AT THE meeting of Alpha Wives, Tuesday night, Vivian Sydnor, trying hard to fill her role as president, finally gave up.

The Wives had come filled with talk of their trip to New York and Madam President couldn't get a word in edgewise.

The trip, said the girls, had been the best ever. The fun had started from the moment they had waved good by to sad children and glad husbands and the bus, which was taking them to Manhattan, rolled away.

Catherine Adams, declared husband-appointed chaperon, began handing out husbands orders. They picked up members in Philadelphia and were joined by others in New York. At the Taft Hotel, where they have been going for 11 years, they were greeted by Partero, and had an excellent dinner.

Their after-dinner party was in the hotel's President suite, was attended by 31 wives, who played games, won prizes and tall-taled until 5:30 a.m.

On Saturday, some wives shopped, some saw shows, some entertained New York friends, others visited, and one slept all day. What a luxury!

Wives and guests going from here were:

Ellen Johns, Audrey Davis, Ruby Walker, Doris Reese, Mary Pitts, Otyce Froe, Natalie Woodson;

Josephine Kimbers, Maxine Higginbotham, Blanche McRae, Thelma Lawrence, Arnetta Hargrove, Shirley Swafford, Dorothy George, Ponjola Priest, Vivian Sydnor, Claudia Allen, Ella Edemy, and Catherine Adams.

Their guests included:

Evelyn Beasley, Rovenia Tatum, Audrey Hedgepeth, Regina Bernard, Gloria Terrell, Beatrice Morris, Lil Churchill and Mattie Jordon, the latter three from Philadelphia.

Arnetta Hargrove was chairman of the affair.

When the President finally secured the attention of the group, Sarah Elias reported on plans for the party for husbands, scheduled for May 20.

Hostesses at this week's session were Otyce Froe, Arnetta Hargrove, Ruby Smith and Shirley Swafford.

LOUISE LAMB is in White Plains, N.Y., this week, having been called there by the death of her mother, Mrs. Carrie Parham.

Mrs. Parham, 86, was the widow of the late Rev. Samuel L. Parham, and also the mother of Mrs. Betty E. Thomas of Groton-on-the-Hudson, N.Y., and Samuel L. Parham, Jr. of White Plains.

Funeral services were held on Thursday at the Congregational Church in White Plains.

MRS. LILLIAN BUTLER was honored at a dinner Monday attended by some 114 persons at the Maryland Workshop For the Blind, where she rounded out 25 years service.

A floor lady in the sewing department, Mrs. Butler was cited as "a great lady," by Dr. Dolores Hunt, local school principal, and long time friend. This speaker praised the sponsors of this event, for taking time to give recognition and pay tribute to their co-worker. In wishing her happiness in her years of retirement, Dr. Hunt expressed the desire that Mrs. Butler in future years would always have the gifts of hope, faith and love.

On behalf of the trustees of the Maryland Workshop For the Blind, Mrs. Butler was presented a plaque. Among numerous other gifts was a handsome mantle clock.

In her characteristic quiet manner that has endeared her to all, Mrs. Butler stated, "If I had my life to live over, I would still give 25 years service to the Maryland Workshop for the Blind."

Mrs. Butler, is the wife of Alphonso K. Butler, of 2400 Calverton Heights Ave., also a retiree of the Maryland Workshop after some 40 years of service. Mr. Weldon Nix, master of ceremonies, introduced members of Mrs. Butler's family who were in attendance. They were her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry (Jessie) Darnes, granddaughter, Mrs. Jessie Louise Lawrence; grandsons, Judson Jr. and James, (twins), and Jerald Kerr; and great-granddaughter, Monica (Muffie) Neal.

Other speakers on the program were Mrs. Tolita Valentine, a retired worker, Mr. C. F. Roessler III, W. A. Ratchford, and Mrs. Victoria Hackett, as well as W. L. Barall, presently director of the workshop, and Mrs. Margaret Thompson who assisted in presenting the gifts.

Henry Davenport, pianist, accompanied the Workshop Chorus and Mesdames Georgie Stevens and Margaret Bronner who rendered a duet.

Hostesses were Mesdames Frederica Howard, Arlene Strawberry, and Mrs. Frankie Thomas.

Links' regional convention in Buffalo over the weekend attracted these Annapolis residents: Mrs. Eloise Richardson, Mrs. Betty Hynson and Mrs. Van King.

Baltimoreans there were: Mrs. Stevie Harris, Mrs. Pauline Watts, Mrs. Helen Burwell and Mrs. Bea Butler, who was re-elected, area director.

