the world champion Baltimore Orioles who open the 1967 baseball season that afternoon.

Griffin, host of his own TV show Monday through Friday at 4:30 p.m., will lead the parade which begins at 10 a.m. at Howard and Biddle Streets. Other notables in the parade will be Baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert, American League President Joseph Cronin, Mayor McKeldin and all the members of the Baltimore Orioles — with the exception of the starting pitcher.

THE PARADE — also featuring bands and floats — will proceed south on Howard Street to Baltimore, west on Baltimore to Holiday, north past a City Hall reviewing stand at Lexington Street, then east to Gay Street where the parade will disband.

Grand Marshal Griffin will mount the reviewing stand at City Hall.

Griffin will also make an appearance at Memorial Stadium, where the Orioles take on the Minnesota Twins in the season opener.

Giles bars Wills' aluminum spikes

FORT MYERS, Fla. (UPI) — National League President Warren Giles has told Maury Wills of the Pittsburgh Pirates, he cannot use the aluminum golf type spike shoes this season.

Wills has been breaking in a pair of lightweight shoes, but Giles says the rules do not allow them.

"They allow you to water the field or sand it down, but not to allow you to wear mbre comfortable shoes," Wills replied.

Wills said Ron Fairly of the Dodgers wore these shoes last year.

MRS. IRENE SCHMOKE and son KURT mother and City College star make proud twosome

City star Kurt Schmoke fits 'All - American' image

By SAM LACY

If you're one of the breed that flinches at the thought of turning over the future to today's teenagers, take solace in the reminder that they are not all bad.

Kurt Schmoke is an example.

According to the people his figure to know him best — his mother, his teachers and his friends — the All-Maryland scholastic quarterback and lacrosse star at City College, is a perfect example of what is meant when a youngster is described as an "All-American boy."

KURT, who guided the championship City eleven to its second straight unbeaten year, is a youth of keen mind, competitive heart, winning smile, love for parents and total respect for the other fellow.

"He's a fine athlete, an outstanding student, a credit to the school," says City College athletic director Bill Anderson.

"Kurt is a boy of considerable talent," declares football coach George Young. "In my time, I've seen few, if any, high school quarterbacks as good as he, and none better."

"HE'S THE kind of student who helps make my job less vexing," asserts Dr. Jerome Denaburg, City College principal.

"He's my son," beams Mrs. Irene Schmoke, supervisor of the children's bureau in the Department of Public Welfare.

SCHMOKE, born and raised in Baltimore, attended the Garrison Junior High School. Because of his excellent scholastic record, however, he was permitted to enter City a year before his class was graduated from Garrison.

Throughout his career at City, Kurt has been on the honor roll and is expected to be graduated in June among the top 20 in his class.

ASIDE FROM serving as president of his junior and senior classes, young Schmoke was named "Scholar-Athlete" of the year among the 32 high and prep schools in the Greater Baltimore area last month.

While Kurt admits a preference for Yale University as his choice for a college education, he and his mother are holding final decision in abeyance until they have weighed the various advantages offered at Harvard, Dartmouth, Amherst and William and Mary.

At 17, he can enjoy reading on any level. Says Mrs. Schmoke: "I'd say this is one of his main hobbies when he isn't involved in football or lacrosse. He reads a lot and he reads just about anything.

"As a little tot," Mrs. Schmoke continues, "he played baseball in the James Mosher Little League. Lately, though, he has competed more successfully in football and lacrosse. He's on both varsities at City.

"Of course I saw him play, just about every time City had a game," she answered a question. "There were some in which I arrived a little late because the starting time conflicted with my work hours. But I saw some part of all of his games."

KURT attends Douglass Memorial Church, along with his father, Kurt, Sr., a chemist at Edgewood (Md.) Arsenal. Mrs. Schmoke is a member of Bethel AME.

Mrs. Schmoke, a native of Albany, Ga., attended Spelman College, Atlanta, before transferring to Morgan from which she was graduated as a psychology major.

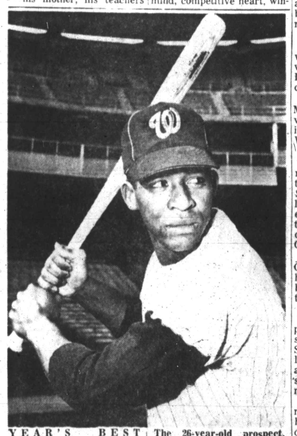
ASKED about her son's habits at home and his eating preferences, Mrs. Schmoke replied: "He's normal. He'll eat anything I fix, but like all youngsters he goes most for hamburgers and French fries."

Like we said, Kurt's image is strictly "All - American boy."



YEAR'S BEST ROOKIE?—In outfielder Hank Allen, brother of the Philadelphia Phillies' Richie Allen, the Senators may have the 1967 American League Rookie of the Year. The 26-year-old prospect, who showed amazing potential with a .387 average in his brief major league stint, last September, now resides in Seat Pleasant, Md.

In the 15-years and under class, Chauncey Ford, of Lexington Terrace was the winner. Robert Smith, of Franklin Square, was the runner-up.

GIRL WINNERS were, 12 years and under: Linda Cleaver, of Joseph Lee, champion; and Denise Carroll, Lions Club, runner-up.

The 15-years and under champion was Charlene Clay, of Fannie Barbour; and Lee Ann White, also Fannie Barbour, runner-up.

The association's "Most Improved Player" Award went to Daniel David, of Franklin Square.

'LITTLE RICHARD' PENNIMAN, the rock 'n'roll singer, reporting the theft of $16,000 in cash and $1,000 worth of stage costumes in Atlanta: "I'm just sick about it. I've been sick all day."

Eddie Perkins scores, eyes welter title shot

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Veteran Eddie Perkins of Chicago, continued his comeback effort Monday night as he gained a 10-round majority decision over stubborn Adolph Pruitt of Los Angeles, in a bitterly contested main event at the Silver Slipper Ballroom.

Perkins, 139½, the former two-time junior welterweight champion, thus gained a tentative title bout with Charlie Shipes, Oakland, who is recognized in California as the welterweight champion after the spot was vacated by Emile Griffith's leap into the middleweight ranks.
