Edgewood Arsenal gives 300 youngsters a job

EDGEWOOD ARSENAL, Md. — Top Edgewood Arsenal officials have extended a formal welcome to 330 youngsters employed at the Arsenal under the Youth Opportunity Employment program.

Colonel Paul R. Cerar, commanding officer, presented his greetings and cautioned the group, "Don't be too proud to ask for help, either in your job or with other problems."

Colonel Cerar was preceded by William Foland, chief of the Civilian Personnel Office, who outlined procedures and regulations governing summer employees.

Additional speakers were Joseph F. Voeglein Jr., of the Safety Office and Arthur E. Pfister, of the Security Office.

* * *

THE GROUP — representing four local high schools—were shown two movies, one outlining the mission of Edgewood Arsenal and another urging them to make the "extra step" in performance of their duties.

Of the 330 youngsters, 100 are employed as office or science assistants.

John Welsh and Pat Goles, both teachers at John Carroll High School, have been hired to work with the program for the summer as full-time counselors.

Young Demos urge gun ban

A resolution favoring control over mail-order gun traffic and urging gun registration was adopted by the state executive assembly of the Young Democratic Clubs in Maryland last week.

The assembly, representing 2,000 young politicians, adopted the resolution at a meeting at the Rose Hill Manor.

The resolutions urges support of strong gun legislation "in the name of President John F. Kennedy, Senator Robert F. Kennedy, Dr. Martin Luther King, the 6,500 others killed annually and in the name of a more civilized and less violent United States society."

The political group is working with the Emergency Committee for Gun Control headed by John Glenn.

The Young Democrats also announced that they will start a campaign to secure 5,000 signatures on a petition calling on Congress to pass the controversial gun legislation now under consideration.

The Resolution includes three points regarding ban on mail order sales to individuals, registration of all firearms on a Federal and state level, and gun purchases requiring identification and a waiting period for a police check of the purchaser.

Youth Center teenagers given fashion hints

By CAROLYN K. ERWIN

Are you bothered by oily skin? A teaspoon of salt blended with a little vaseline makes an excellent cleanser for those clogged up pores.

Excessively oily hair giving you the "blues"? Cheer up? A little vinegar in the rinse water after you shampoo cuts down on the oiliness and takes care of tangles too.

Fed up with make-up that fails in 100 degree heat? Try doing as high fashion models do, "set your make-up." Run a cotton swab saturated with cold water over your face, dry, apply make-up and have a ball.

These were just a sampling of some of the "beauty hints" Linda Posner, fashion director of the Montgomery Ward, Charm School, shared with a group of 22 young ladies from the Neighborhood youth center who assembled last Friday at the Madison Ave. YWCA for the 4th in a series of teenage leadership programs sponsored by the Community Action Agency and Clairol Inc.

In Friday's program entitled, "What to Wear, When and How," Mrs. Posner demonstrated practical economical, and necessary beauty hints for the fashion conscience miss.

Good posture is also a must, according to Mrs. Posner.

"A girl's posture is her beauty line.

"No matter what she wears she only looks as good as her posture," she noted.

Fashions dominated the second half of the program as Mrs. Posner exhibited the "new raw leather" look shirts, skirts and suits for Fall.

The programs in this series entitled, "Best Foot Forward" are designed to improve the overall appearance and develop leadership qualities in young women.

Programs remaining in the current series are: "After School, What," "Your Figure and You," and "Communicate of Disconnect."

City Solicitor George L. Russell, Jr. will address students of the Henry Highland Garnet Elementary School on Thursday.

The city's chief legal officer will speak to the youngsters at the auditorium of the Douglass Memorial Church at Madison and Lafayette at 9 a.m.

The School, at Division and Lanvale Streets, has been inviting public figures to address its students according to Mrs. Margaret Gassaway.

On August 6th Roger Nisley, City Editor of the Baltimore AFRO will speak to the group about newspapers.

