Southern Masons hear Clark in 27th triennial session

WASHINGTON — The 27th Triennial Session, 33rd Degree, United Supreme Council, A.A.S.R.F.M., Southern Jurisdiction, U.S.A. (Prince Hall Masonic affiliation) opened here Monday and closed Tuesday at the Shoreham Hotel.

Dr. John G. Lewis Jr. of Baton Rouge, La., sovereign over the business session and realistic work, assisted by Attorney Amos T. Hall of Tulsa, Okla., lieutenant grand commander, and Leland D. French of Cleveland, Ohio, sovereign grand commander of the Northern Jurisdiction, who headed a delegation from his area.

Highlights of the opening session on Monday were the allocution by the sovereign grand commander; the conferring of the thirty-third degree on some 86 candidates who composed the class of '67, and the annuil cathedral fund banquet, which was addressed by the Honorable Ramsey Clark, attorney general, U.S.A., as the featured speaker.

• • •

JUSTICE THURGOOD MARSHALL and Dr. John W. Davis, a member of the class of '67 and the recipient of the "Scottish Rite Man of the Year Award" which was presented by Dr. Charles H. Wesley, Washington, D.C., grand prior, also spoke.

Developing his address on "Civil Rights in the 20th Century — Where We Are and Where We Need to Go," the attorney general noted that the trend has been a shift of focus from urban living.

"More than 100 percent of the population increase between 1950-1960 went to the city. Urbanization is a fundamental fact of our time. The colored pattern has been movement from the country to central city, and it is estimated that some 2 million non-whites have left the South," he said.

According to Clark this country can be proud of its record in civil rights during the past 15 years. "We have written more and done more than in any other time in history in the areas of education, equal job opportunities, public accommodations and voter registration through an orderly process of the law, but we still have miles to go before we can sleep," he declared.

In his annual report to the Rite, Dr. Lewis gave a resume of the Order's housing program, and stressed the obligation that members have in the development of better human relations and understanding in their respective communities.

"In Dallas, Tex., we have one project in full operation and we are expecting to start a rent supplement project soon at Port Arthur and a 221(d) 3 project in Fort Worth, which will bring to slightly 4 million dollars the value of these projects in Texas alone" he said.

The grand commander announced that similar projects are being developed in Knoxville, Tenn., and Spartanburg, S.C., while others are being considered in Birmingham and Montgomery, Ala., Frankfort, Ky., Oakland, Calif., and Gainesville, Fla.

SHIFTING HIS REMARKS to civil rights the sovereign grand commander said that the non-white is no longer satisfied to wait and suffer in a righteous cause, and will extend himself to achieve his full liberty and equality as promised by this country's constitution.

Giving his attention to and opinion of "black power," Dr. Lewis referred to it as "a reaction to what some activists in the civil rights movement regard as the failure of the integrationist ideal as an effective means for achieving "equality" for the American of color at this particular period in the American historical process."

He predicted that "when all the fog has been cleared and all the hysteria reduced, black power will be recognized for what it is, only another phase in the age-old, time-honored quest for a society in which liberty, equality, and fraternity comes closer to being a reality than a mere dream."

• • •

THE 86 MEMBERS of the class of '67, elevated to the 33rd degree, chose Dr. John W. Davis as president; Aubrey E. Ballard, Washington, D.C., vice-president; Dr. Joseph H. Earle, Sr., Washington, D.C., treasurer; Robert Lee Marshall, Tuskegee, Ala., secretary, and O. B. Johnson, Shreveport, La., director of public relations.

As a gift, the class presented to Dr. Lewis a check for $1000 as a donation to the Cathedral Fund.

Luck with Candidate Atkins; draws top ballot position

By HAROLD L. VAUGHAN

BOSTON — Candidates for the November 7 municipal elections marched into the Boston City Council chambers the other morning to draw lots for "ballot position." In the drawing among the 18 nominees for City Council, Boston NAACP Vice-President Thomas I. Atkins, drew first position.

Atkins, the first non-white nominated in the history of Boston's 18 year experience with Plan A, city Council Charter was elated over the drawing. Traditionally, first spot on the lineup of candidates on Boston's voting machines usually accounts for 10 percent more votes to the lucky candidate to be so positioned. Luck seems to be riding high with Atkins, in this, his first try in elective politics and the only unanswered question is, will the voters keep his luck going on November 7th.

• • •

IN THE mayoralty contest Secretary of State Kevin White prevailed in the drawing over his opponent, School Committeewoman Louise Day Hicks. A newcomer to politics, Paul A. Dever, drew the lead-off spot among the ten candidates for the five spots in the School Committee race.

The entire political scene is expected to break out in a wild fever of oratory and campaigning now that the World Series is over. It remains to be seen whether the series hurt the lesser-known candidates who had been unable to get any public attention while competing for it with the Boston Red Sox.

THE RECENTLY held conference of colored legislators in Chicago was very short on news, and from a reliable source it has been learned that little was accomplished other than setting the stage for an organization of some type of permanent group.

