Mrs. Beatrice Conway, retired teacher, feted

Her 37 years as "an outstanding" teacher in Wicomico County, Md., won plaudits from associates and friends of Mrs. Beatrice G. Conway recently.

She was feted by three different groups, the National Sorority of Phi Delta Kappa, Beta Tau Chapter, her school, West Salisbury Elementary; and the Parent Teacher Association.

In addition to Salisbury Elementary, where she taught for 15 years, Mrs. Conway also taught at New Town, North Quantico, Cedar Lane at Fruitland, Salisbury Elementary and West Salisbury.

SHE HAS been outstanding in religious and civic activities as well.

For several years, she served as treasurer for the Women's Society of Christian Service of John Wesley Methodist Church in Salisbury.

She held the same position for the same organization of the Salisbury District.

She was Vice President of the same organization of the Delaware Conference.

She attends the Wesley Temple Church of Salisbury, where she has served as a Church School teacher and sang with the senior choir.

MRS. BEATRICE CONWAY

MRS. CONWAY is also a charter member of National Sorority of Phi Delta Kappa, Beta Tau Chapter of Salisbury, Maryland.

This sorority took the initial steps to purchase land and raise seed money to begin the erection of the Wicomico Nursing Home, in Salisbury.

Mrs. Conway, a native of Quantico, Md., is the daughter of Mr. William Gayle and the late Theresa Douglas Gayle.

She has four brothers and a sister in New York City and Jamacia, Long Island.

She was educated at Bowie, Hampton and Temple University.

Pips on commercials

ATLANTA, Ga. — Two top singing groups have been added to the long list of young talent performing commercials for Coca-Cola.

New radio tapes for summer release include the versatile quintet "The Fifth Dimension" and recording stars Gladys Knight and The Pips.".

The quintet has created a "new dimension" in sound. Their recording of "Up, Up and Away" has won five "Grammy Awards." They are in demand for personal appearances in clubs and as guest stars on television.

GLADYS NIGHT and the Pips have scored in popular music with their million seller recording of "Every Beat of My Heart."

Dr. Byrd tells AVC of involvement need

Dr. Eugene D. Byrd, national chairman of the American Veterans Committee, recently delivered his annual report to the 120th Anniversary Convention of the AVC.

Dr. Byrd is a native Baltimorean and children's dentist.

He was an army captain in World War II.

Dr. Byrd is a graduate of Morgan State College and Howard University School of Dentistry. He also studied at the Guggenheim Dental Clinic in New York.

The AVC Convention was held at the Hotel Brickman, South Fallsburk, N.Y.

In his report Dr. Byrd told his fellow veterans of the many actions they had taken since the last convention.

He spoke of the work they had done in regrad to rights for all servicemen.

* * *

HE SAID that AVC attacked segregated National Guard units, and urged new policies to stimulate minority recruitment.

The AVC supported protective consumer legislation and the abolishment of the death penalty, according to Dr. Byrd.

The national chairman said the "AVC must continue to help to fulfill broken promises and give new life to those who have lost hope and in deep despair."

DR. EUGENE D. BYRD

Dr. Byrd said that the AVC has taken many historic actions, but they have often been quiet and behind the scenes so that the veterans role has often not been known.

"What it all points up so conclusively is AVC's role as the liberal veterans voice, how much it has done, and how much more it needs to do.

"AVC is alive, potent and vigorous—and still sorely needed," concluded Dr. Byrd.

Chi suburban schools ordered to desegregate

CHICAGO (UPI) — A suburban school district, target of the first school desegregation suit filed in the North by the Department of Justice, Monday was ordered to stop discriminating on the basis of race or color.

After a 10-day hearing, U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman issued a preliminary order enjoining the South Holland School District No. 151 from discriminating in the operation of the district and in the assignment of teachers or students to its six schools.

Included with the order was a plan stating how the desegregation is to be accomplished by the Fall term.

