MOURNERS attended funeral services for the Rev. Isaac L. Williams, pastor of Mt. Pleasant Baptist Church, at his church Wednesday at noon. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Hazel J. Williams (front row, arrow); a daughter, Miss Dwyn D. Williams; son, Isaac Jr.; his mother, Mrs. S. W. Williams Sr. and by a brother and nine sisters. The Rev. Dr. James A. Everett, pastor of New Shiloh Baptist Church, presided at the services.

R. J. Reynolds announces institutional press drive

NEW ORLEANS — Plans for a major institutional advertising campaign in colored-oriented newspapers across the country were announced here this week by R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company.

Reynolds, which manufactures three of the four best-selling brands of cigarettes in the U. S. (Winston, Salem, and Camel), made the announcement at a news conference during the Mid-winter Workshop of the National Newspaper Publishers Association.

A company spokesman described the campaign as "an effort to acquaint the consumer with Reynolds in general, including its products, policies, personnel and its corporate citizenship."

He said the institutional advertising would supplement RJR product advertising directed at consumers through colored-oriented magazines and radio stations.

• • •

"We at R. J. Reynolds are fully aware of the tremendously important role being played by the nation's minority press and the responsible influence it is having on America's black citizens.

"As a result, we have decided to utilize these newspapers in a constructive fashion to help tell our story in matters of particular interest to their readers."

The company declined to reveal the exact cost of the campaign. It was, however, described as a "significant expenditure for print media advertising."

The first advertisements are expected to appear in the spring in what was termed "a very broad range" of newspapers.

The advertisements will also include information on R. J. Reynolds Foods, Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary whose products include Hawaiian Punch, Chun King oriental foods and Br'er Rabbit molasses and syrup.

The anticipated population increase of 19,000 people, in Frederick County, between 1970 and 1980, has caused the church groups to join in considering plans for adequately ministering to the increase.

On Jan. 14, a group of church leaders, meeting in Walkerville discussed ways of meeting the changing population's religious needs.

The group consisted of Rev. Berne Zerkel (U.C.C.O.), Rev. Robert Woodward (Baptist), the Rev. Maurice Ashbury (Episcopal), and the Rev. Allan Moore (United Presbyterian) representing denominations in Frederick County.

Dr. Donzel Wildey and the Rev. Robert Bell represented the Maryland Council of Churches.

Must watch Nixon on schools-Wilkins

NEW YORK — The NAACP will keep a close eye on the Nixon Administration's policy toward school desegregation under Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Executive Director Roy Wilkins reported to the Association's 60th annual corporate meeting here, Jan. 13.

"If there is one place where the new administration must be watched like a hawk," he said, "it is on this issue of the enforcement of the law on school desegregation.

"Certain advisors are pressing Nixon to turn his back, to look the other way, to forget Title VI, to forget guidelines for school desegregation, to abdicate federal responsibility for the enforcement of federal laws to the states."

To leave school desegregation to leave all such matgation to the slow processes of state action would, Wilkins said, "be another kind of gas oven for the minds and bodies of blacks for the spirits of whites."

• • •

"In the new administration in Washington," he said, "our political acumen will be tested. It is us and our cause, which is also America's cause, against powerful forces that helped elect Nixon.

"If we are wise, we will fashion a big stick out of our votes, watching carefully and talking softly — just in case."

The NAACP leader's 19-page report covered a wide range of the association's activities last year with special emphasis on education, housing, employment, consumer protection and voter registration.

He paid tribute to the work of such staff personnel as Clarence Mitchell, director of the Washington Bureau; Gloster B. Current, director of branches and field administration; Mrs. Ruby Hurley, Southeastern regional director; William Morris, director of housing programs; James Brown, acting youth director; Alex Waites, in charge of the Mississippi Emergency Relief program; Miss Althea T. L. Simmons, secretary for training; and others.

Quiet youth stabbed after weekend party

"Albert—we called him 'Butch'—was my oldest boy, and he used to take responsibility for the other ten children. He was quiet and responsible, not a violent child at all. He'd even cook and mind the house when I'd be sick or tied up with the others."

Mrs. Irma Cook, 32, of the 1700 block E. North Ave., was reminiscing quietly with relatives and friends at her sister's house, where they had come to pay their respects after the knife slaying of her son Albert, 17.

They youth had been stabbed to death after a party Saturday night in a home in the 1700 block E. Lafayette Ave.

Mrs. Cook, quiet and composed as she sat, dressed in mourning, went on:

"Butch had a heart condition, so I always liked to do things for him, and he was always very grateful, even for the slightest things.

"It was because of his heart condition that he had to look for light work when he left school. He was a ninth-grader over at Clifton Park when he left to go to work over at Fort Howard Hospital.

"He was baptized at St. Francis Xavier's and he took Holy Communion over there, and went to church at St. Paul's with the rest of the family. He was such a peaceful child."

As relatives and friends gathered quietly about Mrs. Cook in the clean, warm room, offering their condolences, one of the ladies looked up sadly, adding, "He was a very well-mannered young man—all of her children are. And he was so handsome, he loved to dress well."