Demo platform meetings here

The Maryland delegation to the Democratic convention in Chicago in August has arranged for five regional meetings for the public to express their recommendations for the 1968 Democratic platform.

Public officials, citizens, and civic groups are invited to attend the five open meetings to be held around the state at the end of July.

The second meeting scheduled will be for the Baltimore area and will take place on July 24 at the States Roads Commission Auditorium, 300 W. Preston St., from 6:30 to 11:00 p.m.

Democratic party officials have asked that recommendations for the platform stand be submitted in writing to the delegates that will attend the meeting.

Teenager's condition satisfactory

The 14-year-old youth whose shooting triggered a near-riot in the 200 block N. Calvert, Charles and St. Paul St. late Sunday, is reported in satisfactory condition.

On Monday, the AFRO talked with the youngster's father, Ervin Meeks.

He stated, "I was shocked when the people called me. I couldn't believe it.

"He told me he was going to a party."

Police reported that officer Paul Boone has been suspended from his duties until further investigation is made of the shooting.

* * *

THE POLICE report states that the police responded to a call from the 2000 block of North Charles St. at 12 A.M. July 15 for breaking and entering in a restaurant.

The investigating officers stated that they observed two men coming out of the rear basement door of the restaurant.

One produced a gun and began shooting at the officer of the police department. The officer said that he shouted for them to "Halt" and fired two shots in the air from his revolver.

According to the police report they kept running and the officer fired another shot.

The officer reported that when he reached the end of the alley he heard one cry out, "Help mother, Help mother, I've been shot."

The officer stated that he was bleeding from his back and chest.

A 14-year-old seventh grader was taken to Maryland General Hospital. The hospital stated that his medical condition has stabilized and he is n satisfactory condition.

The police stated that they have no information as to the identity of the other person involved in the offense.

Police report the investigation is still underway.

Mr. Mitchell will speak on major campaign issues and the "Wallace Danger" for the State of Maryland.

Attorney Joseph Howard who is running for the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City and Attorney Archie Williams who is a candidate for judge—People's Court, will also address the meeting.

Social Security missed you? Pilot Project seeks to help

"Operation: Social Security Alert," a pilot project involving the use of youngsters to seek people missing out on social security benefits, began here in Baltimore this week, Deputy Commissioner Arthur E. Hess announced today.

The Deputy Commissioner, noted that more than 300 summer employees and 50 counselors hired under the Youth Opportunity Campaign, are involved in such projects in 34 cities throughout the country.

Ten youngsters will be participating in Operation: Social Security Alert in an East Baltimore area.

* * *

THE YOUTH Opportunity Campaign, started in 1965 by President Johnson, seeks to provide meaningful jobs for 16-21-year-olds in government and private industry in order to enable them to remain in school.

Social security is hiring more than 1,250 youths under the program this summer. Some 465 will be working in the Baltimore headquarters, Hess noted that other of the summer employees were working in jobs ranging from clerical to apprentice trainees.

He said that the East Baltimore site for the pilot project was selected in conjunction with the Community Action Agency.

The 20-block area is bounded on the west by Broadway, east by Chester, north by Preston, and South by Eager Street, and will be extended southeasterly if completed within a 6 week period.

The area includes some 4,400 families, predominantly colored, whose average income ranges from $2,500 to $5,000.

For each additional 4-block area, there is expected to be a population of 1,300.

* * *

THE YOUNGSTERS, under the supervision of social security personnel, will go from door-to-door, asking questions to see if members of the household are entitled to social security benefits, and providing social security information.

They will be working with specially prepared questionnaries and leaflets.

Hess noted that one goal of the project is to determine to what extent disadvantaged people are missing out on social security benefits because of lack of information about the program, and to test the effectiveness of using young indigenous people as communicators.

He said that the task force would be especially concerned with people over 60, but they will also be looking for young people who may be entitled to social security benefits because of the loss of one or both parents, or the disability of a parent.

