MUSICAL MOMENTS

Patients in wheelchairs enjoy Turner concert

By ADAH K. JENKINS

Front row — center — in the new Turner Auditorium of Johns Hopkins University Medical Institutions, at Monument and Rutland Streets — reserved for patients from the J. F. Kennedy Institute.

Wide-eyed for the unusual occasion, some were in wheelchairs, attired in bed jackets, and with their intravenous apparatus strapped to their arms.

Mothers from the Hopkins Hospital area were in attendance with the "carriage trade" in arms or in various conveyances. The audience also included children from six city schools where they attend summer enrichment projects.

This was no regular concert; but a real voyage of discovery with Elliott W. Galkin conducting and the Baltimore Chamber Orchestra.

After being introduced by Mrs. Margaret Armstrong, specialist from the Music Division of the Baltimore public schools, Dr. Galkin, who enjoyed the occasion as much as his youthful audience, presented the orchestra as "a team with the concertmaster as captain."

From the "warming up" with the oboe, the instrumental families were introduced by individual players who performed familiar themes, in which the audience joined, either by singing or clapping rhythms.

Within the hour it was amazing the assortment of useful information the youngsters acquired, largely through their own lively observation and the skillful questions of the conductor.

Rounding out the experience a student volunteer tried her hand at conducting

Introduced as "the greatest instrument that everyone has — the voice," Joseph Eubanks, bass-baritone from the music education faculty of Morgan State College, sang in his inimitable style "I Got Plenty of Nuttin'" from "Porgy and Bess."

Concluding the morning was an excerpt from the Mendelssohn Piano Concerto in G Minor," with Daniel Abrams, from Goucher music faculty, as the highly capable soloist.

Children attending were from the J. F. Kennedy Institute and Schools No. 21, 85, 150, 234, 242 and 231 and child care centers.

It is becoming the style in operatic circles in this country and abroad to revive chamber operas that were triumphant successes in the 18 century, especially in Italy.

Thanks to the dedicated enthusiasm and talents of Thomas Conlin, the Chamber Opera Society of Baltimore has given three productions in as many seasons.

This past season a thoroughly delightful performance of "The Secret Marriage," an opera buffa (comic opera) by Cimarosa was given in LeClerc Auditorium, Notre Dame College.

Unlike the familiar grand opera, this calls for a more intimate style and demands a special talent from both singers and orchestra.

These were met with single success by the well chosen cast and Mr. Conlin, who kept the production moving at a lively pace.

Gimi Bemi, a notably experienced and gifted bass-buffa singer-actor was in fine form as the wealthy, doughty merchant who is seeking a rich marriage for his daughter.

Norman Page, in the leading tenor role, was well suited vocally and dramatically, as was Joyce Gerbert, mezzo soprano. Renay Lois (Mrs. Conlin) and Jacqueline Doeges, both of whom have sung in previous Chamber Opera Society productions, and Carl Gerbrandt, of Baltimore Civic Opera experience, were well received.

The single setting in variShades of gold was appropriately attractive, as were the costumes.

The use of the harpsichord, played by Joseph Stephens was especially suited to the period of the music.

Dr. W. R. Rearick heads the board of directors of the Chamber Opera Society, which plans to present in the fall Mozart's "Cose fan Tutte."

Free band concerts scheduled

The Bureau of Music announces its fourth weekend of the 1969 Season of free Outdoor Summer Band Concerts by the Baltimore Park Band, Charles E. Gwynn, Sr., Conducting.

The concerts will be held Saturday, July 26, 5p.m. at school no. 160, Cherry Hill, Cherry Hill and Seabury Roads, and Sunday, July 27, 7 p.m. at Gwynns Falls Recreation Center, 525 Hurley Ave. off of 2800 block Frederick Avenue.

After graudation, Mr. Gwynn was bandmaster at Fessenden Academy and Junior College in Martin, Fla., as well as bandmaster at Waters College in Jacksonville, Fla., and Allen University in Columbia, S.C.

He taught Industrial Arts at the Harvey Johnson Junior High School No. 106 here in the city.

A versatile musician, Mr. Gwynn plays trombone, Euphonium horn, trumpet and saxaphone and has performed with the Baltimore Municipal Band and the Baltimore Concert Band, the Elks Band and the Maryland State Guard Ban, Maryland State Guard Band, as conductor.

He has led his own dance orchestra for over ten years locally and organized and directed the Baltimore Post Office Band.

In molding the program, Mr. Gwynn has included music to please all ages.

* * *

Guest soloist will be Mrs. Mary Sims Fletcher, soprano. Mrs. Fletcher studied at Boston University and is presently studying with Vernon Savage.

Mrs. Fletcher has performed before civic, religious and social groups in the Baltimore area, and was well received by concert-goers at her past appearances with the Baltimore Park Band.

Song leader Matthew Fraling, well known to Baltimore audiences, will lead the "Sing Along".

Mr. Fraling is a native of Baltimore, and attended schools here. He received his M.S. Degree at Morgan State, and studied at the Peabody Conservatory, Loyola College and the Johns Hopkins University. He has served as cantor in numerous local churches.

Mrs. Edna Rosenbaum of the Philadelphia Chapter of Young Audiences (Young Musicians Series) attended a recent luncheon meeting of the board of the local chapter held at the Stafford.

An interesting resume was given of the concert projects which are carried on by thirteen groups, including a dance ensemble, in the Philadelphia public schools.

Among those present was Johna Mollich, the newly appointed director of music for the local Young Audiences Chapter, Mrs. Nathan Schnaper is president.

