Dr. Alma Flagg wins honors

By GLADYS P. GRAHAM

NEWARK, N.J. — Dr. Alma Williams Flagg, Newark's First Lady of Education, continues onward and upward breaking precedents on the basis of sheer merit and performance of excellence.

She has contributed almost three decades of service to youth. She has been cited as an educator and for her contributions as a poetress of scope, and is now rounding out her silver anniversary as a member of the Newark School System.

Dr. Flagg has come up through the ranks to the high post in the school system of Assistant Superintendent in Charge of Curriculum with the Board of Education where her record is without parallel. On occasion she has also served on the Board of Examiners of Newark Board of Education.

• • •

DUAL HONORS came to Dr. Flagg when she received from one of her alma maters, Newark State Teachers College, the Doctor of Literature honoris causa for her long and distinguished contributions to the field of education and related arts in the Garden State.

She has earned degrees including her doctorate from Newark State College, Montclair State College and Columbia University with post-doctoral work at other schools.

• • •

DEEMED POET Laureate of the Year by Las Amigos, Dr. Flagg was hailed for her poems dedicated to the late Dr Martin Luther King and Senator Robert Francis Kennedy "Three Centuries New Jersey" in salute to the 300th Anniversary of New Jersey and "To A Departed Teacher" a tribute to Grace Baxter Fenderson, among other works.

The honoree has been writing poetry since the age of seven.

She has contributed widely to professional journals and has done much in remedial reading for the youth. Bringing to her aid in-service courses in Spanish in order to work effectively with the large number of Puerto Rican children enrolled in Newark.

• • •

FROM A highly religious family Dr. Flagg is a long time and active member of the Weequahic Presbyterian Church. She has been a clerk of the Session, choir singer, Sunday School teacher and guidance chairman and is an ordained ruling elder in the Presbyterian Church.

Her memberships include Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Kappa Delta Pi National Honor Society in Education, and Newark State College Alumni Association. She is well known all over the Eastern Seaboard where she has been guest lecturer and speaker, and accorded citations and awards.

In private life Dr. Flagg is the mother of teenage children and the wife of another educator, Dr. J. Thomas Flagg who has his own scholarly record.

She is listed in "Who's Who in the East" "Montclair Proudly Presents" and the "Dictionary of International Biography."

CAPT. AND MRS. VINCENT N. RICE

Miss Phelps bride of Captain Rice

DETROIT, Mich. — Relatives and friends came from Michigan, Mississippi, Illinois and North Carolina recently to attend the Nuptial Mass in St. Theresa's Chapel here uniting Miss Bernadine Monica Phelps and Capt. Vincent Nathaniel Rice.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred David Minor of Vicksburg, Miss. The groom's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Waverlyn Nathaniel Rice, Jr., of Greensboro, N.C.

Vows in the double ring ceremony were recited within the Mass according to the liturgy of matrimony of the now "Mass of Marriage" missalette. The Rev. Michael J. O'Hara officiated and Charles Williams of Detroit provided the wedding music. Assisting in the sanctuary as lector was Philip Augustine Rice, younger brother of the groom.

• • •

THE BRIDE wore a white short straight-line dress fashioned of silk linen, covered by a lace embroidered shoulder cape. Her full white net veil fell from a white flower headpiece. She carried an orchid mounted on a white prayer book.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her grandfather, James Robinson.

Mrs. Thomasine Phelps Walker of Chicago, Ill., sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Mr. Thomas J. Rice of Greensboro, N.C. — brother of the groom, was best man.

• • •

AFTER THE Nuptial Mass a wedding luncheon was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Jones — aunt and uncle of the bride.

Luncheon guests were Mrs. Alfred David Minor, mother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Waverlyn Nathaniel Rice, parents of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. James Robinson; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Walker and Philip Rice.

Also, Turner Rice; Mrs. Cathy Williams, Miss Roberta Bell, Miss Christine Holley, Miss Barbara Shaver, and Mrs. Phyllis Fergus.