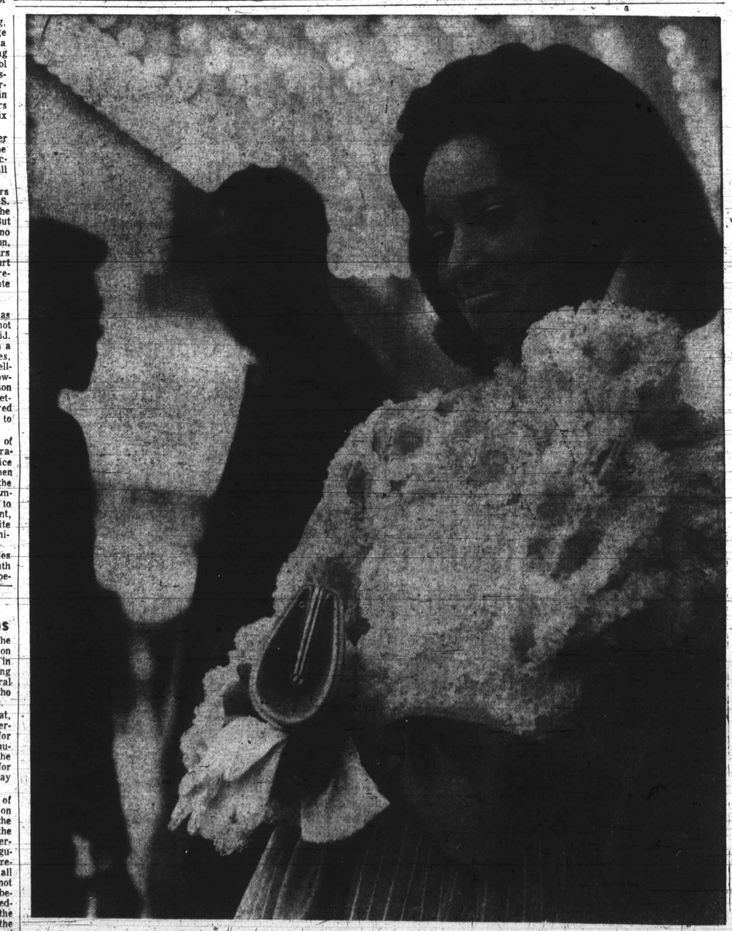
Hoffman noted 14 years have passed since the U.S. Supreme Court ruled, the doctrine of "Separate But Equal Education" has no place in public education, and more than 13 years have passed since the court ordered schools to desegregate "with all deliberate speed."

* * *

"TOO OFTEN there has been deliberation, but not speed," Hofman said. "There has not even been a beginning in some cases, despite increasing and well-documented evidence showing that racial segregation in the schools has been detrimental to the colored child, the white child and to the United States.

"The white opponents of pupil and faculty integration are doing a disservice to their own children when they deprive them of the opportunity to know members of another race and to be saved from the ignorant, arrogant belief that a white skin is proof of preeminence."

The district includes parts of suburban South Holland, Harvey and Phoenix. Of the six elementary schools in its jurisdiction, two of them are almost 100 percent colored, according to the school board. The district is 70 percent white.



CSC changes pay regulations

WASHINGTON — The Civil Service Commission has approved a change in its regulations governing differential pay for general schedule employees who perform hazardous duties.

The change provides that, when an employee performs a hazardous duty for which a differential is authorized, he will be paid the hazard pay differential for all hours served in a pay status on that day.

Previously, payment of the differential depended on when during the day the employee performed the hazardous duty. If he performed it during his regularly scheduled tour he received hazard pay for all hours in that tour but not for any additional hours beyond those regularly scheduled. If he performed the hazardous duty during the additional tour, he received the differential only for those hours but not for his regular tour.

DEAR JOE: DON'T DO ANY MORE FAVORS

By SAM LACY

Mr. Joe Cronin, president of the American League, Fenway Park, Boston, Mass. . . . Dear Joe: Please don't do us any more favors . . . That act of appointing a colored man to the league's public relations staff the other day, would have been nice if it hadn't been insulting. You see, Joe, it isn't nice to presume that people are stupid, and that seems to be what you're doing as far as colored fans are concerned . . . The fellow you chose for the job, Jesse Owens, represents colored America only by complexion.

