Frye integrates Tarheel legislature

RALEIGH, N. C. (UPI) — When Henry L. Frye was sworn in Wednesday as a member of the North Carolina House of Representatives, he shattered a 70-year old General Assembly barrier.

Frye is the first colored representative to be elected to the State legislature to the State legislature resident is eager to learn the legislative process and accomplish something.

"I'm looking forward to a very interesting and I hope a productive legislative session. I've been appointed to the legislator who has already sion, "said the 34-year-old House Rules Committee.

Five colored legislators served in the 1899 general assembly: one senator and four representatives. They were ousted the next year and none had returned absent since then.

Fry would not elaborate on his legislative goals, but said he was one of the signers of a bill to establish a Youth Leadership Training Council on a statewide basis.

The freshman legislator said he thought the proposal to create Soul City, in Warren county was "an excellent idea." He pointed out, however, that one project such as that was not a panacea for the problems of all the poor.

But, "Soul City will help a few people get a start in life," he said.

WBAL-TV to air pro wrestling

There will be "no holds barred" as professional wrestling returns to Baltimore television, beginning Saturday at 5 p.m. in color on WBAL-TV 11.

Top professional wrestlers like Bruno Sammartino, Bobo Brazil and Haystacks Calhoun will take to the canvas each week for a full hour of colorful excitement.

The matches are viedotaped in Philadelphia.

J. Frank Cashen, executive vice president of the Baltimore Orioles, will appear Jan. 19 on "TV 11 News: Sunday Supplement," seen in color each week at 6 p.m.

During the 6:30-7 p.m. portion of the telecast, Mr Cashen will be interviewed by TV 11 sports director, Vince Bagli.

Coach of Dunbar likes chances against Poly

If Dunbar coach Bill (Sugar) Cain is able to succeed with his game plan this afternoon, his Poets are going to be the first team to stop unbeaten Poly in Maryland Scholastic Association competition this year.

"I think we have a good chance of taking them," Cain told the AFRO on the eve of this battle between the two MSA basketball leaders. "I think our chances will be a lot better if we can handle (Paul) Neumeyer the way I plan.

"We go into this knowing we've got to stop their big man." Cain went on, referring to the 6-9 Engineer senior.

"We're lucky that we have a couple of big boys, too. Pete Harris and Kenny Greene aren't as big as Neumeyer, but they're hustlers and they can jump.

"If we can handle him when they have the ball, I think we can run them. I know they'll be playing a zone defense, because it doesn't move well enough to try man-to-man. That's why we'll be running.

"I'm not too concerned about our defense. If we run, we can get our chances before he'll be able to get back to use his size for rebounding. Harris and Greene can shoot and Jimmy Carr, though small, is a fine shotmaker."

Poly is 7-0 at the top of Division 2. Dunbar is 6-1 and leading Division 1.

The two schools have met two common opponents this winter, and the results offer little in the way of comparison.

Poly defeated City Tuesday by a score of 74-73. City earlier downed Dunbar by six points. Both played Northern and both were gin of six points . . . LACY. winners by a similar mar-

JUMP KING COMING — Bob Beamon, world record-holder in the long jump and 1968 Olympic gold medalist, will compete in the All-Eastern Invitational rack meet at the Civic Center (Baltimore) February 8. Beamon leaped 29 feet, 2½ inches at Mexico City in what has been described as the "greatest indivdual effort in sports history."

MSA VARSITY SPORTS:

Northwestern lad aquatic prospect

RALPH FINNEY JR.
Sets record at Northwestern

The Maryland Scholastic Association has produced some outstanding athletes in football, basketball and the other major sports. And colleges throughout the nation will attest to the quality of some of the young schoolboys from the Baltimore area.

Edmondson's Charlie Pittman in football, Seton Hall's Kenny House in basketball and Bowdoin's Horace Sessions in football and wrestling are only a few to come readily to mind.

Now, Northwestern High School appears ready to throw a hat in the ring.

Ralph Finney Jr. is still a student at Northwestern, but already there are those who are contemplating a big collegiate career for the youngster in swimming.

Young Finney, a native of Tacoma, Washington, was brought to this city by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Winfred Finney Sr. and enrolled at Northwestern.

He became a member of the football team there in 1967, but last year cultivated a greater interest in the fortunes of the aquatic team.

He switched over and last year set a school record for the 50-yard freestyle event. He also gave Northwestern a first place medal in the 100-yard freestyle.

Last month, Ralph was named to the No. 1 spot on the Northwestern swim team.

At the Towson State College invitational meet in December, he earned two gold medals in the B Conference, one for the 200 and the other for the 400-yard freestyle.

In this same competition, Northwestern's Varsity and Jayvee teams won first place trophy.

Bowie State registration

Bowie State College has announced that it is accepting applications for the Spring session beginning Feb. 10 of its Evening school.

A course in the Evening College requires merely one night a week.

The Evening College was created to enable the individual who, due to family responsibilities, work, or a tight budget, is unable to assume a full-time schedule to pursue an education.

The classes will be held from 7:00 to 9:30 P.M. Monday through Thursday at the college's Bowie campus, and at Belair Junior High School and Laurel Senior High School.