Funeral services for the dead boy were held Thursday morning at St. Paul's Church, 1501 E. Oliver St. Burial was at the Baltimore National Cemetery on Old Frederick Road.

Held without bail awaiting trial on a date to be set by the States's Attorney's office is James Maurice Holloway, also 17, of the 1600 block N. Washington St.

He was accused of homicide at a preliminary hearing Sunday morning before Municipal Court Judge Albert Blum.

According to two teenage witnesses who were at the party with both young Cook and Holloway, a fight broke out between two other guests as they left the home at about 12:30 a.m., when the party ended.

This fight was broken up by the mother of one of the fighting youths, who led her son away from the scene, witnesses told plice.

However, as the excitement subsided, police said someone in the crowd that gathered near the intersection of Rutland and Lafayette Ave., shouted loudly:

"Is there any more competition?"

At that point, the witnesses agree, a youth responded to what he seemed to think a challenge, by removing his coat and advancing toward young Cook.

Cook, who apparently did not expect the attack, ran north on Rutland Ave., with the other boy in hot pursuit, according to police.

As Cook approached the corner of North Ave., the witnesses told police, he tripped and fell on the pavement in front of the Bermuda Bar, and was stabbed in the right chest by his purser, who was at this point directly in back of him.

• • •

The youth, taken to Johns Hopkins Hospital by a Fire Department ambulance, was pronounced dead on arrival at 12:36 a.m. Accompanying the dead boy in the crime was not recognized by his mother, Mrs. Irma Cook, 32.

Young Holloway was arrested within the hour at his home by Homicide Squad detectives called to the scene by Eastern District officers.

The knife allegedly used in the crime was not revovered, despite a thorough search of the scene by Eastern District police.

Wilkins is blasted on students stand

NEW YORK (UPI) — Militant Roy M. Innis said Tuesday the civil rights movement was "dead" and condemned NAACP leader Roy Wilkins for his opposition to student demands for black studies departments and separate dormitories on college campuses.

Innis, executive director of CORE—told a news conference that while Wilkins was an "elder statesman" of the civil rights movement, the NAACP head was now "out of touch" and was taking positions "directly opposed to the best interests of black people."

Last week Wilkins, 67, denounced black student demands for autonomous black studies departments and black dormitories as a form of Jim Crow and threatened to use the legal resources of the NAACP to prevent their implementation.

Innis called Wilkins' statement last week "a straw" and said that CORE would use its resources to defend the students in the demands.

"We are against the policy of integration and assimilation offered by Wilkins," Innis said.

The CORE leader challenged Wilkins to a public debate or private dialogue in the interest of "getting all the facts straight concerning black nationalism and the rise in black power and autonomy."

Wilkins' statements and Innis' response was the latest in a series of verbal jousts among movement leaders over the significance of black power.

Wilkins has called on moderates to fight extremists. Innis said Tuesday that the NAACP under the guise of moderation, had "condoned and legitimized racist, antiblack sentiment."

The 37-year-old CORE leader suggested Wilkins step down and let younger men take over.

Stokes is given Un-American post

Democratic leaders Wednesday named a freshman congressman to the House Committee on Un-American Activities — but not the one they originally considered for the job.

Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, brother of Cleveland Mayor Carl Stokes, got the appointment in a switch after members of the committee on committees were reported by Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., to have selected for the post another first termer, Rep. William Clay, D-Mo.

Pepper, a southern liberal who has been critical of some of the activities of the committee in the past, also was added to its membership as part of a leadership effort to improve the group's procedures and image.

Pepper's office said he had been misinformed in announcing Tuesday the final selection of Clay, a militant civil rights leader and veteran of demonstration arrests in St. Louis.

It was learned that Clay was considered for the post but finally was dropped in favor of stokes after members recalled an old practice under which Democrats some years ago agreed to appoint only lawyers to the committee.

Stokes is a lawyer. Clay formerly was a union official.

Filling out remaining vacancies on the Democratic side, in addition to Pepper and Stokes, are Reps. Edwin W. Edwards, La., and freshman Rep. Richardson Prever, N.C.

From 1964 through 1967, the number of disabling injuries suffered by America's work force averaged 4.6 million annually. This was twice the number resulting from automobile accidents. Since the work force represents only one-third the total population, the rate of job-to-auto injuries was actually six times as great, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

If YOU Ask ME

BY BETTYE M. MOSS

People, places and things

Northwestern High School invited parents and prospective students to tour its plant and learn about its curriculum at an Open House on Sunday afternoon.

They did a good job convincing the interested audience of family groups that this was one of the best schools in the city.

A few parents gave up to tired feet, but their energetic sons and daughters didn't miss an inch of the new (1966) school building that is located at Park Heights Ave. and Falstaff Rd.

• • •

They saw four floors of well-kept classrooms, a language laboratory, swimming pool and gym, library, computer center and many different kinds of business machines, including printing equipment.

Other schools might be doing just this but we have only heard of students visiting other schools with their classes but not with their parents on a Sunday afternoon.

