Also, Lewis W. Bentley, Mrs. Marie Jackson and the Rev. Mrs. Katherine B. Luckett of Lutherville; Glen DeBeal of Bare Hills; Moses Gwynn of Loreley and the Rev. Mr. Eugene King, a former member of the Baltimore Co. Human Relations Commission and Treadwell O. Phillips, director of the State Community Relations Commission.

The committee member whose questions are quoted at the beginning of this article was Mrs. Lane Berk who attempted to show that through county neglect to make streets run through black neighborhoods, black citizens were deliberately cut off from contact with the larger county community.

Her questions related to prior testimony of George E. Gavrelis, director of the Baltimore Planning Board who testified about the many changes he and his associate, Charles B. Heyman, chairman of the same board, had made following the August inquiry by the federal Civil Rights Commission.

County officials, to a man, denied any deliberate wrong-doing and pointed to the problems of housing, zoning, taxes, sewerage disposal and topography all over the country.

The Rev. Mr. Phillips, through his questioning, did elicit from Mr. Heyman that the latter would foster appointment of a black person to the Planning Board in Baltimore County if such a person came under consideration.

"I think to have a black member's point of view would help the board and the people of the county," Mr. Heyman said.

Officials explained that the changes in zoning proposals have now gone onto maps which are in the hands of the County Council.

Some of the proposed changes which could result in less harm to the black communities are being challenged by white property owners, witnesses officials explained that individuals affected may still report to individual court petitions to challenge proposed changes.

"And when we start to think about all the federal and state money that will go into much of the building and highway development we are talking about, we have to think in terms of a total new ball game anyhow," said Mr. Gavrelis.

He intimated that there will be additional opportunities on this level for citizens to implement their objections to proposals that the County Council might make.

In addition Arthur Wells, through his questioning implied that Rights Committee members might consider asking the federal government to change some of its priorities, making housing for low-income families superior to highway plans which tend to destroy communities.

Dale Anderson, Baltimore County Commissioner, was present at the hearing for a brief time.

State Sen. Verda F. Welcome, D. 4th. Supreme Bench Judge Robert B Watts and Delegate Kenneth Webster, D. 5th. were present and listened intently to the proceedings.

1971. You've changed. We've changed.

Change. That's what it's all about this year. And that's what we mean by putting you first.
These are uneasy times.
There are major concerns. About pollution. About safety. About the economy. About your hard-earned dollar. We know.
For the past 10 years Chevrolet research people have questioned thousands of people on every subject from rising taxes to the size of the glovebox in their cars.
We've found that price and maintenance costs, trade-in value and quality have become tremendously important.
Your car has to work. It has to last. And each new model must have more built-in value.
At Chevrolet, we understand.
You want meaningful change. And our aim is to give that to you, as you'll see in the 1971 Chevrolets.

Caprice. The biggest, most luxurious Chevrolet ever. A complete change.
Bigness in itself is nothing.
But it allows you to lengthen the distance between the front and rear wheels (which we did), then you've got something.
You've got a smoother ride.
The idea in the 1971 Caprice was to give you the looks and comfort of a six- or seven-thousand-dollar car, without asking you to pay anywhere near that much for it. And above all, to build in as much dependability and security as possible.
So we changed the body structure for 1971, too. We made it stronger. And we made it quieter by putting a double layer of steel in the roof.
Caprice, as you can see below, is a lot of luxury at a Chevrolet price.

Vega. The littlest Chevy even. It wasn't changed from anything.
Before building Vega, we read everything we could get our hands on about little cars. We talked to owners. We studied little cars up one side and down the other and, literally, tore them apart. We found out what made them tick, or why they didn't tick.
What ticked were gas economy and dependability. What didn't were underpowered engines, cramped quarters and getting blown around in the wind.
In our little Vega, everything ticks. It's not just another little car. You didn't want that. It's one little car that does everything well.

Star-studded field awaits CYO track meet

By SAM LACY

COLLEGE PARK, Md., — A surprisingly strong field for such an early meet has been assembled for the 4th annual National Invitational indoor track meet, to be held here tomorrow (Friday) night at the University of Maryland.

A lightning fast sprint contingent, a classy hurdles field and a talented assortment of distance runners, jumpers and distaff competitors will converge on Cole Field House under sponsorship of the Catholic Youth Organization (CYO) and the University of Maryland M Club.

Ivory Crockett, who twice beat John Carlos last year when the latter was at his peak, tops a bevy of speedsters — among them Ben Vaughn, who swept the AAU dashes in overseas competition last summer; Mel Pender, Ed Roberts and Charlie Greene.

Returning in the No. 1 spot individually will be Willie Davenport, unattached, who was voted the NIT's outstanding athlete last January when he tied a world's indoor standard of 6.8 in the 60-yard high hurdles.

Esther Stroy, youthful Olympian from Washington (DC) will be back to represent Sports International in defense of her 440-yard run title and also as a member was credited with both a meet and world's record last year. Feminine stars will race in the 60-yard hurdles, the 60-yard dash and the 880-yard run.

Ed Bowie of the University of Maryland, will attempt to repeat in the 500-yard run while the mile run has entered a fast field that includes Chuck LaBenz and John Mason of the Pacific Coast Club, Who has leaped seven feet, three and ½ inches, is a contender.

Tom VonRuden and the Pacific Coast Club hope to break American records in the 880 yard run and two mile relay respectively. The Pacific Coast Club will put together a team of Sam Bair, John Mason, Chuck LaBenz and Von Ruden in its attempt to establish a new record.

Kerry Pearce, an Australian, attending the University of Texas-El Paso, holds the world's indoor mark at two miles, but will be challenged Friday night by Marty Liquori, Villanova's great miler of past years, and Frank Shorter formerly of Yale and now of the Florida Track Club, generally conceded to be the world's top distance runner.

Frank Costello of Sports International, last year a surprise winner in the high jump while representing Maryland U... will be back in that specialty along with Ron Jourdan of Florida Track Club, who holds the meet mark in that event. Bill Elliott of the Pacific Coast Club, who has leaped seven feet, three and ½ inches, is a contender.

Tom VonRuden and the Pacific Coast Club hope to break American records in the 880 yard run and two mile relay respectively. The Pacific Coast Club will put together a team of Sam Bair, John Mason, Chuck LaBenz and Von Ruden in its attempt to establish a new record.

Greg Arnold to sing at Bullets' halftime

Greg Arnold, the young Baltimorean with a promising career in both baseball and show business, will provide entertainment prior to and between halves of the Bullets' game against the Atlanta Hawks at the Civic Center tonight (Friday).

A 21-year-old righthanded pitcher, Arnold will go to spring training with the defending world champion Baltimore Orioles and is given a chance at winning a spot on manager Earl Weaver's staff.

Just recently returned from a singing tour in Israel, Arnold has been steadily building a name for himself as a nightclub performer in the Baltimore area.

Although his singing career is still in the budding stage he has drawn wide acclaim from those who have heard him — and many insist he has the talent to blossom as a singer.

Tonight's game also marks the first appearance in Baltimore of Atlanta's heralded rookie "Pistol Pete" Maravich. After a slow start, Maravich has come on strong and living up to his advance notices, averaging better than 20 points per game.

The Atlanta contest will mark the Bullets' last Civic Center appearance until the Milwaukee Bucks come to town on Jan. 20.

Physique contests slated January 16
