'Petite' purchases caused suspicion, wife tells court

The Circuit Court hearing on the divorce petition filed by Mrs. Bettye Eubanks, 1600 block E. Coldspring Lane, against her husband, Joseph S. Eubanks, will be continued at a future date which the couple's attorneys will set.

The most recent hearing came Jan. 10 in open court before Judge Robert B. Watts.

At issue was the amount of alimony and child support the court will require the husband to pay during divorce proceedings.

Mr. Eubanks was under court order to pay a total of $75 per week from July 10 to Dec. 16 when the order expired.

Since divorce proceedings are not as yet concluded, Mrs. Eubanks has asked the court to reinstate the order for the sum, $25 a week child support and $50 a week alimony.

Mr. Eubanks is assistant professor of Music Education at Morgan State College.

• • •

In her temporary alimony and support petition, Mrs. Eubanks alleged her husband has an income of $15,000 a year.

However, Mr. Eubanks claims his income is $8,600 a year. Contesting the $75 a week temporary sum, he also claims his wife is employed.

During her testimony on the witness stand last Friday, Mrs. Eubanks told the court there were "a petite size fur coat and petite size petticoats" on a New York department store bill that came to the Eubanks' home.

The attractive wife, who appears to be of medium build, also testified, "The petite sizes made me suspicious. They were things I had not ordered. They gave me some inkling my husband was meeting with his lady friend."

Placing the bills before the court as exhibits, the wife said she went to New York to the store to get duplicates of the statements for the court.

• • •

Mr. Eubanks, whose address is stated in court papers as the 800 block St. Paul St., was present in court and sat at one end of the trial table with his attorney, while his wife at the other end was accompanied by her attorney.

The Eubankses were married in Oakland, Calif. Feb. 22, 1952 and have a [illegible] daughter.

In her divorce petition filed in June, 1968, Mrs. Eubanks alleges her husband deserted her.

She asks that she be awarded a divorce, permanent child support and alimony and attorney's fees, in addition to the temporary alimony and support.

• • •

Under questioning from her attorney, the wife told the court her husband went to a hotel to live.

She quoted him as saying his attorney told him not to remain in the Coldspring Lane residence with her.

Mrs. Eubanks also testified she asked her husband to return.

"He said he had to move to a smaller apartment and I said 'well, would you like to consider coming back, and he said 'no,'" she asserted.

• • •

Prior to the open court hearing last week, Mr. Eubanks' income records were summoned by his wife's attorneys.

Mrs. Eubanks' income records were also summoned by her husband and showed temporary employment during 1967 from the Governor's Task Force on Employee Relations.

As a Community Worker in the WIN (Work Incentive Program), Mrs. Williams conscientiously visits the homes of her clients to help them develop the motivation for their own "Upward Mobility," program.

She works at developing job openings and training opportunities for them and then "follows-up" on their progress either on the job, in school or in training.

"We are a close link with our clients," "Willie" says, "sort of like a big sister, or a big brother within a team made up of a supervisor, a manpower specialist and a work-training specialist."

Sisterly love is a quality with which Mrs. Williams is abundantly endowed.

Mrs. Williams was 14 when she dropped out of the eighth grade of school. For some this has been more or less the end of the road. Not for her.

For years she worked as a domestic, as a maid and elevator operator, with the C and P Telephone Co., and as a diet-aide and dinen sorter in a hospital.

• • •

In 1957, Mrs. Williams attended night school for six months, taking general subjects, and determinedly moved along in her own "Upward Mobility," program.

Then, in 1964, the clean-up crew at the Department of Employment Security! She immediately won the regard of the employees there.

Staff members of the Employment Service Division encouraged Mrs. Williams in her drive for an education and she set out for a High School Equivalence.

From September 1965 to May 1967, she took night courses in typing and business math and successfully earned a High School Equivalence Certificate at City College in April, 1967.

Mrs. Williams then applied for, and passed, a State Merit Service Examination for the position of Clerk I and worked in that capacity in the DES Employer Status office. She remained there from January 1967 until her recent appointment.

Mrs. Williams lives a full life. She has managed to rear six children, by a former marriage.

While living in a public housing project, she worked with Urban Renewal staffers to imorove living conditions in the community.

Active in Fountain Baptist Church, she took a Red Cross Home Nursing Course and has served as a nurse in the church for seven years. She also belongs to the church's Courtesy Guild.

The children are Leonard Conigland, 28, an Army veteran; Miss Rosema, 4 Conigland, 26; Edwaru Conigland, 25; Miss Carolyn Conigland, 24; Mrs. Paulette Griffin, 22, and Michelle Williams, 7.

What Do Doctors Advise First For Painful Hemorrhoids?

Conservative treatment usually recommended in most cases of simple, common piles.

New York, N.Y.: Many doctors who keep up with modern practice feel a more conservative treatment (such as sitz baths, and proper medication) should first be tried to relieve hemorrhoids. And what more effective medication could one desire than this exclusive formula which doctors found in most cases—actually shrinks inflamed, swollen hemorrhoids, and promptly relieves pain and burning itch.

Tests on hundreds of patients by leading doctors in New York City, Washington, D.C. and at a Midwest Medical Center proved this so.

This doctor-tested medication also helps check the discharge (embarrassing 'seepage') that causes itching and irritation. It soothes inflamed tissues and spreads a protective coating over the injured area to help guard against further irritation and infection. In addition, it lubricates, softens and makes bowel movements less painful.

The name of this hemorrhoid treatment is Preparation H® and there's no other treatment like it. Preparation H is so effective it outsells all other hemorrhoid remedies combined and no prescription is needed. In ointment or suppository form.
