Dr. Rhetta absent; Feds holding yacht

Judge Anselm Sodaro issued a bench warrant Friday for Dr. Barnett Milton Rhetta when the local physician failed to appear in Criminal Court for arraignment on two charges of abortion.

According to Assistant States Attorney Al Herndon the notice has been placed on the Police Department teletype [illegible] to 48 of the 50 states.

He also stated Immigration Authorities in Washington are checking to see if a passport has been issued the 51-year-old physician since information received by the States Attorney's Office indicates he is not in the United States.

The States Attorney's Office of Investigation began collecting information on Dr. Rhetta's whereabouts when he failed to appear for arraignment Aug. 28.

Both the phone at the Baltimore Hilton St. office and the one at the Annapolis office, 328 First Ave., are reported disconnected.

MEANTIME, Federal authorities have placed his 80-foot yacht, "The Renard Bleue," he purchased from the Canadian government in 1965, under arrest.

According to records in Marshall Frank Udoff's office in Baltimore, a sum of more than $200,000 is owed the Annapolis ship building firm where "The Renard Bleue" is docked for rebuilding expenses.

Michael hits candidates on 'riot scares'

Lyle Gaither, production vice-president of the John Stumpy Ship Building Co. said the firm received the ocean-going vessel in November, 1965 to be completely rebuilt and furnished.

Originally built in England, the ship was purchased from the Canadian government as a used boat by Dr. Rhetta, Mr. Gaither stated.

THE OWNERS quarters forward is a spacious bedroom half the length of the ship with double berth, bathrooms, closets and locker arrangements, he stated.

This room and the captain's quarters and a guest state room have wall-to-wall carpeting and draperies. The top deck has a galley, deckhouse and pilot house.

Described as "very nice" the vessel also has extensive electronic equipment, radar, TV and ship-to-shore telephone according to contract.

No provisions for a hospital aboard were ordered, Mr. Gaither said.

"It is regrettable that some candidates have found it necessary to inject racism into the campaign. I urge all voters, regardless of their political affiliation, race, or religion, to reject racism as an issue and the candidates who make it one.

"It is understandable that all candidates seeking election want to win, but to do so by intimidating citizens with 'riot scares' is the height of irresponsibility."

Mrs. Emma Michael, candidate for City Council from the Fourth District and member of the Community Relations Commission, issued that pre - election condemnation Tuesday, two days before the Primary election.

She was referring to the increasing frequency of what she called "racism" being injected into the heated Democratic campaign.

'Shad' Brown accused in 2 indictments

A 34-year-old bondsman, Clarence Shad Brown Jr., 4800 block Laurel Ave., has been charged with assault and robbery and attempted rape by two young women Aug. 6 and Aug. 8.

Special presentments were made to the Grand Jury last week.

Mr. Brown was arrested Aug. 10 at Ensor and Forrest Sts. by Dets. Howard Corbin and Albert Bachman and charged at Northern Police Station.

Judge Henry W. Stichel Jr. presided at the hearing attended by Assistant States Attorney Moses Cohen and recorded by a court stenographer.

Milton Allen served as Mr. Brown's attorney.

The bondsman has been released on $2,500 bail in each case.

Dear Teacher: Johnny is ready for school

Dear Teachers: Baltimore public school children are tired of summer activities and are ready and eager to return to school when the doors open Sept. 11

That is the finding of an AFRO survey of children on street corners and at recreation centers in Northwest Baltimore on Friday.

Twelve of the youngsters interviewed volunteered, "I like school, and I can hardly wait to go back."

'Rainbow' gets five years for robbery of friend

Raymond Douglass (Rainbow) Gough, 24, 2700 block Riggs Ave., was found guilty of assault and robbery when he appeared in Criminal Court Friday.

Judge Myer Cardin imposed a term of seven years.

The victim of the April 23 1:15 a.m. robbery was Joseph Harris, 63, 400 block Cummings Court, whose arms and legs are amputated.

Mr. Harris said he was tied to his wheel chair while Gough, a friend of his took $179 in cash, a TV, $6 in coins, $8 in silver dollars and $8.50 in Kennedy half dollars.

"Rainbow" who denied the crime was apprehended May 29 by Det. Howard Corbin and Officers Vernon Barclay and John C. Lewandowski after extensive search.

THE PRELIMINARY hearing took place at Mr. Harris's home with the judge present there since he was unable to go to court.

Mr. Harris identified "Rainbow" from photographs and at the hearing as the man who tied him up. He told the court Friday his former friend had on a mask and at that time was wearing a mustache.

Rainbow said he had borrowed $15 from "Mr. Joe" and had every intention of returning it later.

