Wedding reaction favors Mrs. Onassis

BALTIMORE — The wedding of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy to multi - millionaire Greek Aristotle Inassis is still drawing comment and causing unexpected reactions.

In Boston, Cardinal Richard Cushing, 73, decided to resign at the end of this year instead of at 75, because of adverse publicity and hate mail received for defending the wedding.

Because Onassis is a divorced man, Mrs. Kennedy's Roman Catholic religion forbid her marrying him and remaining a member with full privileges.

But while the world talked about the marriage that joined the 62-year-old business magnate and 39-year-old widow of slain President John F. Kennedy, they planned changes on their private island, Skorpios.

IN WASHINGTON, the reaction went this way:

Mrs. Jean Woods, medical counselor for Opportunities Industrialization Center:

"More power to her. I figure she didn't need to stay single. It's probably a marriage for the family, for the children's sake. As far as the church is concerned, I don't think they had anything to say about it."

MRS. CATHERINE LEWIS, wife of Howard University history professor, Harold Lewis, said, "not being one of the Kennedy followers it makes no difference one way or the other to me."

"That's her business. If I had been a Kennedy follower, I imagine it would be a letdown, a disillusionment. But I just haven't been interested enough to read the reams of publicity in the papers."

MRS. WILLA MAY MATTHEWS, a receptionist: "I really hadn't given Jacqueline Kennedy's wedding a thought. I think she's free to marry who she wants to just like I would marry who I want to. She's a young woman. . .and she has the right to marry whomever she wants."

MISS NORLISHIA JACKSON, a counselor: "I just figured that was her business. I didn't think they looked good together because he is shorter than she is. But if this is what she wanted and she thinks she will be happy with him, it's alright with me. I was never a fan of Jacqueline Kennedy's anyway."

MISS VICURTIS COLES, who works at the Bureau of Rehabilitation, objected:

"Personally if that's what she wanted it's okay. But if I were choosing a husband for here, I would't have chosen him. I don't like him. As far as the children are concerned, it's sort of a strained relationship, from what I have read. They think the image of their father is lost with her marrying this man."

BUT MISS Jean Thompson, a Post office employee, said, "she's hanging in ther; that's all I've got to say. She should have been married sooner. I think she's waited too long as it is. As far as her marrying an older man is concerned, it's different strokes for different folks."

Comments in Baltimore were similar.

Housewives from the 2500 block Allendale Rd. gave these reactions:

Mrs. Henry A. Montague Sr.: "I feel that for whatever reasons Mrs. Kennedy married Mr. Onassis it is her own very private affair, and I wish her complete happiness. After all, she certainly is entitled to it, and it must be remembered that she lost a lot more than we as a country did. . .she lost her husband, the father of her children, and her President."

MRS. PHYLLIS CULLY, of 208 E. Lafayette Ave.

"I think she deserves to have another husband. I don't think he's too old. Age has nothing to do with it. To be alone forever is just out of the question. Everyone should accept her marriage. Who are we to say who she should or shouldn't marry."

MRS. FAYE THOMPSON, 3618 Park Hgts. Ave.

"Mrs. Kennedy is entitled to marry who she wants. Now her children have a father again. I am hoping that she will find happiness."

LEE RASTU WYNN, 238 N. Carey St.:

"I don't think she will stay married to him longer than two years.

IN RICHMOND, it went this way.

Mrs. Thomas H. Henderson, wife of the president of Virginia Union University, was understanding:

"Everybody needs a companion, and I'm sure she does."

Mrs. Swottswood Robinson, IV civil rights activist and wife of the attorney, defended the former First Lady's right to marry again.

"I feel she should have a life of her own and I am very happy for her."

But Mrs. Mozelle Sallee, president of the Delver Woman's Club, spoke of the wedding with reservations.

"What I think about her wedding depends on whether she will accept the dictatorship or come back to democracy."

Mrs. Janet Ballard, civic activist and wife of the attorney, Richard Ballard, said her entire family is happy about the wedding on Scorpios island.

"I think it's wonderful. As a family, we think it is wonderful . . . She waited five years before marrying again."

Mrs. Archie Harris, wife of the Whitcomb Court School principal, attributed the union to Cupid.

"It must be love," said Mrs. Harris, "because she really didn't need his money or prestige."

Mrs. Andrea West, Melvin Bryant wed

BALTIMORE — In a ceremony in Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church, Saturday afternoon at one, Audrea Pair West was married to Melvin William Bryant Jr. Mrs. James M. Pair entertained at a reception the ceremony, which was attended by members of the couple's families. The bride, daughter of the late Dr. James M. Pair, was given in marriage by her uncle, Hubert Pair of Washington. She wore an original dress of beige lace in a flower pattern; beige satin shoes and a small back veil of illusion attached to a beige satin bow. Her fowers was a bouquet of fall flowers in yellow and orange.

Mrs. Myrtle Wexter, of Detroit, was her step-sister's attendant. Her ensemble was in dark brown satin bow. Her corsage was satin, and she also carried a bouquet of fall flowers in yellow and orange.

Mrs. Bryant Sr. wore a suit of yellow silk, and Mrs. Pair an emerald green worsted silk dress with matching accessories.

Mrs. Byrant Jr., is a graduate of Morgan State College, and a winner of a Fulbright Scholarship on which she specialized in physics for a year in Germany. She is a member of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority and is currently an IBM programmer for the Military Information Systems.

Mr. Bryant is a product of Springfield, Mass. public schools and has a bachelor of arts degree in economics from Brown University. He is an associate IBM programmer for the National Military Command System Support Center. Now on a honeymoon in the Virgin Islands, they will reside in Tacoma Park, Md.

