Running from crime scene sets no defense for 2 men

Two men, in separate cases, who told of running from the scene of crimes each had seen, "to keep out of trouble" found themselves in deeper trouble, as they were convicted of participating in the crimes they had witnessed.

Both cases were heard last week by Supreme Bench Judge Anselm Sodaro, in Criminal Court.

In the first case, King David Jones, a 19-year-old construction worker of the 1600 block Homestead St., was found guilty of an assault on James Olson, 900 block Lemmon St.

A second charge of assault with intent-to-rob was dismissed.

Testimony revealed Jones had been arrested after running from the scene of a robbery attempt on Olson at Ensor and East Streets, last February.

* * *

THE DEFENDANT told of walking by and seeing a man wrestle the victim to the ground, searching his pockets.

Jones testified he continued walking slowly, looking back at he struggle. "I wanted to see what was going on."

A passing motorist pulled over and shouted to the attackers. (He said there were two.) Jones ran and was overtaken by his pursuer, Santo Mustolo, who held him until police arrived.

Jones, insisting his innocence, said he ran because he was afraid.

"As I ran, I realized I had done nothing —so I stopped. That's when he caught me."

The attack victim said he had been drinking heavily and did not remember the attack. Nor could he say if one or two men attacked him.

Milton B. Allen, attorsey for the defendant, told the court: "This young man doesn't think too quickly. When his brain told his feet to stop —he stopped running."

Mr. Olson, admitting to being highly intoxicated at the time, could not identify his assailant or assailants, nor did he have any recollection of the attack.

Following Jones' conviction, the court ordered a pre-sentence report on the youth, who had no record. Meanwhile, he was released to the custody of Mr. Allen.

IN THE second case, Robert Matthew Neale 24, of the 1100 block McKean Ave., was found guilty on two counts growing out of the April robbery of David Norman, 2000 block N. Bentalou St.

The assault and robbery, at Fulton Ave. and Laurens St., was interrupted by a passing off-duty patrolman.

Western District officer George Miller testified he was approaching the intersection when he saw two men holding the victim's arms around a street lamp-post, his coat pulled over his head.

A third man had his hands in Mr. Mornam's pockets, Miller said.

The policeman pulled his car over and bailed out, gun leveled.

Miller said the three scattered and he captured Neale after a chase.

Neale, a $100-a-week steel worker, told the court he was passing by when he saw two men holding the victim. He ran, Neale said, because he "saw the gun and did not know Mr. Miller was a policeman. I didn't want to get in trouble," he told the court.

The patrolman reiterated, "I am positive that is the man who had his hands in the victim's pocket."

The convicted man spent three years in the U.S. Army, was honorably discharged, is married and father of one child.

He had no prior criminal record.

The court ordered a pre-sentence investigation. Meanwhile, Neale continued to remain free on his own recognizance by Vista arrangement.

Fragmented health care won't do the job, Provident staff is told

The medical staff of Provident Hospital held its annual meeting at the Emerald Gardens on Reisterstown Road on Sunday.

More than 150 guests, including physicians, dentists and their wives, members of the Board of Trustees, and members of the administration met at 5:30 for cocktails and a formal dinner at 6:30.

Dr. William S. Spicer, associate coordinator for the regional medical program for the University of Maryland, was the guest speaker.

Participating in the program were members of the Medical Staff, the Auxiliary of the hospital, the Administration, and the Board of Trustees.

FOLLOWING brief greetings and remarks from representatives of each of the above groups, Dr. Roland Smoot, chief of the department of medicine introduced Mr. Spicer, who delivered the principle address entitled "To Promote Cooperative Arrangements."

Dr. Spicer emphasized the need for coordinating the efforts of the many agencies and professionals rendering health service to the community.

Dr. Spicer's address indicated that this involved the University Hospital, the community hospital, the private practioner, and the many para-medical services.

* * *

THE GENERAL theme indicated that this cooperative effort is essential to provide medical care to the community commensurate with the knowledge that has been gained in the many areas.

He noted that the fragmented position of health care, as we now know it, cannot possibly provide the best care for many reasons. Paramount among these reasons was the inability of such fragmentation to make effective use of man power and, thus, help meet the man power shortage.

He told the Provident Hospital Medical Staff that as other community hospitals, should be prepared to provide the comprehensive, care needed and stated that this was indeed a challenge to all of those in the medical profession.