He claimed he was at home and asleep at the time the crime was alleged to have taken place.

He told the court his mother, with whom he lives, could testify that he was at home but he did not want to upset her by asking her to come to the trial.

1,000 teachers gather today

Approximately 1,000 teachers and other staff members newly assigned to the Baltimore City Public School System are expected to participate in the fourteenth Annual Orientation Day to be held today (Tuesday) at the Eastern High School.

The program will start at 9 a.m. in the school auditorium.

Greetings will be extended to new staff members by Eli Frank Jr., president of the Board of School Commissioners, Dr. M. Thomas Goedeke, associate superintendent, Dr. Saul M. Perdue, assistant superintendent, and by Dr.

Somerset schools to integrate

The State Board of Education pledged last week that Somerset County's school system would be brought into line with Federal desegregation standards by September, 1968.

The system was cut off from Federal aid Aug. 16 for not complying with the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

DR. JAMES A. SENSENBAUGH, state school superintendent, said:

"Affirmative action will be taken to prepare and implement an acceptable plan of desegregation in Somerset County to take effect no later than September, 1968," and sooner, if practicable."

A county "free choice" desegregation plan, used for the past two years, has given Somerset the lowest school integration rate in Maryland, the board said.

Goedeke to run schools for now

Faced with the probability that Dr. Laurence G. Paquin, Superintendent of Public Instruction, will be unable to resume the performance of his duties for an indefinite period, Eli Frank, Jr., President of the Board of School Commissioners announced that Dr. M. Thomas Goedeke will serve as Associate Superintendent-in-Charge until Dr. Paquin can return to work.

Dr. Paquin's outstanding and forceful leadership of the Baltimore City Public Schools has been and will be surely missed," he said.

Dr. Goedeke is a product of the Baltimore City Public Schools.

He is a graduate of Maryland State Teachers College and has a Bachelor of

Agnew sending help for Cambridge homeless

Gov. Spiro T. Agnew announced last week that two of his key aides will be sent to Cambridge, Md., to find quarters for homeless persons and help solve the city's housing problem.

The governor's action came shortly after a half-hour meeting with a delegation from the Black Action Federation, a Cambridge colored citizens group.

The governor expressed anger over a report that one delegation member privately said more Cambridge violence would come, if the Federation's two page list of demands were not met.

"The young man," the governor said of the delegation member, "is not in possession of all the facts and apparently does not want to be. Just because one person says a situation is critical does not make it so."

THE AIDES going to Cambridge will be Dr. Gilbert Ware, special program executive for human relations, and Charles H. Bresler, the governor's national relations officer.

The men will check reports that at least 24 persons are still homeless, and will try to find permanent quarters for them, the governor said.

They will also assist the city in obtaining Federal housing funds which might go toward building housing projects or other measures.

The governor also announced he felt there was no need to investigate the role state police played in last month's rioting.

He questioned some legislators objections that state police were "held back until it was too late" to prevent rioting in Cambridge's second ward.

He added, "I think most members of the legislative council feel police handled themselves correctly."

Late hour settlement ends threat

"It was a long, long session. I am happy it's over. I know the teachers will be satisfied with the agreement. It was a historic occasion."

Dennis Crosby, president of Baltimore Teachers Union made those observations in an AFRO interview shortly after midnight Monday.

He was announcing the 11th-hour settlement between the union and the Department of Education which headed off a threatened strike.

"I am sure the teachers will accept it," Mr. Crosby said of the settlement. "I am going to recommend that they accept," he added.

Benefits for teachers which resulted in the agreement, Mr. Crosby said, included restoration of $500,000 in salaries previously cut from the Department of Education's budget.

Also, a dollar increase "across the board for night school teachers," he added, in addition to a $2 increase for home and hospital teachers.

"We also eliminated many non-teaching duties, including toilet and hall assignments for teachers," the president pointed out.

Perhaps the key benefit coming out of the bargaining sessions, Mr. Crosby said, was a Grievance Procedure with "binding arbitration with an award clause."

Nearly 194,000 Baltimore youngsters attended the first day of public school yesterday not knowing whether their return from summer vacation was going to last for two or 180 days.

The cloud of doubt hanging over the schools on the first day resulted from a breakdown in negotiations between the Baltimore Teachers Union and the school administration.

The union has scheduled a membership meeting for tonight (Tuesday) at which time teachers will vote on whether the resumed negotiations are going well enough for them to remain in school.

Captain to quit Army due to bias

By MIKE DAVIS
AFRO Correspondent

SAIGON — James A. Cotton, a U.S. Army captain and a native of Colorado, is no longer interested, in following a military career and will resign his commission in September.

