NEA endorses Education Bill

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The National Education Association (NEA) has added its endorsement to Administration's amendments to the Elementary and Secondary Act of 1965 now in the House of Representatives.

John M. Lumley, director of the NEA Division of Federal Relations, said the Administration bill would give "school men an opportunity to consolidate the substantial gains we have made during recent years."

The proposed amendments to the 1965 Act would provide greater sums of money for economically disadvantaged school districts.

MARY McLEOD BETHUNE MEMORIAL FUND DRIVE

. . . OUR GOAL, $5,000

The Baltimore Section of the National Council of Negro Women is moving ahead in its efforts to raise funds as a part of a national drive to place a memorial to Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune in Lincoln Park, Washington, D.C., the first such memorial to an American Negro in the history of our country.

The President of the United States has signed into law the Joint Resolution passed by the 86th Congress, authorizing the National Council of Negro Women to erect a monument which is envisioned as a background for outdoor concerts, forums, and other cultural activities.

It is understandable that the Council spearhead the memorial undertaking. In 1935 Mrs. Bethune, with only 38 women, organized the National Council of Negro Women which today numbers more than 3 million, including members of all the national affiliates and the individual persons that make up the organization.

Miss Dorothy Height of New York City is national president of the Council.

Mrs. Anne Clinkscales is president of the Baltimore Section, and is spearheading the fund-raising campaign in Baltimore. Working with Mrs. Clinkscales as a steering committee are Mesdames Celenia Waldon and Beryl Williams, co-chairmen; Mrs. Flossie Dedmond, national vice president, and Mrs. Mary Adams.

We hope you will generously. Your contribution will be greatly appreciated and appropriately acknowledged.

All contributions are tax deduetible.

Please make out checks to The National Council of Negro Women, and mail to:

A calorie chart, a medical examination, and the desire to lose weight are the only prerequisites for joining this organization.

"Our husbands doubted us at first. We had gone to the doctors, had given up on the pills and the other devices for losing weight," commented Mrs. Blout.

"They thought we would not have the will power, but now they are very pleased," she added.

Sophisticated Misses hostesses to mothers

By LULA JONES GARRETT

They call themselves the Sophisticated Misses. . .but I could change the "sophisticated" to "adorable" and cite them for a club program that is both enjoyable for themselves and refreshing to those who find the younger set past our comprehension these days.

The Sophisticated Misses will tell you that they organized in 1964 for the purpose of enjoying themselves and helping others.

The membership is made up of young women between the ages of 16 and 19. They range from high school to a college freshman. They emphasize that they work well together.

Sunday, their project was a dinner party for their mothers . . . in a lovely setting in the Elegante Room on Forest Park Ave.

It was the second project during the year in which they had involved their parents. . the first was a dance with their fathers and mothers as special guests.

* * *

THEY HAVE collected and given $100 to the Provident Hospital Development Plan, and at other times provided food and clothing for needy families.

For themselves, alone their parties have included a Christmas dance and a picnic in Patapsco State Park during the summer.

* * *

THE BANQUET on Sunday, was thoughtfully arranged. Their dinner music was a two-hour program of Nat King Cole records. . completely to the taste of their mothers.

They had a fashion show "to exhibit their individual taste as 'instilled by their mothers" with numbers from their personal wardrobes. And from the chic pants suits to the formal party gown, from the smart coat to the pretty date frocks, they showed that they had profited by their mother's guidance.

And the mothers, as elegant as they come, were there to show that the guidance had great know-how

After dinner, the entertainment included drawings for prizes.

Other members are Misses Deborah Lee, Veronica Bennett, Charlotte Richardson, Regina Green, Gloria Green and Rosalyn Willis.

Their guests were:

Mesdames Zelma Bell, Hilda Perkins, Virginia Shelton, Alma Willis, Margaret Charles, Jill Woods, Sonia Palmer, Clarissa Johnson, Geraldine Neal,

Mesdames Lucy Doram, Mary Fairfax, LaNita Blake, Lavinia Fowler, Lula Garrett, Catherine Green, Eva Cook, Elizabeth Lee, Ernestine Rich, Juanita Thompson Dorothy Meekings, Jessie Rice, Gladys Fox, Lucille Selby;

Misses Chiquita Blake, Joyce Oglesby, Michele Mack.

