OATH OF OFFICE — Deputy Social Security Commissioner Arthur E. Hess swears in the first group of youngsters to begin work for the summer under the Youth Opportunity Program. The youths, sworn in Tuesday, are among the first of 250 students who will be working at Social Security Administration under the program, which is designed to enable them to continue their education.

Social Security opens youth jobs

The first group of young people to begin working for the summer at social security under the National Youth Opportunity Program were told today that the work they do, and how they do it, will mean much to the operation of the social security program.

Arthur E. Hess, deputy commissioner, told the students who are hired on the basis of their need for funds to continue their education, that their jobs are not just part of a "make work" program.

"This is a two-way street. You give and we get and we give and you get, through this program," he said.

HESS EMPHASIZED the Social Security Administration's role as a provider of security for old and young alike, and said that even with a minimum of experience, the youngsters could make a valuable contribution.

"You'll be working with many pieces of paper this summer; but don't think that the papers are unimportant. Each represents a person somewhere who is dependent upon social security benefits," he said.

The Social Security Administration expects to give summer employment to approximately 1,000 youths in its offices throughout the nation under the program which was instituted by President Johnson in 1965. Last summer, the Agency employed about 900 young people through the program.

THE PURPOSE of the program is to find meaningful work for young people who need summer earnings to go back to school. Some 250 of the 16-to-21-year-olds will work at clerical jobs in the Baltimore SSA headquarters at $1.40 per hour.

Private industry in the Baltimore area is being encouraged to follow the lead of social security by hiring one youth for every 100 regular employees while the Administration is hiring 2 for every 100 of its regular employees.

Candidates for the summer jobs are recommended by local State employment offices under standards set by the U.S. Employment Service. In addition to the 25 who began work this week, 100 will start near the end of the month and 125 will enter on duty in early July.

Support Israel call issued by Fleming

By G. JAMES FLEMING
Professor, Political Science,
Morgan State College

Down the years, the Jewish communities of the United States, and individual Jews, have been in the forefront of those supporting the several movements for racial advancement.

They helped to found the NAACP over 50 years ago; they were among the first lawyers to win NAACP cases before the Supreme Court; they built the first public libraries for colored people in the South; they provided the first post-graduate grants for colored college students.

They have also given major financial and physical support to the present-day civil rights movement.

The time has come, it seems to me, for colored Americans to "remember" — by subscribing to the Israel Emergency Fund, set up to help aid health and welfare programs in Israel while that little nation of 2,500,000 people defends itself against some 50 to 80 million of its neighbors.

DURING MY recent visit to Africa and Israel, I found the educational and technical aid provided Africans and the African nations by Israel to be more realistic, utilizable and significant — in terms of Africa's needs — than the aid given by perhaps any other country.

I found Israelis in Africa living with, and helping, the new nations, and I found Africans in Israel attending every type of educational, professional and technical institution.

This aid to Africa has been extended although Israel has so many needs of its own and could very well use every man and every dollar for its own development

I also found the people of Israel a most hard-working people; making flowers and fruits and trees to grow where they had never grown before; building a new university and a new hospital whenever they lost one in former wars with the Arab nations; I found them using money carefully, putting the emphasis on spending for education and health and welfare needs.

I propose that the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers take the lead in arousing your readers into standing by our Jewish fellow-citizens at this hour — by subscribing funds and by letting the President and the Congress know that we want this nation to use all means possible to preserve the nation of Israel.

To do nothing is to lend our support to those who, again in our lifetime, are pledged to wipe the Jews off the face of the earth.

The Israel Emergency Fund is located at 3319 W. Belvedere Ave.

Morning Star trial opens Mon. morning

The motion on the demurrer filed by Morning Star Baptist Church in a suit against the church will be heard Monday morning before Judge James K. Cullen on the fourth floor of the courthouse.

The suit was filed by Mrs. Nathaniel H. Wicks, wife of the retired pastor and her missionary organization asking the court to see that the church returns funds the group had allowed to be deposited in the church name in the bank.

