Profane gunman wounds critic

Theodore Snowden, 29, 700 block Edgewood St., attempted to prevent the use of profanity in front of a church Saturday and was shot for his efforts, Western District reported this week.

Mr. Snowden is confined to the intensive care unit of Maryland General Hospital. His condition is listed as "critical" due to a bullet wound of the left chest.

Police reported Mr. Snowden was shot by one of three men whom he asked not to use profanity in front of the House of Prayer in the 600 block W. Preston St.

Lloyd Snowden, 27 of the Edgewood St. address, brother of the victim, told police they were standing near the church when three young men approached them using profanity.

"You shouldn't talk like that in front of the House of God. Go some place else if you are going to talk like that," Lloyd Snowden quoted his brother as telling the men.

An argument ensued, according to the younger Mr. Snowden and one of the profanity users pulled a gun and shot his brother.

After his brother collapsed, Lloyd Snowden and an unidentified motorist grappled with the men but were unable to prevent their escape.

ETHIOPIAN STUDENTS — Major Desta Bekele, left, and First Lieutenant Messe Eshetu, center, of the Ethiopian Army secure the gun tube of an M 60 tank. Both are attending the Ordnance Officer Advance Course taught at the U.S. Army Ordnance Center and School at Aberdeen, Md. Sgt. John T. Allen, right, is an instructor with the Mechanical Maintenance Branch, Command and Staff Training Department. Tu.

Hollander Awards Dinner Oct. 21

The Maryland Chapter will celebrate the Golden Jubilee of the American Jewish Congress at its annual Sidney Hollander Award Banquet to be held Monday, October 21, 6:30 p.m. at the Beth Tfiloh Auditorium, Reisterstown Road, according to Dr. Hyman S. Rubinstein, president.

The Sidney Hollander Award of Distinction was established in order to honor local and national figures who have contributed toward advancing human freedom and for contributions toward the strengthening of Jewish life, as well as in other areas of public service.

The Award consists of a bronze medallion bearing the likeness of Mr. Hollander, one of the founders of the local chapter and its honorary president, affixed to a plaque containing an engraved citation to the recipient detailing his contributions towards the aims and ideals of the American Jewish Congress.

Rabbi Samuel Rosenblatt, of the Beth Tfiloh, and Senator Joseph D. Tydings have been designated as the recipients for the 1968 Awards of Distinction.

Fabian Kolker, banquet chairman, announces that individuals or organizations that arrange for a table of ten will be listed in the souvenir program as Patrons of the Golden Jubilee Dinner.

State seeking center here for Job Corps recruits

A drive to recruit 16-to 21-year-old youths from Maryland's counties for resident training at the Baltimore Job Corps Skills Center has been launched by the Maryland State Employment Service Division of the Department of Employment Security.

The drive will be conducted by the Agency's local offices throughout the State to fill 125 resident training slots open to eligible young men who live in areas outside of Baltimore City.

According to J. Donn Aiken, Employment Service director, the resident training slots are being offered to youths who meet the general criteria of the socially, economically or culturally disadvantaged, the school dropouts, the unemployed or underemployed and members of low income families.

Mr. Aiken said that the Job Corps Skills Center training program offers basic education (reading, math and social skills) and vocational training in our areas: Food Service, Graphic Arts, Electrical and Electronics Assembly and Manufacturing Operations.

In addition, Mr. Aiken said, trainees receive three meals a day, medical and dental care, instruction in personal development, and a $30 monthly allowance.

The Center's trainee capacity is 325 young men — 200 non-resident and 125 resident. In addition to the 125 residents to be drawn from Maryland's counties, the majority of the 200 non-resident trainees will be from Baltimore City.

The Baltimore Job Corps Skills Center, 103 E. Mount Royal Ave., is being operated by the Burroughs Corporation, under a $2.7 million dollar contract with the State of Maryland funded by and contracted with the Federal Office of Economic Opportunity covering the period from May 1, 1968 through June 30, 1969.

