CAREER BOUND—Lovely Denise Hawkins, who took first place in a screening for models by a city department store, is headed for a modeling career. Currently she is on the modeling staff at Hutzlers, and is vying in a contest for the title of "Miss Fashionetta" to be staged in March. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie P. Hawkins of Baltimore.

South Baltimore General fails to show for Cherry Hill dialogue

An expected dialogue between representatives of the South Baltimore General Hospital and members of the Cherry Hill Co-ordinating Council failed to materialize Monday night.

Administrative officers of the hospital had been invited to a meeting of the council to help explain the hospital's role in the community.

Carl Behm, director of the hospital for the past 20 years, said he was unable to attend the meeting because of prior commitments.

Mr. Behm told the AFRO "I didn't feel anything would be solved by me or my representatives going to Cherry Hill.

• • •

"I would be very happy to meet with Mrs. Bundy and a few representatives, if they come to the hospital." Mr. Behm told the AFRO as to charges by Cherry Hill residents that they were often mistreated at the hospital, Mr. Behm said explained:

"We are most receptive to complaints, but we must have specific names of the offenders and the date of the charges."

• • •

Mrs. Sarah J. Bundy, president of the Council, said that she had sent invitations to Mr. Behm and Dr. Robert Parker, director of medical services, after receiving complaints from residents of the area.

"I think it's most regrettable that no representatives of the hospital are here at this meeting," said Mrs. Mary English, 624 Boundview Rd., who is a registered nurse in the Baltimore Health Department.

Mrs. Bundy told the AFRO that another invitation is being sent to the hospital in an attempt to have the residents and hospital administrators iron out the complaints.

• • •

During the meeting, Officer R.A. Hunt explained the duties of the Baltimore police department's youth division.

Dr. John Dohoff local officer in the Baltimore Health Department, and James Edwards, an administrator in the department, discussed their efforts to improve the Health Center in Cherry Hill.

There was an enthusiastic change when the subject of a new recreation center for the area was discussed.

Although the present facilities are limited, a new recreation center is not planned for Cherry Hill until 1978.

• • •

Other officers of the Co-ordinating Council are Mrs. Ruth V. Hill, vice-president the Rev. Mr. John H. Clark, 1st vice-president; the Rev. Mr. William Hayden, recording secretary; Mrs. Elizabeth Greer, treasurer; Howard Burre, editor of the Cherry Hill News, executive secretary.

Musical Moments:

Morgan and Penn offer now series

By ADAH K. JENKINS

Morgan State College and the University of Pennsylvania in the first of a series of cooperative projects presented the University of Pennsylvania Glee Club last Friday evening in the Murphy Auditorium at Morgan.

Under astute direction of Bruce Montgomery the organization presented an informal program mainly of modern and semi-popular music, with the conductor offering witty and appropriate program notes.

Especially well received were two of his arrangements as well as "Impossile Dream" and "Simple Gifts" from Copland's Appalachian Spring".

A unique offering was "Canticos Colombianas No 1 (by Escabor) with which the integrated glee club made quite a hit on its recent tour of South America.

Following the intermission the club presented "Afterglow," a show which has been performed in alumni centers throughout the country with signal success.

Mark Williams, black tenor, was soloist in the "The Wind is a Woman" and accompanists were Robert Moir and Robert Hallock.

This program demonstrated a modern trend in glee clubs, which is a departure from the time-honored 'close harmony" and well known classics, which popularized the male singing organization in past years.

Contemporary programs are more from Broadway musicals, rock and roll and country music all favorites of collegiate audiences.

The University of Pennsylvania Glee Club sang with appropriate taste, "got in the groove" when the music called for it all made particularly enjoyable because of excellent enunciation.

In the sizable audience were a number of the Pennsylvania alumni, including members of Morgan faculty.

Armenta Adams, who is piano soloist Saturday Feb. 15) at the Lyric for the Baltimore Symphony all-Gershwin program, is a graduate of Juilliard School of Music, with three successive full-tuition scholarships.

