TV series to depict culture

NEW YORK — The most ambitious undertaking yet in American television's race to black is the projected series of 65 half-hour productions coming next year via the Group W (Westinghouse) TV anchors.

Titled "A Thing Called Pride," the series will be written-narrated by historian Thomas R. Cripps, and produced by Mike Hartford at the group's Baltimore anchor, WJZ-TV.

IT IS ENVISIONED primarily for the white viewer, and will cover colored development in the U.S. from early slave days up to current accomplishments in sports, politics, the arts, etc.

The series is slated to premiere early in 1969 via the group outlets.

Woman claims police brutality

CHICAGO — A woman who says she was insulted, dragged across the street, banged against a police car, and kneed in the groin by a policeman who arrested her on Oct. 24, has filed a brutality complaint.

Mrs. Robert L. Barnett, whose husband is associate director of housing of the Illinois Commission of Human Relations, filed the complaint with William J. MacKenzie, registrar of complaints.

Mrs. Barnett said she had just parked her car in front of her home when the officer, Emanuel Irby, approached her and asked for her license. When she asked the nature of the violation, "He started pulling on my purse," she said.

In the melee that followed Mrs. Barnett said she was beaten and that her glasses were purposely kicked under a car. After saying that she was going to "report his conduct," Mrs. Barnett said she was told:

"If you think some judge is going to take the word of a mad woman over that of a man of the law, you're nuts."

Thurgood buys home in county

FAIRFAX — The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors Wednesday afternoon officially welcomed Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall to an all-white community in the county.

The board voted unanimously for chairman Fred Babson to extend the county's official welcome to the justice. Marshall has bought a 52-thousand dollar home in Lake Barcroft.

Marshall completed the transaction on October 13th and he and his wife will soon move from their home in Southwest Washington.

Other federal officials living in Lake Barcroft include Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark and White House aide Barefoot Sanders.

The Marshall Home is located on Lakeview Drive.

Jarvis Board gets new head

HAWKINS, Texas — Dr. Malcolm K. Brachman of Dallas has been named new chairman of the Board of Trustees for Jarvis Christian College in Hawkins, Texas.

A board member since 1967, he succeeds the widely known Dallas attorney and former Southern Methodist University Law School dean, Dr. Robert Storey.

Dr. Brachman is president of Pioneer American Insurance Co. and Northwest Oil Co. He is vice-president of Producers Supply and Tool Co. and of Index Geophysical Surveys. Dr. Brachman is director of all these companies, and of Liberty Universal Insurance Co.

DIAHANN CARROLL and MARC COPAGE

'Julia' and 'son' receive citations

NEW YORK — The mantlepieces of Diahann Carroll and Marc Copage now hold trophies from the National Council of Negro Women.

The performers were cited by the council from their work in the NBC television Network's "Julia" series for their efforts toward furthering the council's objectives of better racial understanding.

Presentations were made during "Night of Stars" festivities at the council's national convention in Los Angeles before 300 delegates last Friday.

* * *

FOR MISS CARROLL, who stars in the series' title role, the council tendered a bust of Mary McLeod Bethune, founder of the 3,000,000 member organization, which was chartered in 1935.

Marc, 6, who plays Julia's son, Corey, was given a trophy of a man holding a wreath.

Presentations were made by council president Dorothy I. Height of New York City.

Accepting for Miss Carroll, who was out of the country during a hiatus in the series' production schedule, was Lurene Tuttle, who is featured in the show as nurse Hannah Yarby, Julia's supervisor.

Billy Daniels' stabbing hurts club temporarily

NEW YORK — Business at the Latin Quarter, dropped considerably following the stabbing of Billy Daniels onstage last week by an assailant who claimed that Daniels owed him several million dollars in gambling debts.

The assault, which occurred on election night with 75 customers in the house, caused a temporary slack in business.

The LQ business, however, was capacity over Friday and Saturday and has been normal for this time of year since.

