safety in numbers

More than money, alone, a bank must represent unquestioned safety; and at The Savings Bank of Baltimore, such safety is a 150-year old tradition.

Yet, even that isn't enough for a savings bank, for our depositors look to us for future security, as well.

During 1968, we added to that security by more than $15 million in interest paid to our depositors, and for your greater protection there is $32,000,000 in reserve and surplus accounts.
