Luncheon honors Bernard A. Smith

Bernard A. Smith, who gave 31 years of service to the Baltimore City Health Department before retiring on December 30, 1970, was honored by the department at a luncheon, Wednesday, at Brice's Hilltop Inn.

At the time of his retirement, Mr. Smith was building operation supervisor, but is best remembered as the capable friendly custodian of the Druid Health Center, both at the original Druid Hill Avenue site and later at the W. North Avenue building.

At the luncheon on Wednesday, Mr. Smith was showered with gifts from various departments and friends that ranged from an engraved gold cigarette box, cash, after shave lotion to wallet.

The affair was arranged by a committee which was co-chaired by Mrs. Serena Holmes and James H. Edwards, with Mrs. Anita Richardson, advisor.

Participants on the luncheon program were Dr. James D. Carr, who brought greetings; the Rev. George W. Giese of Saint Cecelia Church, who gave the invocation and benediction; and James H. Edwards, who served as toastmaster.

Speakers included Dr. Walter E. Shervington, Mrs. Anita Richardson, Mrs. Ella Hughes and Joseph D. Scanlon.

Attending the luncheon in addition to the honoree and Mrs. Smith, were:

Gamma Sigma Sigma institutes chapter

Gamma Sigma Sigma Sorority established a chapter, here, January 10th, the first alumnae unit to be installed in this decade.

Gamma Sigma Sigma is a National Service Sorority composed of college and university women. Founded in 1952, its purpose is to "assemble college and university women in the spirit of service to humanity. It shall serve to develop friendship among women of all races and creeds through working side by side in the fulfillment of these goals common to all."

Alumnae Chapters are formed on a geographical basis. The Greater Baltimore Alumnae Chapter includes Metropolitan Baltimore, Baltimore County, Anne Arundel, Howard, Carroll, and Harford Counties.

Three-fourths of the membership are alumnae of the Alpha Xi Chapter, Morgan State College. Other members attended the University of Maryland, Howard University and Drexel Institute of Technology.

The new chapter was installed by national alumnae secretary, Miss Dianne Rubinstein, of Brooklyn, N.Y., graduate of Brooklyn College. She was assisted by East Central regional director, Mrs. Mildred Hoffner of Silver Spring, Md. Mrs. Hoffner is a graduate of Howard University.

The chapter was presented a plaque and a gift of a membership book from the National Board of Directors.

Each officer was presented a long stemm l white rose, symbolizing friendship.

Greater Baltimore Alumnae Chapter officers are: Miss Chipper Debuskey, president; Miss Giarence Shipman, vice-president; Miss Velma Jones, recording secretary; Miss Audrey Parker, corresponding secretary; Miss Joan Keenan, treasurer; and Mrs. Harriette Myles Page, historian.

After installation ceremonies a buffet luncheon was served.

The ceremony was held in the Chapel of Millford Manor, 4204 Millford Mill Rd., Baltimore.

John Logan, Professor of English at the State University of New York at Buffalo, will be the guest speaker at St. John's College in Annapolis today to give his poetry reading-lecture, entitled "A Concert of Poems with Comments," at 8:15 p.m. in the auditorium of the Francis Scott Key Memorial Hall.

Provident Auxiliary runs service shops

Catching their breaths after getting settled in the new Provident Hospital, members of the hospital Auxiliary are surveying with pride their new enterprises there.

In addition to providing supportive volunteer help to the staff, the Auxiliary has successfully opened the Auxiliary Gift Shop in the lobby area and the Auxiliary Beauty Shop which is located on the third floor of the hospital.

In the gift shop, managed by Mrs. Maggie Watkins, can be found treasures of all types for patients, including reading materials, jewelry, lingerie, cosmetics, candy and imaginative gifts for new babies.

Volunteer chairman for the gift shop is Miss Marjorie Joiner.

A gift cart, which provides services for those unable to come to the gift shop is under the direction of the volunteer chairman, Mrs. Josephine Short.

The beauty shop is managed by Mrs. Goldie Cotton, assisted by Mrs. Gilda Williams. Mrs. Vivian Scott is volunteer chairman of the beauty shop.

The new baby photo service and the rental of color television sets to patients are also projects of the Auxiliary.

Volunteer chairman for baby photos is Mrs. Ruth Love and Miss Dorothy Wiggins is volunteer chairman for television rentals. Revenue from all these services will be channeled to the hospital through the Auxiliary.

These services have been planned and organized under the supervision of Mrs. Beatrice Avery, president of the Auxiliary.