DANIELS was working when one of the captains, Tom Shaw, escorted Theodore Harmon, to a table. While Daniels turned to accompanist Benny Paine, Harmon stabbed the singer twice with a four-inch penknife.

He was taken to the Polyclinic Hospital and discharged shortly thereafter.

He was back at work the following night.

Harmon was held by two waiters who cornered him with to chairs Clyde Beatty style, while another ran downstairs and brought back two policemen.

Artists stage 'show-in' to protest art exhibit

NEW YORK — In a current art exhibition at the Whitney Museum, not a single work of colored artists is included. The show is displaying American art of the 1930's.

However, colored artists asked Henri Ghent, director of the Brooklyn Museum's Community Gallery, to organize a counter-show, Harlem's new Studio Museum offered space and full support of its staff.

And so, "Invisible Americans," title of the exhibition, is displaying works of colored artists of the 1930's. It runs until Jan. 5.

INCLUDED are over 20 leading artists of the 30's — among them, Romare Bearden, Earnest Crichlow, Jacob Lawrence, Norman Lewis, Hale Woodruff, Richmond Barthe, Aaron Douglas and Augusta Savage. Many are still alive and working today. All have lived with the American tradition of the black artist's invisibility.

Works for the exhibition have been lent by the National Collection of Fine Arts at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., the Schomburg Collection of the New York Public Library, and the Counter Culture Regional Center, as well as by artists and private collectors.

Although Athens is ancient, nearly all of the city has risen since it became Greece's capital in 1834.

Sunday TV show to tell story of 10th Cavalry

HOLLYWOOD — Yaphet Kotto has known about the Buffalo Soldiers since he was a youth.

"I saw an open album in my father's bedroom with a clipping, yellow from age, like something out of a Sunday supplement," he said. "It looked like a picture of a black U.S. Cavalry soldier. It struck me as funny. I laughed. I thought, 'What is this?'"

Today he knows. What's more, he'll portray the leader of the colored troopers in "The Buffalo Soldiers" on The High Chaparral," to be colorcast over the NBC Television Network Sunday.

KOTTO RECALLED the bedroom incident.

"My father came in," he said. "It was one of the first times that my father talked to me about this.

"He said it wasn't funny. I'll never forget his eyes. They were like wild. I had never seen Blacks pictured this way in the history books. I didn't believe him.

"It created a conflict between me and him. He kept telling me those soldiers were black.

"He was trying to educate me. He was quite a reader — he read all the time. He was always turning some profound thing over in his mind."

KOTTO FOUND out, in time, that his father was right. The 10th Cavalry, an all-colored unit, was first organized in July 1866. It patrolled the borders, participated in Indian campaigns, and helped tame and maintain the West.

The term, "Buffalo Soldiers" originated in July 1866. It towed by the Apaches. One hundred years later, in 1966, an equestrian organization was formed, consisting of 35 members, modeled after the original outfit.

They will portray the historic unit in this episode.

"I WAS PLEASED about this role," said Kotto, "because I've never played a leader before. Also, this gave an opportunity to play a historical character, a hero that was real."

Kotto was thinking about the kids today.

"They're in a different position today than I was," he said. "They're willing to accept any handle on history that they can claim. They want to know who they are."

He had dramatic evidence of this from the kids in Watts that he works with.

* * *

"WHEN THEY heard I was doing 'The Buffalo Soldiers,' I received about 50 phone calls from them," he said. "When I started rehearsing the equestrian unit, 700 kids came across town to watch."

These were among the fans Kotto gained after he starred in "Losers Weepers," written by Harry Dolan and produced by Stu Schulberg for NBC-TV's Experiment in Television.

This led to starring roles on "Tarzan," "Cowboy in Africa," "Bonanza," and two motion pictures seen currently, "The Thomas Crown Affair" and "Five Card Stud" with Dean Martin.

"I NEVER HAD any heroes as a kid," said Kotto. "If we have to talk about idols, I'd name Wallace Beery. His ruff, gruff manner really amused me. I admired him. Later I turned to Marlon Brando.