* * *

"EXPERIENCE HAS taught us that people under 60 tend to think of social security only in terms of retirement and thus are most likely to miss out on social secdrity disability and survivors benefits," he said.

He noted that the 1967 amendments made a number of improvements in social security which make it easier for younger people to get social security benefits as survivors and disabled workers.

That the interviews will be on the alert to find those who may have been turned down in past, but eligible for benefits under the new Law.

Brewster scores civil disorder

Senator Daniel B. Brewster advocated strong measures against civil insurrection in a speech to a convention of Disabled American Veterans in Ocean City over the weekend.

"We will not tolerate the rioter, the looter, the arsonist, in this land, and when trouble occurs, we must act swiftly and with a firm hand," the Maryland Democrat said in his speech Saturday.

Senator Brewster expressed "shock" and said he had been "deeply saddened by "internal disorder."

"Widespread rioting has cost us much in lives, property and hope," the Senator said.

"We must also act swiftly to help the victims of riots, be they colored or white. I pledge you my continued efforts to alleviate the hardship that riots have brought to many American families," the Maryland Senator said in his speech.

MRS. CAROLE VAN NAME, a resident of Jamaica Plain, Mass., was recently elected treasurer of the Jamaica Plain Community Leadership Center, the Boston Inner-City Citizenship Education Project.

Mrs. Van Name is treasurer of the Jamaica Plain Area Planning Action Council, Inc., an OEO-funded neighborhood action organization, and assistant director of Consumer Economic Development.

She was formerly a resident of Rochester, New York and is the mother of three children.

In ensuing months, the National Committee will plan new inner-city projects and schedule a series of meetings and activities to enhance ongoing programs in the cities.

Youth Corps participant is honored

ROCKVILLE, Md. — The Citizen's Committee on Youth, sponsor of the Cincinnati, Ohio Neighborhood Youth Corps, has presented a certificate of appreciation to Dr. Jerry F. Stara, Chief of the National Center for Radiological Health's Radionuclide Toxicology Laboratory and members of the Cincinnati facility staff.

The certificate was awarded for "outstanding" participation in a youth employment program.

Since inception of the program, more than 40 young people have been trained in the Center laboratory, many have completed high school at night, and the majority now hold jobs. Youth Corps officials from many parts of the country have visited the laboratory now regarded as a program demonstration site.

* * *

THE LETTER of commendation to Dr. Stara from Lawrence Turner, Project Director of the Youth Corps, said that "the extra effort put forth in assisting enrollees to secure permanent employment, both with your agency and throughout the community, exemplifies a concern these young adults and support of what we are attempting to demonstrate."

The trainees assisted in the laboratory's research efforts and in maintenance of its animal colony.

The Youth Corps Program, inaugurated three years ago to train Neighborhood Youth enrollees, is a Department of Labor project.

MISS GERALD WALDON, left, of Cincinnati, Ohio, an enrollee in the Neighborhood Youth Corps, sponsored by the Citizen's Committee on Youth, is trained in laboratory producured by biologist, Mrs. Helen Ball, also of Cincinnati, in the National Center for Dariological Health's Radionuclide Toxicology Laboratory in that city. Youth corps officials from many parts of the country have visited the laboratory, now regarded as a program demonstration site.

Mrs. Dorothy Height, president of the National Council of Negro Women, will receive the Elijah P. Lovejoy Award, the highest recognition given by the Improved, Benevolent, Protective Order of Elks of the World.

The award, which will be presented during the IBPOEW's national convention in New York City's Hilton Hotel Aug. 24-30, is given annually to the individual who the Elks believe has made an outstanding contribution in the field of human services, irrespective of race.

Hobson Reynolds, grand exalted ruler of the fraternal organization, stated the award was made, "in keeping with the spirit shown by Lovejoy who braved the wrath of the bigots of his day, to take a stand for human dignity, despite loss of his business and his place in the community. It was difficult in Lovejoy's day to stand for justice for all men, and it is getting to be just as difficult for persons to take such a stand today.