TWO BUS LOADS of Jack and Jillers and their parents spent a delightful day in Lancaster, Pa., on Saturday, April 20th. They visited the famous produce market, an Amish Farm House and Homestead, the Kitchen Kettle where jams and preserves are made, a furniture shop, and took a lectured bus tour of the Amish countryside where they saw the Amish in their horse drawn buggies and at work on their farms. Much knowledge was gained about the life and customs of the "plain people."

The tour ended at the Meadow Hills Dining House which overlooks a beautiful tranquil lake. Here the group dined in the Scenic Room where they were greeted by tables of a lavish and delectable smorgasbord.

Those making the trip included:

Ruth Baynes and Terilin; the George Carrolls and Shirley; Kay Carter and Michael; Wilhelmina Cragway and sons, Roy and Robert; Anne Davis and Lynette, Penny and mother Charlotte Sherviston; Juanita Harris and Robert; Daryl and Wendell; the George Lottiers, and David Jr.; Hattie Hillen and Deborah; Marie Mallory and Clarke Jr.;

Vivian Hutchins and Diane; Corine Johnson and Spencer;

Mary Lou Redd and Teesa; Maxie Roberts and Rosalyn and Robyn; the William Sykes and Angela; Viola Taliaferro, Renee and Donna; Ruth White and Bobby; Wesley Stubbs; Wayne Young; the Clarence Abrams and Michael; the Wilbur Alstons;

Joselyn Braxton and John and Barbara; the Thomas Briscoes and Carolyn; Grace Burkett and Bobby; Esther Lighston, the Harry Carpenters and Lynn and Harry, 3d; Vashti Christman and Bernard, 3d; the William Griggs and Angela; Inetta Gross and Angela and Robin;

Ardell Jeudy and Pamela; Joyce Neal and Keith; Mary Pitts and Mitra; the Philbin Scotts and Philbin Jr.; Ruthe Sheffey and Ilona; Celonia Walden and Celonia, Jr.; Helen Whittaker and Yancy Jr., and Minna; Deborah Williams, and Rachel Phillips.

Guests were Amy Woolridge, Jeanne Murray and Yvette Shipley. The Committee for this activity was headed by Joyce Neal.

John Coltrane plays concert here Sunday

John Coltrane, one of the most eloquent jazz inovators of sixties will be presented in a concert Sunday May 7, at the Famous Ballroom, 1717 N. Charles St., at 4 p.m.

The affair co-sponsored by the Left Bank Jazz Society and the National Brewing Company, will feature Coltrane on tenor and soprano saxaphones, Pharoh Saunders, tenor sax; Alice Coltrane, piano; Donald Garrett, bass; Rashid Ali and Frank Butler, drums.

"Trane," as he is sometimes called, is a native of Hamier, N.C. and was reared in Philadelphia, Pa. He has been a professional musician since the age of 19.

When he started playing alto sax with Dizzy Gillespie in 1949, "Trane" already had experience performing with various rhythm and blues groups.

From 1952 to 1963 he worked with Earl Bostic, Johnny Hodges, Jimmy Smith and Bud Powell.

During the next four years of his career, between 1955 and 1959, he played with the Miles Davis Quartet with a brief interlude in 1957 with Thelonious Monk.

Since 1960, John Coltrane has become a major figure in the world of jazz. He exhibits versatility in his showmanship. He plays the soprano as well as the tenor saxaphone.

Coltrane is famous for his great original conception in his many musical compositions such as, "A Love Supreme," "Ascension," "Meditation," "Africa" "Alabama," "India," and "Spiritual and Acknowledgement."

Despite diverse criticism, "Trane" continues to express himself in all avenues open to him in jazz.

He has won almost every major jazz poll since the beginning of his career. He has been elected to Downbeat Magazine Hall of Fame and his recording of the album "A Love Supreme" was chosen record of the year for 1965.

Political 'sip' attended by 400

The coffers of the People Democratic Action Organization was swelled considerably Sunday when more than 400 guests attended a cocktail party sponsored by the political group's Ways and Means Committee.

Andrew (Billy) Johnson, chairman, said the affair, at Charles P. Tilghman's Sphinx Club, is one of several events the organization will be sponsoring this spring and summer.

The club, headed by Sen. Clarence M. Mitchell 3rd, is currently conducting a membership campaign.

Providing music for the four-hour sip was the Fuzzy Kane Trio made up of Mr. Kane on piano; Monty Folston, bass; and Warren Gantt on drums.

• • •

IN ADDITION to Mr. Johnson, other members of the committee serving as hosts and hostesses were:

Mesdames Phyllis Rheubottom, Angela Lee, Gwendolyn Ford, Roberta Gaines, Alomese Gibson, Antonette Philips and Delores Cain.

Also Messrs. Ansel Drummond, Ernest Wamble, Jacques Leeds, and Joseph Johnson.

Dr. Emerson R. Julian is chairman of PDAO's membership drive.