Dunbar plan gets praise of doctors

By ROGER NISSLY

An innovative portion of new School Superintendent Thomas D. Sheldon's school construction proposals has earned the unqualified praise of a national organization of physicians.

The National Medical Association, composed of black physicians, in a weekend statement lauded Dr. Sheldon's proposal for a new Dunbar High School to be constructed along the lines of giving it a strong orientation toward medical and paramedical personnel preparation.

The commitment for a new Dunbar High School, urged by community residents and youths before the School Board, was revealed last Wednesday in Dr. Sheldon's $133,099,000 capital improvement program.

The outlined program, some $22 million more than the School Board has planned for, was accepted on a split decision of the Board Wednesday afternoon.

With the proposed $80 million school bond issue, money from the sale of Friendship Airport and money on hand, the Board has figured it has $110,715,000 available for capital expansion in 1968-71.

However, Dr. Sheldon said it would be "unwise" for the Board to restrict itself to the exact amount of anticipated revenue.

He expects some projects will meet delays or that additions to the capital budget will come under the mayor's avowed commitment to education.

In his program the superintendent suggests the spending of $9 million immediately to purchase 268 prefabricated classrooms to relieve overcrowding.

The old stigma of "portables" is gone, he declares, noting that the new units are carpeted and have air conditioning among other amenities.

A new Dunbar high was the most costly single addition to the building program.

Noting the proximity of Dunbar to the Johns Hopkins Hospital complex, Dr. Sheldon briefly stated the goal for such a medically-oriented high school "ideally" compares to "that of the Baltimore Polytechnic Institute in the pre-engineering field."

Dr. Emerson C. Walden, local physician and chairman of the Board of Trustees of the National Medical Association, said of the Dunbar plan, "I am proud that the thought originates with Baltimore's new superintendent of schools."

"A high school oriented toward the medical and paramedical fields is an exciting and much needed facility anywhere," he said, adding that his association has "struggled with the problem of recruiting and motivating young black citizens into the medical and paramedical fields."

Last month, he pointed out, the association launched a "medical buddy

(Continued on Page 19)

King scholarship given local man

Hansel Henry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hansel Henry of 710 Ridgewood Ave. has been awarded one of the first Martin Luther King Fellowships at Boston University.

The grants were established in memory of Dr. King, an alumnus of the University, to honor his ideal of peace and freedom through non-violence.

Mr. Henry is working for his master's degree at the University's School of Theology, after graduating from Morgan State College.

As an undergraduate, he was a member of the Inter-Faith Council, a multi-denominational campus group. He was president of the Pre-Theological Students, secretary of both the Morgan State Chapter of the TKA Debating Society and the Philosophy Club.

He has worked with the Maryland State Employment Center to inform inner-city residents of federally sponsored programs and State Employment

Holy Trinity's Rector — M7 Agency benefits. This summer he joined a Presbyterian Church group, studying urban renewal and the Model Cities Program.

HANSEL HENRY

He also has participated in acting and directing segments of Martin Dubner's play, "In White America," to help involve rural communities in inner-city problems.

Mr. Henry also has worked at Spring Grove State Hospital and has preached in Mount Calvary Holy Church in Baltimore.

Principal appointed for Kennedy school

Miss Jessica D. Andrews has been appointed principal of the new special education school for handicapped children of Maryland at The John F. Kennedy Institute for the Mentally and Physically Handicapped Child.

The school has conditional approval of the Maryland State Department of Education and is designed to help children make more progress in school work.

The program has been prepared in conjunction with Coppin State College and includes courses in special reading, language, mathematics social studies, physical education and music appreciation.

Miss Andrews attended St. Anne's Academy High School in Winston-Salem, N.C.

After receiving her A.B. degree in 1965 from Livingstone College in Salisbury, N.C., she did advanced work in history at Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh Pa., and simultaneously worked for the Greater Pittsburgh Urban League as a tutor with unwed teenage mothers.

