Tuskegee students in forestry class

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — Students at Tuskegee Institute are getting their first taste of forest science in the laboratory building where George Washington Carver conducted agricultural experiments at the turn of the century.

A visitor to the laboratory in historic Milbank Hall senses a firmness of purpose that must have prevailed when the famous agricultural researcher performed minor miracles with peanuts and sweet potatoes.

The advanced scientific equipment and sophisticated research techniques used in the laboratory are in marked contrast to the old building.

Eager young students in lab coat do flame prometry to determine the calcium, magnesium, and other elements in plants.

But despite these modern facilities, the students, like their predecessor Dr. Carver, find great delight in "making do" with the equipment available, such as converting discarded refrigerators into growth chambers.

The educational program — the first of its kind at a predominantly black institution — was established in 1968 in a cooperative agreement between Tuskegee Institute and the Southern Forest Experiment Station.

The objective was to create a program of research and instruction that would foster interest among blacks in forestry study.

Dr. B. D. Mayberry, vice president of Tuskegee, requested and received the assistance of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Forest Service, the University of California at Berkeley and the University of Michigan.

Dr. Bryan R. Payne of the Forest Service was sent to Tuskegee to set up the program.

Classes began in January, 1969 with 26 students enrolled. The following month research began on dormancy in forest tree seeds, financed with a $50,000 grant from the Forest Service.

Later, Dr. Payne was transferred to the Northeastern Forest Experiment Station and was succeeded at Tuskegee by Charles F. Tiernan of the Pacific Southwest Experiment Station.

Voters seen increasingly sophisticated

NEW YORK — "Blacks are the most sophisticated voting block in America today.

"They will no longer swallow slick press agentry and double-talk from politicians," according to Darwin Bolden, national director of the Interracial Council for business Opportunity.

Bolden's remarks were prompted by the recent White House Meeting at which President Nixon and Cabinet members discussed methods of attacking problems in the black community.

Bolden said, "The time is past when a handful of black leaders can 'deliver' the black community to an political leader regardless of a past record of 'benign neglect' of that community."

While praising the work of Whitney Young and the Urban League, NAACP and other black organizations, Bolden said that the black community is too diversified for any one group to represent it.

"The President and the Cabinet should know that the black community is not 'up for grabs' and there is no single messiah who can deliver the black vote," he said.

He said black voters "will judge politicians—a Muskie, Rockefeller, Kennedy, or others—on the basis of their sincerity and the quality of their actions over a period of time.

"Today black Americans are more and more being turned against a political system which serves special interests more than social needs," he said.

"They cannot be sold by special Madison Avenue gimmicks. They are concentrating their efforts and energies behind those blacks and whites—who are sincerely and earnestly after change," Bolden contempting to bring meaningeluded.

Food stamps in Virginia doubled

ATLANTA (UPI) — The number of needy Virginians assisted through food programs of the U.S. Department of Agriculture jumped to 172,945 in October, more than twice the number helped in the same month last year.

The USDA said the largest part of the increase came in the Food Stamp program, which is now in operation in 93 counties and 20 cities in Virginia.

Russell H. James, southeast regional director of the USDA Food and Nutrition Service, said more than $1.7 million in bonus food stamp coupons were given out to 120,407 low-income people in the state during October.

That was an increase of 78,326 over the number of recipients for October, 1969.

He said the family food distribution program increased to 52,539 for the month, a gain of 9,345 over the same period in 1969.

Dr. Wharton to be sworn-in at MSU fete

EAST LANSING, Mich. — Dr. Clifton R. Wharton Jr., first black president of a major university will be inaugurated as 14th president of Michigan State University in services Feb. 15.

Dr. Wharton took over the duties of president Jan. 2 of this year, but the inauguration is traditionally somewhat later.

Dr. Wharton recommended to the board of trustees that since the University is operating under economic restrictions, the inauguration be restricted to members of the board, MSU officials and deans and their families.

Immediately after the inauguration the new president will speak to the regular Friday Convocation where he will deliver his "state of the University" address.

HI broadens night offerings

HAMPTON, Va. — Hampton Institute's evening program for College credit will offer seven additional courses for the second semester of the current school year.

The second semester begins Thurs., Feb. 4. Registration for the courses is scheduled for Tues., Feb. 2 from 7-9 p.m.

In making the announcement of the additional courses of study for the evening college program, John L. Frank, director, noted the new offerings would bring the number of courses offered at night to some 42, one of the largest selections of courses offered during the evening at the 103-year-old institution.

Additions for the evening program include educational psychology, introduction to oral communication, creative development for children, workshop in art, oral communication, playwriting, modern mathematics.