Senate moves bad egg bill

AFRO BUREAU

ANNAPOLIS — That bill to tighten restrictions on the sale of bad eggs unfit for human consumption is set for passage in the Senate, and will go over the House of Delegates.

The Senate gave it tentative approval Wednesday, following a hearing the day before by the Economic Affairs Committee.

At that hearing, Sen. Verda F. Welcome (4th Balto.), sponsor of the SB 53, told the committee members such eggs are more often found in the poor community stores.

They carry a bacteria, she said, inducive to salmonella.

The bill carries a minor amendment which allows such eggs to be disposed of by sale other than for human consumption to whomever would want them, rather than mandatory be destroyed.

Mandel offers $100 million for new school construction

By MAX JOHNSON
AFRO BUREAU

ANNAPOLIS — Gov. Marvin Mandel, in listing in his state of the state message here here Thursday public education as his top priority, said he now proposes that the state assume the entire cost of school construction "in every county and city of this state."

He told a joint session of the General Assembly, gathered for the traditional message, he would present to its members a comprehensive program to achieve this aim.

"Under this program," the governor said, "the state will stand ready to finance in excess of $100 million in new school construction every year, and — in addition — to contribute substantial funds to help the counties and Baltimore City pay off school construction debts incurred before 1967.

"Through the state's excellent bond rating — and with no need for additional taxes of any kind — this program will be accomplished by appropriating a sum of money each year to the bond annuity fund, so that outstanding bonds can be paid off without increasing the state real estate tax."

Further on state aie to education, Gov. Mandel reminded that the current operating budget contains a special appropriation of 724.3 million distributed to Baltimore City and the counties according to a demonstrated need formula.

He said he would recommend this aid be continued in the 1972 budget at approximately the same rate of payment.

"By continuing this aid," the governor explained, "for example, Baltimore City will receive an additional $4.5 million for ist schools, while Anne Arundel County will receive an additional $2 million and Prince Georges an additional $4 million."

Afterwards, Sen. Clarence W. Blount (5th Balto.), veteran educator and principal of Baltimore's Dunbar High School, told the AFRO:

He was "very pleased" with the governor's new aid to education program, but hoped it would not lead to an authorative state takeover of schools.

Gov. Mandel, in answering critics on the subject, said he is not unsympathetic to the needs of the subdivisions, but advised them to "seriously inventory their operations" to eliminate waste and duplication.

"In the spending program before you," he told the lawmakers, "fully $870 million — or 49.1 percent — of the entire $1.8 billion budget goes directly to the 23 counties and Baltimore City.

"And $609 million — or 58.5 percent — of all state general funds, money collected from the taxpayers of Maryland, is returned directly to the subdivisions.

"More specifically, approximately 66 percent of all money spent in Baltimore City is supplied by the state and federal governments.

"So it is easy to see that the state is doing its share, to the best of its abilities within current revenues, to meet its obligations to the subdivisions."

Among other subject matters, the governor said he would ask the Assembly to consider the complete reorganization of the State Department of Education, and would appoint a task force to this end at conclusion of this session.

Gov. Mandel told the Assembly that the state is solvent, and the members had the "important responsibility" to make certain it remains so.

Answering reports that the District of Columbia is considering an earnings tax on Marylanders who work there, the governor warned he would "fight any attempt by outsiders to take additional money from our citizens."

Further proposals he listed were:

1. Legislation to allow persons convicted of nonsupport to remain out of prison with agreement that they work and support their families, thus cutting the prison population and keeping families off welfare rolls;

2. Legislation to license television repairmen, the regulation of cable television, and the creation of a food and drug administration within the state;

3. Legislation to effectively control rising hospital costs;

4. Election board reform legislation, including a comprehensive measure to close many loopholes in existing election laws.

In closing, Gov. Mandel told the Assembly:

"I want to repeat that our principle obligation as elected officials, whether we are members of the Legislative or the Executive branch of government, is to serve the people of Maryland, and to see that their needs are met."

Speaker Lowe is pleased with current legislators

AFRO BUREAU
By DEBBIE BROWN

ANNAPOLIS — "I'm very pleased with the new black and white delegates," Speaker of the House of Delegates, Thomas Hunter Lowe told the AFRO, Wednesday.

Mr. Lowe, head man in the House Chamber, is not a stranger to Maryland's General Assembly.

Talbot County's Man of the Year, 1958, has been a member of the House of Delegates since 1959. He was chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, 1963-68; Majority Leader, 1967-68; and Speaker of the House since 1969.

