NASA grant of $25,000 to Morgan

Morgan State College announced today that it has received a grant of $25,000.00 from the National Aeronautics and Space Agency to conduct a research participation program at Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt, Maryland during the Summer of 1971.

College teachers selected from Bowie State, Coppin State D. C. Teachers Washington Technical Institute, Delaware State, Federal City, Howard University, Lincoln University, Cheyney State, University of Maryland at Princess Anne and Morgan State will join the staff at Goddard Space Flight Center and investigate problems considered pertinent to the program of the National Aeronautics and Space Agency.

For a period of eight weeks, June 14 through August 6, these teachers will devote full time to research in the following disciplines: mathematics, computer science, personnel administration, physics, chemistry, management systems, and mechanical, electrical and electronic engineering.

The director of the Program is John W. King, Professor of Biology at Morgan who can be contacted for further information.

Correction

The inclusion of Walter Brewer's name in an AFRO article Tuesday connecting him with charges of arson and murder in the death of Clarence Elwood Davis was an error which the AFRO deeply regrets.

Mr. Brewer's name had been entered on the police arrest sheet by mistake when he was arrested and charged with narcotic violations. Judge Robert Gerstung found Mr. Brewer of the 2100 block Etting St., innocent of all charges.

Bobby Guillaume, singer, wants to 'shake' people

By E. M. HAYS

"The only reason for getting on the stage is to pick peope up, shake them, send them out differently than when they came in." Robert Peter Guillaume, 44, wants to affect, through his performing, the people who see him.

"I would like to feel," he added later, "that I would be able to effect some change in people."

He pointed out that the show he worked in before coming to Baltimore to sing in the Center Stage production, "Fire in the Mindhouse," had that capacity.

Titled "Jacques Brel Is Alive and Well and Living in Paris," it is a loosely connected group of that French songwriter's early songs. Brel's work deals with a wide variety of personal and public situations.

Guillaume remarked of his current

TJD signs new zoning ordinance

Mayor Thomas J. D'Alesandro 3rd on Tuesday signed into law Baltimore's new comprehensive zoning ordinance, the accumulated work of some 17 years of efforts.

With the mayor were three of the four mayors under whose administrations the ordinance was in preparation.

They are Judge J. Harold Grady, Theodore R. McKeldin and Philip H. Goodman. The mayor's father was vacationing out of the city.

Amendments may be offered through the City Council to the new ordinance until August by neighborhood groups seeking some changes.

However, they will have to survive passage through the Council.

Del. Troy Brailey poses as poor man to try system

"I believe that somebody has to work for the little people. Just because people have to file for unemployment insurance or public assistance doesn't mean they have to be treated like this."

Troy Brailey, fourth district legislator was explaining how he dressed in a "sport shirt and lumberjacket" and visited government agencies and businesses and how the clerks and receptionists in these areas treated him with discourtesy.

"A lot of persons now in these positions have retreated when they received the same kind of treatment from white people. They know how it feels. I suggest that these people who are doing this cease," Mr. Brailey said.

He added:

* * *

"For two and one half months I visited different places. At the Department of Motor Vehicles a woman continued to talk to a white woman about a party as I stood and waited. She finally said 'yes' to me but didn't look at me the whole time.

"I received the worst treatment from the Department of Employment Security and from waitresses in stores. The only places I received courteous treatment was from waitresses in carry-out places.

"I visited Provident, Johns Hopkins, Lutheran and University Hospitals. Most of my visits followed some 50 complaints some written and some by telephone, Mr. Brailey said.

Mr. Brailey said that he had discussed this at churches and at the Baltimore Ministers Conference, and that his only purpose was to "awaken these people who are doing this."

Jury rules youth innocent in tunnel assault case

A jury of seven women and five men found 17-year-old Leonard Cotton block Columbus Drive, innocent of rape and robbery charges filed against him by a 16-year-old girl last September.

Testimony "presented by the alleged victim before Judge Shirley Jones charged that Cotton was one of two teenagers who led her in to the B and O railroad tunnel near the Maryland Institute and assaulted her several times.

Taking the stand in his own defense, Cotton told the court that he had nothing to do with assaulting the girl. In fact, he said, "I was trying to help her."

