1,700 expected tonight at Baptist Convention closing

The 41st annual United Baptist Missionary Convention and Auxiliaries of Maryland and Women's Convention closes today (Friday) after meeting four days at Wayland Baptist Church Garrison Blvd. at Fairview Ave.

More than 1,700 persons are expected to fill the main auditorium at the 7:30 p.m. final session. The Rev. Leroy Bowman, re-elected president Tuesday, will preside.

The Rev. Mr. Bowman is pastor of First Baptist Church, Annapolis.

The Rev. W. W. Payne and his congregation are hosts.

Delegates from 70 churches throughout Maryland are attending the meeting which has as the theme "Christian Education in an Affluent Society."

Also meeting at Wayland are members of the Women's Convention and the Young Peoples Department who held official sessions earlier this week.

Mrs. Irene W. Paige, president of the Women's Convention, was returned to office for the fifth consecutive year at elections on Thursday.

She is the wife of the Rev. E. Walter Paige, pastor of Faith Baptist Church.

HIGHLIGHTING the young people's Wednesday afternoon meeting was the annual address by the president, Miss Andrewnette Nance, daughter of the pastor of Mt. Hope Baptist Church and his wife, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Nance.

Speaking to the hundreds of young delegates from the Baptist churches across the state, Miss Nance said a child should be taught in Sunday School at an early age that God is the great creative intelligence.

She stated, "Because of the lack of these teachings of God's love, we find it is dangerous to walk the street at night."

She said further the greatest hinderance to youth is not living a Christian life.

In advising youth how to live she recommended "think and live uprightly, govern temper, tongue and conduct."

Three things to shun were "sin, Satan and selfishness."

She also advised full education with accent on education to be prepared for change.

Closing to loud applause, Miss Nance reminded the young people, "All other education is futile until you learn to love fields, birds and flowers."

* * *

NOTEWORTHY was the vastness of the entire convention which included the work of hundreds of persons in countless activities, home, state and foreign missions, the aged, education, music, memorial services, students in religion, Christian leadership, worship services, fellowship.

The women's division which has received wide acclaim in church circles, published a daily newspaper of events and general news of the convention.

The efficient public relations division also published a Who's Who of Women at the convention.

On the committee are: Mesdames Margaret Deshazzo, Leanna Gutherie, Rosa B. Walker, Annie C. Johnson, Bessie Mason, Pligrine Montgomery, Louise Jackson; Helen V. Benton and Miss Pattie E. Holloway.

Also published was a booklet of "Convention Manners."

* * *

THE 1967 convention of the influential Baptist Convention was held at the new $500,000 Wayland Baptist Church and provided a nursery for youngsters so parents could attend sessions.

The Tuesday to Friday program was contained in a 16-page booklet.

Sharp Street Memorial Methodist Church Is Honoring
REV. KELLY L. JACKSON and
MRS. JACKSON at a
TESTIMONIAL DINNER
WED., MAY 31st—6:30 P.M.
AT THE CHURCH

The Rev. Mr. Jackson retires at the Annual Conference in June. He is a native of North Carolina. He attended school in Winston-Salem and was graduated in 1921. He finished Morgan State College in 1926, and received a B. D. degree from Garrett Theological Seminary in 1929. Following two years of teaching at Philander Smith College, he matriculated at Boston University and completed work for the M.A. degree in 1932.

The Rev. Mr. Jackson was called to pastor in Muskogee, Oklahoma, to fill out the unexpired term of the minister, who had been transferred to another conference. In 1932 he joined the North Carolina Conference. While serving a church in the conference, he taught Philosophy and Religious Education at Bennett College.

Of the Rev. Mr. Jackson's thirty-seven years in the ministry, twenty-eight were spent in the former Washington and Baltimore Conferences. During the twenty-eight years in these two conferences, he served three Methodist Churches — Mt. Zion, Metropolitan and Sharp Street, all in Baltimore, and was appointed twice as District Superintendent. He is now serving Sharp Street Church for the second time. During the present administration the church has been redecorated at a cost of $35,000. Present indebedness is approximately $14,000.