* * *

THE PEDIATRIC Department, cited Dr. C. B. Campbell, former chief of Dept. service to Provident Hospital and to the community.

In presenting this award Dr. Talmadge Pinkney pointed out some interesting highlights from the life of Dr. Campbell in his role as chief of pediatrics, as health officer at Morgan State College when Morgan could not afford to pay for such service, and the unselfish and untiring efforts to develop the Department of Pediatrics over the years.

Awards were also presented to the administrator, Henry J. Whyte, for his outstanding work in preparing the present hospital for the transition to the New Provident Hospital, and to Charles G. Tildors assistant administrator in charge of development, for his work in coordinating the efforts to make the New Provident Hospital a reality.

Following the formal part of the meeting, physicians and dentists and other guests remained to discuss the implications of Dr. Spicer's talk.

Sen. Brooke to address insurancemen

Senator Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts will address the National Insurance Association Convention in New Orleans in mid-July, H. H. Southall, association president, announced.

He will speak at a banquet July 19, honoring presidents of the 46 colored managed companies that comprise the association. The convention will be in session July 17-20, in the Jung Hotel. Some 250 insurance executives and leading salesmen will attend.

Southall, president of Southern Aid Life Insurance Co., Richmond, Va., oldest of all the firms, said the meeting will examine the service mission of the companies.

This will include a dialog panel in which two college presidents representing the public put a series of questions to the industry about its aims and performance. Dr. A. W. Dent of Dillard University, New Orleans, and Dr. Felton G. Clark of Southern University, Baton Rouge will ask questions.

Ernest Shell, CLU, vice president, Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Co., Los Angeles, and William J. Kennedy III, vice president, North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Co., Durham, N.C. will reply for the industry.

HAWKINS, Texas — Dr. J. O. Perpener, president of Jarvis Christian College, has announced the appointment of John Paul Jones as special assistant to the president. Jones, chairman of the division of humanities at Jarvis, lives in Tyler with his wife and two children.

Clean Block drive is open to all

What is the Clean Block? you may ask.

Perhaps you already know the answer.

It is more than two words. It is a great cooperative effort by hundreds of children and adults to "Make Baltimore the Cleanest City in the Nation."

It is children, your children, the neighbor's children, children of adjacent blocks and on the other side of town.

It is ten, twenty, thirty, and hundreds of these kids working together for a clean city and gaining valuable character traits of leadership and good citizenship.

Realizing that Baltimore the sixth largest populated city in the nation, is not immune to dirt, filth, and juvenile delinquency, the Clean Block Campaign was originated in 1964 by Miss Frances Murphy, to combat these things.

And since the original campaign, the Clean Block Campaign has gained noteworthy success.

Prominent civic social and religious leaders have recognized its value and need, and in the past, they have cooperated in putting it over.

The city profits just as greatly, when the blocks are spic and span, and in some cases, splendidly beautified by these sincere youngsters, for when the youngsters are engaged in wholesome activity, this keeps them busy during summer vacation.

"There is still time to register your block in this year's drive. Fill out the application found on this page and mail to the AFRO," said Clean Block director, Mrs. Jeanette B. Leath.

Those blocks completing their registration recently are:

Clean Block Sidelights

By LINDA CALLOWAY

The July 7 meeting of the AFRO Clean Block Campaign was opened by the director, Mrs. Jeanette B. Leath. The Clean Blockers stood and recited the Lord's Prayer.

"There aren't many blocks represented at this meeting. We had more people last week, and the weather was terrible," said the director.

"Next week the photographer and I will tour various blocks and take pictures; the first honor flag will also be distributed to the best looking block," said the Clean Block Lady.

"Some of the problems that have been reported to me will be taken care of while I am out," she added.

Clean Blockers were told that the American Brewery gave the campaign 40 tickets to be distributed among the workers for Colt Night game.

* * *

MISS LOUISE REEVES, a girl scout leader, told the group about some of her activities. She has received a pin for 25 years of services she rendered to the Girl Scouts.

The proclamations from the Governor of Maryland and the Mayor of Baltimore City were read to the Clean Blockers.

A former Clean Block Captain, Angela Canty, played a piano selection for the group. She was asked to come to the meeting and play for the group because her playing was enjoyed so much by the Clean Block participants last year.

