Sears WARNING!

These Pins Contain Poisonous Beans

To Sears Customers Who Purchased Novelty Pins Since November 5, 1968 from the Following Stores:

MONDAWMIN
2000 Mondawmin Mall, Baltimore

GLEN BURNIE
6650 Gov. Ritchie Highway Glen Burnie

It has been determined that the "eyes" in the comic face designs and the center portion of the flower figures consist of a hard-shelled bean which, if chewed or broken and swallowed, could be fatal, because of its extreme toxicity.

The bean, known as a "Jequirity Bean" or "Rosary Pea," is egg-shaped and shiny, with a red or orange body and black tip on one end. Some beans may be discolored and appear brown or black and shiny. If you purchased or received any of the pins containing these beans, please return them immediately to the store for refund.

These pins range from 1 inch to 2 inches in diameter

Powell still faces House seat fight

WASHINGTON — With the opening of the 91st Congress only two weeks away, Congressman Adam Clayton Powell's path to reseating still is strewn with some roadblocks.

Since March 1, 1967 when Powell was prevented from taking his seat by a 307 to 116 vote of his House colleagues, the Harlem solon has been twice reelected, vindicated by two favorable court decisions, granted a hearing by the U.S. Supreme Court and had his case ignored by the Federal grand jury.

Notwithstanding all this action, there still are several barriers the Harlem congressman must surmount before he gains a smooth landing in the House.

In the wake of the Federal grand jury's non-action in the Powell case, Rep. H. R. Gross, R., Iowa, has termed the jury's refusal to hand down a criminal indictment against Powell "a whitewash."

Rep. Gross plans an attempt to block Powell from taking the House seat. He said it was virtually unheard of for a grand jury to be dismissed before it received the question it was asked to investigate.

The grand jury's decision cleared away a major obstacle which might have prevented Powell from assuming his seat when Congress convenes. It appeared he would face only minor opposition.

The special grand jury was empaneled 18 months ago to investigate allegations that Powell, during his six-year tenure as chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, misappropriated public funds by paying staff people who did no work.

The Justice Department issued a three sentence statement on the last day of the grand jury's term, saying it had "concluded that available evidence did not warrant prosecution." It said however, it would continue to study the matter to determine if there was any civil action that could be taken against the New York minister-politician.

Before the grand jury

clearance, Powell stood a good chance of being seated by the new Congress. Many members who voted against him before have since indicated he has been punished enough.

Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif., who led the 1967 fight, says he would not again oppose Powell's claiming his seat.

By denying Powell his $30,000-a-year salary since his rejection, the House has more than recovered the funds the committee charged were wrongfully used.

But Powell may yet get that salary. The Supreme Court last month agreed to rule whether the House had the constitutional power to bar him. A win for Powell would entitle him to back pay and other benefits.

His lost seniority is not at issue in the High Court case, but a favorable ruling would possibly strengthen any case he makes with his colleagues to have it reinstated.

He still faces a contempt conviction in New York City, a charge which he is appealing. A decision in the case is expected before the end of the month.

Tell it to HARRY

Here's your chance to give your opinions on sports to Harry Thompson, formerly with the Los Angeles Rams, now sales specialist for Old Charter.

Today's question:

Who's the faster man in a football uniform, Bob Hayes of the Dallas Cowboys or Homer Jones of the New York Giants?

Charles Williams, longshoreman

Bob Hayes is my man. He's the world's fastest human and that answers the question.

Fred Scott, sportsman

It's not just how fast you go, but how you get there. Bob Hayes is faster because he has lots more deceptive moves than Homer.

Rudy Lograndé, salesman

Bob Hayes, beyond a doubt. His Olympic record and his accomplishments as a pro prove it.

Harry Owen, store manager

Bob Hayes. I watch pro football, I've compared them both, and I strongly believe Hayes is faster.