Subsequently, she received her M.A. degree in Special Education from the Catholic University of America, School of Education, in 1968 where she worked in the capacity of research assistant for Dr. David A. Sabatino.

Miss Andrews also has worked for the past four summers in New York City at Columbia University, Teachers College.

"At the present time, she is working on her Ph. D. degree in Special Education at Catholic University.

Miss Andrews resides in Washington, D.C.

MISS ANDREWS

Local women's group honors five teachers

The Baltimore section of the National Council of Women, Inc. held its Annual Program Planning Day luncheon Saturday at the Holiday Inn Downtown with its theme, "Women Responding to Human Needs," emphasizing the President's Council on Youth Opportunity "Stay in School" program.

Keynote speaker Dr. Thomas D. Sheldon, superintendent of the Baltimore City Public Schools, spoke on "Education, the New and Most Important American Frontier."

He emphasized the absolute necessity for quality education.

The Council, in keeping with its theme, honored five women teachers with "Distinguished Teacher Awards."

Honored were:

Sister Mary John of St. Frances School for Special Education, who taught from 1926 to 1957 at St. Francis High School and Orphanage for Girls, then joined the St. Francis school in 1958 until the present.

Mrs. Mary Carter Smith, teacher-librarian in Baltimore Public Schools, founder of Big Sisters-Little Sisters, Inc. in 1966 and volunteer worker with Baltimore Rescue Mission.

Mrs. Blooma Friedman, teacher at Milford High School, cited for being originator and coordinator of language concerts for persons of all races, color and creeds.

Mrs. Jan Dates and Mrs. Betty Dawson, an integrated teaching team appearing on TV Channel 11, cited for the production and teaching of black history on TV as carried into many local classrooms.

About 200 members of the council and representatives of community groups attended the luncheon presided over by Mrs. Louise H. Jackson.

She read a telegram from Vice President Humphrey commending the group and

(Continued on Page 19)

Vietnam vets urged to seek school benefit information

Maryland State American Legion Commander Lonnie Marsh has noted the increasing number of returning Vietnam war veterans, young men of college age, who will be eligible for educational benefits following their discharge.

Commander Marsh urges all Maryland veterans who separated from service to contact their local American Legion post for up-to-the-minute information on these benefits.

It is estimated that more than a quarter million servicemen will be seeking college or technical training this fall and winter.

Newly discharged veterans who have served during the Vietnam conflict may contact their local office of the American Legion to determine their eligibility for membership. The eligibility standards are sufficiently broad to include a large percentage of all former war veterans.

Whether or not enrolled in the Legion, Veterans are entitled to the entire scope of services provided by the organization which include child welfare, rehabilitation, educational and skills training counseling. The American Legion is primarily a service organization and is dedicated to serving all veterans. For information, see your local Legion Post or write: Commander, The American Legion, War Memorial, Baltimore, Maryland 21202.

Mrs. George Lee dead at 40; wife of AFRO circulation chief

"She had been ailing since March, ever since a large can fell on her foot, as time went on, she got worse and there were diagnostic tests . . . and then we learned it was a cancer. She was a devoted mother and homemaker."

George Lee, AFRO circulation director, was talking about his wife, Mrs. Dorothy N. Lee 40. She died on Sunday at their home, 965 Ellicott Drive.

Funeral services are set for Wednesday 10 a.m. at St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church, East Oliver and Carpline Sts.

Morton and Dyett Funeral Home is handling arrangements.

BORN IN Columbia, S.C., Mrs. Lee was the former Dorothy Northrop, daughter of Mrs. Ruby Reese, who survives, and the late Bernard Northrop.

She grew up in Baltimore, attended Dunbar High School and Cortez Peters Business School.

She was employed for a number of years at Social Security.

She and Mr. Lee would have marked their 20th wedding anniversary next June.

In addition to her husband and her mother, she is survived by two children, Michael Bernard Lee 16, and Linda K. Lee, 14, both of Baltimore.

