Church calls

services on July 16 before he was half way through.

"They came up in the pulpit and told me that the service was not going to go on."

Commenting on reports that "something was put in his water pitcher Sunday by an unknown person, the Rev. Mr. Turner had this to say:

"It looked like something could have been, but I just wouldn't drink it. That took care of that."

The Rev. Mr. Turner did not identify the "few people" who are creating the internal conflict at the church located at 2417 Puget St. in Mt. Winans.

Dissension began brewing late last year, according to the pastor, when some people were "fighting to get rid of me."

When the question was put to a vote, he added, "an overwhelming majority of the 200-member congregation voted for me to remain."

At a subsequent meeting, the Rev. Mr. Turner told the AFRO, some members of the Deacon and Trustee Boards were "voted out because of incompetence."

THE DISPLACED church officers, the minister added, "are convinced that I was responsible for removing them."

The dismissals have been made the subject of court action, naming the minister as defendant.

THE INITIAL complaint was filed in Circuit Court April 14 by Eugene Battle and others who claimed they are the officers and deacons of the First Baptist Church.

With Atan H. Stockdale as their attorney the plaintiffs asked the court to appoint a trustee to see that the Rev. Mr. Turner is removed as pastor.

The petition declares that there was a dispute between the church and the pastor last October, and as a result on Oct. 24, 1966 the Rev. Mr. Turner resigned.

His resignation, the officers claim, was to have taken effect Nov. 27, 1966.

However, the document reveals, another development transpired in the meantime. On Nov. 7, the deacon board was dismissed by vote of the congregation.

Of this time James Keys and Julius Weems were reelected and the rest fired, according to the complaint.

On Jan. 1, the complaint avers, a petition was circulated in the congregation this year asking that members give support to the renewal of the Rev. Mr. Turner by signing their names at the bottom of the document.

ON MAY 3, Judge Myer Cardin signed an order asking the Rev. Mr. Turner to show cause within 15 days why the requests of the petitioners should not be granted.

The Rev. Mr. Turner's reply came on May 22 in a brief answer filed by his attorney Milton B. Allen.

Saying he had been pastor since May 13, 1964 the minister told the court that the congregation had refused to accept his resignation.

He further stated that the persons filing the original Circuit Court petition are not the officers and deacons of the church.

THE MINISTER, still facing criminal charges growing out of a sweeping investigation of alleged irregularities at the Maryland Penitentiary last year, said this fact had no bearing on the dispute.

"They (the disposed officers) said they wanted me to leave. The majority of the members, however, wanted me to stay.

"Since this came up (the latest dispute) I told them I would go if they would pay me my back salary. They owe me six months salary plus vacation," the Rev. Mr. Turner explained.

Mr. Allen, the minister's attorney, told the AFRO no hearing has been scheduled in the case.

An effort to reach Mr. Battle late Monday was unavailing. His wife, Mrs. Eugene Battle, said her husband was not at home and she was unable to say when he would return.

PHANTOM SLAYER? — This composite photo, drawn by Homicide Bureau artist, is based on information compiled on the likeness of the suspect believed to responsible for wholesale stabbing of women in Northwest Baltimore. Investigators are also eying new clues to determine if he's the Phantom Slayer responsible for the stabbing deaths of two women in the 2900 block W. Cold Spring La.

Black Power advocate of CORE, that is no mistake.

That is stupid.

We think when Mr. Yates, whose sworn duty is to uphold law and order, openly advocates unrestrained violence for the sake of vengeance, he has outlived his usefulness and should be fired.

The best thing Police Chief Brice G. Kinnamon can do is let Gen. George M. Gelston handle the tender-box situation now plaguing Cambridge.

By his juvenile disputes with the adjutant general as to who has authority over what, and his ill-tempered public statements, Chief Kinnamon is only adding fuel to the fires of continued turmoil.

One of the nation's foremost experts on handling racial unrest, General Gelston must be permitted to operate without interference from petty office holders and backward politicians.

Like other Cambridge officials, Chief Kinnamon is distinguished only by his incredible ignorance of the depth and scope of the crisis now gripping the town.

THE MILITANTS are not, by no means, blameless. Since they are the chief movers in the storm now swirling around the Eastern Shore town, they have demonstrated a shocking degree of irresponsibility.

Mrs. Elaine Adams, Emerson C. Stafford, Lemuel Chester, Mr. Wechsler, and Walter Lively all have legitimate grievances.

Urging their followers to burn down buildings, "get shotguns and kill the bunkies," and other preachments of violence and hatred is not the way to achieve redress for these grievances.

Neither can their aims and objectives be realized by chanting a chorus of generalities and heaping abuse and insults upon colored citizens whom they call "Uncle Toms."

If Messrs. Lively, Wechler and other Black Power leaders can't lead their followers without inciting them to do violence, they should stay out of Cambridge or be held accountable for their actions.

The matured course of action dictates they draw up and present specified complaints and join other citizens in searching for solutions.

IT IS time too, for "moderate" colored leaders to stop ignoring leaders and followers of the Black Power philosophy.