You can't convince me, Joe, that Jesse wasn't handicaped by you, mainly because he's been running about the country preaching the status quo for members of his race . . . Otherwise, why Owens, a track has-been for the past 32 years who probably has never been closer to a baseball than one of those fools you used to hit into the stands when you visited Cleveland as the Senators shortstop in the thirties? . . . Is a fellow like Monte Irvin too outspoken or ambitious? . . . or Joe Black. . . . or Larry Doby . . . or Brooks Lawrence . . . or George Crowe — all former major league ball players?

And what about Roy Campanella? . . . Who in the world, black, white, red or yellow, could do a better job of selling your dying business than the crippled former Dodger great? . . . But maybe Campy disqualified himself recently, when he became vocal in the civil rights movement.

Going nowhere

Anyway, Joe, it seems to me that it's more than mere coincidence that the two men you picked in desegregating previously all-white baseball areas are alike in their thinking . . . Both Owens and our first colored umpire, Emmett Ashford, openly worship at the altar of obeisance to the white thumb.

I'm quite fond of Owens . . . We've known each other for years, and I can't emphasize too much my regard for him as a friend . . . But to me, he's like the minister whose personality I admire and whose sermon I abhor . . . Jesse and Emmett are both nice fellows . . . They're horse-and-buggy, high-button shoes nice . . . They're the kind who don't believe in rocking the boat . . . They could sit in a rowboat in the middle of the Atlantic and never sink . . . but they wouldn't go anywhere, either.

Old hat, but

As probably everyone who reads sports must know by now, a national magazine is running a five-part series titled "The Black Athlete —A Shameful Story" . . . The first two chapters have been published, and, as expected, they have caused repercussions throughout the world of athletics . . . To one who has been familiar with the continuing battle against racism, the subject matter is old hat, but the writer, Jack Olsen, should be commended for the amount of time he put into the task of giving it authenticity — via first person quotes, etc . . . But in many other quarters, there is shock and disbelief that the colored athlete is acceptable on an overwhelming majority of college campuses only so long as he can carry a football for long distances, run over a distance of ground quickly, constantly, or shoot baskets in gobs between November and March . . . and that he can do all those things, yet be ostracized socially.

As I noted earlier, there have been widespread repercussions to the series . . . Two typical reactions belong to a sports columnist and a TV commentator who operate in what is generally recognized as "AFRO territory" . . . My interest in what they had to say stems from the fact that, in small measure, I fit their moulds . . . I do a little of both.

Right . . . to a point

The columnist, questioning the legitimacy of the colored athlete's beef, points out that large numbers of them are in professional sports and making good money. . . . He reverts to the old argument that much of the colored man's problem is a result of his unwillingness to do something for himself — like getting an education and becoming qualified for decent jobs . . . He further refutes the claim of forced deprivation with the evidence that five of the eight baseball players in the $100,000 salary class are colored.

The fellow's right to a point . . . What he and his partners in criticism don't realize, however, is that until recently — and in some areas even today — there has been "education" on the one hand and "colored education" on the other . . . and there was no resemblance between the two . . . Most of my colleagues and associates were educated by colored teachers who had been taught by colored teachers who were the product of colored teachers in colored schools.

I belong to the fortunate few who; by chance, chose a field in which measurable progress was possible . . . only, however, because jim-crow attitudes dictated the need for a newspaper that could keep the public informed about the worthwhile contributions being made by colored people . . . things that either were smothered in the daily press by reports of crime and filth, or ignored completely.

What the columnist further overlooks is that education had nothing to do with the high plateau attained by those $100,000 athletes he used as examples . . . Three of the five were high school dropouts.

Innocene, thou art

The commentator, on the other hand, said part of the blame for ghetto unrest belongs to the successful colored athlete himself . . . He refuses to lend his influence to the underprivileged neighborhood that spawned him, because he rarely goes back to serve as an example . . . apparently, he's not aware that for a number of years, many of these men — and at least one woman — were forbidden by their white employers to become even remotely involved in civil rights or community relations activity. . . . Until lately, the topline colored athlete acquiesced because he feared reprisal . . . like loss of the job, transfer, (trade) or some other form of punishment which would appear normal on the surface.