Interested persons should contact Frank at 723-6581, extension 263 or call the Registrars office at the College.

Coleman is new member of Jewish body

NEW YORK — Robert Coleman will head the social justice division as the first black Jew appointed to the Synagogue Council, said Rabbi Solomon J. Sharfman, council president, last week.

One of Coleman's major responsibilities will be development of relations with the black Jewish community. He will also seek to deal with tensions between the two ghettos.

He was an organizer for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference during the 1960s.

Coleman, who converted to Judaism five years ago after being a Baptist Church leader for most of his life, is president of Taharas Israel (Purity of Israel), a multi-racial organization to aid black Jews.

Commenting on the appointment, Rabbi Henry Siegman decried the past "ambiguous and painful" relations between the Jewish community and is its black members.

He said the community was determined to show its concern for black members.

The council represents Orthodox, Conservative and Reform Judaism in the United States.

Guild holds N.Y. breakfast

NEW YORK — Tre Rev. Joseph Gelligan was guest speaker at the recent 24th annual communion breakfast of the Catholic Guild of the Housing Authority at Longchamps Restaurant.

More than 500 persons attended.

The Rev. William Rinschler is spiritual director.

Other guild officers are Charlts J. Dowling, president; Nat Pelo, vice president; Julian alamari, treasurer; Catherine Corwin, Earl Mosley and Mary e Costa, secretaries and Alvin Thomas, sergeant-at-arms.

On the executive committee are Catherine Butler, Edward Irwin, Harry A. McArtle, Ernest C. Ponessa, William Scanlan and William H. Welling.

Ray Henderson dies at 73

GREENWICH, Conn. (UPI) — Raymond Henderson, part of the song writing team of Lew Brown, Buddy de Sylva and Henderson, died Thursday night after an apparent stroke. He was 73 years old.

Henderson suffered the stroke at his Greenwich home and was taken by police to the Greenwich Hospital where he was pronounced dead.

Most of Henderson's composing was done with Brown and de Sylva and that combination became one of the most famous in pop music earlier this century.

Among their songs were "Button Up Your Overcoat," "The Birth of the Blues," "It All Depends on You," "You're the Cream In My Coffee," and "You Are My Lucky Star."

Institute looks for director

DETROIT — Dr. James P. McConnell, who left for an executive director for the International Instute of Metropolitan Detroit, of which he is first vice president.

He heads a committee to find a replacement for Walter T. Bronzeau, who left the post to become field director of the American Council on Nationalities services to which the local institute belongs.

CONTRIBUTOR — William H. Toles, left, an executive with the ITT Continental Baking Co. and chairman of the board of the New York Urban League, gets a handshake and warm smile from Whitney M. Young Jr., executive director of the National Urban League. The occasion was the presentation of the annual corporate contribution to the National Urban League at the annual Community Day dinner held in New York.

Atty. pessimisic about getting a southern job

ATLANTA — Marvin N. Clark, the first minority group member to complete requirements for law school under a special American Bar Association program which uses different admissions standards, wasn't optimistic on the eve of his graduation.

Clark, who holds a masters degree from Atlanta University and a bachelor's degree from Fort Valley State College, would not have been admitted to most law schools, based on his entrance exam score.

But he maintained an average a little better than a "C" and ranked in the middle of his class, adequately proving that people who cannot pass the entrance requirements, can do well in law school.

But one of the basic reasons for the program, the fact that there are so few lawyers from minority groups, is likely not be very much changed, at least for the time being.

"Unless something unexpected happens, I don't foresee employment by a white law firm in this area," said Clark. "They haven't sought me out and I haven't sought them out. It just seemed to me the whole thing would have been pretty futile," he added.

Of 20 black graduates of Emory Law school during Clark's three years there, only one had landed a job with a large white firm.

"The interviewers post these advance notices saying they want to talk only with students who expect to graduate in the top 10 or 15 per cent of the class," he said.

"You don't find too many blacks in that category," he said.

He will probably migrate north, doing nothing to improve the ratio of 2,000 white lawyers to 35 blacks in Georgia.

Farmer voted Atlanta U. prize for 'service'

WASHINGTON, D.C. — While James Farmer was "facing the nation" on television recently, the Annual Awards Committee of the Atlanta University School of Social Work which has headquarters in the Nation's Capitol, named him the 1970 Distinguished Service Award Recipient.

Farmer, who has resigned as assistant secretary of administration of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, has been notified that he will receive the award at the National Conference on Social Welfare, Dallas, Texas on May 18.

This award is established by the Washington, D.C. Chapter of the Atlanta University group and approved by Mrs. Ida Swann, alumni director.