"We can't talk to them," Mrs. Juanita J. Mitchell, president of the State Conferences of NAACP Branches, told the AFRO.

Yet Mrs. Mitchell, Dr. Gilbert Ware, representing Gov. Agnew; the Revs. Ernest M. Dupree, president, Cambridge NAACP; Joseph Williams, T. M. Murray and G. Wayne Cuff, along with other colored citizens are meeting, discussing and proposing ways to treat the ills of Cambridge.

To believe that they can arrive at solutions to lasting peace without involving the militants is the height of folly. This should be clearly understood.

Gen. Gelston and the National Guard can't save Cambridge forever. They did it in 1963. They are doing it again in 1967.

Unless representatives of state agencies, city officials, community organizations and militants roll up their sleeves and get down to work in an atmosphere of mutual respect and cooperation, there will be no Cambridge to save.

Time is rapidly running out.

ments in the 2900 block of W. Coldspring La.

The same weekend, two other stabbing incidents were reported in Northwest Baltimore. Three persons were wounded by lone knife-wielding man.

No arrests have been made in any of the cases.

The police description said the man, "a colored male, aged 16 to 25," gained entry through rear windows and "stabbed for no reason."

They also said "he has a wild look in his eyes and appears to be in stupor."

THE REAR entry method and "senseless" stabbing would establish some link between the suspect and the W. Coldspring La. murder, police said.

In that case, a rear window was found open, and no motive was found for the murders, investigators reported.

Police also described the man as wearing yellow or gold banlon-type shirt, dark trousers, and having a neat and clean-shaven appearance.

The suspect is about 6' tall, weighing 140-55, with a light complexion, according to the description.

Police said they believe the suspect has been operating in Northwest Baltimore for about a month. Radio cars and officers investigating prowlers were told to be on the lookout for the man.

Homicide Squad detectives went to Western District last weekend to check reports that two suspects held in a burglary matched the broadcast description.

The men were not linked to any of the stabbings, however.

Meanwhile an emotional funeral was held for Mrs. Banks on July 26 at Union Branch Baptist Church in Chesterfield County, Va. with the Rev. Alonza Thomas delivering the eulogy.

Mrs. Erma Mason acknowledged condolences; Mrs. Bernice Morgan was at the organ; and William Relaford sang "I Heard The Voice of Jesus Say."

Burial took place in the church cemetery under direction of the Wilkerson Funeral Home of Petersburg, Va.

Active pallbearers were George Mattox, Beverly V. Mason, Lawrence Mason, Jesseni Branch, George Lewis, William Peterson and Edgar Haskins.

Listed as honorary pallbearers were Mesdames Barbara Clark, Alice Whitlow, Delores Pulliam, Misses Marion Brickwell, Cynthia Surley, Eleanor Surley.

MRS. BANKS, the daughter of Deacon and Mrs. Irving Surley was born March 28, 1923 in Chesterfield County, Va. At an early age, she became a member of Union Branch Church.

She was educated at the public schools in the same community, including D. Webster Davis High School. She was also a graduate of Van DeVyver Business School of Richmond.

On July 16, 1946, she married Nathaniel Banks of Baltimore. The couple was divorced four years ago. Their daughter is Miss Jeane Banks, 19, who lives in Baltimore.

IN BALTIMORE, Mrs. Banks became active at Wayland Baptist Church where funeral services were held on Tuesday night, July 25.

Besides her parents, husband, and daughter, Mrs. Banks is survived by a 3-year-old grandson, Antwann; three sisters, Mrs. Bernice Trent, Mrs. Edith Brickell, Mrs. Rebecca Branch; three brothers, Ernest, Benjamin and McKinley Surley; six aunts, several nieces and nephews.

an usher — just about everything but the preacher," Mrs. Malloy said.

MR. MALLOY had been with the Bureau of Sewers for the last five years, his family said. Before that he worked as a clothing factory salesman and a machinist in a rubber company.

Mr. Malloy was a native of North Carolina, and his mother, Mrs. Ella Malloy, still lives there. He attended Greensboro, N.C., schools.

In 1943, he moved to Salisbury, Md. where he lived for many years, marrying Mrs. Malloy in 1948. She, the former Ethel White, is from North Carolina, also.

The couple moved to Baltimore in 1952.

"He loved his children," his daughter, Ella, 15, said Sunday. "We joked the day before he died. I said he better come home from work early or I'd drag him home. He said he'd put me over his knee, if I didn't mind my tongue."

Besides his wife, mother and daughters, Mr. Malloy leaves two other daughters, Mrs. Esther Gode, 17, of the 1900 block Ridgehill Ave., and Ethel, 13, at home.

He also leaves a sister in Troy, N.Y., three brothers in Bridgeport, Conn., one aunt in Washington, D.C., two other aunts in Greensboro, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral arrangements will be handled by the Charles R. Law Mortuary, and services will be held tomorrow (Wednesday) at the Dodswell Temple.

Burial will follow at Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

Be on the lookout for the Money Man in your neighborhood and don't forget to check for your lucky number in the Tuesday and Friday editions of the AFRO. You may be the next.