There are also a half sister, Mrs. Marie Coleman of California; two uncles, John Northrop, Columbia, S.C. and Woodrow Miller, Miafi, Fla., and an aunt, Mrs. Myra Edwards, Detroit.

MRS. GEORGE LEE

Fall program kick off at Druid Hill YMCA

The Youth Department of Druid Hill Avenue Branch YMCA will hold its Fall Program Kick-Off at noon Saturday Oct.5.

A special luncheon has been planned for all members and their friends.

There will be a period of group singing, a special movie, and group fellowship. At this time all members may register for the club or activity in which they are interested.

The clubs that are being offered are riflery, archery, photography, arts and crafts, travelers club, educational programs and Pee Wee Club.

Further infirmation is available at the branch at 523-4464 from Buddy Milburn, youth work assistant.

Talking toys take television task

WJZ-TV is presenting a new speech series entitled "Miss Joan and the Talking Toys" in color every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, beginning today through January 30 at 9:45 10 a.m.

Produced in cooperation with the Radio and Television Department of the Baltimore City Schools, the direct teaching series of 45 programs is devoted to speech improvement for pupils of Early Admissions through primary levels.

Mrs. Joan Gross, who has done Speech Pathology and Therapy in Baltimore schools for several years will be the teacher.

Mrs. Gross studied Drama and Speech at New York University, enjoyed two seasons of summer stock in the Catskills, and appeared in several off-Broadway plays and the Broadway production, "House of Flowers."

"Miss Joan and the Talking Toys" is a presentation of the WJZ-TV Public Affairs Department.

TALKING TOY — Joan Gross is teacher for a new series of programs on WJZ-TV every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday beginning today (Tuesday) at 9:45 a.m. The series is devoted to speech improvement for pupils of Early Admissions through primary levels.

Youth sought in cabbie's death

A police dragnet is out for a 17-year-old suspect in connection with the Sept. 21 murder of a cab driver.

Homicide investigators identified the suspect in a warrant issued over the weekend as William Gardner, 700 block Newington Ave.

The cab driver Harry Kravetz, 34, was found shot to death in his cab which had crashed into a parked car in the 1200 block McCulloh St.

Investigators are puzzled over the motive for the killing since the victim had $80 on his person when he was found slumped over the wheel of the vehicle.

Acting classes for young people now being formed

By ADAH K. JENKINS

Creative drama classes for children and young people are beginning their sessions at the Children's Theatre Association, 5 E. Centre St., and at the University of Maryland Department of Speech and Dramatic Art.

At the CTA each class will meet once a week for an hour and a half. Classes for grades 1 2 and 10 12 will meet only on Saturdays at 5 E. Centre St.

All other classes will be divided into two sections. One section will meet at Wellwood Elementary School from 4 to 5:30 p.m. and one at the Centre St. headquarters, either from 4 to 5:40 after school or for a comparable time on Saturdays.

AS THE core of CTA's program the courses are tailored to meet the needs of individual students. Regular instruction will include voice development, body movement, dramatic reading and related dramatic technique.

To guarantee each child ample opportunities to perform before an invited audience, a number of small productions have been planned to supplement CTA's three major productions.

"Many Moons," "The Imperial Nightingale" and a just-released production of "The Hobbit" will be cast on an equal opportunity basis from the creative drama classes.

The faculty under the direction of Miss Lynne Autman, CTA's artistic director, has two new additions — Judy Weissman, drama major from Towson State College and Frances Reichlen of the Baltimore Civic Ballet.

For further information or an application blank, CTA may be contacted at the headquarters on Centre St., 727-8488.

REGISTRATION FOR the University of Maryland classes in creative drama will be handled by mail only, with a deadline of Friday, Oct. 11, for sending registrations to Fine Arts Theatre Box Office, University of Maryland, College Park, Md. 20742.

Sessions will be held on Saturday mornings, from 9:30 a.m. to 10:45 a.m. on Oct. 19, 26 and Nov. 2, 9, 16 and 23.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the Box Office at 454-220 between 10:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. weekdays.