He told the court that the girl had been sniffing airplane glue and "she began to walk funny." He said a person identified as Jackson (Schwan Jackson, a co-defendant), whom he did not know, "knocked her down, and then took her into the tunnel."

According to Cotton, Mrs. Bernadette Scott, a witness for the defense, told him "to go help" the girl in the tunnel. When he arrived, he said, she was being assaulted by one boy "and two other boys were standing there arguing about who was going to be next."

The defendant said he told them "to leave her alone" and the two other boys walked out of the tunnel. The boy he identified as Jackson then, "pulled her further into the tunnel," Cotton said.

He admitted to being in the tunnel almost an hour, during which time, he said, Jackson assaulted the girl twice, dragged her barefoot through the tunnel, and kept me from helping her with an iron spear he had in his hand."

Under cross-examination, the youth said he arrived at the park outside the tunnel while on his way from work. He said he was employed in the 400 block Gay St., and was walking to catch the bus home.

"At the time of the assault, I was wearing a hernia support belt, and I couldn't do anything."

Cotton's attorney, Sol Rubenstein, produced medical records to support the youth's contention.

Cotton said he still wore the belt and had received no medical attention during the seven months he was held in City Jail.

New head named for Mental Retardation

An internationally known expert on mental retardation, Bert W. Schmickel, has been appointed director of Mental Retardation, according to an announcement made Wednesday by Dr. Neil Solomon, secretary of Health and Mental Hygiene.

Mr. Schmickel, who served as Connecticut's deputy commissioner of Health and headed the state's office of Mental Retardation from 1959 to March of 1971, will assume his new post on June 1.

In his new capacity, he will head the Directorate of Mental Retardation, which had been previously created by Dr. Solomon to combine activities in the field of mental retardation formerly operated by the Department of Mental Hygiene and Department of Health.

The new director will have equal status with that of the existing heads of the department's other operating units, such as the commissioner of Mental Hygiene, commissioner of health, director of Juvenile Services, the executive director of the Comprehensive Health Planning Agency, and the director of Environmental Health Services.

'Here to serve community,' says Walbrook bar owner

What happens to a long-established business which is a liquor store and bar when residents in the area protest against renewal of the license?

This is the question the AFRO sought to answer as it visited in the neighborhood of Walbrook Junction, Clifton Ave. and Gardyn Blvd. Tuesday afternoon.

The controversy surrounding Bill's Suburban Bar, 3415 Clifton, heightened to the point where members of the Walbrook community under the auspices of the Mt. Holly Improvement Association appealed to the Board of Liquor Commissioners to lift the liquor license of the store which has been at the same site since 1958.

Headed by Richard M. Campbell, president of the association, residents complained at a three-hour hearing Thursday evening that the bar was and would be detrimental to the neighborhood with the opening this fall of the multi-million dollar Walbrook Senior High School, half a block from the tavern.

To testify against the renewal, the protestants (residents) led by their attorney, John C. Murphy, called witnesses from community and educational circles.

These witnesses claimed patrons of the bar loitering nearby the premises disrupted the flow of travel

City seniors in jail a week for run across judge's lawn

Two 18-year-old City College seniors due to graduate in June spent the last week of their Easter vacation in Baltimore City Jail.

They were sentenced there last Monday, April 12, by Judge William H. Murphy Sr., who released them this Monday afternoon.

This Monday afternoon (April 19) in Northwestern Municipal Court, Judge Murphy said to the youngsters, "Have you young men enjoyed your respite?"

Both shook their heads vigorously and said in unison, "No, sir."

* * *

Before releasing them on probation without verdict, Judge Murphy explained he had given the youngsters a taste of jail 'to force them to think twice.'

This was over passionate pleas by their families and ministers, the Rev. Robert Powell, Holy Trinity Episcopal, and Father Donald O. Wilson, St. James Episcopal.

The two seniors were charged of attempted larceny of the Forest Park Avenue home of Supreme Bench Judge Harry A. Cole and with being a rogue and vagabond.