Former Bostonian "Dick Newhouse played host to several of the legislators from the eastern seaboard. Dick is New State Senator Newhouse of Illinois. Way is it that our local boys have to leave town before they can make good?

On the legislative front, Representative Hobart Brown of the Legislative Committee on Federal Financial Assistance, reported that in the first seven months of this year, Massachusetts cities and towns received more than $50 million in federal funds. Brown, who is Democrat favored in seeing to it that this state gets its proper share of the grant-in-aid pie.

Gregory predicts trouble unless America changes

By ALBERT WASHINGTON

WARREN, Mich. — "If the American people don't have enough sense to let fresh air in by 1970, they are going to participate in the biggest barbeque you ever saw."

This was the prediction comedian and presidential candidate Dick Gregory made recently as speaker at the opening of a lecture series in Macomb County Community College in Warren, a Detroit suburb.

The 35-year-old civil rights activist said: "America will be destroyed from within in three years, unless it eliminates its racial double standards.

"This nation's ghettos can be compared to greasy rags that have been thrown in a closet and locked away," Gregory said.

• • •

MR. GREGORY'S talk followed an announcement that he will be a presidential candidate on an independent peace platform in 1968.

He told a receptive audience of 250 students that America's top problem today is its refusal to accept colored people as equals.

Mass racial attitudes change, colored Amgricans will solve their dilemma the same way American colonists solved their problem of oppressors, Gregory said.

LBJ asked to stop Avco plant job bias

By JAMES E. SHANKEL

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. — "Work conditions are so bad among 1,000 colored employes at Avco Corporation's Lycoming division in Stratford that potential riot conditions prevail."

Acting through its president, the Rev. Charles R. Gordon, the Bridgeport Stratford Chapter of NAACP forwarded a formal complaint to President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Charging plant officials with long-continued "whitewash" and buck-passing of legitimate complaints, the AME Zion clergyman requested the President to suspend "all forthcoming government contracts" with the Stratford firm "until a full and thorough investigation is launched by federal agencies."

Lycoming employs about 9,500 workers of which 1,000 are colored. The Rev. Mr. Gordon noted, in his letter, that the firm's largest products is jet engines — The greater part of which are constructed under government contract.

• • •

AVCO-LYCOMING officials disputed the accusations. They charged the civil rights leader with distorting the facts.

In levelling the series of complaints directly to nation's chief executive, the 36-year-old NAACP leader further contended discrimination in hiring and firing and discipline seems to run rampant in most divisions of the local industry. The Rev. Mr. Gordon described the operation as "a haven for white bigots."

Paul A. Deegan, administrative vice-president at Lycoming said Rev. Gordon's charges are "sensational generalities." He offered several statements in rebuttal. Since December, 1966 he said, non-whites hired at Avco-Lycoming have accounted for more than 20 percent of our increased employment.

During the past two years Mr. Deegan stated, more than 30 percent of those persons enrolled in and completing our training programs are non-white.

THE REV. MR. GORDON said that since 1962 complaints have been passed on to the U.S. Air Force and other federal agencies. Pleas by colored employees "have resulted only in white-wash jobs by industry officials, etc.," he said.

In addition, the minister-civil rights leader charged colored employees are more covered by disciplinary infractions than white employees.

He said colored female workers at the plant complain "they are constantly harassed" and that some who have taken maternity leaves were replaced by white female workers."

Fired La. teachers cite racism, politics

PORT ALLEN, LA. Members of the Greater Baton Rouge Improvement Association say it was racial peternalism and politics that caused dismissal of two colored teachers from jobs at Cohn Junior-Senior High School and demotion and transfer of a third.

Dismissed were Charlie Granger on charges of disobeying a direct order of the principal and Ernest Allen on an incompetency complaint.

Demoted and transferred to Lukeville Elementary School was O. R. Patterson.

CHARLIE B. GRANGER

THE TROUBLE began in April of this year when the all-white school board appointed J. W. Vaughn to be principal of whom over the organized and expressed opposition of parents and students.

On Sept 8 the entire student body boycotted classes and demonstrated on school ground. The Improvement Association says Vaughn ordered all to leave the grounds or go into classes. The students left.

All the charges against the disciplined teachers are alleged to have occurred on Sept 8.

While the events were taking place at the school, all three teachers, plus nine others, became candidates for political office.

GRANGER IS running for sheriff of West Baton Rouge Parishes and Allen and Patterson are running for police jurors.

The 10-member executive committee of the Association says it will give its whole hearted support to the three teacher ceeh tinehi members both to win the elections and to recover their jobs.

Charles Gaston, with his wife Lilie, spent a few days with his sister, Mrs. Inez Davidson of Cornish Place in Atlanta, on their way back from New Port, Rhode Island, where Lt. Gaston was stationed at Naval Training Center.

The Gastons resumed their journey back to Long Beach, Calif. where his base headquarters is.

Also visiting with Mrs. Davidson was Mrs. Annie Lee Williams of Boston, Mass. Addition al house guest at the time were Mr. and Mrs. John H. Gaston of Dalton, Ga.