The program is designed to encourage freedom of expression and growth of self-confidence through pantomime and dramatic exercises.

The children are grouped according to age and previous experience, while classes are open to all with or without prior work in dramatics.

TO OPEN SEASON — Andre Watts, 22, will open the Peabody Conservatory's Candlelight Concerts next Monday with a solo recital at the Lyric Theatre. He was introduced to a nationwide television audience at the age of 16 as a discovery of Leonard Bernstein. Mr. Watts studies at the Peabody, where he is a candidate for the degree of Bachelor of Music.

ALFRED WILKINS
246 ROBERT STREET
(Just Known Address)
Please contact
E. A. NOWICK
New York, N.Y.
364 E. 149th St.
IMPORTANT

C.O.D. OIL CO.
OR. 5-1818
Pay Cash and Save
$16.25
Per 100 Gallons
Tax Included
WE OFFER PREMIUM QUALITY FUEL AT A SAVING

DON'T MISS COLORFUL FIRE PREVENTION PARADE
SAT., OCT. 5
1 P.M.
In Downtown Baltimore
Howard St.
Baltimore St.
Holiday St.

AFRO Poll Shows How Voters Size-up Humphrey, Nixon Race

AFRO Reporter Jailed At Wallace Civic Center Rally

Garrison Gets New Principal (See Back Page)

Baltimore Afro-American

World Series Back To St. Louis (See Sports Page)

77th Year, No. 25 Copyright 1968 by THE AFRO-AMERICAN Co., for all material previously printed in the current National Edition. BALTIMORE, MD., OCTOBER 8, 1968 30 PAGES FIVE ★ EDITION 15 CENTS

Ambulance Delay Charges Pending

Reporter nabbed when cops corner singing marchers

By PETER J. KOPER

I was arrested last night in the 200 block of W. Lexington St. by Patrolman Alvin Nachman of the K-9 Squad along with seven demonstrators.

At the time I was covering an impromptu protest march by some 150 youths that developed following a riotous rally for third party presidential hopeful George C. Wallace at the Civic Center.

The march was proceeding north on Park Ave. after police cleared the large mass of youthful protesters from Baltimore St. in front of the Civic Center.

The group of students and militant youth turned onto Lexington St. where police dispersed the crowd with dogs.

I was held for several minutes with a group of demonstrators and then was loaded into a police wagon.

I showed my police press card repeatedly to officers at the scene, but to no avail.

Several reporters witnessed the sudden arrest.

I was released two hours later after Acting Police Commissioner Thomas Keyes intervened.

Commissioner Pomerleau is attending a police conference in Hawaii.

According to Commissioner Keyes 18 arrests were made during the disorder surrounding Wallace's appearance.

I was required to return to Central Municipal Court 9 a.m. today to answer charges of "failing to obey a reasonable and lawful request of a police officer."

Judge Aaron A. Baer dismissed the charge when the officer testified.

My arrest marked the end of a hectic work day which included covering the massive day-long anti-war protest in War Memorial Plaza and at the Post Office and the Wallace rally last night.

The American Independent Party's nominee for the presidency met with the most vocal opposition he has encountered during his campaign to date.

(Continued on Page 19)

FATHER AND CHILD — James Watts, who has been stalked by misfortune, gazes through broken sunlit window with daughter Sheila, 3, as he ponders his latest crisis. (AFRO Staff Photo by Irvin H. Phillips).

Say victim bled to death while lying in street

"On the basis of what the facts show at this moment, it is safe to say that charges are going to be brought against somebody before this is over."

That prediction was made Monday night by a reliable source. The speaker was referring to a case where preliminary evidence shows that a man bled to death early Saturday morning while calls for a municipal ambulance went unanswered.

Meantime, a southbound train pulled from the Pennsylvania Railroad station 12:10 a.m. today carrying a grim cargo destined for Sanford, N.C.

Its silent passenger was Herbert Jackson, 29, who until nine years ago, knew only a North Carolina town as his home.