Members of the wedding party were guests at a rehearsal the evening before the wedding given by the groom at a Chinese restaurant.

• • •

POST-WEDDING courtesies extended to the couple included a dinner party given by Mrs. Lester Bennett of Detroit: the hospitality of their home by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hudson of Brooklyn, N.Y., aunt and uncle of the groom; dinner invitations from Mr. and Mrs. William Bunch of New York City; and Mrs. Helen Holley of Brooklyn; and a luncheon invitation from Mr. and Mrs. George Jordan and Richard Jordan of Greensboro.

The couple made brief visits in Vicksburg, Mississippi, with the bride's parents, and in Greensboro, with the parents of the groom; and then flew to Seville, Spain where they are now residing.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Albuquerque, New Mexico. The groom was graduated from A. and T. State University.

George Washington took command of the American Army on July 3, 1775, in Cambridge, Mass.

MRS. JOHN T. CALDWELL

Carol Jean Wilson now Mrs. Caldwell

LYNCHBURG, Va. — Friends and relatives from 15 states and 22 cities attended the recent wedding of Miss Carol Jean Wilson, daughter of Mrs. Anice Chance Wilson, and John Thomas Caldwell, son of Mrs. Hudson Caldwell, of Shreveport, La., and the late Mr. Caldwell.

The double ring ceremony was performed at Saint John's Episcopal Church here, with the Rev. John Spong, rector, officiating. He was assisted by the Rev. Matthew A. Jones, cousin of the bride, and rector, Saint Luke's Episcopal Church, Knoxville, Tenn.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Atty. William C. Chance Jr. of New York City. She wore a gown of silk organza over taffeta fashioned in an A line Empire silhouette, with a bateau neckline and short sleeves, and featuring a chapel train, motifs of Chantilly lace etched in sequins enhanced the neckline, front skirt and train.

Her bouffant veil of imported illusion was attached to a cluster of organza petals and re-embroidered lace etched in seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with white orchids and showered with tiny clusters of gypsophelia.

• • •

MAID OF honor was Miss Forrestine Eubanks of St. Louis, Mo., who wore a slipper length sleeveless dress of aqua linete fashioned along princess lines with high tier over collar outlined with matching linen lace.

The bridesmaids, were: Dominique des agnes, New York City; Thelma Coleman, Anniston, Ala., Charlene Humphrey, Chicago and Annie Taylor, Philadelphia. Their gowns were the same as the maid of honor except in pink, and they wore matching veiled Dior bowed headpieces.

Flower girls were Julia Ann Chance of Baltimore, Md. and Angela Yvete Chance of Fredericksburg, Va., both cousins of the bride. Donnel Jackson of Lynchburg was the ring bearer.

• • •

BEST MAN WAS Joseph Ziama of Monrovia, Liberia. Ushers were: Wilbur Chance, uncle of the bride from Fredericksburg, Va., Ron Croux of Amsterdam, the Netherlands; J. Shelby Guss, uncle of the bride of Bowling Green, Va., and Cartha Hunter, Lynchburg, Va.

Robert C. Wesley Jr., Ronald Wesley, and Muriel Thornhill III served as honorary escorts for the bridal party upon their arrival at the church.

Prior to the ceremony a prelude of nuptial music was played by Dr. Norman Blake, Assistant Organist. Marshal Jones, cousin of the bride and concert tenor, was the soloist.

FOLLOWING the ceremony a reception was held at the Church Parish Hall. Mrs. Ann Wesley directed guests to the reception hall. Dr. Clarissa Wimbush presented the guests at the receiving line.

Other hostesses were Mesdames: Dorothy Cotman, Drusilla Moultrie, Bee Bee Holden, Laverne Smith, Virginia Hughes, Robert Stickley, Edward Chance, Wilbur Chance and Shelby Guss.

Misses Linda Holden, Louise Pearson, Ernestine Peerman and Mrs. Barbara McCoy.

