Brewster lauds Dr. Henry; Bowie president retiring

"There can be very few college presidents who can point to the fact that at one time their administrative duties included repair of the water pump when the system broke down, as Dr. Henry had to do in those early days."

Maryland Sen. Daniel B. Brewster paid that tribute today to Dr. William E. Henry in advance of a banquet in his honor tonight at the Holiday Inn Downtown, where the senator will be guest speaker.

Dr. Henry, who is ending 25 years as president of Bowie State College, is being feted by friends and associates for his "years of distinguished service."

Lauding the retiring president for "great service to his state and nation," Sen. Brewster, in prepared statement declared:

"The school has moved from a small industrial institution without accreditation to a liberal arts school accredited by all major authorities and recognized for its great potential throughout the state and all along the Eastern Seaboard."

POINTING TO the institution's progress which has brought approximately 50 percent integration, the senator added:

"Many people believed that the Supreme Court decision would wipe out the college entirely. It was thought the colored students would go to white schools which had to be integrated.

"He (Dr. Henry) felt that the college as an integrated school would have a greater future than it would ever have had as a segregated one.

"He was right."

Dr. Henry will be succeeded by Dr. Samuel Myers who was appointed earlier by the Board of Trustees of State Colleges.

Musical tonight at Edmondson

The annual "Evening of Music" will be presented by Edmondson High School at 8 p.m. Friday in the School auditorium.

A cooperative effort of the music, physical education, industrial arts and art departments, the program will feature the school choir, band, other groups, solo and dance numbers.

A display of student art works will be on display for viewing during intermission.

Mrs. Georgeanna Chester is director of the program.

Mrs. Mercedes Douglass bride of New Jersey merchant

With Lula Jones Garrett

Loveliest bride of the week was Mercedes Douglass, talented director-musician, who became Mrs. Joseph Wilson, here, Sunday. Mr. Wilson owns a sporting goods store in Newark, N.J., where they will live.

• • •

HAPPIEST MOTHER of the week was Mrs. Frances Jones, whose son, Petty Officer 3/c Ernest A. Jones returned from Vietnam on Friday, and was here for Mother's Day with her.

Mr. Jones, stationed on the U.S.S. Warrington, came into Newport, R.I., Friday. The return was a surprise for his mother.

Surprise, too, was the visit of her mother, Mrs. Bertha Dorsey of Middletown, N.Y. Hence the grand reunion at the Bonner Rd. home of Mrs. Jones, which included the serviceman's wife, Linda, and daughter, Monica.

• • •

CUTEST HONOREE of the week was Lynn Allison Moore, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moore, who was christened on Sunday, and was the center of interest at the dinner party which followed the christening.

Baby was christened by her grandfather, the Rev. Dockery Thompson, minister of Friendship Baptist Church, Turner Station.

She is the Moores' first child and the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson's first grandchild. She is also the granddaughter of Mrs. Edward Moore.

Godparents are George Renwick and Mrs. Shirley Barbour.

Guests at services and dinner included Mrs. Moore, Miss Edna Moore, Raymond Parks, Miss Patricia Thompson, Joseph Thompson, Miss Jacqueline Thompson, Mrs. Barbour; Mr. Renwick, Sylvester Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Briscoe of Washington, uncle and aunt of the baby; another aunt, Mrs. Sylvia McCants of Washington; and Charles Coffey.

Mr. Moore (dad) is a city recreation director; and Mrs. Moore is a city teacher.

Governor's wife entertains at debut of Fine Arts club

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Mrs. Spiro T. Agnew, wife of the Governor of Maryland entertained more than 75 guests at tea in honor of the Annapolis Fine Arts Club, in Government House, Saturday.

Receiving with Mrs. Agnew were Mrs. Willie Q. McManus, founder and president of the club; Mrs. Ras Johnson, vice-president; Mrs. William H. Richardson and Mrs. Samuel P. Massie, chairmen of the program committee.

TODD DUNCAN, internationally famous artist and impresario, who sang in the original cast of "Porgy and Bess," was the honored guest.