The Money Man, enjoying the Popular AFRO Lucky Coin Game as much as AFRO readers, is urging all coin holders to keep their Lucky Coins.

Nearly 100,000 have been distributed, he said, and numbers listed in every edition of the AFRO will be those from coins already in circulation.

"If your newsboy doesn't have anymore," he added, "that's because there just isn't anymore."

JUNE WAS a big $29 winner in the come-in-and-claim-your-cash portion of the Lucky Coin Contest this week. Because the number at the top of the list last week wasn't claimed, $10 was added to the amount the first number in the new series would earn.

Mrs. Earnestine Easter, of 842 N. Augusta Ave., was the lucky winner. She came to the AFRO building just as it opened at 8:30 a.m. on Monday.

A lab assistant at the Health Department, Mrs. Easter says she has never won anything before. Her lucky number was 38421.

Labor Dept. acts against local firm

A judgment was entered last week against Jennings H. Mitchell and Son, Inc., 619 North Bend Rd., in U.S. District Court here.

Named individually was Jennings H. Mitchell Jr., company president. The action was taken under the Fair Labor Standards Act by U.S. Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz.

The defendants consented to the judgment and agreed to pay back wages in the amount of $1,200 to employees. Payment will be disbursed by the Wage-Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, Mr. Wirtz reported.

The judgement also requires future compliance with the Act, including payment of the applicable minimum wage and payment of time and one-half the regular rate of pay for overtime in excess of 40 hours per work week and the keeping of adequate records, the secretary said.

Legal action followed an investigation by the Baltimore Field Office of the U.S. Department of Labor's Wage-Hour and Public Contracts Divisions under the supervision of Hillard Curland, field office supervisor.

The company is a plastering contractor and is subject to the Fair Labor Standards Act because it is an enterprise and performs services for firms engaged in production of goods for interstate commerce, according to the Labor Department.

FINAL PLANS for the construction of a new Provident Hospital are being scanned by Councilman Henry G. Parks (left), Charles G. Tildon, assistant administrator, and Hilyard R. Robinson, architect.

Long offers rioting curbs

Rep. Clarence D. Long (D., Md.) today proposed a six-point program of legislative and administrative action to stop rioting in American cities and towns.

"If Rap Brown has warned us that this wave of insurrection is only the beginning," Rep. Long noted. "We would be foolish to ignore this warning. Action to prevent and end riots must be a first order of business for the American people."

Noting that the principal victims of rioting have been colored citizens, Mr. Long said that "at a time when colored soldiers are fighting and dying in Vietnam in numbers far greater than their proportion of our population and of our armed forces, we have a special duty to protect the families of these servicemen."

IN ORDER to help implement part of his proposed program, the Congressman is preparing legislation to be introduced next week. Rep. Long's proposals include:

Mobilize an overwhelming force of police, auxiliary police and national guard troops.

Launch a far-reaching study to achieve more effective measures for riot control. A bill to accomplish this is to be introduced by Rep. Long today, he said.

End unrestricted sale of high-powered rifles of the kind used by snipers.

Convince people in the riot-torn areas that the rioters are their enemies, and not their friends.

Infiltrate FBI agents into groups of riot leaders in order to curb their activities.

Enforce the laws rigorously under all conditions, with stiff penalties for looting, burning and shooting.

"THIS RIOTING must be stopped," Rep. Long said. "The residents of the riot areas have my sympathy, and I will continue to support programs to improve their living conditions.

"There is, however, no excuse for looting, burning and shooting. Local governments and the Congress must move swiftly on a crash program to prevent future riots."

Hopkins aide to teach at Coppin

Robert H. Dombro, director of the Johns Hopkins Hospital Child Life Department, will teach a course entitled "The Hospitalized Child and His Family" at Coppin State College beginning Sept. 14.

He will be assisted by Mrs. Barbara Haas, supervisor of the Hopkins Child Life Department, who will serve as guest lecturer, Dr. Partlett L. Moore, Coppin president, announced this week.

The course will deal with the analyzation and evaluation of the emotional effects of illness and hospitalization on the child and his family before, during and after hospitalization.

Mr. Dombro said that "... everyone in the many disciplines working with children must be acknowledgable in this area: nurses, special education teachers, social workers, ministers, hospital based specialists and parents."

The course does not require any previous college credit. Registration will be held Sept. 13, from 4 to 9 p.m. in Connor Hall, Coppin State College, 2500 W. North Ave.

Parks helps youth project

Councilman Henry G. Parks Jr. came to the rescue of Youth Organized to be Heard, (YOTBH), last week with a pledge to purchase 75 tickets to a benefit performance by Johnny Mathis and the Young Generation 2 p.m., Aug. 2, at the Morris Mechanic Theatre.

Councilman Parks' response came as a result of a radio plea over Station WWIN to adults in the community to support the benefit.

PROCEEDS from the performance will be used by the YOTBH to build a neighborhood youth center to provide wholesome recreation for inner city children.

Larry Young is president of the youth organization.

Other interested citizens wanting to help should contact Miss Kitty Brody, SA. 7-1400.