That's when he came to Baltimore with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Jackson, who had made for themselves and their two children a home in the 3700 block Cottage Ave.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson and Herbert's sister, Mrs. Clemmie Simmons, were on the train which took them away from the scene of a tragedy that claimed the life of their son and brother.

The pang of loss was ex-

(Continued on Page 2)

Hundreds sign up in vote drive

By MAX JOHNSON

Hundreds of citizens jammed the city's Supervisors of Elections office and six supplemental registration stations Monday, in last minute action to become eligible voters.

Monday was the final day for voter registration prior to the Nov. 5 general election.

Unregistered citizens, who are not now on the books, will not be permitted to participate in the coming election.

Registration has been very heavy recently at the Supervisors of Elections office in the People's Court Bldg., Fayette and Gay Sts., despite the crippling bus strike. • • •

FOR EXAMPLE, 3,219 new voters were put on the books there the past week.

Significantly, only 746 of them were colored. They included 657 Democrats, 76 Republicans and 13 registered as Independents.

Moreover, there has been an extremely high ratio of Democratic registration over that of Republicans, far above the five-to-one city ratio of the membership in the two parties.

Some political leaders have attributed this to the

(Continued on Page 2)

Jackie sees Nixon-Wallace similarity

By MAX JOHNSON

BALTIMORE — "If Richard Nixon becomes president, black Americans will have to worry about Spiro Agnew, Strom Thurmond, Bo Callaway and all of the Deep South.

"Nixon and Wallace are appealing to the same people."

Jackie Robinson, former baseball star, stressed these statements repeatedly in a series of addresses to audiences, in a long day campaign tour of this city Friday in support of the presidential candidacy of Hubert H. Humphrey.

An independent lately identified with the Republican Party as an ardent supporter of New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Mr. Robinson explained his stumping for the Humphrey-Muskie team thusly:

"I don't see how any black man with self respect

(Continued on Page 2)

Trouble doubles for Watts family

Trouble came double last week for Mr. and Mrs. James Watts, 1609 N. Patterson Park Ave.

Mr. Watts, a steelworker, was robbed of his paycheck last Wednesday en route home from work. He was beaten in the process and required treatment at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

The next day, fire struck their home and, in his words, "cleaned us out."

Mrs. Barbara J. Watts, his wife, and mother of five children, ages nine months to six years, was injured in the blaze.

Today they are living temporarily with Mrs. Watts' sister, Mrs. Miriam Douglass, 1029 N. Castle St. and are "in need of everything."

Mr. Watts reports that the fire gutted their home, destroying electricity, appliances, and "everything else."

AFRO readers who wish to assist the Watts family are asked to contact Mrs. Douglass at 1029 N. Castle St.

(Continued on Page 2)

Parents win $110,000 for baby's defects

By GLORIA WOLFORD

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mrs. Robert Stewart was five weeks pregnant when she contracted German measles in 1964.

Worried because that disease in pregnancy sometimes results in malformed infants, she went to Long Island College Hospital in Brooklyn to inquire about an abortion.

Three doctors at the hospital conferred, then ap-

(Continued on Page 2)

Couple wants boy; race bothers judge

By ALBERT WASHINGTON
AFRO Staff Correspondent

PORT HURON, Mich. — "I don't see a little dark-skin boy, I just see a child, my child."

That is how a blonde woman explained her love for a 2½ year-old tan boy named Scott Ellis Damcschke whose natural and white mother is the divorced wife of her husband, also white.

Why little Scott's skin is

(Continued on Page 19)

Judges to name 'Woman of Year'

Five women prominent in community affairs, will serve as judges for the Woman of the Year contest, which concludes with a luncheon in the Belvedere Sheraton Hotel, Saturday.

