If YOU Ask ME

BY BETTYE M. MOSS

People places and things

Baltimoreans have reason to be proud about President Nixon's appointment of Clarence Clyde Ferguson Jr.

He is the brilliant 44-year-old educator who has been named special coordinator for Biafra.

In his post, he reports directly to President Nixon and Secretary of State Rogers.

Mr. Ferguson is a 1942 graduate of Baltimore Douglass High and an honor graduate of Ohio State and Harvard Law School.

He was formerly Howard U. law school dean and more recently Rutgers University law professor.

Many may remember his late father, the Rev. C. C. Ferguson, who pastored Bethel AME Church. His mother, Mrs. Georgie Ferguson, still resides in Baltimore.

Do send 75th birthday hellos to Dr. J. E. T. Campper, the pioneer physician and civil rights leader.

For over a half a century, he has been a fighter for equal rights in our Baltimore community. Your hellos will reach him if addressed to 639 N. Carey St.

Cuff note: Dr. Camper did not come by his commitment to service accidentally.

For over a half a century, his late mother, Mrs. Mary Jane Crom well Camper, was a teacher and a fighter for equal rights.

Thinking-of-you cards to Hopkins Hospital for Andrew (Boots) Johnson. He is the Boy Scout assistant director of field service who was injured in a recent auto accident.

He is in traction in Marburg 316, will be in for a spell.

Also in for a spell is Mrs. Grace Burkett, the teacher.

She was injured in a freak auto accident a week back (Feb. 10).

Her car stopped at a light, was struck from behind and demolished. She and her son, Robbie, suffered neck and shoulder sprains and her leg is badly injured.

Travel note; Lemmel schoolmarm, Mrs. Esther Morris, jetted to Ohio State University to see her son, Eric, who is studying economic statistical analysis.

Impressive event was the Greek singing of the Kappa and Omega Fraternities.

By the way, the population runs like this: 3,000 black students and 42,000 white students. Each student is holding his own 'B' rank.

More people places and things

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Dobson have reason to stick their chests out.

Son, Harold L. 2nd, earned a national competition scholarship and has been accepted at Howard University.

He is just 16, finishes Northwestern High in June. At Northwestern, he has distinguished himself as editor of the school paper and vice president of the student council and an active member of the Afro-American group.

He is also a one-time AFRO news carrier. His two younger brothers are Sherman, a Poly junior, and Eric, a Lemmel freshman.

People being kind to others: Madison Ave. Presbyterian Church has a big day on Sunday.

Woman's Day speaker is Mrs. Pearl Brackett, assistant superintendent in charge of community schools.

Mrs. Brackett and four other ladies will be honored at the fashion show-luncheon at the Sheraton Inn.

Others are Mrs. Kay Carter, Mrs. Lillian Murphy, Mrs. Jean Owens, Miss Lillie Ross, and Dr. Harriet Trader, all prominent in educational and civic circles.

True story of the week: A pretty 13-year-old (this mother is prejudiced), was called to the principal's office from her history class.

Once there, she was asked to give her mother's phone number and queried as to whether she knew anything about a story in this newspaper concerning a fellow student who was indefinitely suspended.

Honest!

And this same school could look in the phone book and get the information it needed. You hear about harassment like this, and you shudder when you find out it is true. Ho hum!

Another true story: A very fine young woman in our midst is boiling and her friends are too.

She was shopping in a suburban branch of a large department store Saturday when she was set upon by store detectives and accused of shoplifting.

Do things like this really happen? Yes, indeed, they do. Honest!

Orchids to Mrs. Polly H. Spears. She won $35 for a labor-saving suggestion at Kopper's.

Mrs. Spears was among the first of our women to be hired in the piston ring-shop and the first to win an award shop-wise for a suggestion.

She has been employed since May, 1965 and now holds the position of Milling Operator.

She is also very active with the Union and was the first to hold a line officers' position.

