MUSICAL MOMENTS

Beethoven honored on 200th anniversary of his death

ADAH K. JENKINS

Throughout the world the 200th anniversary of Ludwig van Beethoven's birth was commemorated with festivals and concerts of a wide variety. Distinguished performers of national acclaim, students and music lovers paid homage to this stormy genius, who is the most widely cherished of all musicians.

Two concerts commemorating the bicentennial took place at St. James Episcopal Church, Lafayette Square, arranged by Maurice Murphy, choir master and organist.

An imposing number of black and white musicians participated in the programs, which featured Beethoven's instrumental and vocal music.

* * *

A sizable audience attended, one at 10:45 p.m. and the second at 8 p.m. Fred Tetrich, bass baritone, was heard in the cycle "To the Distant Beloved," no doubt the object of the composer's famous love letter.

Lauretta Young, notable Baltimore soprano, sang arias by Mandel, whose works influenced Beethoven and by Hindemith, the modern composer.

The last of 32 cantatas by the German master — Opus 3 was played by John Phillips, doctoral candidate at Peabody.

Opus 109, the E Major Sonata was heard with Ernest Ragogino (also a doctoral student at Peabody) at the keyboard.

Henry Mays, cellist, with Julius Tilghman at the piano, was programmed in Variations, a favorite form with the composer.

"Groose Fuge" (Large fugue), one of Beethoven's five works for piano four hands, was offered by Jeffrey Goldberg and Peter Takacs, both students of Leon Fleisher at Peabody.

In the "Spring Sonata" Irene Kohlmeyer, violinist and Maurice Murphy, pianist, collaborated. Completing the concerts were Clinton Arrowood, flutist of Garrison Forest faculty; Neil Tilkens, Carolyn Hopkins and Nelita True.

Following the concerts coffee hour was held at the Maurice Murphy studio on Lafayette Ave.

* * *

Posters for the festival were created by Ronald Bryant and C. Arrowood.

It is interesting to note that Beethoven's famous "Kreutzer" Violin Sonata was first played by a young black prodigy, George A. P. Bridgetower.

The 11-year-old violinist was a favorite of the concert-going public on the Continent and in Britain.

Delores Jones, dramatic soprano, was soloist in the "Calm Sea", a little known cantata written by Beethoven in his late years.

With the Peabody chorus and symphony, the work was performed under the direction of Leo Mueller at Peabody and at Goucher College.

At Morgan State College, the Maryland Symphonette, with Elaine Kelly, pianist, observed the bicentennial with a concert featuring the Fourth Concerto, conducted by Angela Gatto.

* * *

The Piano Teachers Activity Group held a Beethoven student recital in the parish hall of Metropolitan Methodist Church.

A question period and discussion on the life and works of the composer was followed by a solo and duet program. Mrs. Florence Carter presided.

James Morris, recent winner of the Baltimore Opera Company's Carling Vocal Competition, made his debut at the Metropolitan Opera in the role of "The King" in "Aida."

He is the only Baltimorean, to date, who has won first prize in the annual event. He has performed in eight productions of the Baltimore Opera Company and will appear in the February performance of "The Barber of Seville."

Morris is a protege of Miss Rosa Ponselle, artistic Director of the Company and studied at Peabody.

CADENDAR: Wed. Jan. 3 at noon recital in the concert hall of Peabody, vocal students of Flora Wend will sing works by Monteverdi, Schumann and Brahms. Included among the vocalists are Myra Merritt, soprano and Earl Grandison, bass baritone. Admission is free.

Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 20 and 21 at 8:30 at the Lyric, Baltimore Symphony Rainier Miedel conducting; Janet Baker, mezzo and Morgan State College Choir, directed by Nathan Carter. "Overture and Bacchanale" from "Tannhauser" Brahms "Rhapsody" and works by Berlioz and Ravel.

Thursday, Feb. 2 at 8:30 in Murphy Auditorium, Morgan State College, Henry Lewis, black conductor of New Jersey Symphony, guest conductor of Baltimore Sympony, with Malcolm Frager, pianist; sponsored by Northeast Symphony Society; Mrs. Roger Williams, president. For ticket information: Mrs. Catherine Adams, 254-1941.

Sunday, Feb. 28 in Shriver Hall, Johns Hopkins University, Salzburg Marionette Theatre, 4 p.m. "Snow White" and 8:30 p.m. "Don Giovanni. Sponsored by Baltimore Chapter Young Audiences (formerly Young Musicians). Mrs. Harrison Winter, chairman. For ticket information call 367-1263.

JANUARY 16

The Pickwick Players will hold auditions for salaried acting positions in their Children's Musical Theatre company from 2:00 p.m. until 5:00 p.m. in the Dixie Room of The Sheraton Belvedere Hotel at Charles and Chase Sts., Baltimore. Performers with dancing, singing, and acting ability are needed for the group's Winter-Spring tour which will include performances throughout the area.

The performing unit, which offers musical productions for the family audience, will be presenting WINNIE-THE-POOH from February until June.

For further information, please call Mr. Dansicker at 358-5190.

Top conductor

Alice M. Ditson prize of Columbia University.

Dixon was invited to conduct several concerts with the Radio Symphony Orchestra of France in 1949.

For the next 21 years he pursued his career in Europe and other parts of the world. In 1953 he was appointed permanent conductor of the Goteburg Symphony in Sweden and held that post for seven years.

He then assumed the Frankfurt post, and during the next nine years conducted leading orchestras throughout Europe, as well as conducting the Sydney, Australia, Symphony.

North Star due for expansion

"North Star," WBAL-TV's series of half-hour programs highlighting the talents and achievements of Baltimore's black residents, will undergo a program format expansion to one hour beginning Sunday, January 24, from 6-7 p.m.