Hats off to Northwestern. (Don't say you didn't know. There was a story in last Friday's AFRO inviting you.)

Busy artist: James Jones will be exhibiting prints, watercolors and drawings at the Townhouse Gallery, 700 McCulloh St., from now until February 15.

Mr. Jones has also been invited to exhibit at Elizabethtown College in Pennsylvania during March.

His paintings, prints and drawings may also be seen at the Jerry Gilden Gallery, in Pikesville.

Mr. Jones is presently teaching at Morgan State College and has exhibited in numerous group and one man shows.

Past exhibitions were held in Cleveland, Ohio, at the Karamu Gallery; Baltimore Museum; Cocorran Gallery, Washington, D.C.; Wilmington Society of Fine Arts; Dennison University, Granville, Ohio; the International Gallery of Art Maryland and Studio 13, Philadelphia.

Cuff note: The Maryland Society of the Sons of the American Revolution and the national body of which it is a member, have no color line.

Dr. J. King B. E. Seegar Jr., president of the Baltimore unit, is authority for this information.

The question arose because the society awards good citizenship medals to area college ROTC members, including Morgan State.

Morgan President, Dr. Martin Jenkins asked the racial policy of the organization and suggested it keep its medals if there was no color line. There isn't.

More about people, things

Here's something different: — The Department of Forests and Parks will conduct an examination for the licensing of tree experts at 10 a.m. Thursday, February 6, in the State Office Building, Annapolis.

Applications are available at District Offices in Salisbury, Bel Air, LaVale and Laurel.

They must be filled out and mailed with a $15 fee to the Annapolis Office of the Department prior to the examination date.

Maryland law requires that all persons engaged in tree trimming operations must be licensed and possess liability and property damage insurance. Violators are subject to prosecution under Chapter 795 of the Annotated Code.

Well!

This tribute to Baltimore teachers appears in the current issue of the PTA Council Newsletter: —

The teacher is a prophet; he lays the foundation of tomorrow.

The teacher is an artist; he works with the precious clay of unfolding personality.

The teacher is a friend; his heart responds to the faith and devotion of his students.

The teacher is a citizen; he is selected and licensed for the improvement of society.

The teacher is an interpreter; out of his maturer and wider life he seeks to guide the young.

The teacher is a builder; he works with the higher and finer values of civilization.

The teacher is a culture-bearer; he leads the way towards worthier tastes, saner attitudes, more gracious manners, higher intelligence.

The teacher is a planner; he sees the young lives before him as a part of a great system which shall grow stronger in the light of truth.

The teacher is a pioneer; he is always attempting the impossible and winning out.

The teacher is a reformer; he seeks to remove the handicaps that weaken and destroy life.

The teacher is a believer; he has abiding faith in the improvability of the race.

"Purposes of the P.T.A.", is the title of this verse by the Vermont P-T: —

Not to raise children easier, but to raise them better.

Not to make money, but to make lives.

Not to criticize the home, but to raise the standards.

Not to ignore poor schools, but to improve them.

Not to operate in schools, but to co-operate with them.

Not to find fault, but to find facts.

Not to make every child a prodigy, but to give him a chance.

Smile a while: These gems are from Table Talk, the Marriott Corp. pamphlet:

Eye Specialist: "Did you know you have a cataract, Mrs. Mitslbush?"

Mrs. M: "Not so, doctor, I drive a Buick."

To drink and drive, and still survive
You'll find the safest scheme
Is pour the whiskey in the tank,
And drink the gasoline.

Doctors Advise Hemorrhoid Patients To Try Non-surgical Help First

In most cases of simple, common piles conservative treatment usually recommended first

New York, N.Y.: In a severe case of hemorrhoids there's no cure except surgery and even surgery doesn't effect a permanent cure in every case. However, there are many conditions (such as simple, uncomplicated piles) where many doctors feel conservative treatment (such as sitz baths, and proper medication) should be tried first. And what more effective medication could one desire than this exclusive formula which doctors found in most cases—actually shrinks inflamed piles, promptly relieves pain and the burning itch.

Tests on hundreds of patients by doctors in New York City, Washington, D.C. and at a Midwest Medical Center proved this so.

The name of this doctor-tested medical treatment is Preparation H®. There's no other hemorrhoid treatment like it. Preparation H also helps check the discharge ("seepage") that causes itching, soothes inflamed tissues and coats the irritated area with protective medication to help guard against further irritation and infection. In addition, it lubricates and softens and makes bowel movements less painful.

Preparation H is so successful, it outsells all other hemorrhoid remedies combined. And no prescription is needed. In ointment or suppository form.

This used to be about as close as any black kid ever got to a college.

Now, things have changed. About all it takes for any kid to go to the college of his choice is brains. And money. That means careful financial planning on the part of the parents.

We can help with the money. North Carolina Mutual has a policy that can insure that your child will have the money it takes to go to college. And your North Carolina Mutual man can offer you a plan that fits your family's personal needs.

We're a Negro operated company that's been helping blacks plan for tomorrow since 1898. It's made us one of the strongest companies in the insurance industry today. You can count on the future. Because we count you in.
