Catonsville College sets evening school courses

A total of 26 courses in 27 subject areas will be offered during the evening hours by the Catonsville Community College this fall, according to James L. Oates, director of extra sessions for the college.

Courses will be available in the fields of art, biology, business administration, chemistry, economics, electronic data processing, electronics technology, English composition and literature, engineering, fire service technology, geography, health, history, library service, mathematics, music, physical education, philosophy, physics, political science, police administration, psychology, quality control, general science, sociology, Spanish, and public speaking.

Classes will be held on the college campus, at 800 S. Rolling Road, Monday through Thursday evenings, from 6:00 to 10:15 P.M.

* * *

IN ADDITION to the regular credit courses, non-credit remedial programs in preparatory math, English, writing, and reading and study skills will also be available for those with weak backgrounds or poor records in these areas. Counseling services and the facilities of the college library will be provided for evening students.

Registration for evening classes will be held at the college on Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 2 and 10, from 7 to 9 P.M. Classes begin on Sept. 16.

Late registration, upon payment of a $5.00 late fee, will be permitted throughout the first week of classes. Students new to the college, however, must complete admissions procedures before registering for specific courses.

Jobs open at Eastern in Howard County

In Howard County, Eastern Products Crop. has opened a job recruitment drive to fill several hundred clerical and general factory production positions by early fall at the new 520,000 square foot Columbia facility.

Eastern manufactures Venetian blinds, drapery hardware, folding doors, aluminum awnings, suspension systems for acoustical ceilings, lawn and garden buildings, and demountable wall systems.

By early fall, the firm says several hundred people will be needed for production supervision positions, warehouse work, lift truck operations, maintenance and set-up work, press brake operations, machine operations, electrical work, and tool and die making; accounting, clerical, inventory control, stenographic, and secretarial personnel.

Applications are taken from 9 to 5 weekdays in Suite 100, Teachers Building, next to the Exhibition Hall in Downtown Columbia City. For information contact: Edward M. Collins — Personnel Department, 1601 Wicomico St., Baltimore, 21230, Tel. 837-6700.

Assistance checks

Baltimore City Department of Social Services officials announced today that checks to persons receiving assistance in the following categories will be mailed on Tuesday, Sept. 10: Old Age Assistance (OAA); Public Assistance to the Needy Blind (PANB); General Public Assistance (GPA); Aid to Permanently and Totally Disabled (APTD), and Foster Care.

Black history grant made

The Baltimore City School System has received a $10,000 grant to help finance its teachers training program on Negro History.

National Endowment for the Humanities made the grant.

Mrs. Alma McMahon, a curriculum specialist, is the director of the Black History Institute. She said $10,000 may be added by Fall.

If enough students request it, each of the City's high school will try to offer an elective this year on Black History.

This fall's half-day sessions begin on September 19, 1968 at the Baltimore Museum of Art. At the time, Dr. David Cohen, of London, Will speak on African background of American Negroes.

Safety in traffic

The Maryland Traffic Safety Commission says September Back to School for children brings added responsibility for parents, motorists and the child himself to be cautious to avoid accidental injury in the streets.

Parents should set a good example by obeying all traffic regulations, teach their youngsters habits of safety — and urge them to play in safe places to help them become self-reliant and safe at all times.

The motorist should do his part in protecting the child by employing careful driving practices, looking for the unpredictable in children's actions and be especially alert when driving in school and playground areas, and at school bus stops.

Children should walk with care, avoid dashing into the street or scuffling on the curb, not take foolish chances when riding their bicycles, and always obey all safety rules.

College sets realty course

A course in the Principles of Real Estate will be offered at the Community College of Baltimore beginning October 3, according to Andrew M. Bohle, director of Community Services.

Successful completion of this 32-hour course will enable the real estate agent, who has already passed the qualifying exam and received his temporary license, to obtain his permanent license. It meets all the requirements of the new real estate law. Instruction will be given on Thursday evenings from 7 to 9:45 p.m.

Richard F. Slaughter, prominent Baltimore realtor, will teach the course. Mr. Slaughter served as chairman of the Associate Division of the Real Estate Board of Greater Baltimore from 1965-1967, and was also on the board of directors of the Real Estate Board of Greater Baltimore during that time.

The course will be taught in cooperation with the Real Estate Board of Baltimore. Tuition is $35. Interested applicants may contact Mr. Bohle at the Community College of Baltimore, 823-2151, ext. 219.

Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Mosley of Baltimore, announced, Friday, the marriage on Thursday, of her daughter, Falena Johnson, and Grant Russell Lake. He's the grandson of the affluent Frank Johnsons, Sr. of Los Angeles, Calif., whose wedding gift to the couple, incidently, was a home, furnishings, and a maid to keep the home in order. The last, because the young couple will bot be studying at UCLA, this term. Both were at Columbia Union College, Tacoma Park, Md., last term, where he was a pre-medical junior and she a sophomore in the school of nursing.

The marriage took place in the chapel of the Union Baptist Church, with the Rev. Baxter Matthews officiating. 'Twas a closed family ceremony. For her wedding, Miss Johnson wore a pastel pink dress with silver trim, and carried a Bible topped with lilies of the valley. She was attended by Barbara Bliss of Washington, whose ensemble was in mint green. Her flower arrangement was of carnations in colors of pink, green and white. David Bliss of Washington was best man.

Mrs. Mosley wore blue lace over taffeta with matching accessories and an orchid corsage. Others witnessing the ceremony were his aunt and guardian, Mrs. Susan Fisher of Washington and Mrs. Frederick Rich of New York.

Schools make jobs

WASHINGTON — School construction provides more than 300,000 jobs annually, according to the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics. A study shows that in 1965 the construction of elementary and secondary schools necessitated 140,000 jobs directly in the construction sector and 190,000 jobs in the peripheral areas of providing materials and equipment.

Industry aids city

WASHINGTON — In our Nation's capital, where government employees far outnumber those in private business, the team of the National Alliance of Businessmen and the U.S. Department of Labor turned the tables. Private industry has supplied three out of four of the slots for training the hard-core unemployed of that city.

Mrs. Richardson of Annapolis gives party in Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Mrs. William H. (Eloise) Richardson of Annapolis, Md., feted her Naptown friends at one of the most elegant social gatherings here, recently while spending her vacation with relatives. Mrs. Richardson was the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Cromwell Ricketts.

She gave the garden party to express her appreciation to friends who had shown courtesies to her down through the years during her visits here. She was very attractive in apple green Alencon lace over a sequined underdress, and she wore a purple orchid, the gift of Mrs. Cleo Blackburn.

Others who stood in the receiving line were her sisters, Mrs. Ricketts, in a sprong dress of black hair metallic trimmed in gold, and Mrs. William H. Johnson, of Dayton, Ohio, attired in a vanilla white crepe sheath accented by a rose of the same material at the front of the neckline; her niece, Mrs. Elva Jayne Robinson of St. Albans, L.I., N.Y., who wore a white puffed pure silk mini dress accented by a broad pink kid belt. All wore orchids, gifts of Mrs. Blackburn. Mrs. Robinson is the daughter of Mrs. Johnson.

Mrs. Richardson gave guests two page of her favorite poems, rolled and tied with ribbon.

The serving table was draped with white organdy over a pink background. Green smilax was looped along the front of the table. Two pink candles in silver candlesticks set off the centerpeice of pink and white snapdragons, the gift of Mrs. Betty West. A crystal service was used.

Flowers were also sent by Mrs. Merritt Pace and Mrs. J. Rogers Cary. Other gifts and courtesies were extended by Mr. and Mrs. J. Wallace Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Elmo G. Coney, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Payne, Mesdames John Powers, Henry Greer, A.P. Hall, Clifton U. Scott, Leonard Moss.

Also Mesdames Lionel F. Artis, Eugene Winburn, Page, Lafayette Turner, Walter Johnson, Horage Willie Mae Johnson, Ira Thomas, Lenyer Rankin and Virgil Cunningham; and Misses Sarah Meriwether and Susie Peters.

Family members attending the party also included grandchildren, Tracy, Tina and Sherman, Jr. all of Dayton, Ohio; and Mr. and Mrs. Orval Brown and children, Karen and Shari.

Mrs. Richardson is librarian at Crownsville State Hospital at Crownsville, Md. She is a member of Annapolis, a project of the Links, the Annapolis Fine Arts Club and liaison representative for the club to the Friends of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts. She is also a member of the Maryland Artists Concert Series, pianist for the Unitarian Church of Anne Arundel County, a chairman and a member of the steering committee of the Community Coordinating Committee for the Dialogs of Annapolis, a project of the LWCA, and publicity chairman for the organization, GO, a group which receives training in management and finance preparatory to obtaining loans from the Small Business Administration.