EARNS RETIREMENT:

'For the next 6 months I'm going to rest . . .'

"I feel just great . . . I'm looking forward to my retirement. For the next six months I am going to rest . . . after all, I think I'm entitled to it, and then I am going to find something to do."

The words were those of Joseph Flanagan, veteran employee of the Department of Employment Security.

On Thursday, Mr. Flanagan retired and fellow employees honored him at a reception.

Mr. Flanagan reached the mandatory age of retirement, 70, on February 27.

In 1951, he joined the department as a clerk and was promoted through the ranks.

In his most recent position as storekeeper, Mr. Flanagan was in charge of ordering and issuing material and stock, administered by the Agency.

From 1927-41, Mr. Flanagan sailed for the Merchant Miner's Transportation Company.

During World War II, he was a Federal employee with the Third Service Command. Prior to joining the Department, he worked at the Maryland Club.

For 25 years, he has been an active lay leader in Emmanuel Christian Community Church over 25 years.

A native of Norfolk, Va., he is married to the former Caroline Hall. They live at 1615 Moreland.

Their three children are Joseph Jr., Gerard and Mrs. Ila Beatrice Booker. There are two grandsons and one granddaughter.

Brown's Stores to enter Little League activity

Brown's Supermarkets, this week, began a major recruiting drive among youths 12 to 14 years old. This drive, to get involved in Little League baseball, is centered around Brown's two inner city stores.

"Each store is out to beat the other at recruiting youngsters for a total of eight teams. In addition, Brown's personnel are recruiting parents to be coaches and managers of these teams.

Brown's will furnish all of the uniforms, bats, balls, gloves and other equipment to make the game complete. Scouts are arranging for regular playing fields. Herb Beckenheimer, president of Brown's, says that "baseball offers these young men a healthy way to release their energies."

"At Brown's, we are proud to be a part of the Inner City and we welcome the chance to participate in creating a recreational program that will really mean something to our friends and neighbors."

Meat lessons at U. of Md.

Maryland meat inspectors will be given special training for processed meat operations in a series of session beginning March 4 on the University of Maryland campus.

Processed meats are prepared or mixed meat products, such as sausage bologna, frankfurters, scrapple, cured hams and bacon. Inspection of processed meat operation includes examinations to assure the meats used have been properly inspected, are wholesome, and prepared in sanitary conditions.

In addition, the final product must be free from adulteration and properly labeled as to contents and description.

Because of these requirements, inspectors must have special training for inspection of processed meats, which is in addition to their meat inspector instructions at Federal Training Centers.

As a service to the Maryland meat packing industry, meat processors are invited to attend and participate in the training sessions to be held twice a week, Tuesday and Thursday, for four weeks.

Widows of servicemen who died of service-connected injuries, as well as the wives of veterans who are totally and permanently disabled, are eligible for educational assistance from the Veterans Administration.

Indoor games lure large number of youngsters

Over 200 boys and girls participated in the Bureau of Recreation Indoor Youth track and field meet at the Fifth Regiment Armory, Wednesday afternoon.

Events were offered in all age groups in both the novice and open divisions.

Many youth in the 11 years and under, and 12 years and under age classifications were given their first opportunity to participate in the high-jump event.

* * *

Although the city youth girls enjoyed this new experience, one problem developed in the 13-15-year-old novice division. The girls did not qualify because the crossbar could not be lowered below four feet on the regulation standards.

Although he city youth were not eligible for Vice-President Agnew's Inaugural Ball they were able to run and jump under the chandeliers and bunting that still engulf the armory's ceilings and walls.

* * *

Officiating the meet events were leaders and directors from the Baltimore City Bureau of Recreation staff.

Directing meet events for the last time as a Bureau of Recreation employee was Edward Waters, former Morgan State College track and field champion.

Waters assumed his new position as assistant supervisor of the Volunteer Services Division of the Community Action Agency, on Thursday.