A Cole neighbor, former Police Lt. J. Hiram Butler testified he saw the two boys run across the lawn of the Cole home on Saturday morning, April 10 about 9 o'clock. He testified he took down the license number of the auto driven by one of

Me-De-Sos Present Nine On Quarter-Century Anniversary

Miss Joan Pratt — Miss Janis Medders — Miss Alice Tucker — Miss Felicia Alston

Miss Cynthia Burrows — Miss Wanda Gibson — Miss Ardyth Diggs — Miss Kay Davis, Miss Sadie Lottier

MISS KAREN BANFIELD, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert Banfield, and a post debutante of 1970, was crowned "Me-De-So Queen" at the cotillion, Friday evening.

Me-De-Sos plan long future in youth building activities

Having marked the 25th anniversary of annually presenting Baltimore debutants, representatives of the Me-De-So Club said, this week, that they will turn their attention to entering a second turn of quarter century presentations in 1972.

The Club, composed of men in the medical field is 30 years old. Their cotillions are totally non-commercial, and as the current president, Dr. Lionel Desbordes, said, Friday evening, have been completely devoted to encouraging of achievement, particularly in the educational field, and maintaining of character among worthy young women.

* * *

The Cotillion, held in the Lord Baltimore Hotel, saw nine young women make bows to society.

They were:

Misses Felicia B. Alston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byrdette Alston; Cynthia B. Burrows, Mr. and Mrs. Leon M. Burrows; Kay Leslie Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Pierre H. Davis; Ardyth Diggs, Mrs. John Wingfield and Robert Diggs; Miss Wanda Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Fields; Miss Sadie Lottier, Mr. and Mrs. George Lottier; Miss Janis Medders, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Medders; Miss Joan Pratt, Mrs. Herman Person and John Pratt; and Miss Alice Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Tucker.

* * *

The cotillion program, which opened with prelude music under the direction of Norman Brooks, was officially opened by a "court caller," Dr. Theodore Patterson. Each group of parents of debutants entered with a Me-De-So wife, and was announced by Dr. Patterson.

Following this the Me-De-So members were presented by Dr. Albert Laforest, who has served as chairman and master of ceremonies for the cotillion for 20 years. The only other member to have served in this position was the late Dr. Bernard Harris

* * *

Miss Karen Banfield, daughter of Dr. Gilbert L. Banfield, a member of the club, and Mrs. Banfield was this year's Me-De-So Queen. The Deb of the Year was Miss Theresa Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Harris.

John Braxton Jr. and Rickey Clay, both sons of Me-De-Sos, were pages; Kelley Woodland was cross bearer and Marilyn Harris, attendant to the Deb of the Year.

In contrast to the traditional arm bouquets of flowers the debutantes, who wore floor-length gowns and elbow length white gloves, carried two long-stemmed carnations, and were presented leis of carnations by their escorts.

* * *

Sub-debs, who performed the quardrille, wore floor-length gowns with deep ruffles at the bottom of the full skirts which fell from body-fitted basques. Ribbons adorned their throats and laced slippers were color-toned to the dresses which were faint yellow and pink.

They were:

Misses Cynthia Shockley, Susan Wood, Robin Green, Frankie Reed, Shelley Brown, Michell Clay, Karen Willis, Barbara Harris, Renee Taliaferro, Beryle Bentley;

Misses Elizabeth Woodland, Lynn Carpenter, Norma Parker, Sheron Barney, Lynne Barney, Marilyn Harris, Millie Wilson, Adrienne Pearsall and Elizabeth Jolian.

Escorts for the debutants were:

Alan G. Price, Johnnie Pratt, Marshall DeHeal, Gregory Gill, John Crisp Jr., Eddie Polenpino Jr., Vernon C. Ridgley Jr., Harry L. Johnson and Darrell M. Gray.

* * *

Members of the Me-De-So Club are:

Flower Mart will benefit community

Proceeds from the third annual Northwood Flower Mart on Saturday, April 24, will be used to create a community playground on land provided by The Good Samaritan Hospital here.

The Board of Trustees has made a portion of the hospital grounds available to the Perring-Loch Community Association for a playground.

Good Samaritan engineers are now helping to clear and landscape the property.

The flower mart, open to the public, is sponsored by the community association, will be held from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. at St. Matthew's Church, Woodburne Ave. and Loch Raven Blvd.