Prospective students should submit their applications immediately. Application information is available by writing Dr. Young, Director of the Evening School, Bowie State College, Bowie, Maryland 20715 or by calling 262-3350, extension 46.

Eyes on tourney, Bears host Bucs

Coach Brutus Wilson openly frets about the fact that his Morgan State College basketball team is thinking in terms of competing in the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association tournament next month

Bullets, etc., in Inaugural

Maryland will be represented in the January 20 Inauguration parade with a gigantic float featuring members of the state's four major athletic teams.

Harry Shenton, of Towson, Maryland, coordinator for the parade, said that the float will be an outstanding example of Maryland craftsmanship.

"The Maryland float is inspired by the rolling hills and sweeping plains of the 'Free State.' It will be covered by thousands of Black-eyed Susans, the official State flower," said Mr. Shenton.

"The overall design concept is in keeping with Maryland's reputation as 'America In Miniature.' Along the length of the float are four giant sculptured Black-eyed Susans. Each one revolves . . . powered by its own electrical plant. Standing in the center of each flower are representatives of the four major league teams from Maryland . . . The Colts, The Clippers, The Bullets and The Orioles. They represent the theme: "Teamwork — Forward Together.

at Greensboro.

College tutors dislike the thought of looking past anything — one game or a series of games — to something which may not come about. But there's little Wilson can do about it, what with his Bear cagers developing a sense of belonging (in tournament circles) with each passing game.

Tomorrow (Saturday) night, the Morgan five engages Hampton Institute in the Hurt gymnasium. And the dream of the Bears is that they can hang up their seventh win in ten outings.

The 7-3 mark would put Morgan in the first division of the CIAA's divided standings. And such a record would give them a commanding position in the run-for the tournament invitations.

With nine games remaining on the schedule after their tiff with the Pirates, the Bears could afford to win only three and lose six, and still make it.

A loss of six in their remaining nine contests would enable Morgan's cagers to finish the campaign with a 10-9 slate, automatic first division under the complicated Dickinson Rating System used in the conference this year-for the last time.

Following tomorrow night's home game, Wilson's charges have a 12-day layoff before invading North Carolina on Jan. 30 to commence a 3-game trip.

The Bears meet North Carolina College at Durham on the 30th, move to Winston-Salem for a game with the Rams the following night, then wind up the trek with a game against St. Paul's at Lawrenceville on Feb. 1. . . LACY.

Arsonist hits AFRO storage building

WASHNGTON
The storage building of the Washington Afro-American severly damaged by a fire that broke out on both floors about 5:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Fire Department officials contributed the blaze to arson saying that the two fires were deliberately set. The 2nd floor fire was set in a newspaper storage cabinet, and the first floor baze originated in a stack of books. Both blazes started in the front of the building.

The storage building is located at 1802 11th St., Northwest, next door to the office building was unharmed.

The building was use to store old newspapers and books and newspaper personnel used the building frequenty.

JAN. 20
A collection of books hand-bound by the late Mrs. John Ruion-Miller will be exhibited through Feb. 28 in the central hall of the Enoch Pratt Free Library.

COBOL for data at CCB

The Community College of Baltimore will offer a fifteen-week COBOL programs beginning February 28, according to Isadore L. Stein, head of the Data Processing Department.

The non-credit seminars are designed to teach the COBOL language and its business applications to students who may or may not have a background in data processing.

Several sessions will be devoted to acquainting the student with the capabilities of computers and the programmer's job.

Students will be taught to describe the divisions of the COBOL language and correctly code them.

The seminars will cover the organization an ddtructure of the Procedure Division of a COBOL program, utilizing the COBOL verbs; condition statements; switching techniques; subscripting; tables; and program sequence control.

Also covered are time sharing applications; updating personnel files; maintaining inventories; cost accounting; and use of random access devices. Time will be spent on the applications of COBOL to various manufacturing equipment.

A UNIVAC 9300 third generation computer, recently installed at the College, will be used in conjunction with the course.

The course, which will run from 7 p.m. to 9:45 p.m. is open to the public. Tuition is $35.00. Registration details may be obtained by calling LA. 3-2151, ext. 219.

3 dragons due sentencing after Shelton rebuff

UP-I
WASHINGTON
The Justice Department said Tuesday that three state Ku Klux Klan grand dragons will probably be called into federal district court here for sentencing in about a month as a result the Supreme Court's denial of review of Imperial Wizard Robert M. Shelton.

The three are James R. Jones of Granite Quarry, N.C., Robert E. Scoggin of Spartanburg, S.C. and Calvin F. Craig of Atlanta.

Prison terms of up to one year and fines up to $1,000 could be imposed on each.

Shelton was charged with six other Klansmen with contempt of congress stemming from a failure to produce Klan records for the House Subcommittee on UnAmerican Activities. Shelton was convicted and sentenced to a year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

The Supreme Court rejected his claims that the subcommittee's investigation had not been authorized by the House, that the supena was unconstitutional and that his plea of self-incrimination relieved him of the obligation to obey the subcommittee.
