Johnson asks Congress restore some fund cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson asked Congress Friday to allow him to spend $1 billion more than it agreed to when it gave him his 10 per cent income tax increase.

At that time, Congress tied its approval of the tax surcharge with a mandatory $6 billion spending cut, reducing the President's budget for the current fiscal year from $186 billion to $180 billion.

The President told two Senate leaders during a two-hour session in his office that he wanted the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) and the Medicaid Program exempted from the spending cuts. Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said the exemptions would total more than $1 billion and stood a "reasonable chance" of passing.

At the same time, the Senate voted Friday to exempt $90,965,000 in aid to "impacted area" schools from its economy order.

Wood assumes treasury post

NASSAU —Reginald Wood has become the first colored man to be appointed Treasurer of the Bahamas, taking over from a Canadian whose contract ended last July. Wood, 43, began his government career in 1944 as a clerk in the audit department.

He joined the Treasury in 1966, as assistant account and rose steadily to first Controller of Expenditure (1966), and deputy permanent secretary in the Ministry of Finance (1967).

Bomb destroys pharmacy, puts family in hospital

LEXINGTON, Ky. — A 47-year-old pharmacist, his wife and daughter and seven other persons were hurt Wednesday when an explosion destroyed his pharmacy and heavily damaged a next-door food market.

Damages in the bombing, seen by Dr. Zirl A. Palmer as the work of "white terrorists," were estimated at between $150,000 and $200,000.

Police indicated at weekend they were "close" to making arrests.

Dr. Palmer's wife, Marian, 47, suffered severe leg and foot burns.

Their daughter, Ardrea, 4, was buried under debris and had to be dug out by rescuers.

All were in satisfactory condition at Good Samaritan Hospital.

None of the other seven persons injured in the bombing was serious, police said.

* * *

DR. PAMER, a member of the Kentucky Human Rights Commission, first member of his race in the Lexington Chamber of Commerce and active in civil rights and anti-poverty efforts, said:

"The only reason I can see for this is my civil rights record."

He dismissed speculation that black militants may have bombed the pharmacy to stir up trouble.

The pharmacist said he was not certain he would open up the business again, out of concern for the safety of his wife and daughter.

Police directed by Lt. James Perkins found fragments of a clock near a bookstand in the debris.

"The arson squad said that because of the type of fire which followed the blast, some type of explosive apparently was used."

He said gas company workmen checked out the building's gas system and reported no damage to the pipes or outlets.

The pharmacy was located in a shopping center in the northwestern section of the city, a predominantly colored area. It is just across the street from a public housing project.

A food market next door to the pharmacy was virtually destroyed by the blast. Other nearby firms damaged included a grill, liquor store and a vacant building.
