BOOK REVIEW:

Author views past, present, future of Black Revolution

(From Nonviolence to Black Power, 1963-1967)
By BENJAMIN MUSE

On Aug. 28, 1963, 100 years after the signing of the Emancipation Proclamation, 200,000 black and white citizens marched in Washington to protest against the oppression of black people in the United States.

The London Daily Herald reported: "America has never seen anything like it. Today, without question, the clock jumped and history changed."

Since 1963 race relations have become America's number one domestic problem.

In this book Mr. Muse presents a comprehensive, reliable, and dramatic account of the years of transition from the great nonvioent campaigns of 1963 and 1964, through the Watts outbreak of 1965, to the nationwide riots of 1967.

He describes the principal organizations from the NAACP to Black Muslims; the principal leaders from Martin Luther King, Jr., to Stokely Carmichael; school demonstrations in North and South;

The murders of Medgar Evers, Mrs. Viola Liuzzo, and others, and subsequent police and court action (or inaction); the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Voting Rights Act of 1965, and their implementation;

The 1964 election; and the war on poverty. He discusses the role of federal, state and local agencies including the Department of Justice, the police, and the courts; the part played by students and the churches;

Steps toward integration in public accommodations, schools, and the armed forces; ghetto realities such as unemployment and the disintegration of the colored family; the "white backlash" in the North; the rise of "Black Power" and its differing interpretations; and the changing image of the black man as seen by himself and by whites.

A final chapter summarizes the report of the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders (1968), and an appendix presents the recommendations of the Urban Coalition in August 1967.

No important aspect of the story is neglected. With admirable clarity Mr. Muse sets forth the sequence of events, the trends and problems of the past five years, giving order and meaning to the flood of news stories that has often overwhelmed and confused the concerned citizen.

"Like all truly good books, this one can be read in several ways. It can be seen as a preview of history as it will be written and read by later generations, for these pages will unquestionably be a major source for future historians.

"It can be read simply as a stirring chronicle, the story of a long oppressed people's climatic struggle for dignity and opportunity. Above all, it can be read for thoughtful guidance by those who seek a better understanding of how we have thus far failed, and how we may yet succeed, in breathing life into our national promise of equality for all."

— Harold C. Fleming, Foreward

Benjamin Muse, one-time Republican gubernatorial nominee, former Virginia State Senator, a member of the Board of Directors of the Southern Regional Council, a Fellow of the Potomac Institute, and winner of the 1963 James Huey Award for Interracial Justice, figures prominently among Southern leaders who have adopted a responsible and rational approach to the problem of integration.

A recognized commentator on the South, Mr. Muse has written articles on Virginia politics and the race problem that have appeared in Harper's, The Reporter, The Nation, and The New Republic. In addition, he contributed a weekly column and occasional feature articles to the Washington Post for a ten year period. He is author of Ten Years of Prelude: The Story of Integration Since the Supreme Court's 1954 Decision, Tarheel Tommy Atkins, and Virginia's Massive Resistance. 360 Pages $6.5.

Job training set for 110 unemployed

Osborne P. Beall, executive director of the Department of Employment Security has announced that Federal approval and funding has been granted to four institutional projects, which will give job training to 110 unemployed or underemployed persons in Baltimore, Cambridge and Cumberland.

The training projects, provided under the Federal Manpower Development and Training Act, include a licensed practical nurse course in Baltimore, which will accomodate 30 trainees;

A licensed practical nurse course in Cambridge for 30 trainees;

And in Cumberland, a licensed practical nurse course for 25 trainees and a toolmachine operator course for 25 trainees.

Total cost of the projects will be $354,844 with the Federal Government furnishing $339,864 and Maryland contributing the balance of $15,180.

The funds provide for training facilities, instructors, and weekly training allowances to trainees, most of whom are headsof households, through the Department of Employment Security.

The Maryland State Employment Service Division of the Department of Employment Security develops the need for training projects; recruits, screens and selects the trainees, and also has the responsibility of finding jobs for the trainees upon the satisfactory completion of an MDTA course.

