Count Basie to appear at Coppin

On Tuesday evening, May Basie and his orchestra will appear in a concert on the campus of Coppin State Collegem

Billed as "the most explosive force in jazz today," Count Basie's career as a band leader spans a period of more than 25 years with the Count marking the completion of his silver anniversary at the helm of his band in 1960.

The Count has won leading American jazz polls such as the Down Beat, Rader's Poll in 1955, the International Critics Poll in Down Beat in 1956, and the Reader's Poll of the French monthly, Le Jazz Hot.

The local appearance is being sponsored by the Coppin Student Government Association as a benefit for the 1967-68 Cultural series and will be held in Thomas Pullen Gymnasium at 2500 W. North Ave.

Big Brothers seek volunteers

Big Brothers of Baltimore, Inc. has announced that a special face-to-face recruitment campaign to enlist more men in the West Baltimore area to serve as Big Brother volunteers is currently underway.

There are over 100 boys now on the organization's waiting list living in mail zones 1, 9, 15, 16 and 17. The organization is looking for opportunities to have Big Brother speakers bring a message about their work to men's church groups and other organizations.

Among the Big Brother speakers available are: John Mackey, of the Baltimore Colts, Chuck Richards, television announcer; Maj William A. Harris, of the Baltimore City Police Dept.; James E. Nix, dean of men, Morgan State College; Dr. Houston R. Jackson, asst. superintendent of the Baltimore City Schools and the Hon. Robert B. Watts, Municipal Court Judge.

The beer next door.

Community colleges adding new courses

Fire science, management training, nursing and electronic data processing are among the 27 approved new occupational courses that Maryland public community colleges will offer for the first time this fall, State Superintendent of Schools James A. Sensenbaugh has announced.

"Occupational training is the fastest-growing part of our community college program," the state official said, "with flexible schedules that permit courses of study that vary in length from a few months to two years."

* * *

He said new courses are selected on the basis of public and private needs for trained personnel. State community colleges will offer a total of 108 different occupational training programs this fall and 73 programs for students who plan to transfer to four-year institutions.

New courses to be offered at Baltimore Junior College include classroom aide, drafting technology, food service technology, government service aide, mental health technology, public welfare technology.

At Catonsville, new offerings will be architectural and industrial drafting and mental health technology.

James Edwards gets new health position

James H. Edwards, principal sanitarian in the City Health Department's Bureau of Food Control, has been appointed administrative representative for the department's district health services.

In this new post Mr. Edwards will work under the direction of Dr. John B. Hoff, assistant commissioner of health for local health services.

Mr. Edwards has been a health department staffer since 1948 when he was appointed a sanitarian. In 1956 he was promoted to senior sanitarian and in 1961 became a principal sanitarian.

* * *

MR. EDWARDS was born in Durham, N.C., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Edwards. He has lived in Baltimore since he was seven. A graduate of Frederick Douglass High School, Mr. Edward served as a first lieutenant in the 366th Infantry Regiment during World War II and participated in the invasion of Italy.

Following his military service Mr. Edwards attended Morgan State College, Boston University and the Johns Hopkins University.

He is married to Mrs. Louise Edwards, a native of Baltimore. They have two children, Delbert Edwards and Mrs. Dianna Edwards Lipscomb.

* * *

HIS DUTIES will include supervision of the maintenance of district health centers and clinics and assistance to the district health officers in matters of budget and supply;

Mr. Edwards is a member of the National Association of Sanitarians, the Maryland Association of Sanitarians and the Maryland Public Health Association.

Career confab held by NAMD

Senior high school students and counselors attended the third annual Career Conference sponsored by the National Association of Market Developers, held recently at Coppin State College.

Objective of the conference was to encourage students to puruse a career in marketing, advertising, public relations or selling.

The counselors, students and guest panelists participated in four seminars. They were:

1. What is retail selling, with Sam Burgio, Montgomery Ward Co. and Mrs. Dolores Williams, Prudential Life Insurance Co.; 2. What is advertising?, with Kenneth O. Wilson, AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers and Lawrence Burr, Van Sant Dugdale;

3. What is market research?, with Jack Englar, Chamber of Commerce and Robert Crampton, McCormick Co.; 4. Selecting a career, with Edward D. Smith, Commercial Credit Co. and Fred Eyster, Baltimore City schools, as panelists.

NAMD officials are: John Rich, president; David Johnson, vice president; Garey Reynolds, secretary; Richard Cummings, treasurer.

Retiring Mock to be honored

Ernest H. Smith, executive director of the Cambridge, Mass. Family Society, will succeed Charles L. Mock upon his retirement in July, announces Arthur W. Machen Jr., board president for Family and Children's Society.

Mr. Mock served as director of the agency here for 23 years. During this period the society grew into one of the Community Chest's largest welfare agencies with a staff of over 60 and a budget of more than $700,000.

The staff and board of the society will jointly sponsor a testimonial honoring Mr. Mock in May.

Mr. Machen is expected to assume his duties here in September.