The following members make up the Awards Committee: Robert Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Leyi of Bethesda, and Dennis Lee, Alexandria, Va. The headquarters is located at 3813-17th Place, NE. Nominations for other annual awards and citations will be accepted by Robert A. Washington, chairman.

The Culmination Luncheon of the 50th Anniversary of the Atlanta University School of Social Work is set for May 18 in Dallas.

Farmer will be the guest of the National Alumni Association embracing the United States and at least 14 countries.

Dean Genevieve Hill, first woman to serve as head of the Social Work School, will report to the alumni on the present activities, the "new" curriculum, student-body, and recent foundation grants.

COLLEGE GETS FUNDS — Colin Stokes, left, chairman of the board of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., hands over a check for $143,274 to Dr. Kenneth R. Williams, president of Winston-Salem State University, during ceremonies. The fund represents the third phase of a financial aid program designed to strengthen the university, and increases the total given by Reynolds to more than half a million dollars.

College group will make European tour

JACKSON, Miss. — Jackson State College has been awarded an eight-week tour of European countries by the United Service Organization beginning Wednesday through March 2.

Fourteen students plus a faculty member/director have been selected to make the tour to Germany, Italy, Belgium, and Holland. Nine of those selected were from the Jackson area.

The nine persons are: Benard C. Jones Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Benard C. Jones; Silas J. Pace, son of Mrs. Frankie L. Roberts; Rhonda D. Daghner, daughter of Mrs. V. O. Turner;

Shirley Ann Washington, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Tucker Herron; Sheila D. Evers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Crarles Evers; Josephine Kelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arvesta Kelly Sr.;

Elizabeth Ann Crawford, daughter of Mrs. Gola M. Nichols; Ronald E. Wesley, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Wesley; and Montie R. Davis, the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Willie Davis of Hattiesburg.

According to members of the music faculty, the group will perform a variety-type show, including singing, dancing, comedy and instrumental selections.

GRADUATES — Edward Dean Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Odell S. Smith of Clifton, S.C., received his B.A. degree in history from Berea College in Berea, Ky., recently. Smith is a 1967 graduate of Cowpens High School in Cowpens, S.C.

Tommy Jeter, services held

SPARTANBURG, S.C. — Funeral services for Tommy Jeter, 76, husband of Mrs. Carrie Sanders Jeter, were held recently at the Cedar Grove Baptist Church in Jonesville, S.C. The Rev. B. T. Sears is pastor of that church.

Jeter died in Wallace Thompson Hospital in Union, S.C. after a brief illness.

Among his survivors are his daughter, Mrs. Mary Rogers, of Knoxville, his sons Roy and Gilliam, of the home, and Glenn and James of Detroit.

Also his sisters, Mrs. Sallie Lyles, of Hendersonville, 12 grandchildren and 3 great grandchildren.

J. W. Woodward Funeral Home was in charge of the arrangements.

Rights body acts on five job cases

By AL WASHINGTON... AFRO Correspondent....

DETROIT — At it's final monthly meeting of the year the Michigan Civil Rights Commission, acted on five cases.

The General-Motors Corporation was named in two cases, other cases involved The Detroit News, the Hazel Park Police Department, and two charges of sex discrimination were filed against Pegasus Laboratories of Berkley, Mich.

The commission ordered a hearing for Wallace Quarles of GM's Buick Division in Flint on his complaint that he was demoted from a repair job because of bias after one month in early 1968.

It issued a consent order that Alfred L. Carter of GM's Flint Parts Division be offered promotion to procurement clerk and given the salary differential for that position since Dec. 10, 1968.

In the News case, Keith Patterson said he was fired, and threatened Dec. 15, 1969, because he refused to remove a red, black and green armband which he said was apolitical. It signified black freedom he said.

A hearing has been ordered.

Just before a public hearing, the Hazel Park Police department agreed to stop designating race on its traffic citations and to stop using, as quickly as possible, ticket forms with blocks for such identifications.

The complaint came from William O. Hamilton, a Detroiter. A consent order was issued.

The commission ordered a hearing for Pegasus Laboratories of Berkley on sex discrimination charges by Mrs. Carolyn A. Thomas of Berkley and Mrs. Jean Brewczynski of Warren.

The women, say they were discharged for refusing indecent advances by male employees, allege discrimination in promotions, and declare they were given equal consideration in the use of profanity.

Army plans closer look at personnel

WASHINGTON — In a major step toward improved professionalism and a modern volunteer Army, the Department of the Army has announced a new program designed to terminate the careers of enlisted personnel considered "nonprogressive" and to screen out those found to be "nonproductive."

The new system, dubbed the Qualitative Management Program, will be phased in by July 1971.