"Basically," the 27-year-old officer commented, "the Army is a pretty good organization. I have seen a lot of discrimination during my four years in the service."

In a recent letter to a Colorado senator, Cotton suggested that a special board be established to hear complaints from colored servicemen.

"The colored soldier who has a complaint," Cotton said, "has no place to take it.

"If he takes it to an Army agency that will be the last will ever hear about the case.

"Many times during the last four years colored servicemen have come to me with complaints, and I couldn't tell them what to do.

"If an officer attempts to serve as spokesman for the enlisted men he will only hurt his career and cut down the chances for promotion.

"Most of the military career officers are southern whites and that is no help for the colored soldier."

* * *

COTTON SAID that discrimination is not practiced in the open, but is subtle and often underhanded.

He cited one personal experience in which a white officer attempted to get possession of a secret document that Cotton was responsible for.

Cotton said that he discovered the attempted theft and was able to return the document to the safe.

"But that was just an example," Cotton said, "of the way they tried to hurt me.

"On my efficiency report this officer wrote down that I had almost lost a secret document.

"But he was inspecting my company, and he asked me to leave the room and get a folder for him.

"If I didn't suspected what was going on my career would have been ruined."

Cotton said that he neither smokes or drinks and that many of the officers in his company have chided him about it.

"I was raised like that," he said, "but because I don't go to the clubs and drink with them, they have isolated me in other activities and have caused me to feel very much alone."

3 Council races hinge on new tally

By MAX JOHNSON

Three close City Council races in separate districts were being watched Monday as the Supervisors of Elections began an official tally of last Thursday's primary.

On the outcome of two of them could depend whether the new Council will be more liberal in make-up than the present one with its majority of conservatives.

The tight races are in the 2nd, 4th and 5th Districts.

In the 2nd District, the unofficial police tabulation gave Joseph V. Mach a slightly more than 40 majority for the third Democratic nominee spot over Walter S. Orlinsky.

Mr. Mach, a former state senator, campaigned on a white power appeal to members of his race in that district.

He ran with Councilman Clement J. Prucha, who won nomination on the same appeal.

Mr. Orlinsky, a member of the House of Delegates, is known as a liberal.

He ran with Robert L. Douglass, who is the first colored person to win a Democratic Council nomination in that district.

Should the Mach nomination stand, the district and its majority colored population would have two conservative Council nominees on the Democratic side with Mr. Douglass.

There the unofficial count gave Dr. Emerson R. Julian a 38-vote lead over Robert C. Marshall for the third Democratic nominee spot.

Dr. Julian ran under the banner of the Peoples Democratic Action Organization, a group headed by Sen. Clarence M. Mitchell 3rd.

Mr. Marshall, a Council aide and owner of a detective agency, had the backing of the 4th District Democratic Organization, of which Sen. Verda F. Welcome is an official.

Mother of 4 abandoned at street corner

JAMES N. KAUFMAN

Mrs. Adele Hicks, 41, a mother of five West Baltimore children who seems to have led a mysterious life — cut off from her family since her husband's death in 1963 — was found beaten to death early Monday.

Her body was so battered it took two close relatives to make a positive identification at the morgue, Western District police said.

Charged with homicide and held for a preliminary hearing Monday was Charles Gross, 47, a Philadelphia-born laborer.

It was in a first-floor rear apartment in the 900 block N. Fulton Ave. — where Mrs. Hicks had apparently found a "temporary" home — that the violent incident unfolded, police said.

Police found Mrs. Hicks' body about 1 a.m. on the northeast corner of Lafayette and N. Fulton Aves.

They were led to the bloodstained entranceway to the 900 block N. Fulton address, and to the blood-caked apartment, where Mrs. Hicks is believed to have been slain.

The big money winner was Miss Barbara Taylor, 1922 E. Madison St. who received $30 for coin No. 11,982. Miss Taylor, is a student.

Evers here to see LBJ

Washington (UPI)—Charles Evers, executive secretary of the Mississippi NAACP, flew to Washington Sunday night to tell President Johnson and Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark about voting irregularities in the recent state primary elections.

He admitted he did not have appointments to see the President or Clark, but said, "I'm here until I do see them."

Evers also laid wreaths in Arlington National Cemetery on the graves of his slain brother, Medgar Evers, a Mississippi Civil rights worker, and President John F. Kennedy.

Evers told newsmen at National Airport that colored people were not allowed to participate in the elections as bona fide recorders, tellers and observers.

"All the colored person could do was sit over in the corner and listen to what the 'white father' said" Evers said, "The white people elected who they wanted."