* * *

"WE BELIEVE Mrs. Height is one of those who has shown a willingness to assume her responsibility in this field," he said.

This is the second award Mrs. Height has received from the organization. In 1930 she received a four-year scholarship as a result of her efforts in the national oratorical contest sponsored by the Elks, on the subject, "The Negro and the Constitution."

An outstanding personality in the field of social work Mrs. Height is also director of the office of integration for Young Women's Christian Association of the USA and has served and continues to serve many boards of national reknown —most noteably the President's Advisory Council on the Status of Women.

Other previous winners of the Lovejoy award have included Ralph Bunche, under secretary of the United Nations; Thurgood Marshall, Supreme Court Justice; Marian Anderson, former Metropolitan opera star, the late Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.; and Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass.

North Carolinians, Frensie and Mary Logan are presently visiting with their family and friends in Greensboro and Farmville after completing a successful tour of "duty" in Uganda where Mr. Logan was cultural Affairs Officer with the U.S. Information Agency. Mrs. Logan is the former Mary Whitfield of Farmville.

Upon their departure from Uganda the couple were feted at a party given by Minister of Defense, Felix Onama, and Mrs. Logan was entertained at a tea given by the wife of the President, Mrs. Milton Obati.

"It was a wonderful tour!" Mr. Logan said enthusiastically. "Perfect climate, friendly people."

While in Uganda, Mr. Logan, a member of the Society of Southern Historians and the author of "The Negro in North Carolina from 1876 to 1894" was able to pursue his history interest.

He established a Chair of American History at Makerere University, and also founded the annual Omerion History Workshop. As Cultural Affairs Officer, his work was principally with educators, students, libraries and artistic groups. He has high praise for Makerere University which has graduated many modern African leaders, including Presidents Kenyatta of Kenya, Nyerere of Tanzania and Obati of Uganda.

Through his enjoyment of golf Mr. Logan said he was able to meet many able Ugandan leaders including the Minister of Commerce and the head of Uganda Television. He was one of seven golfers chosen to compete in the East Africa Tournament.

* * *

THE LOGAN'S daughter, Denise, 13, was elected "head girl" of her student council at the British International School, the first American to have that honor, and Mrs. Logan scored some "firsts" for herself.

She was the first American to serve on the executive boards of the Kampala YWCA, the University Women's Club and the Uganda Council of Women.

The Logan's are looking forward to their next post in Lusaka, Zambia.

AMONG THOSE seen at the Link's 16th general Assembly held last month in Oakland, Calif. were:

Minnie Spaulding of Durham, N.C., quiet and demure and beautifully articulate in sessions — ever so chic for the social festivities.

The astute Vivian Carter Mason of Norfolk, Va., world traveler, lecturer and civic leader who challenged the thinking of all women present with an analysis of the social crises of our era.

VIVIAN AND Joe Sanom from Raleigh, N.C., who kept their Assembly attendance record intact. Connecting Link Sanom is a director of the Mechanics and Farmers Bank in Raleigh.

Pearl Pennington of Baltimore who evoked many compliments with her charming style and was last seen copying the shade of lipstick worn by one of the baby Links.

Katie Green from Philadelphia also kept her attendance record perfect. Dr. Green accompanied her on his trip and made brighter the sparkle in her eyes.

LINK — Bennie McCledon of Atlanta, former national vice president, was greeted warmly by Links who had missed her at recent Assemblies. Link Madam C. D. Milton of the Atlantic Insurance clan was very much in evidence.

Following the assembly many Links departed for vacations.

Minnie Freeman of Washington, D.C. and Martha Wheeler of Raleigh, N.C. went to try their luck at Las Vegas, Nev.