The black musician who began her music education at the New England Conservatory, will play the famous Gershwin "Concerto" and also "Rapsody in Blue."

Miss Adams appeared on the Independence ceremonies of Sierra Leone at the invitation of the government, followed by a United States-sponsored tour of Ghana and Liberia. In all the pianist has appeared in recital in 27 countries.

Brian Priestman will conduct the Lyric concert Saturday evening.

Alfons and Aloys Kontarsky, duo pianists, who were highly acclaimed here last season appeared in the second 20th Century Chamber Music Festival sponsored at the Baltimore Museum by the Chamber Music Society of Baltimore.

The afternoon included works by Debussy, Stroinsky, Stockhausen, Bussotti and Messiaen; ranging from the late 1900's to the present.

Beginning with the sensitive interpretation of Debussy's revolutionary "En Blanc et Noir" (White and Black), the two pianists embarked upon a masterful interpretation of giants in the field of contemporary piano literature.

Stravinsky, from the soviet, was in sharp contrast with his severe and complex Senata to "Vision de l'Amen" by the French composer, Massiaen.

Of the seven "Amens" of the latter work the duo pianists played three — "Amen of Creation Desire and Consummation."

As in this case, when the contemporary composer is inspired by a definite idea rather than by a purely classic form, the music communicates more surely.

Bussotti's "Tableaux" based on a play about the horrors of Marquis de Sade was an amazing display of what to do at a piano other than the conventional playing.

Slapping the outside of the case, plucking the naked strings by hand or striking them with mallets or the fist were but a few of the "attacks".

Although each pianist had a sheet of directions, much was improvised in this first local performance of the work.

Aloys Kontarsky gave a virtuoso solo presentation of Piano Piece IX by Stockhausen. This is also a composition with special notation that among other items, omits time signature, but painstakingly marks loud, soft and other dynamics.

The artists took numerous curtain calls and played several delightful encores by Debussy.

The Festival continues March 2 with the Danzi Woodwind Quintet.

Diesel class at Carver

TRUCKERS COURSE OPENS

Dr. Wilmer V. Bell, Director Adult Education, Baltimore City Public Schools, announced that the Maryland Motor Truck Association and the Adult Education Division in conjunction with two unions, has recently established a Trucking Industry Apprenticeship Training program for truck mechanics in the field of diesel and gasoline engines.

The first class of related instruction started at Carver Adult Evening Center and will be under the supervision of Dr. Bell.

Walter S. Malinowski, Director of the Trucking Industry, reported that thirty seven (37) apprentices and journeymen were present for the first session.

When not in the related training classes the men are engaged in on-the-job training assignments with the various members of the Maryland Motor Truck Association.

All apprentices receive attractive starting salaries with increases every six (6) months. Persons interested in applying for such training may obtain full information at the Maryland Motor Truck Association, 3000 Washington Blvd., 21230.

FEB. 16

"The Artist/Teacher," an exhibition featuring the works of six well-known artists, who are also distinguished teachers, will open at the WCBM Art Gallery, 2813 North Charles Street, from 1 to 5 p.m.

Birds and fowl topics in Assembly

AFRO Bureau

ANNAPOLIS — Maryland's General Assembly shoved aside a volume of more meaningful bills this week to give attention to a bird bill and a measure dealing with cockfighting.

The Senate on Wednesday, after some earlier discussion, passed a bill already approved by the House of Delegates to provide that buzzards be an unprotected bird, as are English sparrows, European starlings and crows.

On Tuesday, the House killed a bill that would prohibit cockfighting as a sport in the state.

Its sponsor was a woman delegate.

She and several opposing male delegates argued over the bill for 35 minutes.

One male delegate said it was "legislation against all of the male population.

Another of the men lawmakers drew prolonged laughter and virtually signed the bill's death knell when he stated:

"It's a fowl bill. If you don't raise certain kinds of fowls to fight, they're going to be frustrated, and there is no fouler fowl than a frustrated fowl."