The columnist here was born to money and married money . . . In a relative sense, his household represents a Rockefeller-Vanderbilt situation . . . The baseball commentator, who is in his early twenties, was raised in an exclusive environment to which his family moved to escape the inner-city ghetto . . . He was educated in private schools and had his future carved for him by a father who was a Pulitzer prize-winning newspaperman.

It's not surprising, therefore, that these two men don't comprehend this facet of Americana . . . The more surprising is that they seem to think they do . . . Innocence, thou art a jewel.

Former pro joins NCC grid staff

DURHAM, N.C. —Robert H. (Stonewall) Jackson, a former linebacker for the New York Football Giants professional football team, has been named assistant coach at North Carolina College.

Jackson played fullback for the North Carolina A and T College football team in the late forties. He has been coaching since 1953.

* * *

HE HAS BEEN head coach at Johnson C. Smith University and Shaw University. He held assistant coaching positions at St. Augustine's College and at Texas Southern University. He joined the Texas Southern staff in 1965 and has been there since.

In addition, Jackson worked for the District of Columbia Recreation Department while a pro football player, and has worked during the summers since 1959 as recreation director at Warwick State School for Boys, Warwick, N.Y.

He will hold the academic rank of instructor at NCC. He has the Master of Physical Education degree from Springfield College, Springfield, Mass.

Grid Browns torn by racial friction

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Defensive halfback Ross Fichtner, embroiled in a racial dispute with colored players on the Cleveland Browns, says he thinks his career here is over.

Fichtner says he does not see how he can continue on the Browns.

Fichtner and offensive guard John Wooten, exchanged words last week after colored athletes were barred from a celebrity golf tournament promoted by Fichtner.

* * *

SHORTLY after the dispute broke out Fichtner was called into the office of Brown owner Art Modell where he met with Modell, coach Blanton Collier and general manager Harold Sauerbrei. Modell, obviously shocked by the dispute, refused to comment publicly and Fichtner would not say what happened.

"The damage is done as far as the Browns are concerned. They're really upset about the whole thing.

"Both my career and John's are in jeopardy. If all the colored boys on the team feel the way John does about this thing, then I don't see how I can continue playing here," he said.

* * *

THE DISPUTE arose over a tournament held at the Ashland Country Club, at which colored athletes, present in the past, were not invited. Fichtner defended the club's action by saying the players went off by themselves last year and refused to socialize. Wooten said it was purely racial.

"They (the colored players) along with some other whites, have been cutting their own throats for the past three years by not socializing. This is an invitational affair and they were among those not invited," said Fichtner.

"If I had any idea of racial repercussions coming out of this, I never would have been involved with the tournament."

* * *

WOOTEN SAID he was not going to talk to Fichtner about it.

"I'd like to know what this is if it isn't racial," Wooten said. He said it would not affect his play, however.

Other Browns also said the affair would not bother their play although defensive lineman Walter Johnson said, "The togetherness won't be there."

Pro cagers play for King fund

NEW YORK (UPI) Plans to stage a professional basketball All-Star game in memory of slain civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King have been completed.

The sports tribute to Dr. King was announced by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, New York Mayor John V. Lindsay and Oscar Robertson, star of the Cincinnati Royals, and president of the National Basketball Association Players Association.

* * *

AT A NEWS conference at City Hall, Lindsay and Robertson said the All-Star game involving 30 NBA stars will take place Aug. 15 at Singer Bowl in Flushing, N.Y.

Proceeds from the game will go to the conference and the Mayor commission on Youth and Physical Fitness.

Robertson said the game is an outgrowth of the players' deep feeling that "something must be done to honor the memory of Dr. King."

* * *

THE GAME will feature the first all-pro squad against the second all-pro unit, selected in star balloting at the close of last season. All athletes will pay their own expenses.

Robertson and Jerry Lucas of the Cincinnati Royals, Wilt Camberlain of the 76ers, Dave Bing of the Detroit Pistons and Elgin Baylor of the Los Angles Lakers will be on the first squad.