The E. D. Alstons of Louisville; the Alonzo Fannins and the Nathaniel Colstons of Miami; the H. C. Thompsons of Baton Rouge, the W. K. Allens of Columbus, Ohio; the Kenneth Jones, the R. E. Hints for Homemakers

INEZ KAISER

Times have changed, and so have laundry detergents. They change in many ways. Sometimes it's the size of the granules, the appearance of the package or the ingredients which provide the cleaning power. Well, both Concentrated and Fluffy "all" have changed in all three ways.

Thanks to the addition of bleach, borax and brighteners, Concentrated and Fluffy "all" have been made better than ever. Both of these popular low-suds detergents now feature speckled granules — blue, green and yellow — on a white base for added cleaning power.

These "three B's" make a big difference in the way your laundry looks. The bleach and borax help lift out the difficult dirt and stains while the brighteners splash on the "dazzle."

A cleaner wash is assured because "all" now removes many difficult stains previously almost impossible to remove — stains from such things as blueberries, meat gravy, grass and oil, all familiar summed "danger marks" on your clothes.

Now try new improved Concentrated and Fluffy "all," "all" is changed, and with its new "2-B" formula — it's a change for the better.

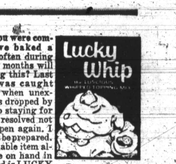
"If I knew you were coming, I'd have baked a cake." How often during the next few months will you be saying this? Last summer I was caught many times when unexpected guests dropped by and ended up staying for a meal. So I resolved not to let it happen again. I would always be prepared.

One invaluable item always to have on hand in your cupboard is LUCKY WHIP DESSERT TOPPING MIX. LUCKY WHIP, a powdered mix made fresh just by adding milk, it has an authentically creamy taste and freshness, and it holds its peaks wonderfully well.

You save in two ways, because LUCKY WHIP costs much less and has half the calories of real whipped cream. Try this LUCKY shortcake when unexpected guests arrive!

Buy or bake a one-layer cake. Cut it in half. Put fresh or canned berries home and on top of the layers. Top with LUCKY WHIP. For a special touch, add a few drops of almond flavor.

Now is the time to stock up on LUCKY WHIP DESSERT TOPPING MIX. Don't be caught when friends drop by; you'll have it made with LUCKY WHIP!



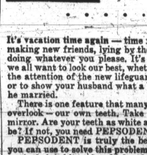
It's vacation time again — time for traveling, making new friends, lying by the pool or just doing whatever you please. It's a time when we all want to look our best, whether to attract the attention of the new lifeguard at the pool or to show your husband what a beautiful girl he married.

There is one feature that many of us tend to overlook — our own teeth. Take a look in the mirror. Are your teeth as white as they should be? If not, you need PEPSODENT.

PEPSODENT is truly the best toothpaste you can use to solve this problem. It gets your teeth their whitest just by brushing regularly after meals, removing many ugly stains.

PEPSODENT whitens your teeth so well because it contains zirconium silicate, a special brightening agent. It has a pleasant taste which leaves your mouth feeling really fresh.

PEPSODENT now comes in a new super size, too, which offers real economy for bargain-conscious homemakers. Join the swing this summer to PEPSODENT and get your teeth whiter and brighter than ever before!



Summertime is shower time — and what could be more stimulating than a cool, relaxing shower on a hot day with a bar of LIFEBUOY? We have made this a daily habit at my house, and I'd like to share some helpful hints with you.

LIFEBUOY now has a refreshing mint fragrance that makes every shower especially enjoyable and appeals to every member of the family.

It is important to remember that LIFEBUOY is a deodorant bar. All of us know how vitally important it is to be free of unpleasant body odors. Well, with LIFEBUOY on hand, this is no problem.

LIFEBUOY comes in coral, green and white bars — colors that appeal to Mom, Dad and all the kids. I find that the kids, along with Mom, usually want to use the coral bar, but Dad sticks to that cool shade of green.

But, whatever your color choice, my big hint to you this month is to take advantage of the opportunity to get the effect you would expect from the use of many personal items simply by using LIFEBUOY ... with mint.