REUNION—Dr. Ruth Brett Quarles, center, student personnel coordinator at Morgan State College, had reunion with Lady John Carter, left, at the Philomathian Club dinner meeting on Saturday. Right, Mrs. Everett Knox, wife of the Ambassador to Dahomey, another guest. Lady Carter, the former Sarah Lou Harris, is the wife of the U.S. Ambassador from Da Guyana in South America, and was guest speaker at the dinner meeting.

MRS. HIRAM PARKS, who was married in Baltimore, Saturday, is the former Miss Ludell Hobbs.

Mrs. Grace Hunt leaving 'Y' to accept welfare position

Mrs. Grace Hunt has resigned as executive director of the Madison Avenue Branch of the YWCA to take a post as supervisor of case work in the Children's Division of the Maryland State Department of Public Welfare.

She will go into the new position on June 14th, where she will serve as a specialist in day care for children. Mrs. Hunt ends a seven-year period as head of the Madison Avenue Branch, and returns to her first love, work with youth.

Prior to accepting the directorship with the branch, she was a supervisor of case work with the Baltimore City Department of Public Welfare. Here, she worked in the family and children's division.

* * *

UNDER MRS. Hunt's directorship the Madison Avenue Branch has seen exceptional improvement in the building, where major repairs have been made; in equipment acquired and in the general program.

The director speaks with pride of the excellent staff, of the strength of her volunteer workers, and the fine program for pre-teens and teenagers.

* * *

THE YWCA, points out Mrs. Hunt, is currently under study, awaiting a report on the survey made by the Morton-Hoffman Co., urban consultants, to determine the future of the YWCA in this city.

Of the several proposals now under discussion, Mrs. Hunt says that she would prefer to see the Association centralized from the Metropolitan office and the city-wide program carried out through centers, instead of the present system of a Metropolitan office and several branches. "This is the logical set-up if the aim of the YWCA to become completely integrated is to be achieved," she added.

MRS. HUNT is the wife of W. Winston Hunt, a Westinghouse engineer.

Since her coming to the Druid Hill Branch YWCA, says Mrs. Hunt, she has had little time for hobbies. She does knit sometimes, reads a lot, plays bridge occasionally, and attends the threatre when possible. She likes to travel.

MRS. GRACE HUNT

Philomathians hear 'Lady from Guyana'

The Philomathians, at their 35th annual dinner meeting, Saturday evening, had as speaker Lady Carter, wife of the Ambassador to the United States from Guyana, South America.

Lady Carter, who is the former Sarah Lou Harris of Wilkesboro, N.C. and a Bennett College graduate, not only adopted the country and the industry of its people, but gave high praise to the youth of that land.

* * *

THERE IS no problem of juvenile delinquency in Guyana, probably because of the close-knit family life; and there is a high standard of scholarship, probably because of the lack of television, Lady Carter told the group.

In Washington, she said, her time is taken up chiefly by the amenities occasioned by diplomatic duties, the rearing of three sons, and projects designed for the benefit of Guyanans.

* * *

THE PROGRAM for the evening included, in addition to Lady Carter's address, Grace by the Rev. Howard L. Cornish, and music by Miss Linda Wharton. The club presented a gift of money to Miss Wharton who is preparing to participate in the tour of a musical group abroad, this summer.

A gift also went to Mrs. Ralph Cook, co-founder of the Philomathian Club.

* * *

MRS FREDERICK DEDMOND, chairman of the dinner committee, presented the mistress of ceremonies, Mrs. A. Paul Rose, president of the club. Mrs. S. Edward Smith gave a resume of the club's program for the year. Dr. Irene Diggs introduced Lady Carter. The presentations were made by Mrs. Warren Peck. Dr. Houston R. Jackson led the group singing.

The dinner, held in the Charles Room of the Sheraton Belvedere Hotel, also had as guests, Noel Phill, Mrs. Herma B. Clarke and Albert L. Franklin, all now at Morgan State College, from Guyana; and Mrs. Everett Knox, wife of the U.S. ambassador to Dahomey, Africa.