Jerry West of the Lakers, Hal Greer of the 76ers, Bill Russell and John Havlicek of the Boston Celtics and Reed are along the players on the second squad.

OSCAR ROBERTSON

Wilt could make Lakers game's most awesome 5

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — West to Baylor to Chamberlain?

How about Baylor to Chamberlain to West?

Would you believe Chamberlain to West to Baylor?

If the above combinations don't suit you, they may prove more than opponents of the Los Angeles Lakers can handle next season in the National Basketball Association.

The Lakers, already possessors of two of the NBA's top stars in Elgin Baylor and Jerry West, could find themselves with the deadliest scoring trio in basketball history if a report circulated Friday night proves true.

* * *

THE REPORT which drew "no comments" from officials of either the Lakers or the Philadelphia 76ers, had the Quaker City club trading the 7-foot-1 Chamberlain, the only player in NBA history to score more than 25,000 points, to the Lakers in exchange for Darrall Imhoff, Archie Clark, Jerry Chambers and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Such a report has been making the rounds the past month and drew repeated denials from both teams.

Friday night, however, Laker officials could not be reached and Jack Ramsay, the general manager of the 76ers, when asked about the trade, would say only, "We have made no statement and we have no comment to make on that."

* * *

IN ADDITION to his becoming the league's all-time scoring leader in his nine seasons in the NBA, Chamberlain, the only man to score 100 points in a single game, has been named to the All-Star squads and the All-League teams every year.

He entered the NBA as a member of the old Philadelphia Warriors after playing with the Harlem Globetrotters and moved with the Warriors to San Francisco when the franchise was transferred to the Bay City in 1962. The Warriors traded him to the 76ers in 1964.

* * *

LAST SEASON, Chamberlain averaged 24.3 points a game, preferring to play the role of playmaker, and the 76ers were eliminated from the post-season playoffs by the Boston Celtics, who went on to capture the championship from the Lakers, who won the Western Division playoff title behind Baylor and West.

During the regular campaign, Baylor averaged 26 points a game while West led the West Coast club in scoring with a per-game average of 26.3.

* * *

DESPITE HIS obvious talents and his crowd-drawing appeal, Chamberlain reportedly has been at odds with 76ers owner Irv Kosloff over terms for a new contract and the selection of a new coach.

Chamberlain, supposedly, asked for a $1 million pact in Philly, over three years and a voice in who would coach the team.

Gibson, Marichal, etc., OK but Tribe is for Tiant

By FRED DOWN

The Cleveland Indians figure St. Louis can have its Bob Gibson, Los Angeles its Don Drysdale and San Francisco its Juan Marichal.

They'll string along with Luis Tiant.

A 27-year-old right-hander from Havana, Cuba, Tiant scored his seventh shutout of the season and lowered his earned run average to 1.11 Wednesday night when he struck out 10 batters in a 1-0, 10-inning victory over the Minnesota Twins. Tiant's strikeout total was two short of the major league extra-inning game record set by Tom Cheney of Washington in 1962.

Tiant may now be regarded as a threat to two American League records that have been on the books more than 50 years. He is six shutouts short of Jack Coombs' season mark of 13 set in 1910, and his Era compares with H. B. (Dutch) Leonard's 1.01 Al record established in 1914.

Tiant, who has struck out 150 batters and yielded only 18 earned runs in 146 innings, struck out 16 in the first nine innings Wedesday night enroute to his 13th victory against five losses. He struck out every batter in the Minnesota lineup and Rich Rollins in the 10th. He fanned the side in the 10th after the Twins had runners on first and third.

LUIS TIANT

The Indians scored the only run of the game off Jim Merritt in the 10th when Lou Johnson beat out an infield out, went to second on shortstop Cesar Tovar's throwing error and tallied on Joe Azcue's single.

"It was the best game I've ever thrown in my life," said Tiant. "I felt good all the way and felt strong after nine innings.

French swifty beats Smith

PARIS — France's swift colored cinder star, Roger Bambuck beat favored American track star Ronnie Smith, co-holder of the world's 100-meter record, in the 100-meters event Thursday night at an international track meet at Charlety Stadium.

