tions, the legislators arguing against the bills echoed one another:

"I feel that judges should be elected and that the people should be given the choice. It was my stand on it last year, and I don't change overnight," said Del. Joseph A. Cheste (D-3nd).

"I'm in favor of elected judges," said Del. Floyd B. Adams (D-2nd.), who has reversed his stand. He voted for the referendum in the Assembly.

Asked why he changed his mind, Mr. Adams explained that he is now in favor of electing judges because he has reevaluated the bills, admitting that he may not have studied them as closely as he might have.

Also, he noted that little public opposition welled up until recently, casting another light on the issue.

"They didn't make themselves heard soon enough," Mr. Adams stated in referring to the back front, which now sees racial discrimination in the bills.

Del. Troy Brailey also has made a turnabout from his original position.

"I cannot bear the idea of not ever being able to elect another back judge," said Mr. Brailey. "We've lived under the present system of electing judges for the past 150 years," he said, adding that now that this has been the rule, certain people want the rules changed.

"We've always been told by politicians to get our people registered to vote, then we could demand some of the things we need. We must be able to elect people to listen to our needs, including some of our own," he insisted.

Voting against it in the Legislature and holding his position, Del. Isaiah Dixon, Jr. (D-4th) asserted.

"We've got to leave it in the hands of the voters. Do some parties think that the voters are too stunid to vote for competent judges?"

Del. Lena K. Lee (D-4th) sees "a lot of snakes in the proposals," and feels that the people should be well-informed about them.

Although she would not directly state her position, she called the issue "one of the most serious things we elected blacks in Annapolis and Baltimore City have to deal with."

Del. Lloyal Randolph, (D-4th) asserted he is "seriously considering not supporting the bils," although originally he was for them.

"At the time, it was the right thing to do. We had hearings in the House and the Senate, and had plenty of information from other parties. But we've got a real problem on our hands now," he said.

Del. Aris T. Allen (D-A.A. Co.) suggests that he too, has taken a stand against the bill.

"With all due respect to the Governor's efficiency, politics may still creep into the picture if judges are to be appointed.

"Any effort I can exert I will to so toward accomplishing the defeat of this bill."

*Unavailable for comment at AFRO press time was Del. Calvin A. Douglass (D.-4th).

—Dr. Harris

His fraternal involvements included: past president, Baltimore chapter of Frontiers of America; past president, National Frontiers of America; past president, Baltimore chapter Phi Beta Sigma; 32nd degree Mason and Shriner; past Grand Esteemed Loyal Knight of Elks; and president, Tri-State Association of Elks.

His commissions: former board member of Baltimore City Park Board and State of Md. Athletic Commission, and former member of the Baltimore City Board of School Commissioners.

His civic commitments; former board member of Conference of Christians and Jews, member of the Medical Advisory Board of Planned Parethood, former chairman of Army-Navy Blood Bank of Provident Hospital, Baltimore and member of executive board of Boy Scouts of America.

As a professional: former Chief-of-Staff, Provident Hospital and former Chief of Surgical Service, Provident Hospital.

A native of Baltimore, Dr. Harris was educated in the public schools and graduated from the "Old colored high sc ool" (Douglass). From Howard University he emerged with a medical degree in 1924.

He then opened his office on Caroline St., where, for the last 15 years, he has been in joint practice with his son.

His son was also graduated from Howard Medical School and formerly housed his office at 1200 McCulloh St.

During his tenure as consultant in surgery at Provident, Dr. Harris Sr. obtained the highest rating in an examination given by the local health department for a position of health examiner in local schools. The post was left vacant by the resignation of Dr. George Hall.

In 1947, at a meeting of the Board of Recreation and Parks Dr. Harris waged a one-man battle that won two additional play areas for colored citizens, located at Laurens St. and City Springs Park.

Dr. Harris informed the board, "Segregation is expensive."

He referred to the approved $1,500,000 recreation bureau loan from which the playgrounds were planned.

In 1950, during when he was president of the Frontiers Club of Baltimore, the group made generous contributions to five institutions.

They were South Baltimore General Hospital, N.M. Carroll Methodist Aged Home, the Aged Home of the AME Church and the Md. Baptist Home for the Aged. Wilberforce State and Morgan State Colleges also received checks.

In 1952, he was elected president of the Frontiers of America, a post he held at the time of his death.

With over 13,000 delegates present from lodges in Maryland, Delaware, and the District of Columbia, the Tri State Elks named him president in 1953, a post he held at the time of his death.

He was honored at a 1957 testimonial at Carver High School along with Dr. Robert L. Jackson.

The two veterans physicians and social workers were sited for 35 years of service with Provident Hospital and the community.

Dr. Harris served a term on the Baltimore School Board until 1960, he resigned because of a technical conflict of interest with the post he held as school physician at Dunbar High School.

At a Tri-State Elks Banquet in 1961, Dr. Harris asked the 15,000 members of the lodge to join hands with him to obtain a new Provident Hospital in Baltimore.

Under his leadership the Elks had previously raised funds for a blood bank at Provident.

Dr. Harris was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hyram Harris, of Baltimore. His father was a barber shop owner and proprietor of three grocery stores in East Baltimore.

When his sister, Miss Mary Harris, 81, (deaf for most of her life) died, Dr. Harris Sr. was the sole surviving member of his immediate family.

The Elliot Funeral Home, Caroline and Biddle Sts., is bandling arrangements.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ethel Harris; three daughters, Mrs. Elise Clark, Mrs. Bernadine Harrison, and Mrs. Anita Watson of Baltimore; and three sons, Dr. Bernard Jr., Robert H., and James R. Harris of Balto.

Also, 5 grandchildren, and 2 great-grandchildren.

It will take 16 years for dad to catch up

In Circuit this week authorities issued an order for a husband to pay his divorced wife $7 a week for the support of their minor son. The husband is also required to pay $2 a week on arrears support of $1,699.89.

Mathematically speaking, it will take over 16 years for the father to catch up on back support due his son.

The son who is now 14 years old will be 30 years old before what's due him is finally turned over—that is if dad keeps up the payments as per the court order.
