Civil Service unit outmoded, Tommy charges

Thomas J. D'Alesandro 3d, president of the City Council and a candidate for mayor in the Sept. 7 primary, has called for "a top-to-bottom review and revision of the city's civil service system and personnel policies."

The sweeping changes are "the first steps which the next city administration must take to revitalize the workings of our city government," he declared.

Speaking as well for this running mates, William D. Schaefer and Hyman A. Pressman, Mr. D'Alesandro said:

"The city's present personnel operations are intolerably outmoded and inefficient.

"Today, in Baltimore, widespread unemployment and numerous vacancies in city jobs exist side-by-side.

"Yet the qualifications for many classifications of employment remain rigid and unrealistic, and recruitment and job training efforts are inadequate.

"There are too many instances in which archaic and inflexible procedures deny persons — particularly those with little education and low skills — employment in jobs which they are probably able to perform.

"We cannot afford, for either the sake of the unemployed, or the undermanned city governmental machinery, to lose persons who desire to work," the candidate declared.

• • •

"WE MUST undertake on a broad scale a program of on-the-job training to correct this imbalance. Our whole personnel policy must also be such as to create career opportunities for people of talent and creativity.

"Advancement opportunities in municipal employment must parallel those in private industry," Mr. D'Alesandro vowed.

The lack of coordination and consistency among city departments on personnel questions; the relationship of the functions of the Personnel Policy and Salary Advisory Committee to other personnel policy-making apparatus; the shortage of staff of the Civil Service Commission; and the overall need to take a fresh, searching look at all aspects of the operational policies and practices of the commission, are other problems which abound in the agency, he said.

• • •

"THE CITY civil service system was enacted in the City Charter in 1918 and was designed to end the spoils system at the municipal level.

"However, in 1918 the city employed approximately 3,000 persons on an annual budget of $22 million, while in 1967 the city employs 17,000 persons, and our annual budget exceeds $537 million.

"Today, city business is big business; and the civil service system must be responsive to modern management techniques.

"If elected, the administration will establish, as a first order of business, a Commission on City Personnel, composed of outstanding private citizens representing all economic interests and all walks of life in our city."

• • •

THEIR TASK he said, "shall be to examine in depth the civil service system and other personnel operations of the city government, and to formulate in detail a specific plan for remedial action."

NEWLYWEDS Mr. and Mrs. Russell Gilliam at home now at 1331 Stonewood Rd. were married Saturday at Southern Baptist Church. The bride, the former Miss Gloria Anderson is the daughter of Herbert and Mrs. Symera Anderson and the groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gentle Hines.

Baha'i's ask unity among men, nations

"Baha'i is the newest religion in the world of man. It is only 124 years old, but it is a most progressive religion," Mrs. Serena G. Mann, librarian of the Baha'i's of Baltimore, gave this evaluation of her religion Sunday.

The essential message of the international, interracial Baha'i Faith is "The oneness of mankind — the coming together of all peoples, races, nations, classes and religions in a spirit of understanding and unity of purpose under the guidance of the one God in whom all believe."

Devotions Sunday at 5301 Gwynn Oak Av., were conducted in accordance with this message, the theme being "The Baha'i Faith — Path to World Unity."

• • •

DUBOIS JOHNSON was chief speaker on a panel which also included Mrs. Virginia O'Hara and Miss Mildred Elmer. They read the words of Baha-ullah, who founded the faith, and spoke of many different kinds of unity.

The unity of mankind, spiritual unity, the oneness of the manifestations of God, and divine unity were explained as being interlocking — one leading to the other, Mr. Johnson declared.

He went into detail and stressed the importance of certain unities in everyday life. Unity is politics, unity of thought in world undertakings, unity in freedom, unity of nations, and unity of races and language were covered.

The Baha'i's have unique services in that they are simply the reading of prayers and selections by various members of the congregation. There is no special minister.

At the end of the service, everyone read or quoted a prayer of his choice, in hopes that the racial troubles in the United States come to peaceful ends.

There are 16 active members of the Baha'i Faith in the Baltimore Area. Dr. Eugene Byrd, chairman of the Local Spiritual Assembly of Baltimore's Baha'i's, said membership in the faith is increasing quickly, and although it is increasing in the United States, the rise is not as great here as it is in other countries.

International membership includes six million people or more, he estimated.

W. CLARENCE WHITE, principal of Walker County (Ala.) Training School, claiming most colored people like living in rat-infested slums: "They're satisfied. So you're not going to get them out. They're happy. This is their life and what they love."

Herndon-Fleming vows unite D.C.-N.C. couple

By AVIS F. WILKINS

SALISBURY, N.C. — Miss Jacquelyn Faye Fleming of Salisbury, N.C. and John L. Herndon III, of Washington, D.C., were married here at 3 p.m., Saturday, July 15, at First Calvary Baptist Church, by the pastor, the Rev. Theodore Walker, officiating in the double ring ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Fleming, Sr., of 723 West Fisher Street and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Herndon II, of Lincolnton.