Refresher for nurses

The Department of Nursing of the Johns Hopkins Hospital will hold a free three-week refresher course for registered nurses interested in returning to work.

The course will begin on Monday, February 10. Hours for the course will be from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Topics to be covered during the course include: I.V.; Therapy; cardiac nursing; pre and post-operative care; nursing management of the cancer patient; pharmacology and other areas of patient care.

Nurses will also be given opportunities for clinical practice.

For application and further information, call the Deoartment of Nursing, the Johns Hopkins Hospital, 955-5160.

Deadline for applications is January 31.

Panel set

"The Impact of Malpractice Suits on the Practice of Medicine," will be the topic of the 34th Medicolegal Symposium to be held Saturday, January 18th from 2:00 to 3:30 at the Belvedere Hotel.

It is sponsored by the Joint Mediocolegal Committee of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of the State of Maryland, the Baltimore City and Maryland State Bar Associations held in conjunction with the mid-winter meeting of the Maryland State Bar Association.

Supreme Bench Judge George D. Solter, will preside over the panel.

Panelists are B. Martin Paul Huffington, Middleton, Md., surgeon; anesthelogist; John Hamilton, M.C., psychiatrist.

The meeting is open to physicians and lawyers.

Center Stage

Center Stage announces that rehearsals for the world premiere of Wallace Hamilton's "Bonus March" have.

The play, directed by Dennis Rosa, will employ multi-media techniques of films, slides and r-recordings.

It will open at the North Avenue theatre, on February 14 and will run through March 16, 1969.

Advanced Math — 14 pt.

The evening division of the University of Maryland will offer an advanced mathematics course at the College Park campus for students and engineers interested in or using applied mathematics. The class, "Variational Calculus and Modern Applications," will meet Monday evenings at 6 p.m. beginning February 10 through June 2.

Hearing set on parking meters

W. Donald Schaefer, president, City Council, has announced that a study he requested from the Department of Transit and Traffic to determine the proper rate structures for parking meters in Baltimore has been completed.

A public hearing will be held in the City Council Chambers on Wednesday at 3 p.m. by the Traffic Committee to review the parking meter rate structure developed as a result of the study.

Mr. Schaefer stated that the results of the extensive study indicated that although the recent increase in the downtown parking meter rates was controversial the desired effect of the parking meter rate increase was effective for most the central business district.

The main purpose of the parking meter rate increase was to discourage the legal long term on-street parking, and to provide short term on-street parking locations for short term business purposes.

Family Day set at Fellowship

"Fellowship: House is reviving "Families for Fellowship," from 4:00 to 7:00 p.m. Sunday, January 19.

The project provides opportunity for whole families to participate together in one program. It allows for adult discussion unencumbered by the younger generation, since children participate in activities planned according to age /or interest.

The "nursery set" is provided for in the Children's Room.

Teenagers can help with younger children or go off to themselves for more mature program of their own choosing. These separate activities are from approximately 4 to 6 p.m.

At 6 a.m., everyone gathers in the large meeting room for supper, reports from the children's groups and singing.

Each family brings its own box supper to alleviate problems of meeting diet preferences and guessing of quantities needed.

Fellowship House is at 3200 N. Hilton St.

Special guests at Sunday's meeting will be the seven "Volunteers to America," foreign teachers who are with the Baltimore public schools.

Lake George and Oneida Lake are the two largest lakes entirely within New York State.

we care A&P what kind of coffeemaker do you use?

It really doesn't matter.

Any coffeemaker can give you a good cup of coffee, providing you use a fine fresh coffee that is ground exactly right for your coffeemaker.

We've always known that the correct grind is important to coffee flavor.

That's why, years ago, we developed Custom-Grinding.

That's why we don't have just one or two grinds but seven different grinds... to fit any coffeemaker, including electric percolators, of course. (Ask for medium-fine grind for electrics).

Custom-Grinding means a little extra work for us and a little extra time for you.

(It takes 15 seconds to grind a pound).

But what a difference in flavor those few seconds make!

You know, there's only one reason we insist on selling custom-ground bean coffees... WE CARE.