With the resignation of Miss Carol Morse as national executive director of Young Audience, the national board announced Gerry J. Martin, of Washington, D.C. as her successor.

Hints For Homemakers

If you happen to be one of those persons who comes in contact with a lot of people — and who doesn't? — you know how important it is to maintain a beautiful smile. Then you need a toothpaste to make this possible—and PEPSODENT is the answer.

Or, you may be a three-career person—mother, housewife and a businesswoman, as I am—which also calls for a warm and friendly smile. If so, PEPSODENT toothpaste is just what you need! Believe it or not, I once had hard-to-whiten teeth so I know how concerned and self-conscious one can be about her smile. Now, I no longer have this problem.

A bright glowing smile can be a real asset to you, too—man, woman or child—that is, if you are a user of PEPSODENT. This toothpaste not only has a pleasant taste but makes your teeth their whitest, for it contains zirconium silicate, an exclusive brightening ingredient.

So, take a hint from me, for the entire family, start using PEPSODENT toothpaste. You can be assured of getting great pleasure from the many compliments you'll receive when you turn on your charm with a bright PEPSODENT smile.

Something new is always happening at Lever Brothers. For instance, I'm sure you're familiar with the ads in which a beautiful crown shows the feeling of royalty you get every time you use Imperial Margarine. Well, now you can have the same royal feeling when you use new SOF-SPREAD IMPERIAL.

This soft margarine comes in flower-decorated reusable tubs—two to each one-pound package. You'll just love the convenience of having your margarine in this form—it's so easy to spread, right from the refrigerator.

SOF-SPREAD IMPERIAL makes cooking a breeze, too, because it is so easy to use and its richness adds flavor to any dish.

But there are still more advantages with this new product. SOF-SPREAD IMPERIAL has a high ratio of polyunsaturates which helps cut down on the saturated fats in your diet. Yet, it contains the essential nutrients required by the body every day.

It's no wonder SOF-SPREAD IMPERIAL features a crown. Its superior flavor is so good it makes you feel like a queen—or a king.

With all the activities that we like to enjoy in the summertime, it is important to know that you are protected with LIFEBUOY deodorant soap. LIFEBUOY will give you the protection you need so that you can play tennis, golf, swim or engage in any other sport and not worry about unpleasant body odor.

This deodorant soap will stay with you all day. The cool mint fragrance will make taking a shower a wonderful experience. You will find that after a hot day nothing is more relaxing than to come home and take a cool shower, using LIFEBUOY deodorant soap.

Three colors are available: coral, green and white. Every member of your family can have their choice of LIFEBUOY in their favorite color and size, as you can get either the bath or complexion size.

Whatever your preference, make your summer showers a new and cool experience. Don't sit home afraid to do the things you want to do. If you're not sports-minded, try some other outdoor activity such as walking or working around the garden. And use LIFEBUOY deodorant soap with refreshing mint to turn on your summer fun.

"all" laundry detergent is all you need to remove those heavy soils that come from summer activities and spoil the appearance of shirts, dresses, picnic and party clothes. I use it for laundering, so I know. The clothes really dazzle!

"all" is also perfect for heavily soiled work clothes—and it makes mud stains disappear from children's play clothes.

It is my guess that when you load your machine with those blue, green and yellow granules—mixed in the "all" powder to show the presence of bleach, borax and brighteners—you will have the same feeling I had that your laundry is getting the best treatment possible and the results are bound to be favorable.

"all" is a low-sudsing detergent which provides the best possible cleaning results in every type of washer. In fact, after using "all" once, you'll be so proud of your laundry that you'll want to use it regularly. This is just what one of my friends did. Now when I see her, she always says: "Thanks for telling me about 'all', Inez. You were right. 'all' was all I needed to improve my laundering."

Cool it with salads

Crispy green salads, cool and refreshing, make eye-appealing appetizers for hot-weather meals.

Attractive light salad plates can also be served by themselves. Creativity, variety and economy are the passwords for salads this sumer. Now shoppers can choose from an abundant variety of fresh summer vegetables.

* * *

Salads are healthful as well as good-tasting. Green cabbage, lettuce leaves, peppers, spinach and carrots contain Vitamin A, while tomatoes, salad greens, green peppers and green cabbage provide Vitamin C. Cucumbers, head lettuce, onions, corn and radishes are good sources of other vitamins and minerals.

Here are a few salad tips: Wash greens carefully. Shake off excess moisture. Place in plastic bag and refrigerate. Cut or tear greens just before use, to preserve the vitamin content.

* * *

With imagination, salads can be excitingly different in flavor and appearance. A wide variety of vegetables, sliced, diced, shredded or grated can be mixed with the greens. Add any dressing you like. Choose a tossed, marinated or molded salad, and garnish it with carrot curls, tomato wedges, olives and other tasty creations.

Cucumbers have been famous in salads since the time of the Roman Emperor Tiberius, who demanded a cucumber every day of the year.

Thin, delicate cucumber slices or thick, crunchy chunks are delicious and add texture to summer salads. Score the sides of cukes with a fork for a fancy effect.

One idea for a cool summer salad treat is Cucumber Shell Surprise. You will need cucumbers, tomatoes, sour cream, onions, green pepper and dill seed.

Hollow out cucumber shell, saving the "meat" of the vegetable to dice into cubes. Combine diced cucumbers, finely grated onion, chopped tomato and slivers of green pepper with sour cream flavored with dill seed.

Chill the mixture thoroughly before filling the cucumber sheils. Filled shells may be served alone or on a bed of lettuce leaves.
