'Young, gifted and black'; Annapolis success story

By DEBBIE BROWN

Charles M. Collier, Midshipman First Class, is an undergraduate in the college of the U.S. Naval Academy. Making preparations for a professional career as a Navy Officer, Mid. Collier has been afforded the unusually exciting educational experience of being a participant in the Naval Academy Trident Scholar program.

As in the Scholar of the Posse program at Yale, the Scholar works independently on a research project. He carries a reduced number of courses, and his research and thesis constitute the major part of his academic program for the senior year.

Mid. Collier's project, a computer study of a crystal defect, is carried out in three stages. The first stage concerned lattice calculation which computed the relative orientation of the atoms in a crystal.

In progress is the second stage, which entails isolating the area around the crystal defect and yielding the electric potential surrounding the defect.

He reminded the Legislators that another article, Article 36, proclaims that "no person ought by any law to be molested in his person or estate, on account of his religious persuasion, or profession ..." and cited the clergy prohibition clause as "a discriminatory religious test."

The final stage, the most complicated and time consuming phase, involves the Hartree Foc calculation which gives the various electron energy in the defect.

Mid. Collier's research should lead to a theoretical projection of what one would expect to see if performing certain experiments on the crystal.

Speaking of his project, Mid. Collier stated, "The defect which I am studying is caused by radiation. The conclusions of my research efforts, hopefully, will shed light on how radiation damage defects certain crystal and help in the over-all study of such defects."

Mid. Collier is a 1967 graduate of Polytechnic Institute where he majored in physics. He spoke of his education at Poly as being "one of the best preparatory programs for plebes (freshmen at the Naval Academy)."

Mid. Collier and his family live on Chelsea Terrace. His father, Charles M. Collier Sr., is a laboratory technician at Fort Howard Veterans Administration Hospital; his mother, Mrs. Eugenia Collier, is a literature professor at the Community College of Baltimore. Charles has two brothers—Robert, 18, and Philip, 6.

Collier is engaged to Miss Zenora Howard. He and his fiancee plan a June wedding at the Naval Academy.

Mid. Collier told the AFRO "The main part that I liked best about the Naval Academy was the travelling. My first summer I went to Puerto Rico and California. The second summer, I toured Spain and Majorca, an island off the coast of Spain."

"The summer cruise of my third year afforded me the opportunity to see Spain, Germany, Italy, and Great Britain. All of my travels were done in connection with summer training or on leave taking military hops."

Mid. Collier is a member of the varsity fencing team and enjoys flying in jets and sailing in submarines.

After graduation from the Academy, he will go to San Francisco for nuclear power training which will lead to nuclear submarine training.

Mid. Collier, a perfect example of the many black students who are enrolled in and succeeding at the U.S. Naval Academy, says, "A black person can succeed here if he has the qualifications. Qualified students don't come because they don't know about the place; this is most unfortunate."

DIONE WARWICK AND LESLIE UGGAMS ON "THE DAVID FROST SHOW"

In addition to being friends, California neighbors and "hooked pinochle partners," Dionne Warwick and Leslie Uggams give the details surrounding a new endeavor . . . Dionne has originated a new recording company, "Sonday," and Leslie is her first recording artist.

This venture has also enabled Miss Warwick to assume a new role in the field of music, since she was the producer of her client's first release. Miss Uggams sings her two recordings for Sonday, "Love Is A Good Foundation" and "I Just Can't Help Believun!"

Miss Warwick recalls how she was discovered by her own notable record producer, composer Burt Bacharach, who heard her singing when she was recording with the group The Drifters. The song was "Mexican Divorce" and Dionne was a member of the background chorus.

Her voice was distinctly heard above the others, however, and she tells how Mr. Bacharach called her aside after the session . . . the rest of the story spelled out nothing but success. The recording of "Mexican Divorce" is played, featuring The Drifters . . . and Dionne Warwick.

The two women also tell how their talents were recognized quite early in their lives. Miss Uggams began singing at the age of three, though not professionally. But at six, she was acting in such programs as "Beaulah" which starred Ethel Waters.

Miss Warwick, on the other hand, started singing in a church choir and was also part of a group formed by members of her family, The Gospelaires. The also comment about their marriages, and Miss Warwick introduces her young son David, who, after telling everyone he's two-years-old, becomes deeply intent upon watching himself on the studio monitors.

Musical numbers performed by Miss Uggams are: "Come Back To Me," "Didn't We?", "Brighton Hill," and "Somewhere."

Miss Warwick sings a medley of her hits including "Close To You," "Alfie" (performing this for the first time since last year's Academy Awards presentation) "Do You Know The Way To San Jose?", "The Look of Love," "What The World Needs Now," "Put A Little Love In Your Heart," "Come Together" and "Get Together." They also team up to sing "Try To See It My Way."

"The David Frost Show" is produced and syndicated by Group W Prductions, a wholly owned subsidiary of the Westinghouse Broadcasting Company, Inc.

BERRY — In loving memory of my brother and my uncle JACOB O. BERRY, who departed this life Feb. 2, 1971:
"GOD" moves in mysterious ways
His wonders to perform
He plants his footsteps, on the seas
And rides upon the Storm
Mysteriously He has visited us
In the form of death
And took away our loved one
To His father's house, for rest
The trials, the tribulations, the hardships that we bear
It is our Heavenly Father,
Who place those burdens there,
He has taken away our loved one
And left our hearts in grief
But yet He shares our sadness
That is our true belief.
He breathed life into our souls
From the time of Birth
To then appoints our given time
To tread upon his earth