He said all colored candidates had lost their jobs, as had their wives and children.

Evers said he planned to ask Johnson and Clark "and many more officials who are allowing the irregularities to continue" why little is being done in this country " and all that money is being shipped to Vietnam so they can have free elections there.

"I don't see why the Department of Agriculture lets food rot in all the warehouses and doesn't send any to Mississippi," he said.

Evers went in a motorcade to Arlington and then to Washington for a rally.

'All's quiet' in Brooklyn

The Brooklyn Projects family which was the target of Ku Klux Klan demonstrations for most of last week reported yesterday that "everything is pretty quiet now."

On Wednesday night after three nights of harassment, police arrested 14 persons and broke up a cheering crowd of some 350 people.

After the action, Mrs. Shirley Rivers, of the 800 block Glade Ct., the first family to integrate the project, breathed a sigh of relief for herself and four children.

It has been quiet since.

Mrs. Rivers said her 15-year-old daughter attended the first day of school Monday without incident.

THE HEAD of the family, Frank Rivers, had bail of $3,600 set for him in Southern Municipal Court Saturday morning.

Mr. Rivers had been charged with stabbing a white youth in an incident outside his home Sept. 1.

Mr. Rivers, represented by attorney Fred Weisgal, waived his right to a preliminary hearing, and Judge Howard Aaron ordered the case to the Grand Jury.

Cop kills youth during disturbance

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (UPI)—A youth was shot to death early Monday during a disturbance by more than 150 men just eight blocks from where black power advocate H. Rap Brown spoke to a crowd a few hours earlier.

A policeman was stabbed in the arm while he watched one of half a dozen fires started by firebombs tossed by the crowd late Sunday night and early Monday. They also broke store windows and at least one store was reported looted.

Police said Roosevelt Young, 18, was shot to death by a policeman as he fled an attempted arrest about five blocks from the center of the disturbance on the south side of the downtown district.

"We don't know whether Young was involved in any of the incidents early in the evening," said police Capt. Charles Calais. "He was in a stolen car with three other youths." Calais said the other three youths denied being involved in the disturbance.

The youth was shot about midnight while swarms of policemen were on the scene of the disturbance, trying to put it down.

Every available East St. Louis policeman was rushed to the scene of the disturbance on the south side of the downtown district, and aided by 40 county policemen and 30 state troopers, quelled the four-hour flareup by 2 a.m. CDT Monday.

About 100 youths were taken from the melee to the police station. Police said 15 were charged with violations ranging from concealed weapons to disorderly conduct.

The disturbances broke out about four hours after Brown left town following his afternoon speech at Lincoln High School where he told an "America has no use for overflow crowd of 1,000 black people."

Assistant Police Chief Raymond Bischoff said of Brown's visit, "If he wasn't here, it probably wouldn't have happened."

BEFORE BROWN could make his speech in the school, a scuffle broke out near the stage and an estimated 200 persons swarmed toward the exits. Police escorted two men from the auditorium.

Brown told the crowd, "The very people who say I am teaching hate are reacting to a truism. That's because they know I'm speaking the truth."

He said, "In four years there will be a curfew and every black man will have to be inside by 9 o'clock." The speaker invited here by the Congress for Racial Equality, said the United States already has 15 concentration camps awaiting and "It's

Clergymen plan to picket P.E. convention hotels

A special call for colored Episcopal clergymen to gather at the church convention in Seattle was issued over the weekend.

The emergency meeting was called after the Seattle Urban League revealed discriminatory hiring practices of hotels where delegates will be housed.

Father Donald O. Wilson, rector of Baltimore's St. James Church, told his Sunday morning congregation he would join other colored clergymen at the meeting.

He indicated that the ministers may be forced to walk picket lines in front of the hotels.

Seattle hotels, he explained, will make millions from the church convention, but colored employees at these hotels are confined to menial jobs and denied promotions.

"The church must give some leadership if changes are to be made . . . where blatant injustice exists, we must take over action," Father Wilson said.

Police halt angry whites

MILWAUKEE (UPI) —Police broke up a march of about 150 white persons headed for the city's colored area Monday in the newest furor caused by open housing demonstrations which began two weeks ago.

The whites, angered by earlier police tear gassing, were repelled with more tear gas and billy clubs.

Both whites and non-whites said they would rally and march again tonight as political forces sought some compromise on open housing legislation.

Mayor Henry Maier has proposed a county-wide open housing ordinance despite a city attorney's opinion at the common council would be powerless to act on it because of a state law. Alderman Robert Dwyer said he would seek council approval Tuesday for a real estate clearing house where non-whites may learn of owners who will sell or