The sum total of what the sponsor said in several lengthy rebuttals was that it was a cruel sport and there ought to be a law against it.

On USS Truckee

USS TRUCKEE — Signalman Seaman Clayburn T. Sydnor, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hempsal S. Sydnor of 1806 N. Chapel St., and husband of the former Miss Maggie Clinton of 1913 E. Lafayette Ave., all of Baltimore, is serving aboard the fleet oiler USS Truckee in the Mediterranean.

His ship is operating with the U. S. Sixth Fleet. When not engaged in Fleet exercises at sea he will visit a number of ports in such countries as Greece, Italy, and Spain.

MARCH 8, 9

Heinz Wunderlich, one of Germany's most-known organ virtuosi, will present master classes and an open recital at the Church of St. Michael and All Angels, St. Paul and 20th Sts.

What Do Doctors Advise First For Painful Hemorrhoids?
Conservative treatment usually recommended in most cases of simple, common piles.
New York, N.Y.: Many doctors who keep up with modern practice feel a more conservative treatment (such as sitz baths, and proper medication) should first be tried to relieve hemorrhoids. And what more effective medication could one desire than this exclusive formula which doctors found in most cases actually shrinks inflamed, swollen hemorrhoids, and promptly relieves pain and burning itch.
Tests on hundreds of patients by leading doctors in New York City, Washington, D.C. and at a Midwest Medical Center proved this so.
This doctor-tested medication also helps check the discharge (embarrassing 'seepage') that causes itching and irritation. It soothes inflamed tissues and spreads a protective coating over the injured area to help guard against further irritation and infection. In addition, it lubricates, softens and makes bowel movements less painful.
The name of this hemorrhoid treatment is Preparation H® and there's no other treatment like it. Preparation H is so effective it outsells all other hemorrhoid remedies combined and no prescription is needed. In ointment or suppository form.

A memorial service for Douglass S. King, the longtime Bates High principal will be held in the school auditorium, Annapolis, on March 2, at 3 p.m.

Make it a special date to see the "Cactus Flower," a comedy by Abe Burrows based on a play by Pierre Barillet and Jean Pierre Gredy. It is playing at the Morris Mechanic Theatre here in Baltimore.

Good entertainment, says this column's theatre reviewer.

The story, the locale of which Mr. Burrows has shifted from Paris to Manhattan, revolves around the love affair between a young Greenwich Village-type bohemian and a successful uptown dentist.

Proud as can be are the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. James Adams (Felicia).

They have recently received word that their Vietnam veteran son has won honors.

He is Marine Sgt. Hershell Adams. His award is the Naval Achievement Medal for superior performance and professional achievement while serving with the 1st Marine Aircraft Wing in Vietnam—Aug. 1967-Aug. 1968.

He was particularly praised for the 'exemplary way' he performed in combat.

Sgt. Adams is now stationed in Jacksonville, Fla., where he lives with his wife, the former Alice Marie Dowdy, and their son, Hershell Jr. 6.

Sears management take note! This incident happened Monday night to a reader in your Mondawmin store. Let her tell it:—

"A group of four persons, man, woman and two children, was shopping beside me at the ski jacket rack.

"I walked over to the salesgirl to ask if the jackets would wash.

"When I returned to the rack this man was stuffing a jacket into a black and white shopping bag as the three other persons with him stood nearby.

"I went over to the cashier's counter where the salesgirls were busy talking about whether their colleges had laboratory schools.

"Finally, when the clerk turned toward me, I looked up and the man in the group was standing beside me.

"He no longer had the shopping bag.

"He asked the salesgirl for change. I forgot about talking to the salesgirl.

"As I left the store I spotted a policeman in the aisle. I couldn't resist the temptation to say to him that the aisles were no place to watch for thieves."

About this and that

Good news about a good neighbor:— Arnold Williams will be leaving for England, as of March 2. There he will be studying orthopedic technology.