The bride's brother, W. O. T. Fleming, was host for the reception afterwards at the church. Assisting were Miss Virginia Fleming, Mrs. Minnie Blakeney, Mrs. Mary Bradshaw, Mrs. Joyce Smyre, Mrs. Ellen Anderson, and Miss Ingrid Alexander. The bride's table was arranged in an H shape, with white lace table cloth, pink background, and two candles in silver holders. A three-tiered cake served as centerpiece with a floral arrangement of gladiolas, mums, and snap dragons at the intersection of the H-bar.

For her honeymoon trip to Montreal, Canada, the bride wore a pink A-line linen dress, pink hat, gloves, and a corsage of white carnations.

MRS. JOHN L. HERNDON III

The couple will live at 4900 Fort Totten Drive in Washington, D.C., after July 30.

MISS FLEMING is a graduate of Price Junior-Senior High School of Salisbury and of North Carolina College at Durham. She is secretary of the Nash County Teachers' Association and of the Nash County PTA. She is an English instructor in Nash County and advisor to her school's newspaper.

Aspirin Caution

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — ...a medical Association says candy-flavored aspirin tablets, marketed especially for children, should be handled with care.

Many parents mistakenly assume the drug is harmless, the association warns, and give their children an overdose. The result can be fatal.

Useful tips on fashion

Heels inch up slightly in all shoe categories from flat to medium heights for fall and winter. Toes are blunt and shaped to complement the wider toe. They are straight or curved, geometric and architectural — often in contrasting materials or colors.

• • •

Question? If heels are rising after they reached a low-down level, will hems which don't seem to go any higher start inching down? If so, it may lead to a new fashion forecasting technique — low heels, high hems; high heels, low hems.

If you don't know the difference between a midi and a mini at this point, go to the rear of the class. Midi describes what's coming down — hemlines of some coats and dresses seen in fall and winter collections of the nation's pace-setting designers. Mini is what's gone up — hemlines of other dresses.

• • •

Doublefaced fabrics are in the forefront for fall and winter. Gabardines and petit points remain big favorites and spongy, extra heavy crepes and jerseys look terrific. The battle between tweeds and flat finished fabrics ends in a draw, but the tweeds look newer, brightly colored and very flattened.

• • •

One way to outdo the Twiggy makeup look of lashes painted longer beneath the eyes —pencil them on heavy across the lid up to join the eyebrows. Some of the fashion models are doing this, for startling effect.

In jewelry, the gold rush is on. This golden metallic, in real or fake versions, shows in new, chunkier pins and earrings.

Town residents fete Congolese visitors

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. — "School Book" French and polite smiles were the order of the day at the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Hauser last Sunday when they and Attorney and Mrs. Richard Erwin entertained at a reception for three French-speaking Congolese women.

After an attempt by most arrivals at saying a brief greeting in French, communication between the Congolese women and community leaders in Winston-Salem picked up considerably through the efforts of Miss Sylvia A. Boone, interpreter for the group.

The foreign visitors, a part of a group of 16 Congolese women on a 10-week study tour of the United States, are spending a week in Winston-Salem studying the community's service organizations. Their trip to Winston-Salem is one of two trips that will take four-member teams of the women into eight American cities, a southern and a northern city, as part of a six-week course in Community Service they are taking at Connecticut College, New London, Connecticut.

Guests of honor at the reception were Mesdames Suzanne Mpoyo, Devine Bandoma and Victorine Mavanga of the Congo and Miss Sylvia A. Boone, a French-speaking New York City native, their instructor. Madame Godeliene Mutombo, one of the Congolese visitors, was not present at the reception.

MRS. HAUSER greeted the local guests upon arrival. Dr. Hauser presented each one to Miss Boone who in turn presented them to the Congolese visitors. Also in the receiving line were Attorney and Mrs. R. C. Erwin.

Refreshments were served by Miss Fay E. Hauser from a table decorated with a centerpiece of white snowdrift chrysanthemums, pink carnations and Baker fern. She was assisted by Mrs. W. O. Mayo and Mrs. L. Fleming.

Representatives of most of the service organizations in the community met and chatted with the visitors.

Among those present were President and Mrs. K. R. Williams of Winston-Salem State College, Dr. and Mrs. K. O. P. Goodwin, Attorney Anne and Harold Kennedy, Mrs. M. H. Xuma, who lived more than 20 years in South Africa and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gaines.

Also Lt. and Mrs. R. O. Black of the Fire Department, Mrs. J. A. Fountain, Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Gordon and their daughter Rhea, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. McClennon, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Ashley, Mrs. Chalmers Young and Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Nesby.

Also Mrs. Fred Crosen and her son Fred, Jr., Rev. and Mrs. C. Lloyd Lipsbomb, Mrs. A. H. McDaniels, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Hairston, Mrs S. L. Hamlin and Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Overbea.

