Court ruling could open new opportunities

By
ELIZABETH M. OLIVER

If Baltimore's Juvenile Court is to comply with the Supreme Court ruling on the trial of juvenile defendants, some provision will have to be made immediately for several additional assistant states attorney and at least two more Supreme Bench judges.

During an interview with States Attorney Charles E. Moylan Jr. Wednesday the need for possible rental of a building outside the over crowded courthouse and the addition of other staff members was pointed out.

Mr. Moylan also affirmed the need for colored jurists, juvenile court masters and assistant states attorneys in view of the fact that over 75 percent of Juvenile defendants coming before the court are colored youngsters.

He admitted, although the decision on any such matters comes from officials superior to him, the conclusions are matters of "facts and figures."

THE NEW ruling that became the law of the land Monday requires that all juveniles be provided with legal counsel, either court appointed or privately retained.

Assistant state's attorneys will represent the state whereas in the past the Juvenile Court judge served as prosecutor as well as jurist.

Baltimore has only two colored assistant state's attorneys, Joseph Howard and Leroy Carroll.

There never has been a colored Juvenile Court judge nor master.

Assistant state's attorneys receive an annual salary of $8,000 here.

To get on Mr. Moylan's file, he said any qualified lawyer may apply directly to his office at the court house.

MASTERS OF Juvenile Court are appointed by the Supreme Bench. The governor names the judges to be added to the Supreme Bench.

Mr. Moylan also pointed out the creation of new posts usually comes through acts of the Legislature and salaries are set by the Board of Estimates.

Other posts that will probably open when the Supreme Court requirements are met by Juvenile Court here are: baliffs (named by the judge); secretaries (named by the judge); court reporters (named by the Supreme Bench); a representative of the clerk of the court for each new courtroom; police department guards.

The "long run" need of the new courthouse becomes more of an emergency, Mr. Moylan concluded.

Meantime, he stated, perhaps a rented building to serve as an annex can make up the needed courtroom space.

a secretary in the Police Department and has a two-year-old daughter.

MRS. INEZ HAYNIE, 28, 1011 N. Woodington Rd., affectionately nicknamed "Hip Shot" for her pistol prowess, graduated from Frederick Douglass. Has four children and previously worked in City Hall.

MRS. ARLENE MANNING, 27, 4420 Old York Rd., is a Dunbar graduate who attended Morgan and was interested in her new career by a policewoman cousin and other friends on the force. She has a son aged four.

AN EDMONDSON graduate, Mrs. Pamela Brooks, 21, 515 Allendale St., gained her further education travelling with her husband, an Army sergeant now stationed in Vietnam.

NICKNAMED "Annie Oakley," Mrs. Margaret Holmes, 31, 2721 Wegworth Lane, is married to a Baltimore fireman. Before branching out as a policewoman, she raised a family of four children, aged 5 to 12.

Maj. Norman J. Schleigh, director of the Police Academy, said the seven distaff candidates is the largest number ever in training at one time, though "there is a sprinkling, one or two or three in each class."

Their assignments, to the new Youth Division or to the districts, is exnected today (Friday), he said.

The weapons training (including the use of shotgun) will be an advantage of the latest group to graduate when an order is signed allowing them to carry service revolvers, or on special assignments.

THE RIGOROUS training calling for four to five hours of homework a night, included:

Defense, firearms, criminal law (utilizing the syllabus on criminal law from the University of Maryland Law School), first aid and medical self help, criminal investigation and interrogation, observation and detection, patrol methods, procedure, driver education, FBI work, radio, public relations, psychology, minority group relations, and (as the group said) "Miranda."

Whew. The Boy Scouts was never like this.

Group against portables at new school

A West Baltimore group, the Evergreen Protective Association, Inc., has voiced a protest against the erection of portable buildings on the grounds of Lafayette Elementary School 202.

The school is located at Braddish and Lafayette Aves.

In a letter to Eli Frank Jr., president of the Board of School Commissioners, the Association voiced 5 main objections to the portables, which are now being set up

1. The neighbors should have had a voice in the decision to erect the portables.

2. The portables decrease the amount of play space.

3. Portables added to a new school "intensifies the possibility of an undesirable ghetto." The need for a larger facility should have been known from the use of a projected population census in the initial planning.

