Golden attacks rights groups' current course

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — Publisher Harry Golden warned an estimated 20,000 people at a United College Fund Banquet Thursday of dangers today in the civil rights movement because of changes in direction by members of its group.

The nationally known Golden, who edits the Carolina Israelite, was the featured speaker at a fund raising dinner sponsored by the Tuskegee Institute Chapter of the Fund.

He called for immediate moves in a new direction if the civil rights movement objectives are to be met. The publisher recently withdrew his support from the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee because of the organization's militant moves.

Golden related that education is the only chance that people today have in gaining success and called the United College Fund, "a wonderful thing because it aids many students in getting an education. Education is the key to he drive for equality for colored people as it was for the Irishrman, the Jew and the Italian."

A major political bloc was called for by Golden because of the political system in America. "Southern whites are the greatest bloc voters in America," cited the speaker. He noted how whites have used the political bloc to limit the push for equality." Political alliance holds the key to the future," he said.

IN AN informal discussion following the banquet Golden declared that non-violence is the only effective method to get justice.

When asked why Israel did not take that position during recently conflicts with the Arabs he said, "you can't practice non-violence in time of war." He called for patience and wisdom to end all suffering.

Congress told how tan pupils were whipped

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress was told this week that Boston school teachers were advised to soak their thin bamboo whips in water overnight to make them more painful when they beat their pupils.

Jonathan Kozol, a white teacher in a Boston ghetto, described how white teachers there beat the pupils with rattan sticks, and said the whippings planted in the minds of the pupils the seeds for future violence.

He testified before a senate subcommittee considering legislation to prevent, treat and control juvenile delinquency through federal grants to local communities.

• • •

"MANY PEOPLE who live in other cities do not know that children still are beaten with a thin bamboo whip in the cellars and cloakrooms of the Boston schools, and sometimes for no greater offense than failing to show respect to the very teachers who . . . have called them Niggers," he said.

He told the subcommittee about a whipping administered to a 60-pound orphan by "a couple of wildly angry white teachers."

"I noticed that one of the teachers was virtually gleaming with a kind of excitement over what was about to happen," Kozol said. "There was a kind of punitive energy about him and certainly the expression on his face conveyed anything but distaste for the whipping he was giving."

To improve conditions, Kozol called for a federal banner memorial punishment, better teacher preparation and busing of slum children to suburban schools.

WISCONSIN Atty. Gen. Bronson C. LaFollette told the subcommittee that juvenile delinquency is not confined to the slums. He recalled a riot at the summer resortof lake Geneva, Wis., July 4, staged by the children of Middle and upper-class families.

Subcommittee Chairman Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., blamed press coverage of "a few exhibitionists" for the reputation attributed to many juveniles.

"An exhibitionist gets into trouble with the law and it's a front page story. But when The AP and UPI seem to gloat on it."

Clark said the press coverage of the weekend antiwar violence here "was wicked." He said the press "discredited the sincere demonstration by honest young people and played up the violence of a few kooks."