Also Dr. and Mrs. Jerry Drayton, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hooper, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Martin, Mrs. S. S. Hilliard, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Hill and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Goore.

Out-of-town guests included Dr. and Mrs. S. E. Durante of Charlotte, Dr. D. F. Bailey and Miss Margaret Bailey of Chicago and Rev. Julius Emerson of Nigeria, Africa.

• • •

THE CONGOLESE women came to Winston-Salem last Saturday from Buffalo, New York where they had spent a week studying the community service organizations of that city. They returned to Connecticut College Saturday, July 29. Cities visited on other teams include Charlottesville, Virginia, Denver, Colorado, and Atlanta, Georgia.

While in Winston-Salem, the foreigners lived in local homes. Miss Boone and Madame Mpoyo lived with the Erwing and Madame Mavanga lived with the Hausers. The other two women lived with white families.

The women state that they are not happy with racial conditions here in America and report that they are especially grateful for the opportunity to live with colored families. They say that their experiences have been marvelous.

DR. AND MRS. ANTHONY EVANS WATKINS

Watkins-Manigault rites held at H.U.

WASHINGTON

Andrew Rankin Chapel on the campus of Howard University was the scene of the Saturday evening wedding of Miss Gladys Rosalind Manigault and Dr. Anthony Evans Watkins.

Father H. Albion Ferrell performed the double ring ceremony, and nuptial music was rendered by Thomas Kerr, organist.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Manigault of Georgetown, S.C., was given in marriage by her father.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Ruth Watkins and the late Dewey Watkins of Uledi, Pennsylvania.

• • •

THE BRIDE'S empire styled wedding gown was of egg-shell silk overlayed with English lace scalloped at the hem with small beads and lace applique. The back was accented by a detachable appliqued chapel length train. A two-tiered crown veil adorned her head. She carried a bouquet of white tuberbuds and stephanotis with ivy.

Mrs. Naomi Holmes, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore an empire styled floor length gown of yellow chiffon. The bridesmaids, Miss Eleanor Smalls and Mrs. Earlyne Manigault, wore gowns like that of the honor attendant. They carried bouquets of miniature daisies and baby's breath.

The mother of the bride selected for her wedding attire a street-length ensemble of champagne lace with pale green accessories. The groom's mother was attired in a street-length ensemble of green brocade with matching accessories. Both wore corsages of white orchids.

DR. GUY GIPSON was best man. Groomsmen were Attorney Clarence Dilday, Eugene Britt, David Broadnax, and Rufus Watkins, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Watkins is a cum laude graduate of the Howard University College of Fine Arts and a member of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority. She is now doing graduate study at the Catholic University in the District of Columbia.

Dr. Watkins is a graduate of Howard University College of Medicine and a member of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity. At present, he is a staff medical officer with the Public Health Service at Staten Island, New York.

Zetas support Liberian center

PETERSBURG, Va. Zeta Phi Beta Sorority is sponsoring a "Care Project" in Monrovia, Liberia.

Members of the sorority in the United States have been for some time devizing means of cooperating with sorority sisters who live and work in Africa.

Recently they received word from Liberian sorors, that President Tubman, has donated a building where the sorority might carry on its "Care Project." It is on the college campus in Monrovia.

MEMBERS OF Zeta Phi Beta in the United States have pledged the furnishings and equipment for a domestic science center.

Monrovia sorority members will co-direct and staff the center, according to the adult education division of the Liberian Department of Education.

The project will train unskilled young women and girls in domestic science, and give mothers health, nutrition and child care training.

Mildred C. Bradham, international grand basileus said in Jacksonville, Fla. "The stage is set. We must meet the challenge."

Mary Hurt of Baltimore, chairman of the African project, said: "I feel so proud to associate in this way with my sisters in Africa."

Dr. George speaks for Job Corps

Dr. Zelma George, executive director of the Cleveland Job Corps Center for Women, made a strong defense of the Job Corps before the House Labor and Education Committee, Monday. She urged continued Congressional support for the program, which is providing basic education and vocational training for young people who failed in their first chance to complete their schooling or to hold jobs.

In a 15-page statement, and in answers to questions by members of the committee, Dr. George emphasized that youth who are estranged from school, jobs and society are part of the same world movement of restless young people that created the Peace Corps. She called it "A Youth Culture."

The typical Job Corps enrollee has not accepted traditional ideas about work, education and society, but has worked out his own answers, she stated.

Following her committee appearance, Dr. George was given a reception at the Sheraton-Carlton Hotel.

Guests included Senator and Mrs. A. S. Monroney of Oklahoma, Rep. Frances P. Bolton, Rep. John Steed, and Rep. Michael A. Feighan of Ohio and Rep. James Smith of Oklahoma. Two former AKA presidents, Dr. Marjorie Parker and Dr. Dorothy Ferebee attended along with Joseph Kitty and Dr. Maurice Dawkins of the Office of Economic Opportunity.