4. Portables are an eyesore, detracting from the beautiful outline of the school's physical plant. The homeowners and residents object to having their view obstructed.

5. Portables create a danger to the community by providing a refuge for vandalism and sex and crime activities.

THE EVERGREEN Protective Association says it represents over 600 families in the area bounded by Dukeland and Bentalou Sts., from Druid to Calverton Heights Aves.

"These families are intensely interested in maintaining property values, stability and progress and beauty and tranquility," the letter says.

"This is difficult unless the community is given a voice in deciding the changes planned."

The group requested that work on the portables be stopped pending a hearing with the School Board to discuss the objections.

1 wife too many brings jail term

Larry Moore, 26, 3000 Belmont Ave., found guilty of marrying two women without benefit of divorce has been sentenced to one year in city jail.

According to Judge James A. Perrott who imposed the sentence in Criminal Court early this week, "The girls need to worry no longer nown Mr. Moore will be off the street for awhile."

The case of bigamy came to the attention of the states attorney's office No. 30, 1066 when Wife No. 2, Mrs. Dollie Bland Moore, 22, 250p block Oswego Ave. reported she had suddenly discovered she was not legally maried to Mr. Moore as per their church wedding June 25, 1966.

She stated the realization came during a family argument when Mr. Moore told her, "We're not really married and I don't have to live with you if I don't want to."

Following up on the information, the states attorney's investigators checked the Marriage License Bureau and found Mr. Moore had previously married Wife No. 1, the former Miss Garnetta Caldwell, 100 block N. Central Ave., Jan. 17, 1964.

Checking with Wife No. 1, it was further revealed there had been no divorce.

Dr. Williams to be honored by college

Dr. John Taylor Williams, president of Maryland State College, will be guest of honor at a testimonial dinner at the college Sunday.

The 6 p.m. affair at Waters Hall on the Princess Anne campus cites Dr. Williams on the 25th anniversary of his presidency.

Among outstanding guests expected to attend are citizens of the surrounding community, educators and officials from Maryland and other states.

Gelston and Henderson are Omega honorees

General George M. Gelston, Adjutant General of Maryland, was selected as "Citizen of the Community For 1966," and William F. Henderson, a teacher of painting and decorating at School 452, was selected as "Pi Omega Chapter Man of the Year 1966," at a ceremony honoring them when Omega Psi Phi Fraternity held its forty-fifth Annual National Achievement Week celebration at the New Mt. Zion Methodist Church.

General Gelston, who was presented a Bronze Plaque, which read, "Citizen of the Community for 1966," was Pi Omega's honoree because he played an instrumental role in integration of colored personnel into the Armed Forces. The Citation read: "He has used his talent, a gift of God, to be helpful to others. We have observed him under fire or pressure and in relaxation. He has always been a gentleman."

Mr. William F. Henderson, also honored with a Bronze Plaque, which read "Pi Omega Chapter Man of the Year 1966", was cited For Meritorious Service to Chapter, and as Talent Hunt Chairman for the last six years during which time he has produced three district winners, one being a first place winner.

The citation further stated: "Because of his great desire to encourage young people to develop their talents, his untiring efforts in working with and helping young people regardless of their ethnic group, his work and efforts in trying to raise the level of the local Talent Hunt to recognition by the District Talent Hunt, and his diligent search for talented young people to help them, the Pi and Phi Omega honors Brother Henderson."

The National Achievement Week Observance of the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity was inaugurated in 1930 at the Ninth Conclave held in Nashville, Tenn.

Among the purposes of the observance are the following:

1. To focus attention on outstanding achievements, not only by appropriate recognition of those who have achieved, but by stimulating others to gain even higher eminence;

2. To implement the democratic way of life by emphasizing the fact that all people must be judged by their accomplishments and their service to mankind regardless of nationality, religion and race.

OMEGA AWARDS are presented to Gen. George M. Gelston (L) and William F. Henderson. Dr. Robert L. Ill (C) presents the plaques. Gen. Gelston received a plaque for the "Citizen of the Community" award and Henderson was honored as the "Pi Omega Chapter Man of the Year."