Presiding at the punch bowls were Mrs. Irene Mitchell, Mrs. Ethel Chambers, Misses Sarah Brown, Evanda Jefferson, Ethel Walker.

Hosts were: Wilbur Chance, Edward Chance, Warren Chance, Dr. Robert Johnson, Shelby Guss, Dr. Howard Cameron, and Cartha Hunter.

Mrs. Yvonne Ferguson and Mrs. Leo Wood served as wedding directors.

OUT OF STATE guests came from North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, District of Columbia, Louisiana, Maryland, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana, New Jersey, Tennessee, Wisconsin, Missouri and Delaware.

Mrs. Caldwell, a graduate of Dunbar High School, is a senior at Valparaiso University, Valparaiso, Ind. She will complete requirements for the B.S. degree this summer, and is presently a first year law student at Valparaiso University School of Law.

She served as president of her freshman class, a member of the faculty student cabinet, a junior counselor, and was a semi-finalist for the Miss Valparaiso University Contest. She is also active in the Afro-American Student Organization. This summer she is the choreographer for the Wellman Summer Repertory Theater, sponsored by Holiday Inns, Inc. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wilson, Lancaster, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Chance, Parmiele, N.C.

Mr. Caldwell graduated valedictorian from Notre Dame Catholic High School, Shreveport, La. He is a senior honor engineering student at Valparaiso Technical Institute, where he is vice president of the student council, and also vice president of the Afro-American Student Organization of Valpo Tech and Valparaiso University. He formerly served a tour of duty with the Ormed Forces in California and Germany. He is presently employed at the Gary Indiana Steel Corporation.

After a wedding trip to the Wisconsin Dells, the couple will be at home at the faculty apartments, Valparaiso University Campus.

Report From Europe

By OLLIE STEWART

PARIS — Although hotel, restaurant and entertainment people in France have taken a beating so far this season, most of them are counting on recuperating a good part of their losses.

They're offering discounts and special rates, and they're hoping that July and August, traditionally good tourist months, will bring the usual influx of Americans. In my neighborhood (near the Eiffel Tower), it appears that those camera-packing visitors are living up to tradition.

The first Philadelphians encountered this year arrived during the first week of July. They were Mr. and Mrs. John L. Price who arrived on the French liner France.

• • •

I HADN'T seen Price in 20-odd years. Shortly after the war he was here as a Red Cross field director, and now he wanted to show his wife some of his old haunts — including his former hotel.

The Grand Hotel of Europe is where he stayed before, and he headed for it as soon as he got off the boat train.

"Sort of a sentimental journey," said Price. "I've spoken to my wife and friends many times over the years about Paris and Le Havre, and sort of talked myself into coming back again."

The Prices spent a week doing the town. "Had to get with you for old time's sake," he told me, "but I've got several other acquaintances in and around Paris."

• • •

JULY 4TH was once again just another day, since except for a brief ceremony at the Arc de Triomphe and an Embassy party given by new Ambassador Sargent Shriver.

When a friend called to remind me it was Independence Day, I told him to come on by to celebrate. We had potato salad and hamburgers for dinner, washed down with beer.

But come to think about it, if it hadn't been the Fourth of July we would have had potato salad and hamburgers anyway.

• • •

DEATH claimed three colored soldiers near Karlsruhe, Germany, on the Fourth. It was a tavern fight involving white and colored GIs, and it all started with a way-out remark by one of the whites.

I had to hurry to Karlsruhe some years to report on exactly the same sort of scrap, though nobody was killed. When I got there, from Paris I was given a look at the tavern where the blowup occurred and it was something to see.

Not a single chair or table was intact. The place was wrecked. And I remember what the owner said when I asked him how the thing start'.

• • •

"A COLORED soldier was dancing with a German girl," he told me, "and later a white soldier wanted to dance with her. She turned him down flat — and the white GI couldn't take it. He made a remark about her former partner, and the girl slapped him. That was it."

