One of our town's prettiest affairs was the Original Gardenia Bridge Club annual dinner-dance a Friday night ago at the North Point Gardens.

The mod affair exemplifying the new look was carried out beautifully by club members and guests.

Hot pants, granny, peasant and pants of all descriptions were the garb of the gals . . . The guys were not to be outdone, attired in fake fur dinner jackets, dress shirts, and dinner jackets of all hues — you name it, they wore it — with a flair!

MISS MARBELLE ANN TAYLOR will wed Robert Alvin Bennett on April 17 at St. Peter Claver Catholic Church.

The music to suit every dancer, by Jimmy Smith, a gourmet dinner catered by North Point Gardens, and The Larry Reed Dancing Models, featuring the "sex machine" — Wow!!!, combined to make an evening of complete entertainment. Over 500 guests attended.

The affair is to benefit the club's favorite charities. Similar activities held annually by the club have benefitted The School of Chimes, Provident Hospital, Crownsville State Hospital and the Anna Mae Hunter Home for the Blind.

Officers and members who sponsored this affair were: Mesdames Mabel Driver, president; Berdie Addison, treasurer; Ethel Brown, financial secretary; Florence Ringgold, recording secretary; Lillie Frazier, Ann James, Ruby Ragler, Leoda Taylor and Edith Fowlkes.

Build to save St. Pius Church by parishioners

Saint Pius V parish (Schroeder and Edmondson Ave.) sees the handwriting on the wall concerning its school in a building that is over a hundred years old and a living testimony to obsolescence.

The school will either have to be remodelled for a good educational program or it will have to be closed.

The falling plaster and creaking wooden stairs seem to be pulling to the force the old thought that has been conveniently buried.

Edgar Jones, editorial writer for the Evening Sun, commented on the efforts of the Oblate Nuns in innovating and providing a good educational program for inner-city black children despite physical handicaps.

The parish wants the Sisters to continue their school job.

All one can hear now is the remark from Father Patric Veale, S.S.J., Sister Alma, O.S.P., and the entire parish is, "If education in the day school is one of our priorities, and we want a good school, we'll have to pay for it."

Besides the Archdiocesan subsidy, the people want to help. They know money is needed and they're all out to get it.

All organizations in the parish through the Parish Council (Lowell Case, President) have pledged financial assistance. Women's Day will be a project to bring in as much money as possible for a summer remodelling job.

The fund-raising activities that bridge any generation gap range from home "door-knob parties," "stay-at-home teas," to the formal ticket selling for a Sunday, May 9 program featuring the Community College Choir.

Anything that can be done from holding bake sales to having raffles, (you name it and they are doing it) is going on. Father Veale and Sister Alma are running to keep track. Coordinators are Mrs. Helena Johnson, Mrs. Elsie Porter and Mrs. Cecelia Washington.

The Education Committee is in the act.

The art exhibit will feature competition in three major fields, painting, drawing, and prints, by college students from five schools in the metropolitan area.

DR. CALVIN W. BURNETT

THIRD PRESIDENT OF . . .

COPPIN STATE COLLEGE

On April 3, 1971, Calvin Wilks Burnett will be inaugurated as the third President of Coppin State College. This inauguration is particularly significant to the students, faculty, alumni, and general academic community because Dr. Burnett takes over the leadership of the institution at a testing time in the history of higher education: at a time when forces are at work to determine whether education above the high school level will survive in its present state, or be shattered into bits and molded more closely to the desires and needs of the students.

Dr. Burnett's training and experience in inner city work uniquely qualified him to head an institution of the quality and character of Coppin State College which is a truly urban oriented commuter college with a daytime enrollment of 1157 students and a graduate and evening college enrollment of more than five hundred.

Before coming to Coppin, Dr. Burnett was an Associate Professor in the School of Education at St. Louis University and Associate Director of the Center for Community Development at the Catholic University of America. In this work he established relationships between specialized faculty groups and various types of organized community groups in need of help from those schools.

While at Southern Illinois, Dr. Burnett was responsible for developing an interdisciplinarian urban education program at the undergraduate and graduate levels. He is a Ph.D. graduate of St. Louis University with a major in Organizational Research (Social Psychology).

President Burnett's visitations during inaugural week into the homes of a number of Coppin students living distances from the immediate vicinity of the college campus, are symbolic of the administration's strong commitment to extending the college into the community in a way that will make clear to the people of the community that Coppin State College is not an institution apart from its setting at 2500 West North Avenue, but is an integral part of its setting and therefore has a role to play organic to its location.
