Light Housekeeping

By LULA MACKAY

Reporting on the dangers of poisons within childist reach, the National Safety Council says that if you live in an average American household, chances are that you have at least 40 (of the more than 250,000) toxic substance in the home. While most of the containers carry warning labels, small children cannot read, and as a result a child swallows a potential poison every 60 seconds, 1,400 times a day, 500,000 time a year.

Besides eating or drinking household products, children can spray or inhale some products that will not kill but will cause other problems — loss of sight or speech, hideous disfigurements, damage to the brain, lungs or other vital organs.

Of course you realize that all medicine should be kept out of reach, but there are often ordinary household items stored where children can get to them, including:

Ammonia, drain cleaner, metal polish, washing soda, lighter fluids, rat poison, leather polishes and dyes, shoe cleaners, ink, room deodorizers, drycleaning fluids, paints and thinners, turpentine, varnish, typewriter cleaner, cements and glues, bleach, furniture polish, detergents.

Also fabric softeners, insecticides, floor waxes, laundry bluing, shoe polishes, rug cleaners, camphor, moth repellants, kerosene, gasoline, antifreeze, putty and rust remover

Recipe of the Week: Fresh spring artichokes are back, lending their own particular brand of elegance and beauty to dinner and luncheon tables with their graceful shape and soft green color. May is a peak artichoke month.

If you have not formally introduced yourself and the family to this wonderful vegetable, now is the time. If you serve them with a buttery sauce or vinaigrette, you eat the leaves one by one. After dipping the fleshy end of each leaf into the sauce, it is then into tre sauce, it is then drawn through the teeth. When all the leaves are gone, the choke or hazy portion in the center is removed, exposing the meaty bottom section . . . the best part of all.

Fresh artichokes can be stuffed with a savory filling and baked or they can be trimmed down to the bare essentials and added to stews and casseroles.

Artichokes with Olives a la Grecque is a delicious and impressive way to serve fresh artichokes, either for an appetizer or salad. Pimiento-stuffed olives and mushrooms are marinated in a savory vinaigrette sauce for several hours, or even better, overnight.

The olives and mushrooms are served in the center of a cooked, chilled artichoke and the remaining vinaigrette sauce makes a sauce for leaf dipping. The tart, tangy flavor of lemons is particularly good with artichokes as demonstrated in this recipe.

For Artichokes with Olives A La Grecque you will need one cup pimiento-stuffed olives, halved, one can (3 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained, one-third cup finely chopped green pepper, one-fourth cup chopped parsley, two tablespoons finely chopped celery, one tablespoon each: capers, chopped chives, two teaspoons chopped anchovy fillets, one-fourth teaspoon basil leaves, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, two-thirds cup olive or salad oil, one-third cup lemon juice, and four artichokes, prepared as directed and chilled.

Combine all ingredients, except artichokes. Mix well and chill several hours or overnight. Fill centers of artichokes, which have had the chokes removed, with olive mixture. Spoon remaining marinade over artichokes; chill 30 minutes. Garnish with anchovy fillets, if desired. Makes four servings.

Make Artichokes with Lemon Sauce with six artichokes, prepared as directed, one-fourth cup butter or margarine, one tablespoon cornstarch, three-fourth cup water, one-fourth cup lemon juice, one teaspoon grated lemon peel, and two tablespoons chopped chives.

While artichokes are cooking, melt butter. Add cornstarch; blend. Gradually add water and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened and clear. Add lemon juice, lemon peel and chives and cook 5 minutes. Serve lemon sauce with hot artichokes.

Makes six servings.

Homemaking stint: Nothing in the home is more important to the health, comfort and general well-being of the family than its plumbing system. This includes not only the things you can see in the bathroom and kitchen but the hidden pipes and valves.

That's why it's a good idea for every homeowner to know something about how his system works and how to take care of it to prolong its life and efficiency. Every homeowner should also know what repair and maintance jobs he can safely handle himself and what should be left to a qualified plumbing contractor and his trained men.

There's a helpful 21-page booklet with information available from the Plumbing Heating Cooling Information Bureau, 35 E. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill., 60601, for a quarter and a six-cent stamp.

Some of the subjects covered are how to keep drains open, and what to do if one becomes clogged; what to do if a pipe springs a leak, where and how to shut off the water; how to take care of your bathroom fixtures and fittings; general care of the kitchen sink;

Also how to keep pipe from freezing, how to thaw frozen pipes; what causes noises in the plumbing system, and what to do about them; and what repair and maintenance jobs call for the services of a plumbing contractor.

MAKING JAM for your own family, relatives and friends needn't be a chore anymore, but fun this time of the year when you have plenty of fresh produce on the market at reasonable costs. plan now for a Jamming in the Kitchen" session.

Jamming in kitchen for fun and profit

If mother could see you now, jamming in the kitchen.

It's a cinch to prepare jams from full-flavored vegetables and fruits when you use a product like Sure-Jell Fruit Pectin.

The use of commercial pectins permits you to make jams and jellies from fully ripened fruits and even vegetables. Foods like chopped or crushed apricots, peaches, pineapples, plums, raspberries, strawberries, or tomatoes (alone or in combination) make beautiful jams. So why not "jam in the kitchen" while the fresh fruits are plentiful and low in cost (and you have them on your hands)?

Next fall and winter reap your harvest and enjoy serving these fruit treats as accompaniments to biscuits and waffles, toppings on ice cream and fruits, and for fillings for cakes and muffins. Share a jar or two with neighbors, friends, and relatives.

They'll love them as much as your own family. So plan to make a few extra jars for gift giving. Anyone would appreciate a jar of this Spiced Tomato Jam or Peach and Plum Jam from your kitchen.

Spiced Tomato Jam is made with three cups prepared tomatoes (about 2¼ lb. fully ripe tomatoes), one and one-half teaspoons grated lemon rind and one fourth cup lemon juice (2 medium lemons), one-fourth teaspoon cloves*, one-half teaspoon allspice*, one-half teaspoon cinnamon*, four and one-half cups (2 lb.) sugar and one box (1-¾ oz.) powdered fruit pectin,

*Or use one tablespoon Worcestershire sauce in place of spices.

• • •

First prepare the tomatoes. Scald, peel, and chop about two and one-fourth pounds tomatoes. Bring to a boil and simmer 10 minutes. Measure three cups into a large saucepan. Grate the rind from one of the lemons. Measure one and one-half teaspoons into saucepan with tomatoes; then squeeze the juice from the two lemons. Measure one-fourth cup and add to tomatoes. Add cloves, allspice, and cinnamon.

Then make the jam. Measure sugar and set aside. Mix fruit pectin into tomatoes in saucepan. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. Immediately add all sugar and stir. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim for five minutes to cool slightly and prevent floating tomatoes. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover at once with one-eighth inch hot paraffin.

Yields about seven medium glasses.

For Peach and Plum Jam use five cups prepared fruit (about two lb. fully ripe peaches and one and one-half lb. fully ripe plums), six cups (two lb. 10 oz.) sugar, and one box (1 ¾ oz.) powdered fruit pectin.

Peel, remove pits, and finely chop or grind two pounds peaches. Halve (do not peel), remove pits, and chop about one and one-half pounds plums. Combine fruits and measure five cups into a very large saucepan.

Measure sugar and set aside. Mix fruit pectin into fruit in saucepan. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. Immediately stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim for five minutes to cool slightly and prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses.

Cover at once with one-eight inch hot paraffin.

Yields about 11 medium glasses.
