Hints For Homemakers

For an added treat in your Thanksgiving dinner, may I suggest a delightful idea—candy your sweet potatoes with MRS. BUTTERWORTH'S SYRUP.

Ham, pork and vegetables take on a wonderful maple flavor when seasoned with this delicious syrup. During the busy hours on Thanksgiving morning, you will be thankful for the speed and ease of using MRS. BUTTERWORTH'S.

Just think—no more burning butter when melting or finding out your brown sugar is solid as a rock!

Another delightful idea—if your children should prefer something other than the conventional dessert, try chilling MRS. BUTTERWORTH'S and using it as a delicious sundae topping. They will rush through dinner without a fuss, anxiously anticipating this grand finale.

One of my friends commented last Thanksgiving: I should have known of MRS. BUTTERWORTH'S SYRUP ages ago.

The frost is on the pumpkin, and Thanksgiving is drawing near.

The other day a home economist on my staff suggested a new and different variation of the traditional pumpkin pie—topped with her favorite, low-calorie LUCKY WHIP topping mix. After tasting it, I plan to feature it on my own Thanksgiving table.

This pumpkin-mince recipe makes 2 pies: Spread 1½ cups of prepared mincemeat in bottom of 2 unbaked piecrusts. Prepare one recipe of pumpkin-pie filling and pour one-half over each of the two mincemeat-filled crusts. Bake for 10 minutes at 450 degrees F. and for 40 to 50 additional minutes at 350 degrees F. Top with generous dollops of LUCKY WHIP dessert topping.

An added bonus is that you don't have to interrupt your Thanksgiving meal—LUCKY WHIP can be prepared in advance without losing its firm texture. Your guests will really enjoy having their Thanksgiving feast capped with LUCKY WHIP-topped pumpkin-mince pie.

Now that Ricky is busily engaged during the football season with marching-band activities, he needs to keep the uniform's white shirts as spotlessly white as possible.

Those of you with active teen-agers well know how difficult it is to remove stubborn rings on collars and cuffs. Last week when Richard and I attended the KU-South Carolina State football game and returned to Kansas City with a bundle of soiled shirts, I thanked my lucky stars for that heavy-duty liquid detergent WISK. And Ricky and Mom had no doubt that WISK would get the job done.

Most mothers will agree that WISK, because it's liquid and concentrated, actually starts to clean before you start to wash. Another important feature to homemakers is that concentrated WISK is economical: ½ cup of WISK equals 1½ cups of powdered detergents.

So free yourself of those after-game blues by adding blue liquid detergent WISK to your shopping list. I guarantee you that this is one addition you will not regret!

On a recent convention trip I was surprised to discover my traveling companion had brought along her own bar of PHASE III.

I asked why she did not use the bars supplied by the hotel, and she said, "I use PHASE III daily at home and would not be without its odorant protection, even on a three-day trip. I know I can count on PHASE III's deodorant protection during a hectic convention schedule."

"Then, too," she reminded me, "PHASE III is the only deodorant bar that contains cream—an added plus. I think it's great! I get all the deodorant protection I need, and yet it's not harsh to my skin."

So, if you're not already a regular user, take a hint from Inez and her traveling companion. Include PHASE III on your next marketing list. It will carry you safely a long way.

Councils, representing 27 million, petition retention of Job Corps

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Councils, representing 27 million women, petitioned President-Elect Nixon for retention of the Job Corps and other programs for the disadvantaged, here, Friday.

The petition was under the signature of Mrs. James M. Dolby, president of Church Women United; Mrs. Norman Folda, president of the National Council of Catholic Women; Mrs. Leonard Winer, president of the National Council of Jewish Women; and Miss Dorothy I. Height, president of the National Council of Negro Women.

* * *

THE PETITION in behalf of over 31,000 young women and women now enrolled in Job Corps Centers and those awaiting the opportunity to enter training, pointed up the disadvantage of transfer of the existing program to State operated Residential Vocational Education facilities at this time.

"At present," said the petition, "there are not enough schools in operation to meet the needs of our deprived youth. Moreover, we respectfully submit that State operated Residential Vocational Education facilities in Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana and Mississippi are not likely to offer colored youngsters the level of opportunity they now find in Job Corps Centers operated by representatives of private enterprise such as the Burroughs Corporation in Omaha, Nebraska, or non-profit entities such as the YWCA in Los Angeles."

* * *

THE PETITION also pointed out that although the Office of Economic Opportunities provides funds to defray office expenses and the salaries of a small management staff, the members of the National Councils of Catholic, Jewish and Negro Women and Church Women United, working as volunteers, do the actual screening.

Since December 1944, these volunteers have contributed more than six million hours of work without compensation to help more than 60,000 girls between the ages of 16 an d22. They have completed and forwarded more than 30,000 applications for admission to the Job Corps.

* * *

ALSO SAID the petition: "Our organizations are concerned greatly about the millions of citizens living in abject poverty midst great prosperity. Thus, we would hope that your Administration would not seek to dismantle or greatly alter the many programs designed to give the disadvantaged the tools, i.e. education and training, needed to achieve upward mobility in our society. Of overwhelming concern to us at this point is the future to the Job Corps."