Bambuck was ahead by a few inches at the finish despite both he and Smith, who ran the 100 meters in Sacramento, Calif., in 9.9 seconds last month, being clocked in 10.1 seconds.

Smith made the best start and led for the first 80 yards until Bambuck passed him at the 90-meter mark to surge ahead.

* * *

TWO OF Smith's teammates — Russ Rogers and Lee Evans — enjoyed better fates.

In the 400-meter hurdles, Rogers was first in 51 seconds. France's Andre Prenet was second with 52.7.

In the 400 meters, Evans won the event in 47.3, ahead of J. C. Nallet of France at 47.6. Spain's Gabernet was third in 48.7.

AFL Buffalo Bills sign Ben Gregory

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Ben Gregory, an outside running back for the University of Nebraska, has signed a contract with the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League.

The six-foot, 215-pound Gregory was a two-way player for the Cornhuskers in his junior year, playing outside linebacker, as well. He gained 418 yards on 93 carries for a 4.4 yard average. He also caught 12 passes for 121 yards and one touchdown that year.

Ellis-Patterson a Swedish first

STOCKHOLM — Jimmy Ellis, World Boxing Association heavyweight champion, will make his first title defense against ex-world champion Floyd Patterson in here september 14.

The 15-round bout will be staged at the 55,000 capacity outdoor Raasunda Stadium.

Sports Action, represented by Hal Conrad and Mike Malitz, will promote the fight together with Swedish promotor Edwin Ahlqvist and Swedish businessman Per Olof Ahl.

The match will be transmitted in live television via satellites to the United States, Mexico and Japan. The British Broadcasting Company (BBC) will handle the European broadcast, and the American Broadcasting Company (ABC) will telecast it in the United States.

* * *

THE BOUT will be the first heavyweight title fight ever staged in Sweden.

Ingemar Johansson, the only Swede ever to hold the title, won it from Patterson in 1959 and then lost it back without ever defending his title in Sweden.

Patterson, the only man ever to regain the title after losing it, will be making his third attempt to regain the crown since losing it for the second time to Sonny Liston in 1962.

The 33-year-old ex-champ's last bout was on Oct. 28, 1967, when he lost a controversial 12-round decision to Jerry Quarry in the WBA elimination tournament.

* * *

ELLIS, who won the title April 27 by outpointing Quarry, was expected to meet Joe Frazier, the heavyweight champion in five states, in his next bout, but negotiations apparently fell through.

The bout will be the first in Sweden for Ellis, who holds a 27-6 record as compared to 46-8-1 for Patterson.

Trio accepts Colts' terms

BALTIMORE — The Colts Sunday announced the signing of fullback Tony Lorick, pass receiver Jimmy Orr and defensive back Preston Pearson for the 1968 season.

Lorick begins his fifth year with the Colts after an outstanding career at Arizone State. The 6-2, 217-pounder rushed for 436 yards and scored six touchdowns last year.

A shoulder injury knocked Orr out of the lineup in the opening game of 1967 after he had hauled in a 56-yard touchdown catch and he didn't catch another pass all season. The ten-year NFL veteran has compiled more than 6,500 yards on 336 catches and scored 56 touchdowns.

* * *

PEARSON was one of the Colts' most pleasant surprises from last year's rookie crop.

Although he was a basketball starter and did not play football at Illinois, Pearson displayed enough ability and aggressiveness to be activated by the Hosses for the last half of the 1967 season, being used primarily on the special teams.

The 6-1, 190-pounder from Freeport, Ill., also has offensive possibilities and may get a trial as a running back during training camp, which opens July 14 at Westminster.

Griffith injury halts Philly bout

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Emile Griffith's groin injury will cause a second postponement of his scheduled 12-rounder here with Gypsy Joe Harris.

A new date for the match, originally scheduled for July 8, and then pushed back to July 15, will be set after Frank Wildman, chairman of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission, meets with all the principals involved here Tuesday.

Griffith sustained the injures in a victorious bout with Andy Heiman in Oakland, Calif. early last month.