The legal papers also name Marion Harris, trustee board chairman, as defendant.

Representing the church, John Hargorve, attorney, said in the answer that the organization which Mrs. Wicks heads is a part of the church.

Asking that the suit be dismissed, he states that the church cannot sue itself.

At any rate, he told the court, the suit was filed after Mrs. Wicks became angry because her husband was refired at half salary.

Robertson steers NBA pension

CHICAGO (UPI) — Player representatives and National Basketball Association owners agreed Wednesday on a plan providing $600 a month pension payments to every 10-year veteran of the league at the age of 65.

The player group was headed by Oscar Robertson of the Cincinnati Royals, president of the NBA Players Association.

The plan will cover about 120 players who are on the active list of the 12 NBA teams on Feb. 2, 1967. Every player on the active list on that date will be eligible for a pension retroactive to the date he started playing.

THE PENSION plan also provides for payments of lesser amount for early retirement at the age of 50, and for all players who have started who start their third season in the league.

All players who enter the league after last Feb. 2 also will be covered.

SETTLEMENT OF the pension plan eliminated a major controversy between the owner and the players. The players threatened in March to boycott the playoff unless the league arranged for a pension program approximating $600 per month.

Kennedy said discussions between a committee of owners and player representatives began at that time, culminating in Wednesday's agreement.

The plan also provides disability benefits and $20,000 life insurance for each player.

OSCAR ROBERTSON

TO GUARD against raiding by rival leagues, the plan has a clause denying benefits to any player who "breaches his contract." All of which may be a deterrent.

Name Clemente top NL player

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Roberto Clemente, who batted .400 and drove in 29 runs in 27 games during May, was named the National League's player of the month in a poll of 50 sportswriters and broadcasters.

The Pittsburgh Pirate outfielder received 33 votes as he delivered 44 hits last month, including nine home runs.

JUAN MARICHAL, right-handed pitcher for the San Francisco Gaints, won six of seven decisions and posted a 1.29 earned run average last month to receive nine votes. He completed all seven starts, allowing 14 hits in 63 innings and striking out 53 while walking seven.

Giant catcher Tom Haller, who hit .352 in May, received four votes; pitcher Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers (4-2 with a 0.48 ERA) and outfielder Rusty Staub of the Houston Astros (.388) each drew two votes.

explain why three NBA players who signed contracts with the rival American Basketball Association have returned to the NBA this month.

The new pension pact replaces the old plan under which players contributed $500 a year and 10-year veterans could collect a maximum of $255 a month at age 65.

Ali withdraws LBJ subpoena

HOUSTON (UPI) — Attorneys for former heavyweight (Cassius Clay) said Thursday they have withdrawn a subpoena summoning President Johnson to Clay's trial June 19.

Clay is to be tried in U.S. District Court for refusing to be inducted into the Army.

Clay's attorneys received permission last month from U.S. District Judge Joe Ingraham to subpoena the President. They said they did not want him to appear personally, but wanted records which he controlled.

HAYDEN COVINGTON of New York, one of Clay's attorneys, said he had received the information he wanted from the records and it would not be necessary to subpoena the President. He said he had withdrawn the subpoena in a U.S. District court in Washington.

He made the announcement at the opening of a hearing on motions by U.S. District Atty. Morton Susman to quash the subpoena for the President and eight other high-ranking officials.

SOCKED WITH FINE — Art Welch, one of a pair of twins on the Baltimore Bays soccer team, was socked with $75 fine for "bad conduct" by National Professional Soccer League president Ken Macker Welch admitted hitting an opponent but insisted it was in retaliattion for a punch he received. Bays officials backed him up in his claim. In same Wednesday action, Macker suspended Co Prins of Pittsburgh, and Manuel Camacho of Chicago, indefinitely. Prins was penalized for fighting and Camacho for knocking down a referee.