To terminate the careers of nonprogressive enlisted men, separation points have been established for each enlisted grade beyond which personnel will not be offered reenlistment. Current reenlistment contracts are not affected, however, and provisions will be made to accommodate personnel on promotion lists, to allow for completion of overseas tours, and to consider exceptional cases.

The separation points are: E-4, 10 years; E-5, 27 Years; E-7, 24 years; E-6, 20 years; E-5 12 years; E-4, 8 years; and E-3, 3 years.

Reenlistment will also be denied to personnel who have been found to be nonproductive by review boards. The Army will evaluate the results of enlisted efficiency reports and occupational evaluation tests to identify the personnel to be screened.

Review boards will then be convened to evaluate the individuals' complete records.

New Guard officer first in Georgia

ATLANTA — Reginald C. Carter, 33, who was refused entrance into the U. S. Armed Forces because of an arrest at a civil rights sit-in 10 years ago, has become Georgia's first black National-Guard officer.

A career employee of the Manpower Administration of the Department of Labor, Carter will serve as chaplain with the 560th Engineering Battalion, headquarter in Columbus.

He has been commissioned a second lieutenant.

He said recently that he will take a leave of absence from his job here for the next three months in order to familiarize himself with the military—in which he had been denied the right to serve until now.

A native of Miami, Carter is a 1960 graduate of Morehouse College. He holds a masters in religious education from the Interdenominational Theological Center and has studied sociology at Hunter College and Fordham University in New York.

Married and the father of two, Carter said that he sees his role as a guard officer as "getting the Guard and the community together for dialogue."

He said he hopes to be respected by white Guardsmen when he is in uniform only because of the single gold bar on the epulets."

Speaking of the Guard's relationship with the black community "The Guard is trained in the rigid way of military life and is called Guard to go into an alien area where there is often outbreaks of gunfire, sniping and molotov cocktails. Their initial response is to shoot."

Carter added confrontations between the Guard and the black community are sometimes "understandable" but that representatives of both sides must get together rationally before the sparks begin to fly.

N.C. voter rolls grow by 3,550

RALEIGH, N.C. — The number of black people registered to vote in North Carolina between June and Dec. 15, 1970 by 3,550, making a total of 294,880 blacks registered in the state.

The state board of elections also reported that total registration had increased in the same period by 46,097.

Broken down into various groups, the registration figures show:

—An increase of 26,106 for Democrats to a total of 1,464,055.

—An increase of 17,159 for Republicans to a total of 426,159.

—An increase of 20 for the American Party to a total of 6,449.

—An increase of 2,812 for Independents to a total of 48,525.

—An increase of 42,150 for whites to a total of 1,639,704.

—An increase of 368 for Indians to a total of 10,603.

The board also said the number of precincts increased from 2,228 to 2,230.

Less than half of the state's 1,945,187 registered voters showed up at the polls last November, the board added.

ANDERSON — In loving memory of my dear mother, ROWENA, who passed away January 6, 1968:
Two dear, bright eyes, a tender smile,
A loving heart that knew no guile,
Deep trust in God that all was right,
Her joy to make some other bright;
If sick or suffering one she knew,
Some gentle act of love she'd do.
No thought of self, but of "the other"
I know He said: "Well done, dear mother."

CLARK — In loving memory of our dear mother, JULIA NORMAN CLARK, who passed away January 11, 1967:
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered, since we lost you.
Life has never been the same,
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly, tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.

JONES — In loving memory of THEODORE R., who passed away January 6, 1966:
God saw the road was getting rough,
The hills were hard to climb;
He gently closed his loving eyes
And whispered: "Peace be thine."
His weary hours, his days of pain,
His weary nights are past;
His eve-patient, worn-out frame
Has found sweet rest at last.

MASON — In loving memory of my husband JACK RANDOLPH, who passed away January 7, 1970:
I cannot say, I will not say
That he is dead. He is just away!
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand
He has wandered into an unknown land
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since he lingers there.
And you—oh, you, who the wildest yearn
For the old-time step and glad return,
Think of him faring on, as dear,
In the love of There, as the love of Here.
Think of him still as the same, I say —
He is not dead — he is just away.

Card of Thanks

BOOKERT T. FAULCON...
Perhaps you sang a lovely song
or sat quietly in a chair,
Perhaps you sent beautiful flowers, if so we saw them there,
Perhaps you sent or spoke kind words as any friend could say,
Perhaps you were not there at all, just thought of us that day,
Perhaps you prepared some tasty food or maybe furnished a car,
Perhaps you touched a service unseen near at hand or from afar,
What ever you did to console the heart,
We thank you so much what ever the part.
