"When I take a case, I thoroughly study the background. Events happening years before, can win a day in court."
"Maybe that's why I picked Gordon's London Dry Gin. Good English background. Dry the way I like it."
Charles E. Lloyd, Attorney, Advisor to the Slauson-Washington Coordinating Council, Counsel for The Bank of Finance, Advisor to Operation Bootstrap, is one of the most successful young lawyers in the Southwest.

Gordon's Gin, created in London, England in 1769. It's the biggest seller in England, America and the world.

same address, then attempted to pull her husband away by grabbing one officer and striking another in the face with her fist.

The officer who was struck in the face, Michael Batson, said he then threw the woman to the ground and placed his knee on her to restrain her.

SGT. PARROTT stated that at that point, fearing a riot with the growing crowd, he ordered Mrs. Lomax released, knowing she could be arrested later, and told his officers "to get out of there" with the prisoner already arrested.

The calm-speaking sergeant said he knew "children were in the crowd" and he felt "bricks were ready to fly."

Judge Blum found the husband guilty of the original assault charge —during a fight in front of a bar across from his home — on Roy Leifew, 23, of the 5200 block Beaufort Ave., and disorderly conduct. He fined him only a total of $125, due to mitigating aspects of the case.

Mrs. Lomax, arrested later at Sinai Hospital where she had gone for treatment and was released, was found guilty of two charges of assault on officers and disorderly conduct.

A charge of interferring with arrest was dismissed by the judge.

She was fined a total of $175.

The officer who was struck was treated for a concussion.

Police said Mrs. Lomax also put up a struggle at Sinai Hospital and had to be handcuffed for the trip to Northwestern.

THE LOMAX'S side of the story, bolstered by two witnesses from the scene, was that the first man in the assault had a rifle in the trunk of his car.

The Lomaxes said they were excited at the scene, but that Mrs. Lomax did not strike any of the officers.

Mrs. Lomax stated her being thrown to the ground was without provocation. Defense attorney Perry London also brought out that the woman had just been released from the hospital that morning after the birth of her first child.

Mrs. Lomax said she heard the sergeant issue an order for his men to allow her husband to return to his house, but things happened so quickly that she did not know he was arrested.

QUESTIONED by Mr. London this order was given only on the sergeant did say that about a minute before another officer arrested the husband.

Mr. London also argued that testimony showed the original man in the assault case did have a gun in his trunk.

Redistricting

a City Council okayed redistricting proposal sponsored by Jon Best, which was labeled the Best Plan.

His suit now asks that the court invalidate the adopted Modified Bard Plan, which had been petitioned to the ballot by the League of Women Voters and a number of cooperative organizations.

Mr. Best charges, among other things, that the adopted redistricting plan was drawn to favor colored voters over white.

IRONICALLY, OPPONENTS of his Best Plan charged it was drawn to gerrymander the colored vote to a low minority in all of the city's six districts, including the 4th where such citizens are now a high majority.

The Best Plan would have taken the 4th District area roughly below Laurens St. west to Payson and added it, including the 17th Ward in the Myrtle Ave. — George St. sector, to Southeast Baltimore's virtually all-white 1st district.

The Best Plan carried other peculiar district boundary proposals of a similar nature.

Judge Thomsen's ruling in this case is expected to be watched with high interest.

Should the Modified Bard Plan be invalidated as Mr. Best asks, then Baltimore will be without councilmanic districts and new boundaries will have to be set either by the City Council or perhaps a court order.

COUNCILMANIC ELECTIONS will be held in September and November.

The Best suit was filed under banner of one still open by Archie D. Williams, attorney, on behalf of Frank J. Ellis in another case.

Mr. Williams plans to sit in on the case, but will take no part against the Bard Plan.

He said he is sitting in order to be in a position to formulate more advantageously his own plan of action, should the court rule out the Modified Bard Plan.

attempt to carry off or eat any of the animals," he said.

SCHUCKER said that most of the dogs that run stray in Baltimore are, or at one time were, owned by people who allowed them to run loose.

The Baltimore animal shelter captures more than 250 stray dogs from the streets of Baltimore each week.

Three animal shelter trucks, radio-equipped, are on the streets each day between the hours of 7:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Animal shelter officials told the AFRO they know of no case in which a pack of dogs has ever attacked an individual.

"Of course," a spokesman said, "there are cases when an individual dog who happens to be vicious will attack a person. And it is conceivable that if such a dog was the leader of one of these stray packs they might attack city residents but we haven't had anything like that here."

ASKED IF there was a possibility that some of the dogs might be rabid Schucker said, "We have not had any cases of rabid dogs in the city for a considerable number of years. This is true of both the city and the surrounding counties.

"Under the law all dogs are to be vaccinated. There is evidence, however, that rabies is supported in wildlife.

"Last year two foxes were captured and found to be rabid and if one of these foxes were to infect a dog there is a chance that rabies could spread. But we have managed to control it for a great number of years," he concluded.

Birthday Tribute

GODSEY — A Birthday Tribute of love to my dear mother, DASEY GODSEY, on her birthday, May 15.
God saw the road was getting rough,
The hills were hard to climb.
He gently closed her loving eyes
And whispered "Peace be your prize."
Her weary hours, her days of pain,
Her weary nights are past.
Her ever-patient, worn-out frame
Has found sweet rest at last.
Loving Daughter —
HAYIE G. DORSEY.

LEE — A Birthday Tribute to the memory of our husband and father, WILLIAM J. LEE, who died April 29, passed February 4, 1964:
I cannot say, I love you less
Dear William
Because it often seems, as though
To me,
I see your loving face, it seems to appear
As a flower from the earth,
The thing that hurt me so, I could not say
Good-bye to you before you passed away.
Someday dear love, I'll meet you there,
My love will never fade.
Loving Wife — MARTHA J. LEE and Daughter —
LILLIAN TATE.