Mr. Duncan was recently named president of the Society of the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C. He was also presented in a concert at Constitution Hall during the week of inaugural activities for President Lyndon B. Johnson. Mrs. Duncan accompanied her husband.

• • •

MRS. FLORENCE SHIPMAN, mezzo soprano, a junior student of Morgan State College, and a music major, was soloist. The two groups of numbers she sang included the aria "Che Faro" by Gluck, the spiritual, "Didn't My Lord Deliver Daniel?" by J. Rosamond Johnson and "Love Is A Many Spendored Thing" by Sammy Cain.

Miss Linda Wharton, also of Baltimore, electrified the audience with her rendition of the piano solo, Revel's "Malegueña,"

Miss Wharton, who will graduate from the Western High School in June, has served as its choir accompanist, and has been chosen as one among a group of students from all over the country who will go on a study tour with an all-student band, orchestra and chorus throughout Europe.

Elementary pupils of the Bay Country School Chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Douglas R. Lacey, rendered a unique group of folk songs in costume. The children recently sang in the rotunda of the Cannon Office Building in Washington through the invitation of Congressman Roger B. Morton.

Background music throughout the afternoon was by Mrs. Rufus Abernethy, pianist, a member of the club.

Special guests who made remarks were Robert Marchand, executive director of the Governor's Council on Fine Arts in Maryland; Mrs. Susan Hamilton, program director of the Baltimore Museum of Art; Mrs. Charles Hartman, chairman of the Annapolis Fine Arts Festival, and Mrs. John A. Gehweiler, program chairman of the arts festival.

Among other special guests who attended were Senator Verda Welcome, Mrs. Martin Jenkins, Mrs. Parlette Moore, Mrs. Carroll H. Hynson:

Mrs. J. Hiram Butler, Mrs. Beryl Williams, Mrs. Helen Jones, Mrs. Jean Ressler, director of the Annapolis Choral society; Mrs. Brucye Hamilton Greene, and Mrs. Marvin Bender.

An exhibit, a part of the program, presented works of Claude Rodgers, local artist, and etchings of the renowned Don Swann, in care of his daughter, Mrs. Leonard Doughty. Mrs. Doughty presented an etching of Government House to Mrs. Agnew.

THE ANNAPOLIS Fine Arts Club, which was organized the past winter, on this occasion, made its debut to the Annapolis community,

Reception honors Miss Carol Sheffey

Miss Carol Angela Sheffey was honoree at an elaborate reception given for her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Powell Sheffey, Sunday afternoon.

Miss Sheffey, a freshman at the University of Maryland and a current debutante, was presented at the Me-De-So Club's Spring Cotillion in April.

SETTING FOR reception was the Bluecrest Fordleigh, where a decor in pink, white and green was carried out in flowers, dress and food arrangments. Particularly exquisite were the decorations, which included numerous baskets of flowers sent by friends. The Debutante's godfather, Lester Norris, sent red roses.

Greenery and white hydrangeas, with unique lighting, formed the background for receiving line. The Rivers Chambers group provided background music.

• • •

MRS. OTIS SPROW introduced guests to the line in line were Mrs. Albert Lafontee, wife of Miss Sheffey's Me-De-So sponsor; her parents, Mrs. Olivia Holt, Mrs. Ruperta Waters, the honoree and Mr. Norris.

All of the ladies, with the exception of Mrs. Holt, wore pink gowns with matching accessories. Mrs. Holt wore a blue and green printed chiffon.

Miss Sheffey wore the gown in which she made her debut. The full sleeved bodice was beaded, and the dress featured a full skirt of tulle over satin. The skirt rounded off to give an apron effect and swirled back to form a bustle of satin.

She carried a nosegay of pink and green carnations and lilies with pink streamers, which was presented to her by Mrs. Sprow.

The guest book was kept by Mrs. Henry Johnson, who was lovely in a lace suit of beige over blue.

Hostesses also wore pink dresses. They included Mesdames Harold Clark, James Lewis, Donald Parker, Robert Payne, Frank Veney and Lawrence Waters.