"The delegates generally get better and better. There appears to be anoverall upgrading of the whole legislative process."

Mr. Lowe did not foresee any significant change in the legislation passed at this session of the General Assembly which has the largest number of black delegates in the history of the state.

He stated that "all of the delegates seem to be solely interested in passing legislation which will benefit all peoples."

"I'M DELIGHTED!", says Del. Isaiah Dixon Jr. after his appointment to vice-chairman of the House of Delegate's Sub-committee on Insurance, Wednesday in Annapolis. Mr. Dixon is representing Baltimore's 4th district in the Maryland General Assembly.

Dixon bills would help the needy

AFRO BUREAU

ANNAPOLIS — Del. Isaiah Dixon Jr. (4th Balto) introduced four bills in the House of Delegates on Wednesday. The bills, designed to oust the residency requirements for the underprivileged, had as focal points the aged, family aid, public assistance and the blind.

House Bill 164 is a proposal which will amend Sec. 65 of Art. 88A of the Code, eliminating the residence requirement for old age assistance, if passed.

House Bill 165, if adopted, will amend Sec. 48(a) of Art 88A of the Code, eliminating the residence requirement for assistance to dependent children.

House Bill 166, if adopted, repeals Sec. 17 of Art. 88A of the Code eliminating the residence requirement for public assistance.

House Bill 167, amends Sec. 14(a) of Art. 88A of the Code, eliminating the residence requirements for public assistance to the needy blind, if passed.

The Dixon bills were referred to the Ways and Means Committee.

Webser bill would let mayor pick police chief

AFRO BUREAU

ANNAPOLIS — Del. Kenneth L. Webster (5th Balto.) has introduced to the Md. House of Delegates, a bill which would amend Secs. 16-5 and 16-6 of the Code of Public Local Laws of Baltimore City to provide for the appointment of the Baltimore City Police Commissioner by the Mayor of Baltimore. The police chief is presently appointed by the governor.

Del. Webster also introduced a House-Joint-Resolution requesting the Landlord-Tenant Laws Study Commission to investigate new eviction procedures and requesting the Chief Constable of the Baltimore City People's Court to maintain certain information relating to evictions.

Both of Del. Webster's proposals were referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Blount seeks broader scholarship program

AFRO BUREAU

ANNAPOLIS — Sen. Clarence W. Blount (5th Balto.) introduced in the upper chamber here Wednesday a meaningful bill for high school grads, seeking financial aid to further their studies.

Sen. Blount's SB 107 would broaden the state's scholarship program, and without additional cost to the state as it is presently written.

It provides that rather than college such scholarships may be used for vocational training programs at accredited institutions, and also for apprentice training programs beyond the high school level.

For example, Sen. Blount said this would make scholarship aid available for a person who wanted training as a mortician, or the specialized arts or the trades industry, and higher training in other areas other than college.

The bill further provides that if the vocational, technical or apprentice program sought by the applicant is not available within the state, the scholarship would apply to an accredited institution outside Maryland.

Such scholarships would fit within the framework of the present system granted senators.

The SB 107 was referred to the Senate's Finance Committee, headed by Sen. George E. Snyder (D. Allegany-Garret-Washington).

Sen. Beall working to keep hospital open

Statement of Sen. J. Glenn Beall Jr. regarding funds for Wyman Park Public Health Service Hospital in Baltimore told the AFRO today:

"I have today examined the budget document for the Department of Health Education and Welfare regarding the continuance of operating funds for Wyman Park Public Health Service Hospital in Baltimore.

"I am disappointed that the original budget presentation calls for the closing of the Public Health Service Hospital, but I am hopeful this can be changed.

"On the basis of rumor received earlier, Sen. Mathias, Cong. Garmatz, and I asked that the Dept. of Health Education and Welfare give this matter further study.

"As a result, a study team held hearings in Baltimore last week and I hope that their report will convince the department of the need for this hospital to remain open.

"It must be remembered that the budget proposal is but the first step in the long appropriations process.

"It represents only beginning figures from which the Congress will work toward the eventual fiscal year 1972 appropriations for the department.

"The funding amount can be amended at several places along the appropriations process.

"The department itself can change its request, or failing that, the funding amounts can be amended in committee or even on the floor of either House.

"These possibilities will be investigated as I watch developments on this issue."

BULLETIN

Dr. Edward Beach, dean of the Graduate School at Bowie State College, resigned Thursday, after a lengthy dispute with the school's president, Dr. Samuel L. Myers.

