$1.4 million given to Hampton Institute

HAMPTON, Va.—Receipt of anonymous gifts totalling $1,400,000 and the appointment of a pair of new administrative officials were top items announced after the recent spring meeting of the Hampton Institute Board of Trustees.

The gifts of $1 million and $400,000, respectively, boosted th college's centennial building drive donations to $12.4 million. The goal is $18 million.

Dr. Arthur Howe, Jr., chairman of the board, announced that with receipt of the two gifts, the board voted to proceed with construction plans for a science center at the site of the present women's gymnasium. It will cost $1.8 million.

At a special dinner honoring members of the board, Dr. Jerome H. Holland, president of the college, announced that Dr. Albert H. Berrian, head of the foreign language department, will succeed Dr. Hugh M. Gloster as dean of the faculty.

• • •

DR. HOLLAND announced, also, that Dr. Edgar Thomas, chairman of the division of graduate studies at Hampton Institute, will succeed Robert A. Lazear as secretary of the college, official campus representative of the board of trustees.

The board also approved a record $6.6 million budget for the 1967-68 academic year. The current operating budget is $5.8 million.

The increase will allow an average 10 percent raise in faculty salaries, Dr. Holland said. Increases will spread throughout the faculty, ranging from full professorships to instructors.

An increase in student costs, tuition, room, board and other fees, was also approved from $1,250 to $1,500.

Marking the 1967-68 celebration of the college's Centennial the board approved the casting of 100 medallions to be awarded to "distinguished contributors to Hampton Institute."

"We hope to bring in distinguished educators and public figures for each of these convocations," Dr. Howe noted.

The board also authorized application for federal funds for construction of a student union building and two dormitories. All three structures are planned as the final phase of the Centennial Building Project.

Court action against firm off Buhler Mills

NEW YOR K —The NAACP has agreed to settle out of court a Memphis, Tenn., case involv- provisions of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The case involves Jerry Hunter, Jr., a truck driver in the wholesale division of Buhler Mills, Inc., who was bypassed for promotion in 1965 and discharged later that year.

Mr. Hunter filed a complaint through the NAACP with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission which found, in late 1966, that there was reasonable cause to believe the mills had violated the Civil Rights Act of 1964 in maintaining unlawful promotional policies, and unlawfully discharging Mr. Hunter.

This week, Buhler Mills offered either to reinstate Mr. Hunter, or to grant him an award. They have also offered to distribute throughout their operations a non-discriminatory pledge guaranteeing promotions solely on the basis of merit, and to fill openings from within, in preference to hiring from the outside.

Katzenbach will see Kenyatta on Africa tour

NAIROBI (UPI) — Under Secretary of State Nicholas Deb. Katzenbach arrived in Kenya Saturday on an 11-nation African tour.

He planned talks with President Jomo Kenyatta whom he described as "surely, one of the really great leaders of Africa."

Katzenbach was asked earlier in Lusaka, Zambia, about a reported offer of Rhodesian troops for Vietnam and commented: "We had doubts they were coming in on our side."

Center Stage dates auditions

Center Stage will hold auditions for local talent Friday, June 9, at the theatre, 11 E. North Ave., from 4 to 6 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.

Directors Peter Culman and Douglas Seale said they are looking for non-professional actors, actresses and technical help.

Two male acting fellowships are available for the coming season.

Participants will be asked to read 15 lines of their own choosing from one contemporary and one classical work. Interested parties are invited to call the theatre at 685-8210 for further information.

• • •

IN ADDITION, Center Stage is looking for three colored performers for next season's productions of "The Member of the Wedding" and "The Devil's Disciple."

For "Wedding" a high-strung 20-year-old boy and a of five.

'Word Rock' socks Johns Hopkins crowd

By ADAH K. JENKINS

A confrontation — with "Word Rock" preented by the Student Association of John Hopkins University YMCA at Levering Hall Sunday evening.

Under the direction of C. Richard Gillespie students from Hopkins, Morgan, Coppin and Towson State and Baltimore Junior College, gave a taut and tense reading of the script, written by Dr. Chester L. Wickshire.

With "the Voices," a speech choir of 20 including solo readers, there was accompaniment by "The Apocalypse," a 5-man Jazz combo.

The script consisted of conversations between youth of today with the older generation. Civil rights, War in general and Vietnam in particular, the church, Southern demagogues and the power structure all came in for sharp barbs with no holds bared.

Quotations from Martin Luther King, James Baldwin, Stokely Carmichael and former Governor Wallace were done in realistic accent and voice by solo readers.

Combo accompaniment, arranged by Greg Novak, guitarist, lent an appropriately dramatic emphiasis, as saxaphones moaned, percussion crashed and rolled, while guitars strummed in an almost hypnotic pattern.

Three vivacious couples provided rock and roll interludes. The entire production was well timed as participants, performed with evident enthusiasm without over emphasizing.

• • •

A CAPACITY audience that filled Levering Hall to overflowing was highly appreciative.

Dr. Wickwire attributes his inspiration to an excerpt from Linsay's "Daniel" — "We are part of this generation, born in such modest comfort; housed in universities, looking uncomfortably at the world we inherit".

Quotations were used from the Students Democratic Society, King, Baldwin, Carmichael, the Bible, Hammarskjold, the sensational drama "MacBird" and "To Kill a Mockingbird," to mention a few.

Plans are being formulated to repeat the performance at several colleges and on the air. Based on the choral reading technic "World Rock" is an exciting and engrossing approach to some of the problems of today.
