Methodist Board of Missions Plans aid for women of Africa

ATLANTA Ga — Progress for the advancement of African women, ranging from a school for vocational training in Ethiopia to leadership development in Rhodesia to a nutrition project in Uganda, will receive a total of $650,000 from the United Methodist Board of Missions, it was reported here tonight.

Completing a joint three-year program, the Women's Division and the World Division of the Board have granted funds to 22 projects in nine countries. They made the grants at the division's executive committee meetings October 26-30 at the Hilton Inn at the Atlanta airport, and were reported to the full Board executive committee on the final night by division leaders.

THE JOINT program, entitled "Priority Needs and Concerns of African Women," was started by the divisions in January, 1967. It was intended to provide $1,000,000 over a three-year period. The present $650,000 allocation, plus allocation of $350,000 in 1967, complete the funding of the program.

The money has been provided by the Women's Division through the giving of 1,600,000 United Methodist women in Women's Societies of Christian Service and Wesleyan Service Guilds throughout the nation. The program has been planned by the two divisions and is administered by the World Division.

BOARD OFFICIALS said that virtually all of the projects and programs had been recommended by African women's groups, and many are managed entirely by African women. One of the stipulations of the program as originally adopted was that it should conform closely to "expressed desires and plans made in Africa by Africans."

Primary staff-responsibility for making recommendations to the Women's and World Divisions on the program was carried by Mrs. L. Maynard Catchings, New York, functional executive secretary for ministry to Women in the Division, who made a trip to Africa earlier this year.

MRS. CATCHINGS had reported on her return these "urgent and critical needs" of African women:

"1 —The need to cope with painful and confusing problems in her personal and institutional life, as changes from traditional ways occur. 2 — The need to find solutions to the problems of urbanization as they confront dislocated, separated, uprooted African girls and women. 3 — The need for a forceful and massive attack on the enormous inadequacy in continuing and other kinds of education. 4 — The need for speedy mobilization of all possible resources for short and long-term leadership development."

AMONG THE major projects and programs receiving grants in the $650000 total:

$75,000 — Africa Basic Foods Program, Kafpala, Uganda, involving training women to do simple soil research so that more nutritious foods can be developed; $24,000 —Ethiopia Women's Welfare Program; $12,500 — Mindolo Ecumenical Institute, Zambia;

$91,000 — to the World Association for a vocational training program in Ethiopia and projects in Kenya and Uganda; $115,000 — to help develop a residence center and hostel for girls in Salisbury, Rhodesia; $20,000 — to help develop a residence center and supervised facilities for the children of pastors and their wives in Lourenco Marques, Mozambique;

$103,000 — for as yet undesignated needs of African women in Sierra Leone and Liberia; $139,000 — for continuing education of African women and girls including $54,000 for the Haile Selassie School of Social Work center in Rhodesia to provide professional or technical training in such fields as church-and-community work and nursing; and scholarships for Rhodesia, Mozambique and the Congo;

$55,500 — for leadership development seminars including the Family Life program of the All-Africa Conference of Churches, a health consulation in the Congo, and training in church leadership, literacy and other fields in Rhodesia.
