Macalester Choros coming to Bowie

The famed Macalester Drama Choros, directed by Professor Mary Gwen Owen, will make an appearance at Bowie State College on Jan 23, at 8 p.m., Professor Elaine Funk announced this week.

Mrs. Funk, assistant professor of drama and speech at Bowie State, said that the group will appear in McKeldin Gymnasium on the Bowie State campus. The public is invited.

The Drama Choros has gained national recognition for the wit, color, disciplined vitality and sophistication of its performance in the Group-Reading medium. It has traveled across the nation appearing before college and high school convocations, church groups, men's and women's clubs, as well as on radio and television.

The distinctive mark of program presentations of the Drama Choros is the consistent use of fine literature, both classical and contemporary. Satire and provocative ideas highlight programs. Reading arrangements are made with a feeling for the subtleties of the pieces, the colors of the voices of the group, as well as fast-paced theatrical effects.

Modern dance, square dance, group movement, drums, mouth organ as well as other accomplishments — are often used for emphasis or variety. The creative approach adds vividness, freshness, and excitement to performances.

The total group numbers more than 100 members. From these are selected the 36 readers to tour. Repertoire for the tour is chosen from the department's Annual Drama Choros Festival Reviews and staging is adjusted with grace and ease to the invidual auditorium where the group appears.

One of the stirring features of each appearance is the music of two members of the College's Bagpipe Band who pipe the Choros to the stage. Their colorful uniforms both duplicate and highlight the Macalester tartan plaid of the honor sashes worn by women members of the Drama Choros as well as the kilts of the men of the group.

The use of the Macalester plaid accents the Scottish beginnings of the College and gives the total group the unmistakable Macalester College signature.

Jaycees to hold awards luncheon

The Baltimore Junior Association of Commerce will hold its annual "Outstanding Young Man Award" luncheon 12:15 Thursday at the Statler Hilton Hotel with Gov. Marvin Mandel as guest speaker.

OYM award recipients for 1968 are Robert C. Embry Jr., housing commissioner; Gilbert Rosenthal attorney, and Stephen H. Sachs, U.S. attorney for Maryland.

They were selected by a panel of judges which included:

Judge Robert B. Watts, of the Supreme Bench; David Henderson, general manager WJZ-TV; Morton Lapides, president Pepsi-Cola Co.; Milton H. Miller, member [illegible] and Dr. Nicholas Varga, president, United Nations Association of Maryland.

MEMBERS OF the group who met recently at Anne Arundel County's Social Service headquarters to discuss the ABCD Adoption Program are: first row, from left, Miss Mary V. Wiseman, president of the Annapolis Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta; Mrs. Nicholas Rasonis, member of the local advisory board; Dr. Faye Allen, a member of the local advisory board; Mrs. Matilda Harrison, liaison recruiter for the ABCD project of the sorority; Mrs. Lester Levy, co-chairman of the state advisory committee and Maryland Conference of Social Welfare, and Mrs. Preston Gazaway, Annapolis chairman of the Adoption Project. Second row, John Isaac, assistant director of the county's Social Service Department; Mrs. T. Norwood Brown, a member of the sorority; Thomas LaVelle, general manager of radio station WNAV; Mrs. Esther Carpenter, director of the county's Social Services department; Mrs. Paul H. Whitmore, Anne Arundel County adoption supervisor; Mrs. William H. Richardson, press representative, and Mrs. Thelma T. Dale chairman of the national projects committee for the national body of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority and state chairman of the Adoption Project. — Barnes Photo

Annapolis Deltas back adoption home project

There is no mother who is more ... deserving of our praise .... than she who takes another's child ... to comfort and to raise ... Who has the disposition, the courtesy ... to keep and call her own ... The baby someone selfishly ... Allowed to live alone ... Her name is Foster-Mother but ... It should be Angel-Queen ... For she is all the nobleness ... That motherhood can mean ... She is a bit of Heaven on ... A cold and cruel earth ... Where all too often human life ... Is deemed of little worth ... Her child belongs to her not by ... the grace of nature's art ... But by the choice made freely ... The goodness of her heart. — JAMES J. METCALFE

By Eloise Richardson

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — This is an appeal to the many would-be mothers, who now can have that child or those children they have longed for so long.

There are many "unsung mothers" who have loved and been kind to the children of others for the want of the grace of nature's art and some have adopted them as their very own.

Here is a chance for others: —

The Maryland Conference of Social Services and the national body of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority have joined forces in an effort to recruit adoptive parents for 2,000 black children awaiting permanent homes.

The environmental factor of homes is the major prerequisite rather than age levels or marital status of prospective parents.

The sorority, an integrated group of professional women, along with the conference, laid the groundwork for a program entitled ABCD (Adoption of Babies Through Conference Social Welfare and Delta Sigma Theta.

This is a move which involves these groups in a concerted effort of a much needed service for youngsters in a changing emphasis of adoption by searching the highways and byways, according to the local chairman, Mrs. Preston Gazaway, who is assistant director of Family Aid Services of the Anne Arundel County Department of Welfare.

Mrs. Lester S. Levy, ABCD co-chairman, who represents the conference, cited the problem of the homeless black babies as the total number of children in Maryland needing adoptive homes.

The Annapolis chapter of Delta, which has consistantly supported its community in endeavors related to the needs of youth and human relations, is working with the local advisory board, the press, the radio, and other outlets of communication to implement the effort in this area.

The advisory board members and other officials met with the press and radio representatives at Welfare headquarters recently to outline the scope of the adoption program locally with Mrs. Gazaway presiding.

Mrs. Thelma T. Daley of Baltimore, chairman of Deltas' national projects of the state ABCD project, explained all aspects of the program.

The program envisons adoption parties, throughout the area. The first was held at the home of Miss Mary C. Wiseman, a member of the ABCD Advisory Board last month.

This first party brought promising results, when several participants indicated their interest in considering the adoption plan. One individual completed filling out a form and others offered to serve as hostesses for other adoption parties.

Mrs. Matilda Harrison, special case worker for the A B C D project will be in charge of all applications. She may be reached at 268-0338, or through the Welfare Department.

This adoption project is a related link in the chain of activity sponsored by Delta.

The sorority spearheaded and substantiated a great need of a school for pregnant girls in Baltimore City, a project which entailed door-to-door visits with pregnant school dropouts.

After it was ascertained that a school should be established, which would meet the needs of these displaced girls, educationally, emotionally, and psychologically, it was adopted by Baltimore City Public Schools. Mrs. Vivian Washington who is principal, is a national Delta officer.

Officers and members of the local Delta Sigma Theta Chapter are: Sorors Mary V. Wiseman, president; Marguerite Hall, vice-president; Ida Rogers recording secretary; Matilda Harrison, treasurer; Laura Burns, parliamentarian; Sarah E. Williams, sergeant-at-arms; Rose Wiseman, journalist; Also Sorors Agnes Abernethy, Natalie Ballard, Willie Mae Barnes, Mary C. Brown, Thelma T. Daley, Anis Gazaway, Anne B. Goodwin, Muriel Holland, Pearl E. Ford, Ann Jenkins, Rita Norman, Gloria Massie, Lois Randall, Jean Sparrow and Ethel Wilson.

Educational TV sets 1st program

The Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting has begun production of its first program "Nightmare's Child," according to announcement this week by Dr. Frederick Breitenfield Jr., executive director.

The hour-long original play is the initial segment of a proposed 30-part series to be called "Stories of Maryland," and will be the inaugural telecast by WMPB, Channel 67, when it goes on the air later this year.