The reception was attended by scores of out-of-town guests, including:

Drs. and Mesdames Clarence Pair and Quentin Pair; Robert Wharton, Irving R. Wharton and Geoffrey Wharton; and Mesdames Burrett Sheppard, Ethel Landrick, and Marian Warner of New York;

Messrs. and Mesdames Melvin Bryant Sr. and grandmother of the bridegroom, of Springfield, Mass.; Miss Ruby Pennington of Virginia.

Hints For Homemakers

The old saying "Beauty is skin deep" can be interpreted in many ways. But it has a special significance for the girl who desires a glowing complexion. It, therefore, is comforting to know that we have such a fine and tempus product as LUX Beauty Bar available to us to achieve that ambition.

I was reminded of the long, illustrious history of LUX during a recent conversation I had with my cousin about various products which have withstood the test of time. What made us think of this is the fact that many of today's familiar products in soaps, detergents and even toothpastes are of fairly recent origin. Many, for example, have appeared in just the last ten years.

What a marvelous record, then, for a product to still be the favorite bath and beauty bar of ladies who take zealous care of their complexions. LUX was introduced more than two score years ago and today brings its cleansing benefits to a whole new generation of women who arrived long after it did.

So give yourself a lift and join the many, many LUX Beauty Bar users who rely on it for lovely complexions. You will be as pleased as they are with the results.

At last my hectic summer schedule is over, and I can settle down. It is always fascinating traveling in many different states, but I am always happy when I get home.

On several occasions I was very fortunate to meet and chat with old friends and acquaintanoes. One particular friend I saw in Houston invited me out to her house in Prairie View for dinner. That night I found myself eating the most delectable baked fish I'd had in a long time. The crowning glory was the topping sprinkled over it.

Later I learned that my friend had used IMPERIAL Margarine. Immediately, I knew that was the reason for the difference in taste. The recipe is: 6 tablespoons of IMPERIAL Margarine and 1 cup of Sesame Thins, crushed. Melt the IMPERIAL Margarine in a medium-size skillet. Add crushed sesame crackers. Saute, stirring frequently until light brown.

This topping is extra nice sprinkled over green vegetables. "It adds a gourmet touch to many dishes," she said. And she was right! You'll find that IMPERIAL Margarine will add flavor to any dish and make it fit for a queen.

In a few days all the kiddies will journey from house to house in their neighborhoods wearing costumes and shouting "trick or treat" to get the many surprises that are in store for them.

One of their favorite treats is popcorn balls loaded with lots of MRS. BUTTERWORTH'S syrup. However, if you decide to make candy also, there are recipes available that are not only quick to prepare, but simple to use.

MRS. BUTTERWORTH'S, the original buttered syrup, adds to the taste of many treats. Not only can it make Halloween exciting, but have you given any thought lately to making your family's breakfast-more enjoyable?

Those waffles, hot cakes, or even French toast will go in a flash when served with MRS. BUTTERWORTH'S syrup.

I remember a comment from one of my friends that her children did not like waffles until she served them with MRS. BUTTERWORTH'S. Now they cannot get enough. So whether you are making dessert, Halloween treats or breakfast, let MRS. BUTTERWORTH'S syrup give that added touch.

all BLEACH, BORAX & BRIGHTENERS

Times change these days with startling suddenness and so do many of the basic products we homemakers depend on. Therefore, I know you will be delighted to hear of the exciting change that has come to two of my favorite laundry products — CONCENTRATED and FLUFFY "all".

If you have been using either of these "all" products as I have recommended in the past, you'll know what I mean when you try the new versions, which now contain the three B's—Bleach, Borax and Brighteners. Together with the famous "all" formula, they get out tough dirt and stains that never came out before and give a new dazzle to your whole wash.

A cleaner wash is assured because both CONCENTRATED and FLUFFY "all" remove many difficult stains which before were almost impossible to remove—stains from such things as blueberries, meat gravy, grass and oil. They just can't stand up against the new "alls".

You'll recognize the three B's the moment you pour "all" into your washing machine. The formerly all-white powder is now speckled with blue, green and yellow granules, placed in the product by Lever's scientists to get out tough dirt and stains and make your wash cleaner than ever before.

Miss Waller bride of Rufus Stockton

LEATHERWOOD, Va. — The home of Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt Stockton, Sr. here, was the setting, Saturday evening for the wedding of their son, Rufus Lee Stockton, and Miss Yonne Delois Waller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred N. Waller of Martinsville, Va.

The Rev. R.T. Anderson officiated at the double-ring ceremony. A program of recorded music preceded the ritual.

THE BRIDE, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white bridal satin and lace. Chantilly lace provided the fitted bodice which featured a Sabrina neckline and long sleeves. Lace also encircled the skirt above the hemline and the border of the detachable train.

Her full veil of imported illusion fell from a crown of lace re-embroidered with seed pearls. She carried a cascade of white carnations and baby's breath showered with satin ribbons.

MISS THERESA WALLER was maid of honor for her sister. Her ensemble was a gown of pale gold taffeta styled with a fitted bodice fashioned with a scoop neckline and long sleeves. Her bouquet was of matching carnations and satin streamers.

Bobbue Stockton was his brother's best man.

A reception followed the ceremony. Assisting hostesses were Miss Delois Stockton, Miss Bernice Stockton; Mrs. James Stockton and Mrs. Audrey Hairston. Mrs. Roosevelt Stockton, Jr. poured punch.

MOTHERS OF the bride and bridgegroom wore pink dresses with matching accessories and carnation corsages.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. John Vaughan, Mrs. Willie Grooms, Mrs. Clementine Skipper, Mrs. Bonnie Carter and James Skipper of Philadelphia.
