Hints for Homemakers

My son was going on a trip the other day. I was packing his things when he reminded me to include plenty of LIFEBUOY. You may think it's funny, but he won't go anywhere without LIFEBUOY. He says LIFEBUOY gives him such a refreshing shower that he wants to stay in it all day long. Of course, that's not easy to do—particularly on trips. But he says even though his shower can't last all day, LIFEBUOY's deodorant protection does.

If you think my son likes LIFEBUOY, you should know how the rest of us feel about it. My men have all used LIFEBUOY as far back as I can remember. And ever since Lever Brothers put that new mint fragrance in LIFEBUOY, we women won't use anything else for our bath, either.

My entire family finds LIFEBUOY's cool, clean, refreshing mint fragrance keeps us nice to be near all day long. This deodorant protection is especially wonderful on days when we work around the house and yard or when we go out.

LIFEBUOY is a perfect soap for everybody's family—men, women and children, too. After trying LIFEBUOY, you'll join the Kaisers in making it a point on your weekly shopping list.

"What you don't know doesn't hurt you" is not always true. In fact, it is often the reverse. It is better to be well informed so that you won't make that same mistake again.

This was pointed out so vividly recently when a mother of a family of eight called me to chat. During our conversation, the subject of all the ironing she had to do came up. It was difficult for me to wait until she explained how much time this task involved. I immediately recommended that she purchase a bottle of FINAL TOUCH the next time she shopped. I further explained to this disturbed mother that all you do is add the required amount to the last rinse cycle.

Now I tell me how FINAL TOUCH can make my ironing easier," she asked. "It's simple to explain," I replied, and for several minutes I told her how it makes clothes softer and helps them retain their color. My homemaker friend was also briefed on how FINAL TOUCH was an invaluable laundry aid. But before I could finish telling her about all its properties, she informed me that she had to go.

"Why are you ending the conversation so abruptly may I ask?" "To tell the truth, dear," she said, "I am going right now to buy a bottle of that FINAL TOUCH." Her final words before she hung up the phone were, "You live and learn."

June is the month for brides. I am sure you know some lucky young lady who is getting married this month. Or maybe you are. Well, here are a few helpful tips for the bride-to-be, as well as for the established housewife.

It has always been said that "The way to a man's heart is through his stomach." After you have given the man in your household a nourishing meal, all he will need is a delicious dessert to top it off. One of the best ways I know of to make dessert extra good is by adding LUCKY WHIP.

LUCKY WHIP tastes as luscious as real whipped cream, yet is only half the cost. Moreover, it does not sour, separate or wilt. That means you can prepare your dessert well in advance, as much as twelve hours, and never worry about its "going flat."

And there is no need to be concerned about that figure that he likes so well, because LUCKY WHIP contains half the calories of regular whipped cream.

So give your man a treat with his next dessert by topping it off just right with LUCKY WHIP. It's my guess he will consider himself lucky to have you as his wife of many years, or his newly acquired bride.

Traveling broadens you as it affords you an opportunity to see how and where other people live and, at the same time, learn new ways of doing things. My recent visits to many college campuses have been most interesting and rewarding.

In talking with the students informally, I discovered that one of their most difficult adjustments to life away from home was laundering clothing—so many individuals using the facilities and heavy demands on hot water.

It is my observation that this is a problem not only on campuses, but in many homes as well. Let me share with you an easy way to solve this matter. It is simply by using Cold Water "all." You see, this detergent cleans perfectly in cold water. There are so many advantages in using it that once you try Cold Water "all," you will be a believer.

It is especially good to add to your wash water if you have permanent-press, wash and wear or drip-dry garments to launder. In fact, Lever Brothers has prepared a booklet entitled "How to Keep Your Permanent Press Garments New-Looking Longer," which is available upon request. Cold Water "all" not only assures you against shrinkage and fading, but also of having a clean wash. Take my word, use it and you will stay out of "hot water."
