Witnesses assembly at State May 26-28

The local Congregations of Jehovahs Witnesses will be attending a three-day assembly to be held at the State Theater, May 26-28.

Robert G. Holmes, presiding minister, announced that the assembly program, beginning 6:45 p.m. Friday, will follow the Bible theme, "Supply to Your Faith Endurance."

J. W. Filson, district minister, will give the keynote speech highlighting the assembly theme.

Word from Mr. Holmes, indicated the Saturday evening session would be a dramatized presentation involving the ability of young people to defend their Christian faith.

He pointed out that young people must know from the Bible what they believe and why they believe it.

"Much more is requirednn" he said, "than parents merely saying, 'Don't do this or don't do that' or giving rules.

"Children must understand what the Bible says then they can make it a part of their thinking," he asserted.

The color film, "God Cannot Lie" will be shown on Sunday at 3 p.m.

N.Y. bids Philippa farewell, thousands pay last respects

By RICHARD COHEN

NEW YORK (UPI) —New York said farewell Thursday to Philippa Duke Schuyler, the concert pianist who died a heroine's death in Vietnam, with all the panoply reserved for its most beloved citizens.

Francis Cardinal Spellman conducted a pontifical high mass—the highest honor the Roman Catholic church can bestow in death — in St. Patrick's Cathedral after a stately cortege accompanied by a military honor guard down Fifth Avenue. Thousands bowed their heads as the body of the 35-year old musician, author, and news correspondent passed.

Mis Schuyler died May 9 when a helicopter in which she was flying with nine Catholic school children from Hue crashed into Da Nang Bay, killing her and one of the children. She had gone to Vietnam to play several concerts and had remained to help evacuate children from hard-pressed Hue to the safety of Da Nang.

WHILE IN Vietnam, Miss Schuyler wrote special articles for the Manchester (N.H.) Union-Leader. She was the daughter of George Schuyler, an editor of the Pittsburgh (Pa.) Courier and one of the nation's outstanding journalists.

Some 2,000 mourners occupied the cathedral's pews and hundreds more gathered outside. Mayor John V. Lindsay, who attended a special service for Miss Schuyler in Harlem Wednesday night, was represented by Deputy Mayor Robert Sweet and Human Relations Commissioner William Booth. The state and federal governments also sent representatives.

Traffic was stopped on Fifth Avenue as the procession, accompanied by Harlem school children on foot, moved slowly to the muffled cadence of drums. The honor guards, provided by the Third Naval District and Haryou-Act, a Harlem anti-poverty agency, escorted the coffin into the cathedral where it was placed on a bier in the transept.

SUNLIGHT STREAMED through gothic stain-glassed windows and lighted the coffin blanket of roses and carnations with brilliance. Women throughout the great sanctuary wept aloud as Cardinal Spellman approached and gave Miss Schuyler final blessing in the age-old ritual of the pianist's adopted church.

Many remembered the bright-as-a-button little girl who made her first public appearance at the keyboard at 4 and charmed Mayor Fiorella Laguardia. At 14 she made her debut as soloist with the New York Philharmonic and went on to tour more than 70 nations in Europe, Asia and Africa which was her favorite continent.

Out of her experiences in the Congo during the upheaval there in the early 1960s came four books, "Adventures in Black and White," "Twice Born in Africa" and "Jungle Saints." She was completing a book on her experiences on tour in Asia when she was killed.

Josephine, found a poem her

Miss Schuyler's mother, Josephine, found a poem her daughter had written at the age of 4 which might serve as her epitaph: "When I die, when I die/ Sleep, Sleep/ Very quiet, very nice/ When the rain comes On the Starry Sky/Sleep, Sleep/ When I die."

Warehousemen, drivers, strike

Warehousemen and drivers of a Gwynn Falls Parkway surgical instrument company are out on strike.

According to Charles Simmons, field representative of Teamsters' Local 590, the workers have the backing of the AFL-CIO local in their fight for union recognition by the Murray-Baumgartner Co.

Mr. Simmons and Claude Patterson Jr., another Teamster representative, said Tuesday the majority of the workers have signed up with the Teamsters.

They charge that management has refused to bargain with Local 590.

"There are many other factors involved here," Simmons said. "We intend to back up these men and see it through."

• • •

PICKETS are stationed around the building and, according to union spokesmen, deliveries from other Teamster-drivers have been cut off.

Lewis Miller, president of the 46-year-old instrument company, issued this statement:

"No agreement has been reached. The proceedings are now before the National Labor Relations Board."

Women League to study Con-Con

The League of Women Voters of Maryland will hold its biennial convention at the Center of Adult Education of the University of Maryland on May 24 and 25.

The sessions will focus on issues relating to the Constitutional Convention and the proposed new constitution for Maryland.

Delegates from local leagues throughout Maryland will meet Wednesday night for a banquet to be followed by a panel discussion on "Where Should the Power Lie? The State or the Local Governments?" Panelists will be Dr. Jean Spencer, Milton Millon and William Ratchford.

On Thursday morning three panel discussions will be presented. "The Reform of the Maryland Judiciary" will be debated by Melvin J. Sykes, Thomas Hunter Lowe, and Frederick Invernizzi.

Senator Thomas H. Anderson, Jr., Dr. Harry Bard and former Congressman Edward T. Miller will participate in a panel on "The Legislature—Power and Structure."

The third panel will center on "The Declaration of Rights" and will be discussed by Professor Sanford Rosen, Walter Jacobs and Garrett Power.

Mrs. B. Tilghman

Mrs. Bertie Tilghman, wife of Walter Tilghman, died at George Washington Hospital.

She had been ill for six weeks. Mrs. Tilghman is the daughter of Mrs. Annie D. Franklin and the late Frederick Douglass.

She was educated in Baltimore public schools and Trenton, N.J. and was an AFRO demonstrator in the Esskay booths in the Baltimore - Washington Cooking Schools.

Set Sept. 23 report date on Ashe estate

Sept. 23 is the date set by Orphans Court for executors of the Letitia Ashe estate to file the first administrators' account.

The extended time was granted last month to Mrs. Lula Patterson and Walter R. Tabler, the executors under the will of the longtime teacher, Mrs. Letitia Ashe who died April 15, 1965.

Mrs. Patterson and Mr. Tabler requested the extension to complete sale of the leasehold property at 2801 Mohawk Ave., meet expenses of the estate and pay creditors.

• • •

PAPERS BEFORE the court reveal that a mortgage of $25,000 is due in addition to $1,700 arrears of monthly payments.

A private sale of the property is in process according to attorneys for the estate.

An inventory on file in the court values the total estate at $40,000.