Integrated army or not, the spirit of Mississippi still goes with the Stars and Stripes.

I was in Germany, near military headquarters in Heidelberg, last summer, and although the Germans treated me, a civilian, with nothing but courtesy, I noticed that bitterness was evident in military circles.

There are still too many bars and cafes claimed by white GIs as their personal stomping ground. Any black soldier entering alone is in for snide remarks, if not outright trouble. The brothers now go in groups. And they fight back.

Miss Williams wed to Daniel Baker

MRS. DANIEL E. BAKER

HAGERSTOWN, Md. — The marriage of Florence Olivia Williams, daughter of James T. Williams of Hagerstown, and the late Mrs. Minnie Harmon Williams to Daniel Edward Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Baker, North Chicago, Ill., took place June 29, in Ebenezer AME Church, Hagerstown.

The Rev. James H. Robinson officiated at the nuptial service.

A reception at the Torquia Restaurant followed the exchange of vows.

• • •

FOR HER wedding, the bride chose an Empire gown of sheer organza underscored by bouquet taffeta and yoked in peau d'ange lace embroidered in pearls and crystals. The same lace formed the scalloped stand-up collar and was appliqued to the A-line skirt and Watteau train which swept into court length. A bouffant veil of illusion fell from a cornet of lace. She carried a cascade of stephanotis blossoms centered with two white orchids.

• • •

MRS. CELENA PARKER of Waukegan, Ill., sister of the bride, and Mrs. Charlotte M. Keyes, Hagerstown, attended the bride as matrons of honor. Bridesmaids were the Misses Louise Lyles, Patricia Strawther and Iamo Harmon, all of Hagerstown, Cecelia Minter of Petersburg, Va.; Mary Renolds of Detroit, Michigan, and Rita Burke of Greencastle, Pa.

The bride's sister, Cynthia, was junior bridesmaid and Andra Parker of Waukegan, Ill. flower girl.

Ring bearer was Marc Parker of Waukegan, Ill.

• • •

MR. BAKER had as his best man Obie Glover of Waukegan. Ushers were Reginald Keyes, Vincent Keyes, Gerald Crawley, Robert Harmon, Walter Harmon, Vincent Keys Jr., and Donald Evans, all of Hagerstown. Charles Watkins Jr. of Washington, D.C., who served as junior usher.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker are making their home in Waukegan, Ill.

Mrs. Baker is a graduate of North Hagerstown High School and Virginia State College, Petersburg, Va. She is a teacher with the Waukegan School Board.

Mr. Baker was graduated from North Chicago Community High School and attended Northern Illinois University. He is employed with the Youth Commission of Illinois.

Women's Demo committee to study political situation

NEW YORK N.Y. — Mrs. Myrtle Richardson, president of The Women's Independent Democratic Organization of Harlem, announced the formation of a "Special Committee to review the current political situation which faces Afro-Americans and Puerto Ricans in the State of New York.

In announcing the appointment of the committee, Mrs. Richardson said, "Our organization of Independent Democratic Women is incensed at the failure of the New York State Democratic Committee, (chaired by John Burns on June 28) to allot a single full vote in the coming National Democratic Convention to an Afro-American or Puerto Rican."

Mrs. Richardson added, "as democratic party supporters of long standing, we must take action at once against this failure to recognize our very significant leadership in the State of New York.

"We have therefore instructed our Committee to confer with Senator Eugene McCarthy and Governor Rockefeller. The Committee will discuss with them our plans to mobilize state-wide popular support for which every candidate offers equitable recognition to Afro-Americans and Puerto Ricans at all levels of campaign activities and if elected, at all governmental levels."

The Committee members are: Mesdames Frances Grayer, Evelyn Patillo, Gloria Scott, Beatrice Ellis, Dorestha Poole, Sally Rose, Peggy Van Eaton, Alma Fisher and Gene Butler.

Also, Miss Dora Mitchell and Dr. Anna A. Hedgeman, consultant.