Mr. Williams has been employed at the University Hospital as senior hospital attendant for the past 7 years.

While there, he developed a liking for orthopedics and worked as assisant in the operating room.

In England, he will be attending the Robert Jones-Agnes Hunt Memorial Hospital, located in Oswestry. It is the only hospital offering this type of education.

Mrs. Williams finished his High School education while serving in the Marine Corps.

He also took a Licensed Practical Nursing Course. He has been accepted as a Member of the American Society of Orthopedic Technicians in California.

When he completes his training and returns to the States, Mr. Williams said he plans to form a chapter for the American Orthopedic Technicians in Maryland.

Mr. Williams lives at 709 Dolphin Street with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walker.

In new post: Sherlock Grinage, as of Jan. 11, has been a salesmanager with Kronheim Co. (Old Taylor, Old Granddad, etc).

Also promoted, Leonard Libman and Al Schudel. Tom Hurst is the vice president and general sales manager.

The Feb. 1 minimum wage increase of 15 cents, from $1.15 to $1.30 will include a million and a half more employees in retail service establishments, hotels, motels and restaurants.

However, such worker will be exempt from overtime provisions.

Residential care and nursing employees will continue on the 48-hour straight work week.

Those other workers covered by the 1966 amendment to the Fair Labor Standards Act will are at the $1.60 hour rate with time and a half for hours over 40.

It takes all kinds. We know it cost a whole lot out here but when people complain about "gifts" which help them through the day it becomes more than a notion. Take the grandmother who called our city desk last Saturday.

You figure this one out. Here's what she said.

"I work every day and the city gives me $65 a month to care for MY grandchild.

"Today I got in the mail food coupons which will buy only $22 worth of food.

"This is a little more than $5 a week.

"I have to spend my own money for his vitamins and clothes . . . they give me an allowance for clothes but he likes only certain things and I buy them for him." Ho hum!

So-glad-you're better hello to St. Joseph Hospital for Mrs. Joseph Felton (Leona). She had surgery and is doing fine.

Abandoned autos are the subject of much discussion these days. Like Governor Mandel's bounty plan which would pay cash for junked autos.

Might be a good ideal to devise a plan which would handle the illegally parked cars about our town.

"Like the one which is often parked on the sidewalk on Gwynn Falls Parkway. Youngsters bound for Douglass High School have to walk off the sidewalk or around the car to get by. Honest!

Cuff note: Provident Hospital's emergency room staff is integrated; Miss Sheila Rabel, a Lutheran Hospital grad, is now a staff nurse.

A verse for the week ahead

Paul Lawrence Dunbar is the author of this week's verse entitled, 'Life':—

A crust of bread and a corner to sleep in,
A minute to smile and an hour to weep in,
A pint of joy to a peck of trouble,
And never a laugh but the moans come double:
And that is life;

A crust and a corner that love makes precious,
A crust and a corner that love makes precious,
With a smile to warm and a tears to refresh us;
And joy seems sweeter when cares come after,
And a moan is the finest of foils for laughter;
And that is life!

School plans to build get $12,000 grant

A non-profit organization established by the Ford Foundation has awarded the Baltimore public school system a $12,000 grant to pay research consultants for the elementary school building plans.

• • •

The consultants will be in education, school planning, building codes, and industrialized planning with emphasis on quick construction methods such as semi-industrialized and loft type school building.

Semi-industrialized construction can be erected by relatively unskilled labor since the parts of the building are standardized and can be put together in units.

Loft type construction provides flexible arrangements for educational programs because it makes available large areas of open floor space that can be partitioned in a variety of ways after construction is completed.

The total construction plans include a half million square feet of elementary school classroom space in buildings at least two stories high.

The $12,000 grant was awarded through the efforts of Mrs. Grinnell W. Locke, School Staff Architectural Consultant. The organization issuing the grant is Educational Facilities Laboratories which helps schools and colleges with facility problems.