* * *

MRS. LEATH told the Clean Blockers that if any of them were interested in playing the piano at the Clean Block meetings to let her know.

"We need someone to play the piano desperately," she added.

Near the end of the meeting, the Clean Block office assistant, Miss Linda Calloway, called some of the captains from various blocks to discuss the completion of the registration papers.

The flowers that Mrs. Irene Hallett had promised the group were distributed at the end of the meeting.

The workers were overjoyed with having received them. The flowers will be available to them each week.

75-YEARS-OLD — Miss Louise Reeves, 211 Dallas Court, Celebrated her 75th birthday. Clean Block director, Mrs. Jeanette B. Leath congratulated her. Miss Reeves has worked as a Clean Block Advisor for 20-odd years as a Girl Scout Leader.

Clean Block worker sends contribution

"The AFRO Clean Block office recently received a letter and a check from a Clean Block worker of several years, James N. Caldwell of the 2100 block W. Fayette St." said Clean Block Director Jeanette B. Leath.

The letter reads:

"My Dear Mrs. Leath:

"Here I am way up here in Ashland, New Hampshire working in a Summer Camp. I deeply regret that I had to leave my group of interesting boys and girls at the time when I did.

"However, through the correspondence I have had with some of them, I feel that they are still working hard, trying to be a winner come the end of the campaign. I will not be able to return to take over the active leadership again until Sept. 20.

"I have heard that you have taken pictures in the block and have been encouraging the children to keep up the good work. As their director, that is the director of the block club in the 2100 block W. Fayette Street, I am so proud of you for the interest you are taking in all children and their advancements.

"Enclosed you will find a small donation to help in any way you care to use it for the AFRO Clean Block Campaing. Sorry I can't be in Baltimore in person to lend you a helping hand. Of course I am well aware that you are very efficient and are doing a splendid job. Keep up the good work. You will add many stars to your crown.

"Here's hoping for a successful summer.

Very cordially yours,
JAMES N. CALDWELL"

* * *

ACCOMPANYING THE letter was a check for $15. I trust that this block will continue to work. Prior to Mr. Caldwell's departure he held meetings, elected officers and left the block well organized so it could carry on the work Mrs. Leath said."

"To the captain, advisors and workers in this block, I think you are fortunate to have a person living in your block, who has taken up so much time with the youth and the adults. I do feel you should carry on the work don't let this leader down," said the Clean Block lady.

* * *

THE PRIZE FUND now stands at $1200. Additional funds are needed to bring the fund up to the $3,000 goal set earlier.

"Boys and girls, representing over 100 blocks in every section of the city and outlying districts are working hard to make their neighborhoods more pleasant places in which to live," said Mrs. Leath.

The Clean Block staff is urging every AFRO reader to send in at least $1 to help in this worthy effort.

Please make check payable to AFRO Charities — Clean Block Fund. This is a tax deductible contribution.

Inspectors set to make weekly tours

Some 100 blocks are now registered in the 33rd annual AFRO Clean Block Campaign and registration will continue until July 21, Mrs. Jeanette B. Leath, Clean Block director announced today.

Captains and workers may register at the AFRO office at 628 N. Eutaw St., each day, Monday thru Friday.

The office is located on the first floor, right next to the parking lot, on the Druid Hill Avenue side.

Registrations are also accepted each Friday at the 10 a.m. weekly pep rallies at the Masonic Temple, 1307 Eutaw Pl.

* * *

NOT ONLY are Clean Blockers painting their fronts and planting flowers, but they are on a regular morning schedule of clean up, cleaning trash and litter from their streets, sidewalks and alleys.

Inspection tours are made each week but you are never warned of inspection before hand.

All Clean Block Captains should set up a regular schedule of sweeping each morning, so that all blocks will be ready for the inspection team.

Sen. Kennedy to present medal to Sen. Brooke

NEW YORK — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy will present the coveted Spingarn Medal to Sen. Edward W. Brooke, when the NAACP convenes its annual convention in Boston, it was announced here this week.

Sen. Kennedy, a Democrat of Massachusetts and youngest brother of the late President, will present the NAACP's top award to Sen. Brooke (R-Mass.) on July 11 inceremonies at Boston's War Memorial Auditorium, NAACP Executive Director Roy Wilkins said.

The award is presented annually for distinguished achievement by an American of African descent.
