Elder predicted that he'd qualify

Lee Elder, who became the first of his race, from the Washington area, to qualify for the U.S. Open, predicted his victory.

Last Sunday, while practicing at Langston Golf Course, he was asked where he planned to play his next tournament.

The pro, perhaps one of the best on the Washington links, replied, "The U.S. Open." Two days later, he qualified at Prince Georges Country Club, with a 143.

election itself has posed to date some confusion for the general public in the eyes of Supervisors of Elections officials.

As a result, little more than a mild voter insterest is seen in a turnout at the pools.

Though first lbbeled nonpolitical, almost every political organization of worth has either fielded its own ticket or given its blessing to one in its district.

TUESDAY'S SPECIAL election comes just three months before the Sept. 7 primary for the municipal election.

June 28 is the final filing date for candidates in thd eleection.

Delegates to the state's first Constitutional Convention in 100 years will convene in Annapolis Sept. 12 for an authorized 90-day session to end by Dec. 12, or possibly before.

Sessions will be held in the House of Delegates chamber in the State House and will be open to the public, as will be committee meetings.

Delegates will receive $50 a day for each day they are in attendance.

Should the Convention last the full 90 days, they could receive up to $4,500 pay.

$50

That's right, each and every week, the AFRO pays a total of $50 for news tips. YOU can share in this prize fund. Just be FIRST to call AFRO City Desk, MUlberry 5-6015 as soon as you witness a newsworthy event. Bring photos of news events to City Desk and qualify for a special prize.

4-2 win by the Angels on Wednesday night.

"Oh, that was just one of those things," said Frank inside and tight. It was down [illegible] not up in the danger zone.

"It struck me on the right hand, but x-ray showed nothing serious. I'm sore this morning (Thursday) but I don't expect to miss any games because of the injury.

McClendon came from Chicago.

The family posed for AFRO pictures as a parade of academy students walked by and congratulated Huey.

After a brief summer recess, Huey will attend the Naval Academy's Nuclear Power School.

CHANCELLOR Alfonso Tzomes, the other colored midshipman to be graduated Wednesday, is a native of Williamsport, Pa.

Tzomes, who was also commissioned an ensign, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Tzomes.

He attended the State University College at Oneonta, for a year prior to entering the academy with a Congressional appointment.

While a student at the Academy, he was a member of the public relations committee and the Russian Club and spent a summer aboard the USS Essex.

VICE-PRESIDENT HUMPHREY, who flew in by helicopter from Washington, was originally scheduled to present the diplomas but was called back to the Capitol immediately after his address.

Mr. Humphrey alluded to gross inconsistenses which exist in the syndrome of prosperity the nation is currently enjoying.

"We have the ability," Humphrey said, "to produce a plane which will fly two thousand miles an hour . . . a national inventory of 60 million television sets . . . we publish more than a half-million scientific papers each year.

"All of these facts indicate economic prosperity and growth . . . a greater scientific and technological capacity . . . a wider ownership of material goods.

"And we are told" Humphrey continued, "that these trends will go on.

"Yet, if we look more closely we see other things too: That, for instance, in the shading of high income areas on census maps, the shading never falls on neighborhoods where colored live; that, in a time of prosperity in the rich nations, per captia income is going down in the poor nations of the world."

This was Humphrey's first appearance at a Naval Academy event.

In 1963, Lyndon B. Johnson, then vice president, spoke at graduation exercises. The last president to address graduating midshipmen was the late John F. Kennedy in 1961.

WEDNESDAY'S graduation climaxed "Jane Week" a six-day period of colorful activities which included a number of parades, the Herndon Monument climbing ceremony and the traditional Ring Dance.

More than 20 weddings were held Wednesday afternoon in the academy's chapels and the singing of the traditional "Navy Blue and Gold" brought to a close the week's festivities.

Gets 20 yrs. in Smithson St. assault case

James Robert English, formerly of the 1200 block Smithson St., was sentenced to a total of 20 years when he appeared before Judge James A. Perrotti in Criminal Court for the disposition of a rape and robbery case tried in April.

English was found guilty by a jury on April 3 or criminally assaulting a matron on the way to visit relatives in the Smithson St. area in January.

According to the prosecuting witness, she was grabbed Jan. 1 on a corner and taken to the house where a Christmas tree was still standing. After being assaulted by two men she said she was thrown out into the snow in the back yard.

The concurrent sentence consists of 10 years for taking the woman's purse and 10 years for the criminal assault.