"The thing that did it for me though was when I saw Sidney Poitier in "The Defiant Ones." He was a tough, good-looking black man. I could easily identify with him.

"I said to myself, and I say now, 'If he can do it, I can do it, too.' At that time, he had nobody. Nobody had paved the way. He had none of the advantages I have today."

KOTTO IS motivated by more than just personal ambition.

"I have to do it for the kids," he said. "You get to a point where you feel that they are depending on you. I've got to let them see that it can be done."

As leader of The Buffalo Soldiers, Kotto portrays a first lieutenant.

"One of the kids," said Kotto, "wanted to know when I will play a general."

Pretty 'Mannix' actress is happy wife and mom

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Gail Fisher is the fetching colored girl who plays Peggy Fair, Girl Friday to the detective hero of the revamped "Mannix" series.

Unlike Robinson Crusoe's Friday, Gail is well shod, beautiful, speaks flawless English and can handle a typewriter.

LESS THAN two years ago Gail and her husband, John Levy, moved to southern California from Manhattan, shifting gears from a New York City apartment to a rambling hillside home.

Gail is mistress of a three-level house she describes as groovy.

The first level is comprised of a television room—done in green and blue — a bar and family room with fireplace and pool table (a current status symbol) and a bath.

* * *

THE NEXT level is eight steps higher. It is the main entrance to the house through a foyer and into an enormous living room decorated with contemporary, comfortable furniture in gold and green.

The family swimming pool is a few steps outside the living room. Also on the second level are the Kitchen, dining room and servants' quarters.

On the top level are three bedrooms, three baths, including his and her bathrooms.

* * *

GAIL TAKES almost as much pride in decorating prowess as she does in her cooking. She happily admits her New Orleans gumbo is a smash hit with guests as is her French beef stew.

"I'm handy with soul food, too," she laughs. "Sometimes I cook up a batch of chitlins, a mess of greens and corn bread.

"My folks are from Virginia, so I know how to fix soul food all right."

* * *

IT'S A GOOD thing Gail is versatile around the kitchen. She and her husband entertain at dinner parties at least once a week for as many as 30 guests.

And Gail does all the cooking, claiming all the while that she enjoys it.

Because the Levys are colored, she says, they find California living more hospitable than the east. "We don't see color," she explains. "Our parties are integrated because we dig groovy people, no matter what the color of their skin."

* * *

GAIL PUT the racial situation into a happy perspective when she added: "We don't deprive ourselves of friends because of color."

Gail is the mother of Jolie, 3, and Samara, 9.

On weekends she spends as much time as she can with the girls.

Gail also plays tennis and rides horseback. And she has whipped John at the pool table more than once.

* * *

THE ACTRESS' hours are flexible because the action-adventure drama (CBS-TV) is mainly concerned with private eye Mannix as played by Mike Connors.

Some days she doesn't work at all.

Then again the call sheet may demand that she be at Paramount studio by 6:30 a.m., which means she must be up at 4 o'clock, not infrequently taking a plunge in the pool before reporting for makeup and hairdressing by 5:30.

Most evenings she is home in plenty of time to fix the family dinner. Some days she's home by noon and plays full-time housewife.

"I'm a very happy actress, wife and mother," Gail concluded.

Latest 'Porgy' directed by Ann Brown, first 'Bess'

BY OLLIE STEWART

PARIS — "Porgy and Bess" like Old Man River, just keeps rolling along.

Back in 1954 the show hit Paris, toured Europe (even made it to Moscow) and sort of packed it in for a rest—but even then it was old.

Ann Brown first sang "Summertime" in 1936, something like 32 years ago.

Well, Ann Brown is back with the version that's now on tour in France, but not to sing. She's the director.

And another expatriate, Andrea Wheatley (he married Ann's sister, Mamie) is in charge of the chorus. Each chorus, like each orchestra, is being furnished by the opera houses where the show app