Featured on TV 11's first hour-long "North Star" program will be the latest in unisex fashions, police community relations, black entrepreneurship and singer Betti Williams.

The opening segment wil focus on Lawrence Parker and his men's clothing store. Parker, who is also a science teacher at Edmondson High School, will discuss changing styles in clothing and present a fashion show of unisex styles.

* * *

Police community relations programs will be discussed in the second segment. Appearing will be Thomas Seadron of Activists, Inc., Evelyn Burrell of the Community Relations Commission and Arthur Murphy, executive assistant to the governor. They will discuss the impact of Milton Allen's recent election and how it will affect relations between Baltimore's black community and the police.

The third segment will explore black entrepreneurship and will focus on the efforts of Isaac and Dessa Snowden, a husband and wife team who own and operate a lamp making business in Baltimore.

Closing the program will be singer Betti Williams who will sing James Weldon Johnson's song "Lift Every Voice and Sing."

"North Star," seen in color every Sunday at 6-7 p.m., is produced by John Slade, WBAL-TV assistant community service manager for Urban Affairs, and is sponsored in part by the Schmidt Baking Company of Baltimore.

Plenty Of Action On TV Programs

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Plenty of action on the three television networks during the new week, including President Nixon's state of the union message Friday night.

NBC and ABC shuffle several programs into new time and/or day spots.

ABC introduces four new weekly series, including a half-hour situation program starring Henry Fonda and what should be a major event of the season, a one-hour weekly variety show starring Pearl Bailey.

The super bowl championship game of the National Football League is on NBC Sunday, as well as a special paying tribute to the late NFL coach, Vince Lombardi.

The American Basketball Association's all-star game is on CBS next Saturday. The new U.S. Senators and Penguins get CBS specials.

Highlight details Jan. 17-23 (all times EST unless noted):

SUNDAY

"Face the Nation, CBS, 11:30 a.m.

NBC has "A Man Named Lombardi," 12:30-1:30 p.m. ("Meet The Press" is preempted.)

The CBS National Hockey League game at 1 features New York and Chicago.

"Issues and Answers," ABC, 1:30.

NBc offers a pre-super bowl show, 1:30-2.

Super Bowl V is on NBC at 2, with Baltimore meeting Dallas in Miami.

"Animal World," Bill Burrud, host-narrator, returns for another season to CBS, 5:30-6 (previously announced for Jan. 3 premiere and postponed). The bat is the subject.

NBC, 5:30-7, has play on late holes of the final round of the Bing Crosby pro-am golf championships from Pebble Beach, Calif.

"Meet the New Senators" is a one-hour CBS special at 6 that provides introduction to the 11 U.S. Senators elected last November.

NBC's "Wild Kingdom" at 7 offers "Lions Under The Net." Relocation of wildbeast and lions in Rnodesia.

Disney's hour on NBC at 7:30 has the first segment of a three-part movie spoof of the old west, "The Adventures of Bullwhip Griffin." Boston boy of impoverished uppercrust family and his butler seek to repair their fortunes in California goldfields. Susan Pleshette, Bryan Russell, Roddy McDowell, Karl Malden, Richard Hay-Harry Guardino are in the cast.

Tony Bennett, Melina Mercouri and Gary Puckett are among those on Ed Sullivan's CBS hour at 8.

ABC's "The FBI" at 8 has "Center of Peril." Thieves try to sell a million-dollar painting to the museum from which it was stolen.

"The Glen Campbell Goodtime Hour" on CBS at 9 features Tennessee Ernie Ford, Phil Silvera and Susan Raye.

"The ABC Sunday Night Movie" at 9 screens 1967's "Waterhole No. 3," starring James Coburn as an adventurer in the old west of the late 19th century.

"Top Hand" on NBC "Bonanza" at 9 has a Ponderosa trial boss involved in a conflict with his men that menaces a cattle drive.

Hal Holbrook is in another of the Senator dramas on NBC's "The Bold Ones" at 10. In "Someday They'll Elect A President," the senator is accused of using his office to enrich a crime syndicate.

"Jackie Gleason and The Honeymooners" on CBS at 10 repeats the episode in which the Kramdens and Nortons get involved with con men during a trip to Mexico.

MONDAY

Moving "The Young Lawyers" to a new day and time, ABC fills the 7:30-8:30 p.m. period with, in order, "Let's Make A Deal" and "The Newlywed Game," transposed from Saturday evening.

In repeated "Zavala" on "Gunsmoke" for CBS at 7:30, Marshal Dillon trails two outlaws to Mexico where he gets involved with a boy who wants his village freed from bandit control.

Chad Everett and Cass Elliot are Red Skelton's CBS guests at 7:30. A San Fernando Red Sketch about marchmaking.

"Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" on NBC at 8 is host to comedian Joey Bishop.

ABC replaces the canceled "Silent Force" series, 8:30-9, with a new quiz show, "The Reel Game." Jack Barry is master of ceremonies for a program on which contestants test their knowledge against films of famous persons and events.

"NBC World Premiere Movie" at 9 offers the new "Do You Take This Stranger?," with a cast including Gene Barry, Dkane Baker, Joseph Cotten, Sidney Blackmer, Susan Oliver and Lloyd Bridges. A man schemes to get a million-dollar inheritance by switching identities with a man who has only a short time to live.

"The ABC Monday Night Movie" at 9 rescreens 1965's "Cat Ballou," starring Lee Marvin and Jane Fonda in a spoof of a saga of the old west.

Mel Torme and Michele Lee are guest stars on Carol Burnett's CBS Hour at 10.