The blond dean and other teachers in the school have been feuding with Dr. Myers because they allege he hasn't moved fast enough to fill faculty posts, though the funds have been appropriated.

The No. 2 officer in Dr. Myers' administration, the AFRO learned, is also on the verge of resigning.

Resignations go to the President's office and not to Gov. Marvin Mandel.

All of this was confirmed Thursday evening by Lt. Gov. Blair Lee, III.

New bill might rob Art Murphy of post

ANNAPOLIS — A bill to abolish the Governor's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice and establish another along similar lines has stirred considerable controversy.

The SB 46, introduced Monday of last week, is currently before the Senate Finance Committee headed by Sen. George E. Snyder (D. Allegany-Garret-Washington).

It is a product of the Legislative Council, the working arm of the General Assembly between sessions.

In abolishing the present agency, the bill would establish instead the Maryland Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice.

One main objection is that it takes away power of appointing the chairman from the governor after the first meeting.

Arthur G. Murphy Sr., top black executive on Gov. Marvin Mandel's staff, is chairman of the present agency, and the lone black man in the country to hold such a post.

If the bill were passed with its present provisions governing its members naming their own chairman after their initial meeting, it is feared that the black community would lose Mr. Murphy from the post.

They see this, though the governor would name the 26-member commission on a five-year term basis, leaving the members free to name their own chairman and vice-chairman from among its members.

Another objection comes from Richard C. Wertz, executive director of the present agency, who has stated that the proposed commission would be virtually impossible to administer as the bill is now written.

Abortion bill hearing

ANNAPOLIS — The First of what may be several public hearings on a new abortion bill now before the House of Delegates was still in progress here Thursday evening at AFRO press time.

The hearing was before the House's Environmental Matters Committee in an auditorium on St. John's College Campus, where it had been moved to accommodate an overflow crowd of about 200 interested citizens.

Delegates Lena K. Lee (4th Balto.) and Floyd B. Adams (2nd Balto.) are black members of this committee.

Thugs attack Mrs. Silbert

(UPI) — The mother of the Maryland Assistant Attorney General assigned to the Baltimore Police Department was mugged late Monday night.

Two men attacked Mrs. Rebecca Silbert, 60, mother of Assistant Attorney General Bernard Silbert, outside her plush northwest city apartment in the 6300 block Greenspring Ave.

The men roughed her up and took $60. Mrs. Silbert, 60, was hospitalized overnight. Mrs. Silbert formerly headed tre Baltimore City Supervisors of Elections.

said "let's go home." They were driven to the Morgan campus and the cars were parked on a parking lot near the Coldspring Lane overpass.

The girls told police that when they got out of the cars the boys, six of them, took them to a building where they "walked up steps, went down a hall, came to another door, one boy took a key from his pocket, opened the door" and they went inside.

The girls said they were ushered into two small rooms down a short hallway which each contained a bed.

Each girl was taken into a room and assaulted repeatedly by when, during the struggle with one victim, a youth, yelled "go get some more fellows."

The girls reported that one was stripped down to her bra while the other was allowed to keep on her shoes, socks and bra.

Also they claimed that during the repeated assaults their "arms and legs were held while each boy took his turn.

There were six males in the room "with the 17-year-old girl and five with the 18-year-old and "each one took his "turn," interchanging victims.

When the older girl became ill, they reported that "the suspects became frightened" and allowed them to dress.

The sick girl was offered a glass of water and, after she declined an offer to be taken to the hospital, the students drove them to the address of the younger girl and let them go.

After informing police of what had happened, the girls were taken to Pine Street Station where "findings of recent intercourse were positive."

A conference between police officers and officials of Morgan State College was held at Northern District Police Station this week and police say "it was decided at that time Lt. Wallace Ritter would continue the investigation."

George Talifero, Dean of Students at the college told the AFRO, "At this point, I would rather not make any statement.

"No formal charges have been made in the incident and until something concrete has been established, I have no statement."

Morgan, like other colleges in the area, has unrestricted visiting hours.

as his first assistant, marking the first time in Baltimore history a black man had served in tre No. 2 spot.

Approval of Mr. Pinderhughes came after a lengthy discussion with board members who preferred another black educator, but Dr. Sheldon's will prevailed after he announced he found Mr. Pinderhughes the best qualified for the spot.

On previous occasions when Dr. Sheldon has been out of the city, it has been Mr. Pinderhughes who took over direction of the schools.

When the AFRO called Mr. Pinderhughes at his 25th St. office on Thursday to ask the possibility he would be named as acting superintendent, he said "I have no comment."

