Morgan Rights Day sets Rev. Phillips speaker

For the 14th consecutive year, Morgan State College will observe "Bill of Rights Day" with a special convocation on Thursday, December 5, beginning 10 a.m., in Murphy Auditorium, on the south campus.

The speaker will be the Rev. Channing E. Phillips, who was seen on nearly every television in nearly every American home last August.

The Rev. Mr. Phillips received nationwide prominence during the Democratic Convention, when his name was placed on the ballot as a Presidential candidate.

Besides being a minister, he is also active in politics, and served as a leader in both anti-poverty programs and civil rights causes.

His interest in civil and community affairs is shown by his participation on such committees as the Black United Front, D.C. Commissioner's Council on Human Relations, Coalition of Conscience;

Council of Churches of National Captial Area, the Washington Urban League, Community Action on Public Education, American Civil Liberties Union and the Washington Branch chapter of NAACP.