The judges, as announced by the Greyhound Lines and the AFRO-AMERICAN, co-sponsors, include:

Mrs. Marian Jones Jackson, of the Madison Avenue Branch Young Women's Christian Association; Mrs. Ethel Rich, executive secretary of Woman Power, Mrs. Anna Climkreales of the National Council of Negro Women, and Mesdames Robert Croxton and Roland Williams, club women.

The judges will make their selection of the Woman of the Year from the hundreds of nominations submitted by AFRO-AMERICAN readers. The judges decision will be final. Ballots for the election appear in todays issue.

The winner and two runners-up will be honored at a luncheon Saturday at noon. Each will receive silver bowls.

MAKING THE presentation will be Joe Black, vice president-special marketing for Greyhound and president of the National Association of the Market De-

(Continued on Page 2)

15 ministers vie for honors

The AFRO's Favorite Minister Contest is off to an exciting start with 15 ministers already entered in the first week of the contest.

The Rev. Stanley Bradford is holding down first place with 300 votes.

A total of $2,000 will be shared by the winning ministers, to enable them to take a trip they have long wanted or use in any manner they wish.

The prize list includes: First, $700; Second, $400; Third, $300; Fourth, $200; fifth and sixth, $50 each and 12 prizes of $25 each.

All it takes to enter your favorite minister is a coupon, and any pastor, regardless of denomination, is eligible to win.

To help your minister, clip and send as many coupons as you can.

Fill out the votes and either bring them in or mail them to AFRO Favorite Minister Contest, 628 N. Eutaw St., Baltimore, Md., 21202.

Votes received by 3 p.m. Wednesday will appear in the Friday edition, votes received between 3 p.m., Wednesday and 5 Friday will appear in the Tuesday edition.

Survey shows what voters think now about election

BALTIMORE — A five city AFRO poll shows Vice President Humphrey, Democrat, running far ahead of Richard Nixon, Republican, with George Wallace completely out of it in heavily-registered colored areas.

With the colored vote looming more important than ever before in a sharp three-way campaign, a heavy turnout of ballots solid for any candidate in major cities could swing victory or defeat Nov. 5.

The samplings were made in Baltimore, Washington, Newark, Philadelphia and Richmond.

In many cases there appear to be no great enthusiasm for either of the candidates.

A number of people also say they still have not made up their minds.

ONE OF the conclusions from the AFRO testing is that, many of the national polls being published, apparently do not include a large number of colored voters.

This is apparent because of the percentage of votes

(Continued on Page 3)

Free Press Photo by MIKE McCLURE

THEY WANT HIM — Mr. and Mrs. Frank Damaschke play with Scott, the youngster they have had since his infancy. They are now in a legal war over keeping him because he has dark skin.

Carter CAA defeat sparks mass resignation threats

By MAX JOHNSON

The nomination by Mayor Thomas J. D'Alesandro 3rd of Walter P. Carter to head the Community Action Agency died Monday night in the City Council.

The process of its death was simple.

Mayor D'Alesandro did not resubmit the nomination for possible reconsideration by the Council, because he did not have the necessary votes for passage.

Jacob J. Edelman, Council vice president, arose just before adjournment and explained that the mayor felt he had managed to come up with one more affirmative vote, but lacked the tenth vote needed.

Absent from the session was Councilman Dominic "Mimi" DiPietro (1st D.), whom it was known the mayor was counting on for the tenth Carter vote.

Councilman DiPietro,

(Continued on Page 2)

chuckle

An efficiency expert is one who is smart enough to tell you how to run your business and too smart to start one of his own.

30

The AFRO today has 30 pages, printed in four sections. Here is where to find:

• CLASSIFIED ..... Pages 26-30
• WOMEN'S NEWS ..... Pages 9-10
• SPORTS ..... Pages 15-17
• THEATRES ..... Pages 6,7
• EDITORIAL ..... Page 4

GOING AWAY on Election Day, Nov. 5th? You can vote by ABSENTEE BALLOT. Get yours at Supervisors of Elections, Fayette and Gay Sts. Deadline for returning absentee ballots is 8 p.m. Nov. 5.

LET'S ALL VOTE