When the Board meets today, almost the entire structure will be changed. Mayor Thomas J. D'Alesandro 3rd has sent to the City Council the names of 3 new nominees. They are:

Miss Norma Svejda, Cyril O. Bryon, Sr., and Stephen McNierney. There is expected to be careful interrogation of the nominees by the City Council when the Committee on Executive Appointments schedules hearings on the appointments.

Mr. Byron, who is black, has indicated he does not intend to vote on all matters with the so-called black bloc which includes Commissioners James Griffin, Elizabeth Murphy Moss and Larry Gibson.

Thus, one of the alleged controversial matirs on the board for the last few weeks, that of black bloc voting and their liberal five-man majority with Philip Macht, the Jewish member, is dead. Mr. Macht has since retired.

How the board will vote on sensitive matters as the future of Commission on the Revision of the Social Studies will be closely watched.

Another factor is whether Commissioner Marce Farring will change her image as being the most outspoken member of the so-called conservative side now that there are additional members who are not announced members of any bloc. All still face City Council approval.

Commissioner James Griffin was named by former board member John Sweeney as being the most militant of the black members. Whether he changes that position with the addition of new board members will be carefully watched by City Hall, the AFRO learned.

Mayor D'Alesandro, has said that with the Sheldon resignation no longer looming over the board, he now has a free rand to restructure the board.

His submission of 3 unknown names to the Council may be a testimony to that fact.

The 3 new members will appear at today's meeting. Other members of the board are Kalman R. "Buzzy" Hettleman and Board President, Robert L. Karwacki.

Mr. Hettleman appeared before the City Council Committee on Executive appointments yesterday. He was given a 90-minute grilling.

Afterwards it was learned the committee will meet in executive session on Monday to decide whether to approve him.

Meantime the AFRO has learned that City Hall scuttlebut has it that councilman have advised Mayor D'Alesandro they would not approve Mr. Hettleman unless he removes James M. Griffin from the Board.

old William who set the fire.

The other children who escaped uninjured were: Edward, 10; and Robert, 6.

The Grahams told the AFRO they are very happy about the comfort provided by neighbors including Rabbi and Mrs. Norman Alper, who took the family in minutes after the fire; and coworkers Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Everett of Oakfield Ave. where they stayed until Wednesday.

As of now, the family is staying with a family friend, Mrs. Melvina Jackson of White Oak Ave.

Mr. Graham estimates it will take "three or four months" to repair the fire damage.

'But, I'm not worried about that,' he said. 'I'm just glad nobody got hurt. It was a miracle they got out safely with all that smoke.'

Senators Mitchell, Welcome and Blount introduce bills

By MAX JOHNSON
AFRO BUREAU

ANNAPOLIS — A bill designed to create a comprehensive compensatory education program for the disadvantaged was introdiced in the Senate Thursday by Senator Clarence M. Mitchell III (4th Balto.).

The program, under provisions of the SB119, would be administered by the State Board of Education under a new department created for the purpose, and headed by an assistant state superintendent.

Senator Mitchell said this would allow also for the appointment of a black assistant state superintendent, in that the program would affect a fast majority of black people.

He pointed out that Dr. Percy V. Williams is now the lone black educator to hold such a post in the state.

Funding the program would be administered by the State Department of Education as a part of its budget.

Also in the Senate, Thursday, Senators Verda F. Welcome (4th Balto.) and Sen. Clarence W. Blount (5th Balto.), brought in SB124, which would authorize the Police Training Commission to certify private detective who attend police training schools, and if licensed by the superintendent of state police.

Among 10 other bills introduced in the senate was one by Senator Frederick C. Malkus Jr., (D. Lower Shore) which would give 19 years old the age of maturity in the state opening up advantages now given when they reach 21.

The bill came in rebuttal to the senate certain approval of another lowing the voting age to 18.

The SB125 is a massive 34-page document and has nine co-sponsors including Senator Mitchell.

Over in the House of Delegates, Gerald J. Curran, (3rd Balto.) introduced HB178, which would require the Police Commission of Baltimore City to create an auxiliary police force within the Police Department.

Also affecting Baltimore city were four emergency two million dollars, two million dollars brought in by John J. Kenny Jr. (3rd Balto.), head of the House's City delegation.

They are: HB184 — Six million dollars for an incinerator plant; HB185 — 1.5 million dollars for recreation facilities; HB186 — 7.8 million dollars for water; HB187 — Eighteen million dollars for sewer construction and renovation.

The General Assembly moved today (Friday) into its second full week of its extended 90-day session.
