Symphony group sets new concert series

ADAH K. JENKINS

The second annual kickoff dinner of the Northeast Symphony Society was attended by 68 volunteers at the Educational Center of Northwood Appold Methodist Church last Monday evening.

With Norris Tingle, recently elected head presiding, enthusiasm was high for the 1967-68 series, which opens in October in the Murphy Auditorium at Morgan State College.

A description of the forthcoming concerts was given by Charles Winter, organizer of Baltimore Symphony Societies. Among the guest artists booked is Stanford Allen, distinguished violinist, who is a member of the integrated New York Philharmonic Symphony.

Dr. Martin Jenkins, president of Morgan, pledged support to the oncoming subscription campaign, stating "by membership in the Northeast Symphony Society one is contributing to the culturallife of our community and helping make Baltimore a better place in which to live."

Further values of the Society as a means for improving community relations were stressed by Father Paps, from St. Matthews R. C. Church.

The excellent program of the current season was reviewed by Dr. R. Hayes Strider, head of the music education at Morgan. He reminded the volunteers that new subscribers will be given a free pass to the final concert which takes place Wednesday, May 3, with Jeannette Walters, soloist.

* * *

DR. G. JAMES FLEMING sparked the after dinner remarks with his stirring motto "See them - tell them - sell them." He advocated the purchase of season subscriptions as gifts, particularly stressing the impotance of youth attendance.

Final instructions to the workers were given to Mrs. Catherine Adams and Charles Flynn, co-chairmen of the campaign.

As a bonus, each worker who turns in five subscriptions will receive a special ticket for one of the Lyric symphony series concerts.

Northeast Society subscriptions for the symphony are $10 for adults and $5 for students. Attendance is on subscription basis only as no single tickets are sold for individual concerts.

The series includes: Thurs., Oct. 19, with Dr Adler conducting and Michael Oelbaum, pianist; Wed. Dec. 13 with guest conductor and Guillermo Perich, viola; Mon., Feb. 12 guest conductor and Sanford Allen violinist; and Thurs. Apr. 4 with Shapira conducting and Malcolm Frager, pianist.

The office of the society is at the Northwood Appold Ed. Center, Room 205, Loch Haven and Cold Spring Lane. Hours: 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. through May 2; 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday. Telephone 889-8737.

Officers of the Northeast Symphony Society are: Norris Tingle, president; Mrs. Beryl Williams and Dr. G. J. Fleming, vice presidents; Mrs. Frances B. Hill, secretary; Howard Murphy, treasurer; Mrs. Adams and Mr. Flynn Campaign co - chairmen; Oliver Scott, concert presentation chairman; Ms. Ethel Redmur, headquarters chairman, and Mrs. Roberta LeKites, dinner chairman.
